That the French people have no doubt as to the eventual outcome of the war, and are determined that they will fight the matter out until it will be impossible for the Teutonic nations to come back inside of 10 years, was the declaration made by Rev. George T. Berry at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, yesterday morning. Mr. Berry was in Plainfield to make an appeal as the representative of the McAll Association in this country, and his topic was "France in War Time and the Gospel." A large and interested audience heard his remarks.

At the outset he said that the nations at war are spending $75,000,000 a day "for the pleasure of cutting one another's throats," and that ten million women will be widows or cannot marry because there will be no men for them, not later than three months from now. He said that $20,000,000 or a little more than one-third of what is being spent daily in Europe for warfare, would suffice to bring the gospel to every corner of the globe.

The disclosure of French character has been marvelous, according to Dr. Berry. Never has the world seen such an exhibition of grit, courage, intelligence or high ambition as is now the case there. The people have risen like a single individual for the defense of the nation, which he declared has "suffered more and said less than any other nation in the war." There is a lot of good work being done in the trenches, according to the speaker, almost more than was done by the early Christians. He told of some of the personal experiences of Rev. Henri Nick, who is the director of the McAll work at Lille, and is now serving as a chaplain in the First Corps of the French army.

Prison camps in France are doing much to establish a brotherhood between the French and Germans which will help to harmonize matters after the war, according to the speaker.

That the French people cannot understand the attitude of the people of this country at this time was one of the significant statements which he made. They think back to the day when France spent $772,000,000 and sent 50,000 men here to help this nation get on its feet, and cannot understand why America has not yet spoken, when civilization and Christianity are an issue, as they feel is the case now.

Mr. Berry closed by making a strong appeal for funds for the support of the McAll work.

S. P. C. A. AGENT FOUND HORSES CHAINED IN STALLS

The death of three horses in a fire in North Plainfield last week led Mrs. S. G. VanHoesen, the agent for the S. P. C. A., to investigate conditions. This disclosed the fact that the animals were securely fastened in their stalls with chains, indicating that under the circumstances it would have been practically impossible for anyone to rescue the horses after the fire had gained headway.

Mrs. VanHoesen suggests that an ordinary rope be used to tie horses in their stalls so that in case of fire it would be easy to free them through the quick cutting of the rope. Mrs. Van Hoesen believes that had Mr. Snatz's horses been tied that way they all could have been saved.

GEORGE BROWN IS ONLY MAN FROM U. S. A. TO GIVE LES DARCY REAL STIFF BATTLE

George Brown.

It remained for George Brown, the Chicago Greek, generally considered a "so-so" performer in America, to give the sensational Les Darcy the best fight any United States man has made against the Australian blacksmith since he attained a prominent position in the ring. Darcy got the decision at the end of twenty rounds in a battle a few days ago, but it was anything but a popular verdict.

WAR WITHOUT HATE.

England is not fighting the German people, according to Jerome K. Jerome, who makes an appeal for a "conclusive peace" in a recent article published in this country, but is fighting the German ideals—the idea that might is right and that there is no law above the sword.

Mr. Jerome condemns the comfortable stay-at-home English who urge that England learn her song of hate too, and declares that the soldiers have no hate for Hans and Fritz—"dragged from the plow, the factory, the counter, by this hideous machinery of conscription that delivers not only the lives but the conscience of a people to be used for its own purpose by a vicious group of soulless politicians and war-worshipping fanatics."

He eloquently urges:

God punish Germany! We believe He will. For her share (whatever in His judgment it may be) in the bringing about of this frightful war; for the crimes committed in Belgium; for the drowning of poor sailor folk and of many hundreds of helpless travelers; for the making of war more bloody and bestial than it even need be; for the senseless slaughter of unarmed citizens; for the shooting of Nurse Cavell; for the wanton laying waste of fair lands and destruction of noble works wrought with love and labor and sanctified by time; for calculated cruelty and harshness and injustice done not only upon men, but upon women and little children, one believes that in His good time He will punish Germany.

May I suggest to some of my journalistic friends, to various elderly gentlemen writing for easy chairs, to a certain number of shrill women who have not yet found work more practically useful, that we would do well to leave it in His hands? Our job is something very different. Our business is to fight for England and all for which England stands; for the right of humble folk to live their own lives, slave neither to King nor State; for freedom to every man to speak the thought within him; for justice for the weak and law for the strong.

Ten years after peace is signed—every schoolboy knows it—we shall be buying from Germany, selling to Germany. In twenty years we shall be playing tennis with them and teaching them golf, and thirty years later it is quite possible they in their turn may be our allies.

This song of hate does not suit the English voice. Our soldiers make fun of it; the only manly thing to do. Hatred during wartime may be necessary to a few poor creatures incapable of fighting for love of country. But now that the end of the contest is coming into sight it will be well to get rid of it. There is, we are told, "a time to love and a time to hate; a time of war and a time of peace." It will be well when we lay aside the sword to be prepared to lay aside our hate. It may in some quarters be considered bad taste. But in this matter I would personally rather listen to the voice of Edith Cavell than to the most strident speakers of the anti-German league. Edith Cavell did a fine thing when she laid down her life for her country. There are many who do that. Poor, feeble, evil men and women have done that. Hundreds of our nameless lads do it every day. The finest thing she did, not only for her country but for the men and women of all lands, was when she put aside all hatred, all bitterness.

"Standing as I do in view of God and eternity, I realize that patriotism is not enough. I must have no hatred or bitterness toward any one."

We, too, are standing before God and eternity, and His judgment is awaiting us. For us, too, patriotism is not enough. Our victory must be not only over the Germans but over ourselves. We must have no hatred, no bitterness.

By no other means will peace be "conclusive."

CAMDEN GIVES WARNING.

The attention of those sanguine Republicans of Essex who are indulging their fancy with visions of capturing the nominations for both Governor and Senator, is directed to a note of warning found in the Camden Post-Telegram, a newspaper that can be confidently expected to reflect the views of David Baird of that bailiwick. That newspaper on Thursday discussing the talk as to combinations of candidates, sagely remarks that the choice will be made in the party primaries and that "it will be well for leaders who hope to influence that choice to give due consideration to sectional representation." Continuing on this line, it insists that "Republican chances for victory this fall will be increased if the ticket as made up shall arouse enthusiasm no less in South Jersey than in North Jersey."

If Senator Austen Colgate and his friends are wise they will not treat these words as meaningless. There has been much talk of an Essex and Camden combination, and nobody doubts that so far as the Senatorial contest is concerned there is a complete understanding that the Baird influence will be exerted in favor of Franklin Murphy. But that this favor does not extend to Senator Colgate is the only inference to be drawn, not only from the foregoing extracts from The Post-Telegram, but likewise from reports that have floated northward from Camden.

From motives of local party policy the Essex Republican leaders most deeply interested in furthering Mr. Murphy's Senatorial ambitions are likewise giving ostensible support to Senator Colgate, but this is merely for local effect, and is subject to change without notice. Outside of Essex the Senator will have to hoe his own row, and unless all signs are fallacious he will find plenty of weeds in it planted by the very men who are most active in removing obstacles from Mr. Murphy's path.—Newark Evening News.

The annual budget of the Borough of North Plainfield, as adopted by Council members Friday evening, shows that they are determined to give that community an economical administration. With the increased expense of a gigantic sewer work and the natural climbing of operating expenses for the ever-growing section the small increase in appropriations is remarkable, and officials will deserve much credit if they handle the affairs of the boro satisfactorily under the new budget.

The Montenegrin consul general to America, in an open letter to the American public says that his people are of a retiring nature. That is what the Austrians are complaining about. They have "retired" to a spot that the Austrians cannot locate.

In appealing to a business men to elect a man to the governorship who will conduct the affairs of New Jersey on a business basis Senator Edge appears to have struck a popular note, however old a campaign argument.

After all the wonderful ambitions that Villa's press agent has expressed for him it must be awful for that American newspaper man, wherever he is, to contemplate the end that is to be the Mexican bandit's in a few days.

Bryan may be for peace but not in the Democratic party.

One More Day

One more day of waiting for the eve that means so much!
One more day of waiting till it's close enough to touch!
One more day till we recite the old-time "night before"—
It may seem an aeon, but it's only one day more!

One day more till we must trim the little evergreen;
Dig out last year's ornaments—the tinsel, gilt and sheen;
Just a few more we have bought so that we may add
More of grandeur to the "bush" for

One more day—but we can wait easier than we could Thirty years or more ago in our

Yet the old-time thrill comes back sweet as e'er before,
Thank the Lord! And thank Him that 'tis but one day more!

The Verdict

Mrs. Patron was on trial.

It was clearly proven by Mr. Merchant that the young women in his store were absolutely exhausted at the close of business on Christmas night, and Mrs. Patron was charged with having caused this condition.

All the evidence was heard, and carefully weighed.

The jury went out to ponder.

In a short time the announcement was made that the jury was about to return a verdict.

"Have you agreed upon a verdict?" asked the court, amid breathless silence.

"We have, your honor," answered the foreman.

"State your verdict to the court," said the judge.

"We the jury find the plaintiff, Mr. Merchant, guilty of contributory negligence in this matter, by having taught Mrs. Patron always to expect a bargain sale at Christmas time."

The verdict met with general approval, and the jury was thanked and discharged.

Jobs

Jobs are what everybody is supposed to have or to want.

The job a man has is hardly ever the one he wants, after he has got it.

He knows of another job that beats his all hollow.

Another fellow has it.

It is easier work and pays better, and the dub who is holding it down—well, how he gets by is more than anybody can find out.

Must have some kind of pull, he reckons.

This job the man has would be all right if the hours were different, if the pay was raised, and if the boss wasn't unreasonable.

Only last week the boss refused to take this man's advice about something.

Stubborner'n a mule!

Like to know how that guy got to be boss, anyway.

Some fellows have all the luck.

He gets to do the kind of things he wants to. If the man had the kind of things the boss gets to do—ah, there would be the snap!

But catch that boss letting him do them! The boss knows very well if he let the other fellows do those things awhile they'd get hep to what a snap he has, and wouldn't have any respect for him at all.

Huh! Guess yes!

O well, some people get it mighty nice, but others have to Work.

When an employee says Work with a capital, he means his own job.

When he says it lower case, quotation marks around it, he means the snap the other fellow has and thinks is Work—hah! What's he know about Work?

The permanently unemployed and unemployable are those who cannot be fitted with a job.

There is something wrong about every job they get.

People who are inclined to be frank about it, think the main objection on the part of some folks to a job, is that there is work connected with it.

But of course this may be wrong.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Early Manifestations Of Pellagra

WHATEVER may be the specific cause of pellagra, be it spoiled maize, a diet too restricted in variety, or some unknown toxin or bacterium, the disease is apparently on the increase in this country, and in some parts of the south it is giving health authorities great concern.

Unfortunately the earlier descriptions of the disease emanated from hospitals for the insane, where many pellagrins ultimately wound up. This has tinged the popular idea of pellagra with the fancy that it is a nervous or mental malady. It is not.

Competent observers in private practice describe the earlier manifestations of pellagra as our old friends, "stomach trouble" and "biliousness." It is asserted that many pellagrous individuals never exhibit the skin, tongue and nervous symptoms of the disease, but remain throughout life victims of a mild degree of poisoning which manifests itself as "stomach trouble" or "biliousness."

As early as 1830, the earlier symptoms were given by Boismont as follows: "Loss of appetite, a disgust for food, a heaviness in the stomach, and dryness of the mouth." And Zanetti, long before that, called attention to the curious unusual lassitude felt by the patient for weeks preceding the eruption, which lassitude made it difficult for the patients (in Italy) to carry on their work.

"Heart burn" and a burning sensation in the stomach are commonly complained of. Pain in the head, a feeling of heat and heaviness in the head, dizziness, a tendency to melancholy, muscular feebleness, constipation or diarrhœal movements almost without odor, red tongue which is furrowed, tremulous and a little swollen—these are suggestive signs.

Dr. H. F. Harris, of the Georgia State Board of Health, remarks: "The history of bad health in the spring, summer and autumn, repeated for a number of years, followed by a curious and unaccountable loss of physical strength and mental vigor, a gloomy outlook on life, burning sensation in the stomach, legs or feet, digestive disturbances and a change (exaggeration) of the reflexes constitutes a clinical condition that, so far as I am aware, could be ascribed to no other cause."

Of course the fully developed symptoms of pellagra include sore tongue, mental failure, and a skin rash in typical cases. But these earlier symptoms should at least warrant a careful investigation by the doctor.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Hamburg Steak

Is one-eighth of one per cent. of sodium sulphite in hamburg steak injurious to one who eats it frequently?

Answer—Yes, we wouldn't eat such a dish, unless ground and prepared by yourself.

The Nature Of A Polyp

Please inform me of the nature of polyp in the nose. Is it dangerous? What can be done for it? What causes it?

Answer—It is a grape-like growth, the result of a chronic inflammation or "catarrh." It is not dangerous. It simply causes the affected side to feel stuffed up in damp weather and it causes attacks of sneezing. The only treatment is removal by snare under local anesthetic.

SMILES

THE smile is the lighting system of the human face. It is the cheapest illuminant in the world, not excepting sunshine, for it doesn't cost you anything and it may even make your everlasting fortune.

It is very easy to smile. A mere child can do it. All you have to do is to pull the corners of your mouth outward and upward a trifle. If you can add to this a twinkle and a dimple and a flash of white—home-grown teeth—the combination will be more valuable to you than a college diploma or a rich grandfather.

With a smile of this sort a man can go out and get votes, credit, business, friends and forgiveness for forty kinds of faults, including bigamy. With the same kind of smile, a young woman who hasn't anything else to her name, not even good grammar, can go out and win a happy home, decorated with a husband who will pay as much as $100,000 a year to keep his wife's smile in good running order.

A smile can make a dazzling bright streak twelve hours long through the darkest day. It can put the lid on an argument full of vinegar and fists, and can put flavor into a soggy, clammy meal at the end of a long, hard ride home on a strap. Some churches pay $10,000 a year to their ministers and collect inches of dust in their back pews, while other churches distribute a few smiles to strangers at the end of the service and have to start a building campaign every other year.

However, smiles, like other good things, can be abused. Some smiles are not worth looking at, because they are only face deep. The blackest hearted villain who ever lived can buckle on a winning smile and make friends, while he is robbing an orphan asylum. Beware, also, of the smooth, sleek man with the built-in smile who hovers around you as friendly as a hot-water radiator, while he is laying plans to get hold of your business on a judgment note, and boot you out seven minutes after it falls due.

The smile is the lighting system of the human face

The smile is thus one of our greatest prevaricators. Some people lie with statistics, some with cosmetics and some with pleasant smiles. When you step on a woman's gown at a party, and she smiles sweetly at you, don't believe it; and when a candidate for office leans up against you with a million candle power facial display and tells you that you are eminently fitted for a fine appointive office, tell him you will take a rain check for the smile until after election, when the meter rates for friendliness go up one thousand per cent.

Views Of The Press

American Speech

A WELL-KNOWN American who recently paid a visit to England was astonished at the correctness of speech of all classes of Englishmen. He heard "book English" of excellent quality from the mouths of the humblest clerks and artisans. This English trait is well known, though rather inexplicable, for it does not come from better schooling or higher standards of character. Englishmen seem to have an inborn talent for precise expression.

The same cannot be said of Americans. The English accuse us of degrading the language, and we do to the extent of our use of slang. The prevalence of slang in the speech of persons in all stations of life is astonishing. A few recognized word-combinations are used continually to save the trouble of selecting words that exactly express our meaning.

If words are symbols of thoughts, it is confessing to a poverty of thought to use over and over again certain expressions for no other reason than that our neighbors use them. Some slang phrases express certain ideas so aptly that in one day they are adopted into the language. But a majority of the cant words and phrases in common use are foolish, and we use them because we are too lazy to say properly what we mean.

The double negative, improper use of the tenses and similar faults are generally due to ignorance, and it is easy to excuse them. But meaningless slang is contiaually being used by persons who know better. They often have a notion that slang makes their conversation lively and piquant. They are mistaken. Slang is so limited in variety and so persistently used that it has become banal and monotonous. Simple language that is straight to the point commands respect for the speaker and is always agreeable to the ear.

People's Legal Friend

BY E. R. BRANSON

Ghosts And Witches And The Law

Some years ago in England a curious instance of "second sight" occurred, and, though suppressed at the trial, was attested upon oath, it seems, at the preceding inquest.

The wife of a market gardener was ironing at the dresser by the kitchen window, when she heard her husband run swiftly past, pursued by a man brandishing a stone-hammer, as if threatening to strike. Aware that it was a spectral illusion, but disturbed by the idea that some evil had befallen her husband, who had gone to work in the fields, the woman caused instant search to be made at the spot to which he had intended to proceed. Then the murder was discovered.

An old volume of the Quarterly Review mentions a crime discovered in a most extraordinary way in Australia in the year 1830, of which a public record is preserved, and which figures with full details in the journals of that period.

The confidential steward of a wealthy settler near Sydney stated that his master had suddenly been called to England on important business, and that during his absence, the whole of his immense property would be in his exclusive care.

Some weeks after, an acquaintance of the absentee settler, riding through his grounds, was astonished to perceive him sitting on a stile. He strode forward to speak, when the figure turned from him with a look of intense sorrow, and walked to the edge of a pond, where it mysteriously disappeared. On the morrow he brought a number of men to the water to drag it, and the body of the man supposed to be on his way to England was brought up. The steward was arrested, brought to trial, and, frightened at the story of his master's ghost, confessed the crime, stating that he had done the deed right at that very stile where the ghost had appeared. He was duly executed. It is a curious thing that people in general can never get over the delusion that there were witches burned for witchcraft at Salem. Every little while we see some reference to the burning of witches at Salem. Witches were hanged at Salem, but none were ever burned. By the way, a distinguished legal authority has examined the evidence used in the witchcraft cases at Salem, and declared that it is irrefragable—all of the ironclad and most conclusive sort. No jury would fail to convict to-day, on such evidence as was adduced in these cases. Just same, witchcraft was a horrible delusion!—Exchange.

Worry

If you realized just what Worry is you would stop using it in your business. For Worry is the name given by the Devil to his choicest brand of smelling salts and the more you get into the habit of using them the more you come to know what Hell is really like. Here's an antidote for Worry—

Smile, Smile, Smile—Smile!

For where Smiles are, Worry is not. Worry is just plain poison. It is the most treacherous of poisons, for it not only eats into the finest powers of your mind and life but it spreads and radiates like a contagious disease. Worry can do no harm in the atmosphere of cheer, great faith, hope—Work.

Work, Work, Work—Work.

How useless Worry is—how foolish! Realize but this and you will very soon banish it and forever abhor it. Can you think of a single instance where Worry rendered you a service? Well, then, get rid of it.

Smile, Smile, Smile—Smile!

Worry never did and never will bring anything to pass. It never earned a cent and it never helped a human being. But if you keep busy, if you are continually seeking to render some service, you will never have time nor inclination to Worry.

Work, Work, Work—Work.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Tale of the Wooden Dog and The China Cat.

"Twould Be a Splendid Match.

"DADDY, it's so long since you told us a poem." Evelyn complained. "Oh, make one, daddy—make one!" shouted Jack. The children jumped for joy while daddy thought. Then he took them on his lap

"Ted was only a wooden dog.
Elaine was a china cat.
And on the shelf in a tiny shop
Side by side they sat.
"'We ought to wed, my dear,' said Ted
To the cat of porcelain.
'And I'd be happy always, 'cause
You have no claws, Elaine!'
"'And as for you,' replied the cat,
'Though one part of a tree,
Since you were carved into a dog
You've lost your bark, I see.'
"'Then marry me!' cried loving Ted.
'A cat that cannot scratch
Is just the mate for a barkless dog—
'Twould be a splendid match!
"'And, love, you'd find my pedigree
Is good, though I'm not vain,
For you must know my family tree
Is—dogwood, sweet Elaine!'
"Said she: 'My health is delicate;
I'm brittle as can be.
You'll have to treat me gently
If you marry me.'
"But, alas for china bliss,
Elaine fell down one day!
Her lovely head was broken off—
Her engagement, too, they say.
"The poor thing died of a broken heart—
Some say of a broken head—
And Master Teddie sighed and cried
To think his love was dead."

Both children squirmed with joy and hugged daddy till he begged.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

The Future Looks Dismal to the Stepchildren.

Jacob Townsend and his bride had just left town for their wedding trip. The three children had returned to the new home prepared for the bride; the home in which the bride had elected to be married.

Marian threw herself into a large leather chair and exclaimed bitterly:

"I am thankful they are to be gone a month. That month will give all the peace I ever expect to have."

"Don't take it too hard, Puss," said Dudley comfortingly. "Things may turn out better than you think." He sat down on the arm of the big chair and stroked her hair.

"I wonder how long father can keep this thing up." He made a comprehensive gesture that included the fine, new house and expensive furnishings.

"The furnishings alone cost more than the entire firm has made all the year." George's tone was gloomy in the extreme.

"I wonder if the girl thinks he is made of money," said Dudley in an irritated tone.

"Of course she does," burst out Marian. "She never saw a dollar before, and it takes a pauper like that to sling money when once she gets her hands on it."

"I am mighty glad father fixed up the partnership papers. He treated us handsomely in the affair. It will not be his fault if we lost anything financially," went on George, not noticing his sister's outbreak.

"I wonder if she will sign that paper," mused George, resting his chin on his hand.

"If she does I'll miss my guess. She would have signed it when he asked her to if she had had any notion of doing it. She is in this for all the money there is in it. She has her portion all solid and she intends to get as big a slice off the rest of the property as she possibly can," grumbled George.

"Don't worry, boys," broke in Marian. "There will not be much property to divide if she keeps on the way she has started out. She'll run the whole business into bankruptcy if Daddy gives her as much rein as she has had so far."

"You're right there, Puss," said Dudley with increasing gloom.

"Father is too much of a business man to be ruined by his new toy. He'll call a halt this side of the precipice all right." George's tone was decided.

"Yes, if Mrs. Ortrude will consent to halt. I have my doubts about it, personally.

"My, Puss, but you do hate her cordially." Dudley tweaked her ear.

"I'll have plenty of company. I may be even surpassed before the year is out." Marian tossed her head.

"Frankly, I am afraid she is right," began George. "We must call a halt on this thing. If you cannot get on with her, you are out of a home. I've got one of my own, thank the Lord."

"'We must call a halt?'" repeated Marian. "What do you mean?"

"I am afraid the conciliating measures will have to come from your side. She has got the inside track. Whatever she does, father will have to stand by her."

When George stopped speaking a silence fell on the group. Dudley was the first to break it.

"We are all in a pretty tight place and we must try to help one another out. If I am doing anything likely to cause friction, tell me about it and I'll do the same for you." He was looking at Marian. She laughed bitterly.

"Really, dear," continued Dudley, "you will make it beastly hard for father and all of us if you do not try to keep the peace."

"Hard for father, indeed!" Her lips curled in scorn. "Much I should care about that after the mess he has got us all in."

"But you do care for me," continued Dudley, playing his last card. "You would not want to make it harder for me, would you?"

"No." The girl dropped her head on his shoulder and b[illegible] to cry.

WAR TAX PAYMENTS COMING IN SLOWLY

Only Half of the 10,000 Assessed in This District Have Paid So Far.

With the time limit for payment o 1915 taxes under the Federal emer gency revenue lay but nine days dis tant, only 50 per cent. of the person in this district affected by the law have paid the tax, according to a statement made by Collector of Inter nal Revenue Charles V. Duffy. Thos who fail to pay on or before January 31 may be penalized with an addiona 50 per cent. of the amount of their tax.

It is estimated that there are 10. 000 persons in the fifth internal reve nue taxing district who are obliged to pay the special tax. The district includes Essex, Hudson, Passaic, Union, Middlesex, Warren, Somerset, Morris, Hunterdon, Sussex and Bergen counties. The main office for the district is in the Kinney building, Newark, while there are branch offices in Paterson and Jersey City.

Mr. Duffy said there are about 3,000 brokers, tobacco dealers, theatre owners and others in Essex county who have failed to make payments to date. Approximately $15,000, or half the amount to be collected, has been paid in. The collector added that the payments are being made much slower than was the case last year.

Income tax returns, which must be filed with the collector by corporations and individuals not later than March 1, also are coming in slowly, said the collector. There are 7,000 or 8,000 corporations in the district, and but 250 of these have filed their returns. Although the corporation income tax need not be paid before June 30, a penalty of 50 per cent. of the tax, and fines ranging from $1,000 to $10,000, may be imposed for failure to file returns by March 1.

The returns for individual income taxpayers filed to date number 800. There are about 13,000 persons who have not filed their returns. After March 1 delinquents in this class are subject to a fine of 50 per cent. of the tax and fines of not less than $20 and not more than $1,000.

Household Hints

TWO GOOD SOUPS

Mock Bisque Tomato Soup—Half can tomatoes cooked until soft enough to strain. Add two tablespoons butter. Dissolve one tablespoon cornstarch in a little cold milk and stir slowly into one quart hot milk. Cook in double boiler five minutes. Season, add pinch of soda, and when ready to serve add strained tomatoes. If fresh tomatoes are used, have 1½ cups when cooked.

Mushroom Soup (Slovak style)—Soak one-fourth pound dry mushrooms in warm water about one hour, then wash well in several waters and put on to boil in enough water to cover well, adding one teaspoon salt and a whole onion. Let boil about five minutes. Now drain, cover well with cold water and boil without the onion three-fourths hour or till tender; drain again and save the stock. When mushrooms are cool, chop them until they're the size of a lima bean. Now brown level teaspoon of flour in about 1¼ tablespoons butter; when nice and brown, add about 1½ cups cold water and two tablespoons vinegar, put on fire and stir till it thickens. Add this to mushrooms and stock, stir up well and let everything come to boil for two or three minutes; add salt and pepper to taste and the soup is done. This recipe serves six people and costs about thirty-five cents. Mushrooms are about one dollar a pound.

Put in boiling hot water, simmer gently seven minutes. Serve with spinach or other greens.

Salmon Cutlets—Mince cold boiled or baked salmon. Season to taste and mix well with a little rich drawn butter made quite thick with cornstarch. Spread upon a board platter and ,when stiff, cut into the desired shape with a tin cutter. Roll in fine crumbs, then in egg and in crumbs again. Leave on ice to get firm, then fry in deep, boiling fat or cottolene, which has been heated slowly.

Macaroni With Tomatoes and Green Peppers—Cook half a pound of macaroni in rapid boiling salted water until tender. Drain and rinse in cold water. Butter a baking dish, put in a layer of macaroni, then a layer of canned tomatoes. Sprinkle with green peppers, sliced or chopped fine, and grated onion. Add also a little salt. Continue the layers until the macaroni is used, having the last layer tomatoes. Pour over the whole a cup of well seasoned broth and let bake about forty-five minutes. The onion may be omitted or grated cheese added as discretion.

Add cold fruit and put on a thick top crust. Put in oven and when crust is browning pour this mixture over entire top. One-half cup sugar, enough water to moisten sugar, one-half to one teaspoon rose extract, finish baking. This will make two ordinary pies or one large one. The extract of rose can be bought at any drug store.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Although but one of the first three days of this week can be allotted to vaudeville at the Plainfield Theatre because of the larger attraction there Tuesday and Wednesday in the big Behman show, Manager Shannon has secured six good acts of variety for today. The usual shows will be given. In addition to the vaudeville an other of those gripping Fox films will be shown. The show for the last half of the week will be the same as usual with a Word Film and customary variety bill, and the Plainfield will see that its vaudeville patrons sacrifice nothing in the way of entertainment because of the two-day visit of the musical show. A new list of prizes and the same amount of fun is promised for Friday night, when the country store will again be held.

An annual event of more than passing interest to patrons of burlesque is the announcement that Jack Sing will present the Berman show, beaded by Lew Kelly, at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow and Wednesday matinee and night. This is the same company which played the entire summer season on Broadway in New York at the Columbia Theatre and achieved a record which has never before marked the annals of burlesque. The Behman show played for sixteen weeks at the one house, giving two performances daily to audiences which crowded the theatre at each performance. The program that is to be presented here will be identically the same as was presented in New York during the long run here. There will be a one act burlesque entitled "The Dope's Legacy," following which there will be a revue consisting of imitations of all of the famous stars of the stage and the performance will have as its concluding feature a travesty on Bronson Howard's war-drama, "Shenandoah." The cast includes in addition to Lew Kelly many well known burlesque favorites, among whom are Lon Hascall, Eileen Sheridan, Harry Van, Teddy Brooke, Ameta Pynes and Martelle.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Orrin Johnson makes his debut in the silent drama at Proctor's the first half of this week appearing in "The Penitents," a powerful story of the ceremonial crucifixions celebrated by some of the Indian tribes in Mexico. Mr. Johnson heads a competent Griffith cast, which includes the beautiful Seena Owen, remembered and admired by all who saw Douglas Fairbanks in "The Lamb." Appearing in conjunction with "The Penitents" on the Triangle program is Ford Sterling in "The Hunt." Sterling, who is famous for his German roles, cast aside his usual make-up and assumes the part of a negro footman. Several excellent scenes are reproduced showing the hounds and horses on the trail of the fox, and the cast supporting Mr. Sterling is a superior one. The vaudeville presented for the first half of the week starting today, includes one of the most charming operatic extravaganzas seen here presented by the "Five Immigrants," whose excellent singing and costumes will prove a treat to local amusement seekers. Harry Meehan offers a monological turn that is replete with new and original witticisms; Ollie Hollis, a dainty miss, is a versatile entertainer, and seems to be at home both as a singer and a comedienne. Lucille Savoy and Company present a delightful novelty, that is as pleasing as it is refined. The big bazaar will be held Wednesday evening, and a veritable load of gifts will be bestowed upon the lucky ones. The fourth episode of the "Red Circle" will be shown on Friday. An extraordinary attraction in the form of a Keystone comedy will be shown the latter half of the week. It is "A Submarine Pirate," the greatest four reel comedy ever produced.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

The principal attraction at the U. S. Astor today and tomorrow will be "The Man Who Could Not Believe God," featuring the noted film star Maurice Costello. It is a Vitagraph production in six parts, all of which are most engrossing. The fact that Mr. Costello will be in the leading character ought to be sufficient guarantee of the entertaining qualities of the play. Wednesday and Thursday the feature subject will be "Twenty Years Thus," a Bosworth-Paramount picture, featuring Elsie Janis and Owen Moore, husband of Mary Pickford.

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES

The order transferring First Lieutenant Watson Rodemann, medical corps, from the First Field Hospital to the First Infantry, has arrived and Dr. Rodemann has been assigned to the Second Battalion. He fills the vacancy created by the assignment of First Lieutenant William V. Gallagher, medical corps, back to Battery A.

The rifle team of Company C, Second Infantry, will shoot an indoor match tomorrow with a team from Woodbridge, made up of business men of that town. The match will be shot on the Elizabeth Armory range.

There has been little change in the condition of Captain Harry B. Kitchell, commanding Company F, Second Infantry, who has been seriously ill in the Elizabeth General Hospital for the last four weeks.

Sergeant John H. R. Corbit, armorer of the Elizabeth Armory, who has been in the National Guard more than thirty years, is recovering from severe illness.

RECREATION NOTES

A chorus rehearsal, under the leadership of Mrs. J. Edgar, will be held in the Washington School this evening.

Miss Marian Snyder is to conduct a class for instruction in modern dancing. The class will be small, and individual attention will be given to those who need it.

The Dramatic Club is to hold a special rehearsal in preparation for the vaudeville entertainment and dance which is scheduled for February 10.

The Rev. Mr. Imes is lending his talents and his enthusiasm to the success of the colored people's activities. He is to conduct a choral in the Washington School kindergarten room tonight. It is hoped that a large number will be present to make the choral a success. Dr. Hobson is also an enthusiastic worker, and his friends and acquaintances are giving him their earnest support in all his undertakings.

GLASS OF WATER BEFORE YOU EAT ANY BREAKFAST

Wash poison from system each morning and feel fresh as a daisy.

Every day you clean the house you live in to get rid of the dust and dirt which collected through the previous day. Your body, the house your soul live in, also becomes filled up each twenty-four hours with all manner of filth and poison. If only every man and woman could realize the wonders of drinking phosphated hot water, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

Everyone, whether sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that insid cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do —Adv.

ONLY FOULS FOR W. H. S. MAIDENS

Many Are Called in Game Easily Won by North Plainfield.

The Westfield High School girls' team was limited to three points Saturday afternoon, when they played the representatives of North Plainfield High School on the Saengerbund court, the home team scoring 28 points. The visitors were unable to penetrate the defense of the boroughites, and scored the three points via the foul route.

The contest, although an easy win for the locals, was rough and fast. Both teams had to rush new players into the fray when four personal fouls made it necessary for the regulars to leave.

Miss Burtis and Miss Spencer each shot a quintet of field goals, while five fouls were registered by the former and three by the latter. Miss Gladwin shot the three points for her team.

CANADIAN FIVE WINS IN OVERTIME PERIOD

Bill Taylor Makes Four Baskets in Extra Five Minutes at Sayville.

The Canadian Five traveled to Sayreville, Long Island, Saturday evening, and defeated the representatives of that place in an overtime session, 35 to 31. The contest was closely waged throughopt.

In the extra five minute session Bill Taylor played his head off and dropped in four field goals during that short space. The homesters scored two.

The local team, overcoming numerous obstacles, one of which was poor officiating on the part of the referee, played a brilliant brand of basketball, especially Bill Taylor, who rang in eight field goals.

CRIPPLED RECREATION FIVE LOSES AT SUMMIT

Dallas and Smith Out, and Ricketts Hurt—Score is 49 to 27.

The Recreation Five, crippled by the absence of two regulars and an injury to Jack Ricketts, lost to an inferior team Saturday night, drawing the short end of a 49-27 score at Summit Y. M. C. A. Dallas was unable to play on account of the injury to his head, suffered in the war at the Columbus Club last Thursday night, and Smith was kept out of the game by illness. Ricketts injured a sore toe, which he hurt in the game at the Columbus Club, and although he had to stay in the game, the local team having no substitute, he was practically useless in the second half. The score was close in the first half.

Ray Poole's man ran away from him, flinging in ten baskets. Buck Allegar accounted for only one field goal.

STAR IDLE, P. H. S. WATER TEAM BEATEN

Absence of Brower Felt in Dual Meet With East Orange Fish.

The absence of Captain Lorenzo Brower, chief point winner of the Plainfield High School swimming team, proved too much of a handicap for the P. H. S. fish to overcome Saturday, in a dual meeting here with East Orange H. S. The visitors copped first honors, 31 points to 16.

Johnson starred for the victors, capturing two first places and one second in the five individual events. East Orange won the relay by about five yards.

In only one event, the dive for form, were points awarded for third place. Brownlee's work in the diving contest was very good.

The points by events were distributed as follows:

	E. O. H. S.	P. H. S.
Relay race	5	0
20 yard swim	5	3
40 yard swim	3	5
100 yard swim	8	0
Dive	2	8
Plunge	8	0

The summary:

Boroughites Never Get Going In Game at New Brunswick.

North Plainfield High School was treated to a 28-13 defeat Saturday afternoon at New Brunswick. The home boys always kept in advance of their rivals.

CITY LEAGUE REFUSES TO LET TABS HAVE MONTROSS

At a meeting of the City Bowling League yesterday afternoon the request of the T. A. B. S. team to change the rules so that Charley Montross, the Westfield crack, could roll in the league, was turned down by a unanimous vote. The Tabs have been counting for some time on having Montross in their line-up, but the rules adopted at a previous meeting of the league barred all bowlers who were not members before January 17. A special meeting of the T. A. B. Society was held yesterday in order to make Montross a member.

When the rule requiring all eligibles to be a member of the organization they represent before January 17 was passed, the Tabs were not represented by their regular delegate, James Scott, who did not know about the action of the league until it was too late to make Montross eligible.

Montross was a resident of this city until three years ago, and has since lived in Westfield. He is one of the best bowlers in Union county.

Although the Tabs are badly in need of a fifth bowler of the caliber of four of their men, they will continue in the league with their regular team.

A number of prizes have been offered, and the list will be completed this week. The nature and donors of the prizes will be announced later.

PLAYING PRO RULES, P. H. S. IS DEFEATED

Plainfield Quintet Gets Lost on the Pennington Court.

Swept under an avalanche of field goals, the Plainfield High School basketball team bowed at Pennington School Saturday by the score of 52 to 24. The game was played under Eastern League professional rules, and the locals were completely at a loss during the first half. The whole gymnasium was used, there being no out of bounds, even underneath the baskets. The game, one-sided as it was, was interesting to watch, as the Pennington team played the dribbling game and the locals a passing game. In this department the Plainfield basketeers put up a sterling exhibition, and in the second half they managed to hold the Penningtonites to 25 markers, while scoring 16 for themselves.

In the first half there was nothing to it but Pennington, the prep school boys having things their own way, and scoring almost at will. Cook dropped in their first goal and Lance followed this up with two more before Linke rung up the first one for the locals. Pennington got the score up to eleven, and the Red and Blue then started a sprint, which gave them their eight points.

The down-State boys then held the first of their war conferences, which are permissible under these rules, and then they started to run right away from the Plainfielders, scoring 16 points and holding the locals scoreless.

At the beginning of the second half McDowell went in for Coudray. The locals started in with a burst of speed, and in the first five minutes outscored their rivals, 3 to 1. Another war council was held by the Penningtonites, and they began to score, which gave them a lead which could not be overcome by the locals.

Pittenger and Lance were the main scorers for Pennington, while Dunham came away with half of Plainfield's tallies tucked underneath his belt. Peacock played an especially fine guarding game for the locals, holding his man to a pair of field goals.

HOLY CROSS FOOTBALL CLUB NETS $101 FOR THE SEASON

At a business meeting of the Holy Cross Football Club, Saturday night, reports were read, showing the club to have a net profit of $101 for the 1915 season, which was begun with a $70 deficit hanging over from 1914. The total receipts for the season were about $500. The club is now out of debt for the first time since 1913, which was the most prosperous season in its history.

The balance in the treasury will be spent to purchase new uniforms for the twenty players in the squad. If possible, the deal will be made through a local merchant. Manager J. M. Doyle appointed a committee of five, composed of John T. Caulfield, Joseph G. Carty, Edward Bremble, Kenneth Mair and Joseph J. Greene, to do the buying.

If values and prices ruled about alike in all stores at all times, there would not be any such thing as store competition. And, as finding desirable values would require no especial knowledge or insight, store advertising would be superfluous.

The "buyer for the home" who does not read the ads is as unprogressive as the merchant who does not advertise.

NO NEW SALOONS HERE THIS YEAR

Council Grants License to All Now in Liquor Business.

GLEASON IS REFUSED

Number of Retail Stands is Sufficient, Says Resolutions, and More Would Endanger Morals and Peace of Community.

There will be no new retail liquor licenses granted in Plainfield to saloons or hotels during the year 1916, according to a resolution passed by members of the Common Council at the special meeting of last night. The eleven dealers now in business who applied for new licenses were given authority to do business for another year, but the one application to open a new saloon was refused.

All applications had been investigated by members of the license committee, of which Councilman Charles C Graves is chairman, and had been considered carefully by all members of the committee. They were recommended to the body as a whole last night, and the recommendations of the committee went through by unanimous vote.

The application refused was that of Thomas S. Gleason. This was done after a resolution had been passed declaring that additional saloons were not needed, and would not be for the public good.

The applications granted and licenses issued follow:

George R. Westcott, 113-35 North avenue; Frank Linke, 227 West Front street; Eastern Bottling Company; Michael J Divine, 456 West Third street; Michael F. Watson, 297 Grant avenue; John J. Sullivan, Kensington Hotel; G. J. Weinman, 213 Park avenue; Henry J. Windham, 142-4 East Front street; Peter Flourish, Queen City Hotel; Jacob Blimm, Somerset street; Elsworth C. Westcott, 118 East Front street.

A communication from the Public Service Commission, stating that four new lights had been erected on Watson avenue, was received and filed.

Mayor Calkins reported the appointment of Dr. Charles B. Lufburrow as a member of the Board of Health, to serve from 1916 to 1918. His appointment was later confirmed by the Council upon a resolution introduced by Chairman Babcock, of the finance committee.

A request from the finance committee that $20 be appropriated to purchase a filing cabinet for the clerk of the District Court was granted.

Members of the Council accepted an invitation from the West End Civic Association to attend a smoker to be given in Coward Hall on the night of January 27.

WOMAN HEARD BURGLAR BUT POLICE COULD NOT FIND HIM

Mrs James Leonard, of 545 Madison avenue, reported to the police, at 5:45 this morning, that there was a burglar in her home. Patrolmen Nolan, McIntyre and Saunders were rushed to the house and made a careful search, but they could not find the intruder. They carefully went over the entire house, and could not find evidence of a burglar's entrance, although Mrs. Leonard, who was in an upstairs room, was positive she heard some one walking downstairs.

NON-SUPPORT CASE IS DISMISSED BY JUDGE

Philip Moscovitz, who lives at 1412 West Front street, was arraigned in police court this morning on complaint of the overseer of the poor, charged with failing to support his wife. It was shown by Moscovitz that he was contributing to her support, and the case was dismissed by Judge DeMeza.

WESTMINSTER GUILD ELECTS.

The Westminster Guild of the Crescent Avenue church, at its annual church meeting yesterday afternoon, elected these officers for the ensuing year: President, Miss Dorothy Leal; vice president, Miss Mildred McKenzie; secretary, Miss Edith Foster; treasurer, Miss Margaret Condit. There was an informal discussion of plans for the coming year an announcement of which will be made later.

Joins Debating League With Battin and Trenton High School as Competitors.

The Plainfield High School is now represented in the Tri-Corner Debating League, comprising Battin High School, of Elizabeth; Trenton High School and the local High School. Harold Biddle, of the faculty, and William Backer, one of the pupils, represented the Plainfield institution at a meeting held in Trenton when arrangements were made for the first debate. The subject chosen was, "Resolved, That Military Training Should Be Required In High Schools," and Friday night, April 14, was the date fixed upon for the debate.

Each school will have two teams, each comprised of three pupils. The schedule has been arranged so that one team from each school will be debating at home and the other away from home. Trenton will debate at Plainfield, Battin at Trenton and Plainfield at Battin so that all six teams will be engaged. The judges will be chosen from among prominent men and the team receiving the highest number of points will be awarded a suitable trophy.

Mr. Biddle, who directs the activities of the Alpha and Omega Literary Societies of the High School, expects to have all of the members of both bodies take part in the tryouts, which will be held late in February or early in March, and he will be able to get a glimpse of the material for the two teams at the tryouts on February 3 for the team that will go against South Side High School, of Newark, in the first debate in the Rutgers College League at Newark on March 3.

DR. JAMES W. DENTON IS NOW PATHOLOGIST

Engaged to Succeed Dr. M. N. Garhart at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Dr. M. N. Garhart has severed his connection with Muhlenberg Hospital, where he held the position of pathologist, not having been employed in that capacity since January 1 last, according to an announcement by the board of governors of the hospital. CHECKS COMING IN FOR RELIEF FUND

Proclamation of President Tells of Need of Jews in Europe.

Checks for the fund to be used in giving relief to Jewish War Sufferers are already coming in and it is believed by those in charge of the local campaign that a goodly sum will have been recevied before the mass meeting on Thursday evening of this week, when the public will be solicited for donations. Herman Schwed is treasurer of the Committee of Fifty from Temple Sholem and all checks should be made payable to him.

In setting aside January 27 as a day for giving to the fund for destitute women and children in the war zone President Wilson issued the following proclamation:

Whereas, I have received from the Senate of the United States a resolution, passed January 6, 1916, reading as follows:

"Whereas, as in the various countries now engaged in war there are nine millions of Jews, the great majority of whom are destitute of food, shelter and clothing, and,

"Whereas, millions of them have been driven from their homes without warning, deprived of an opportunity to make provision for their most elementary wants, causing starvation, disease and untold suffering, and,

"Whereas, the people of the United States of America have learned with sorrow of this terrible plight of millions of human beings and have most generously responded to the cry for help whenever such an appeal has reached them; therefore, be it

"Resolved, that, in view of the misery, wretchedness and hardships which these nine millions of Jews are suffering the President of the United States be respectfully asked to designate a day on which the citizens of this country may give expression to the funds now being raised for the relief of the Jews in the war zones."

And whereas, I feel confident that the people of the United States will be moved to aid the war stricken people of a race which has given to the United States so many worthy citizens;

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, in compliance with the suggestions of the Senate thereof, do appoint and proclaim January 27, 1916, as a day upon which the people of the United States may make such contributions as they feel disposed for the aid of the stricken Jewish people.

WOODROW WILSON.

JUNIORS PRESENT AMERICAN FLAG

Will Be Floated to the Breeze on Harrison Avenue School in the Borough.

BIBLES ARE ALSO GIVEN

Judd Stuart Adds Ten Volumes of Civil War History to High School Library—Other Business Transacted by Board of Education.

The North Plainfield Board of Education at its meeting last night received a handsome American flag and five Bibles for the Harrison Avenue School, they being the gift of the members of the Jr. O. U. A. M. The presentation was made by Thomas E. Currin, Jr., and he also stated that the Juniors would set a flag-pole if the Board would purchase the same.

The Board also received from Judd Stuart, one of its members, a valuable ten volume set of photographic history of the Civil War for the High School library. A vote of thanks was given to Mr. Stuart as well as the Juniors for their gifts.

Claude Jeffries, teacher of manual training, was released from his contract to accept a similar position at Arlington. Miss Emma Ryno was granted permission to teach dancing to school children in the auditorium of the Harrison Avenue School during Saturday forenoon, provided that the class be conducted under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association.

The building committee was instructed to call the attention of Pierson & Son, architects for the Harrison Avenue School, to a leak in the roof of that building as the structure was accepted with the provision that this leak be repaired. The committee was also instructed to have the building wired so that a stereopticon can be used.

The supply committee was instructed to get supplies for the rest of the year. Several copies of a dictionary were ordered purchased by Principal D. Fred Aungst. It was voted to allow the senior class of the high school $20 towards graduation expenses. Bills for the month were ordered pair. The superintendent's report follows:

"I hereby submit the following report for the month of January:

Somerset	908	800
Watchung	300	241
Harrison	...	222
Total	1208	1263

"Fire drills were held on Tuesday, January 11, in all the buildings. The time at the Harrison School was 57 seconds, Watchung School one minute, Somerset School one minute and 50 seconds.

"I am very much pleased to report that violin and piano instruction is being offered to students two days a week under the direction of the department of music. Small classes are organized so that the instructors can teach the subjects thoroughly. The prices are popular, twenty-five cents per lesson. Some of the students take two lessons per week. The instructors have been selected by the supervisor of music, and have received my approval. Twenty students have applied for instruction on the violin and fourteen on the piano. Instruction on other instruments will be given if sufficient number of candidates apply to warrant forming a class.

"The attendance of the school has been more or less smaller by illness. The teachers have been rather fortunate, however. Only three teachers have been absent any length of time through illness. Miss Grace Parker, of the Harrison School, was absent eight days through the illness of her mother and death of her grandmother.

"I would respectfully call the attention of the Board that the committee to take up the matter on fire hazards and report to the State Board of Education should take some action."

ELKS' EUCHRE AND DANCE.

The committee from Plainfield Lodge of Elks, which had charge of the trip to Atlantic City last September, will conduct an afternoon and evening affair in the Watchung avenue clubhouse, Thursday, February 3. In the afternoon progressive euchre will be played by the wives and women friends and in the evening there will be a dance. A number of original features are being planned for both occasions. The committee making the arrangements is composed of John H. Cose, chairman; Chauncey F. Stout, Dr. C. L. Crist, George W. Pope, L. A. Bellis and William C. Mulvey.

JITNEY OWNERS TO FIGHT KATES LAW

Organize to Prevent 4,000 From Going Out of Business, They Say.

For the purpose of fighting the Kates' bill, which regulates the use of gasoline-driven vehicles engaged in carrying public passengers, the State Motor Service Association of New Jersey was organized yesterday at Trenton. It represents 4,000 automobile owners engaged in doing a motor-public service, according to the organizers, and they propose to fight legislation which will force them to quit business.

The Kates' bill, some time known as the Nugent bill, was voted out of a committee last night and put through the House of Assembly on the first and second reading. It provides that each owner of a motor service vehicle or jitney bus shall report to the city in which he is operating each thirty days the total gross receipts for every machine owned, and that 5 per cent. of this sum shall be paid to the city as license. It also requires that every owner of a jitney bus shall be bonded so as to guarantee any damages as a result of accidents to passengers or others.

According to officers of the newly organized State Motor Service Association the passage of this bill will put 4,000 jitneys in the State out of business. They propose to fight it through the Assembly and Senate. Officers of the new association are: President, George F. Cassidy, Jersey City; vice president, M. L. Clawson, Plainfield; secretary, W. J. Morgan, Newark; treasurer, Marcus Weintrab, Atlantic City.

MISCHA ELMAN DRAWS CROWD WHEREVER HE APPEARS

"When Mischa Elman is the attraction the hall is filled," has almost become an axiom in theee days of many recitals in the world of music. It is hoped that this will prove true on Wednesday, February 9, when Elman will give a concert at the Plainfield High School for the benefit of the Day Nursery, under the auspices of the Cheerful Workers' Circle of King's Daughters.

What is the magic in Elman's playing? To some, it is the big, soulful tone with a G string, deep and rich like the 'cello; another says the magic of Elman's playing is his magnetism; others declare it is Elman's interpretative skill that is extraordinary, and right here, let it be said that Elman does not favor one school of composition more than another. Speaking for himself on this point, Elman stated, "A true artist must revere every school of music and must play the masterpieces of every famous composer; that is all there is to it."

The sale of tickets at Miller's Drug Store has been active, but there are a number of good seats left.

The management of this recital desire that all tickets now being held in reserve at Miller's drug store, Fourth street and Park avenue, be paid for before February 2. On that date all unclaimed tickets will be returned to the box office.

The Men's Association, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, will meet in the parish house on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

CITY WILL SELL OLD FRAME HOUSE

Must Be Torn Down to Make Way for New Municipal Building.

In order to make way for the new city hall the frame building at the corner of Watchung avenue and Sixth street, on the Brooks property recently purchased by the city, is offered for sale.

Mayor Calkins has been authorized to handle the affair for the municipality and will receive any and all bids. The only condition on which the property is to be sold is that it must be removed from the lot at once. It can be removed as a whole, torn down partly or completely. The city wants it removed.

Mayor Calkins will be glad to make an appointment at any time with a prospective buyer. He may be seen at his office in the morning or will answer inquiries in the evening by appointment.

The city had other plans for making use of the building and will not sell unless it can get a good price. It is believed, however, that the building can be made to add a considerable sum of money to the city hall fund and that the purchaser will be glad to remove it, thus saving the city an expense.

Members of the building committee recently named from the Common Council are busy working out plans for the construction of the new municipal building and will be ready to submit a report within a short time. This committee is made up of Mayor Calkins, President Blatz and Councilmen Booth, Bird and Hylan. Their assignment is to work out a general plan and after it has been approved by the Council superintend the work of construction.

LECTURE ON "QUAINT LITTLE HOLLAND"

Robert G. Weyh, Jr., Will Portray "The Kindly Host of a War-stricken Nation."

"Quaint Little Holland' is the subject of the next lecture to be given in the High School building, under the auspices of the Board of Education Free Lecture Series. On Thursday night Robert G. Weyh, Jr., will deliver a most interesting lecture describing, as his literature so aptly expresses it, "The kindly host of a war-stricken nation."

There is presented, through the medium of this lecture, an excellent opportunity for the people of Plainfield to obtain a close range view of this wonderful little nation, which, standing out in marked contrast to the warring nations of Europe, proved its worth by rising to meet conditions which would have demoralized a people far superior in numbers, and in national as well as individual wealth. To all the fleeing sufferers from Belgium, many of whom were fast becoming victims to ravaging disease, the arms of the Hollanders were opened in welcome, and they gave without stint of their all for the relief of the sufferers.

Every effort is made to provide for the comfort of all who attend these public lectures, and the large increase in attendance which marks each succeeding event proves that the people of the city are recognizing the merit of the entertainment provided.

PUBLIC SERVICE STARTS A CLASS IN MATHEMATICS

A class in elementary mathematics for the benefit of the employes in the service and commercial departments of the Public Service Gas and Electric Branches in the Central New Jersey division was commenced at Elizabeth last night. Six Plainfielders were among the eighty-five who enrolled last night, the other cities represented being Elizabeth, Westfield, Bound Brook, Somerville, New Brunswick, Perth and South Amboy and Rahway.

The idea of the company is to equip all the employes in its service with a good understanding of arithmetic, algebra, and other mathematics with the purpose of benefitting both the corporation and the workers.

C. H. HUMPHREY IS MADE A LIEUTENANT

Former Resident of the Borough Tells of Experience Fighting for the Allies.

C. H. Humphrey, a former resident of the borough, who left here for England at the outbreak of the present war to rejoin his regiment, was still alive on January 2, according to a letter received by a borough-ite from Mr. Humphrey yesterday.

A report had been current since the forepart of December that Mr. Humphrey had been wounded again and was in a London hospital in a critical condition and this letter comes in reply to a letter written to ascertain whether this was true.

The letter was written from "Somewhere in France." In it Mr. Humphrey said that he was "still in the land of the living although he didn't know how long he would be as his fellow soldiers were dropping on all sides of him." Mr. Humphrey said that he had been promoted to the first lieutenancy of the First East Anglia Field Company. Several months ago Mr. Humphrey received a military cross for conspicuous bravery.

In referring to the winter weather, Mr. Humphrey said that they were having lots of rain. He said that the mud was so deep that on numerous occasions rope and tackle had to be employed to pull men out of the mire back into line. The quarters of men on the firing line, Mr. Humphrey said, were in dugouts thirty feet below the surface of the ground. According to the letter numerous Americans are fighting for the Allies in France.

EDUCATOR'S NOTEBOOK

Quite the most elaborate college celebration of the present year will take place at New Haven in October, when the people of Connecticut will join hands with Yale University and its alumni in commemorating the 200th anniversary of the founding of Yale in New Haven. The spectacular feature will be the masque in the Yale Bowl, in which 1,000 persons will take part. Francis Hartman Sparkes, who was associated with the coronation pageant at London, and who produced the masque on the University of Oxford a few years ago, is in full charge of the Yale masque. Students, faculty and alumni are taking the leading parts in the pageant.

New Jersey will celebrate a notable observance in October, when the 175th anniversary of the granting of the first charter to Queens College, now Rutgers, will be celebrated at New Brunswick. Two speakers will be heard. Dr. Charles Scribner Richmond, president of Union College, and W. H. Demarest, president of Rutgers, and Senator Hughes, of Rutgers, will be the speakers at the celebration. The date celebration, which takes place in October, will be a general day on the Rutgers campus, with no special exercises.

The merchants and farmers of the Empire State are being hard hit by the school consolidation movement. State universities are now offering courses in agriculture, and the most good of the growers are taking advantage of more and more of these courses. It is still a moot question in which the county agent's goods are cheaper, but it is undeniable that the latest ideas in farming are being taken up by the students of the agricultural colleges. The University of Minnesota is contemplating a week's short course in agriculture, to be held during the last two weeks of January. And in other places there is similar activity in the method of bringing school education to bear on the problems of everyday life.

That every country in Europe except Serbia is represented in American educational institutions, and that every country in South America except Peru and Colombia is represented in the United States, is one of the interesting facts brought to light in the report of the Spanish-American Commission, which Dr. Capen, the commissioner, has just completed. Of the foreign countries, in addition to the American, Canada and Mexico, it has expressed its opinion that there is a field for the American educational institutions in Europe. The most favored country for the foreign students is that of the United States, with emphasis on the arts and architecture, theology and the sciences. Following war, a decline in enrollments.

[illegible] of a university [illegible] the most successful men in the world, known [illegible] the foremost men in [illegible] declared Dr. A. M. Davidson, superintendent of schools of Topeka, Kan., in a recent address. "And the boy or girl who drops in those days did not know as much as the first school student knows now. We were thinking of the only 10 or 15 years we used to wrap so much gauze in arithmetic. Arithmetic should be taught only in its relation to life. I believe the children have never been so well equipped as they are today. But we must simplify education still more. Besides a knowledge of the three R's, the boy or girl of today must have intelligence, observation and initiative put into the work."

THE SAILORS WITH A RIFLE.

One turns with relief to the Fabri Mecus "the sailors with a rifle" [illegible] They know they are the incomparable soldiers. The guns have been on them for [illegible] months, but they remain unbroken. Twice in the year, if they had yielded, this would have [illegible] war. But that is only saying that if Belgium had a different breed of men the world and its future would contain less hope. They carry the fine honor of France, and sometimes their own added to it. They are happy soldiers—happy in the midst of life, with its flash of daring, and happy in their death. It is still sweet to die for one's country, and that is no trifling thing just over the seas and yards, but just at the home border. As we carried our wounded sailors down from Nieuport to the great hospital of Zuydcoote, on the Dunkirk highway, there is a signboard, a bridge and a custom house that mark the point where we pass from Belgium into France. We drove our ambulance with the rear curtain raised, so that the wounded men, lying on the stretchers, could be cheered by the flow of scenery. Sometimes, as we crossed that border-line, one of the men would pick it up with his eye, and would say to his comrade, 'France! Now we are in France, the beautiful country.'

"'What do you mean?' I asked one lad, who had brightened visibly.

"'The other countries,' he said, 'are flat and dirty. The people are of mixed races. France is not so.'"—Arthur Gleason, in the February Century.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

200TH PERFORMANCE AT THE "HIP."

"Hip Hip Hooray," Charles Dillingham's wondrous spectacle, with its many novelties, its gorgeous massiveness and its winter sports sensation, which seems to have set the whole country a-skating, celebrates its 200th anniversary at the Hippodrome tonight. It will start on its third century mark with a most brilliant outlook as the advance sale today, our busiest even that of the busy holiday period at this great amusement headquarters, which is creating new records unknown in theatrical annals. Matinees are given daily and a brilliant [illegible] every evening.

CORT THEATRE.

The Princess Pat, with delightful Eleanor Painter singing the stellar role, has entered upon the eighteenth week of its capacity run at the Cort Theatre. Charm in music, book and cast makes this offering one of the most enjoyable presentations of the current season.

HUDSON THEATRE.

The Cinderella Man, Oliver Morosco's third production this season in New York, began the second week of its engagement at the Hudson Theatre last night, with an excellent cast, including Chrystie Foster, Shelley Hull, Berton Churchill, Frank Bacon, Charles Lane, Theodore Babcock, Hubert Wilke, Reginald Mason, Percival T. Moore, Lucile La Verne and Hazel Turner.

39TH STREET THEATRE.

The Unchastened Woman, Oliver Morosco's production of Louis K. Anspacher's successful play by Miss Ethel Stevens, scoring a tremendous personal success, began its seventh week of its run last night, when the 125th consecutive performance at the 39th Street Theatre was delivered.

HARRIS THEATRE.

"Sadie Love," Avery Hopwood's very humorous farce with Marjorie Rambeau and the original cast in action, is in the eighth week of its run, and the second week of its engagement at the Harris Theatre under Oliver Morosco's management.

LONGACRE THEATRE.

In the opinion of his admirers, and they are legion, Leo Ditrichstein has achieved the greatest triumph of his artistic career in his characterization of Jean Poret, the central figure in "The Great Lover," his latest play now current at the Longacre Theatre. Without a doubt this is the best comedy of artistic life that has been written in America. The characters in it are not satirized or burlesqued, they live and breathe in a great operatic caldron where Russians, Germans, Italians, and Americans are thrown together in the dazzling blaze of the calcium and knowing that life as a few outsiders know it. Mr. Ditrichstein has fashioned his play with the pen of a master.

CANDLER THEATRE.

"Established as one of Broadway's biggest successes, "The House of Glass," continues to draw capacity audiences to the Candler Theatre, where the story of a woman's love, sacrifice and final regeneration as told by Mary Ryan and her associate players makes one of the most absorbing tales that has been put into play form in many seasons.

ASTOR THEATRE.

Amusement seekers are reasonably sure of an evening of pleasure in the theatre when George M. Cohan writes the play, an assertion that amounts to a certainty in the latest American farce, Hit-the-Trail-Holiday, now current at the Astor Theatre, where it is candidly approaching the sixth month of its highly successful engagement.

A CHANGE OF TACTICS.

How It Worked In the Case of a Discouraged Salesman.

The following method of gaining assurance is told in the American Magazine. It is the experience of a salesman who could not sell his goods because he allowed himself to be discouraged at initial attempts. It has wide application everywhere:

"I am a commercial traveler who conquered the habit of despondency. Every one who sells goods knows how fierce is the competition. When I took this job six years ago it seemed absolutely overwhelming. I didn't sell anything to speak of and made up my mind that I couldn't, though I kept on making the round of the groceries. There seemed to be a thousand salesmen just ahead of me. I grew very bitter at the thousand and everybody else. Whenever I entered a store it was with the firm conviction that I should not get an order. I looked dull eyed at the merchant and said gloomily:

"'Anything in my line?' at the same time reaching for the doorknob. They didn't try to detain me.

"One day in conversation with an old drummer, a shrewd veteran of the road, I opened my heart with a savage complaint about the thousand salesmen, my advance guard. He puffed his cigar a moment, his eyes twinkled and he slapped me on the shoulder.

"'I know,' he said. 'I had 'em ahead of me once. They raised Cain with me until I chased 'em to the rear. Take my advice, boy, and get up to the head of the procession and let the other fellows do the worrying.'

"I thought it over, and it dawned on me that it was a question of viewpoint. I had formed a habit of picturing myself at the tail of the line, though in reality we were going in a circle and my position was as good as any. Then I changed my tactics and formed a new habit—the habit of thinking of myself as the leader, the very first man in the territory. Just as an experiment I went out the next day believing that I should get orders. I pulled my order book and pencil the moment I entered a store and began to name certain goods.

"'Sugar!' I cried, looking the grocer expectantly in the eye, as much as to say that I could see the empty barrel behind his counter. And the barrel was empty! It worked so well in the first store that I tried more vigorously in the next, and the merchant came down freely. It was almost uncanny the way I guessed the items he needed. I went out on the sidewalk and laughed aloud. And I actually sold more goods that day than I had sold before in three weeks.

"Well, the firm raised my salary instead of firing me, as they had planned to do, and I still insist that I am the first man over the route. I tell you, right habits of thought are worth money—sometimes a fortune."

Spirit of the Home.

I never realized before how rare indeed is the real home—the temple reared to house a family life, with its altar dedicated to parenthood. I saw that it is not enough to have furniture "good," to have colors "safe," nor enough to show a pretty, well appointed house to the world. A real home must be a setting for a living, loving, sorrowing and conquering man and woman. It is not enough to study textures, plans and building materials. It is just the old story of the letter and the spirit. The creative spirit can make any home beautiful, but the most letter perfect house is a dead shell unless it houses loving, growing life.—Emily Newell Blair in Countryside Magazine.

The Footmen's Gallery.

There was in one part of the theater where in bygone days smoking was permitted the footmen's gallery, where servants in attendance on masters visiting the theater were admitted free. But the occupants of the footmen's gallery were so noisy and they so frequently hissed out of existence plays that their masters approved of that the privilege was withdrawn, and the gallery became the "shilling gallery," which has kept up to a great extent the traditional privilege of outspoken criticism originally exercised by footmen.—London Chronicle.

Rich as Croesus.

The boys were bragging about their parents.

"I bet my father is richer than your father," said one. "He has to pay lots and lots of money for taxes every year."

"That's nothing," retorted the other. "My father is so rich that he can afford to hire a lawyer to fix things so he don't have to pay any taxes."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Suspicious Document.

"All this here business education among women is tough on us cooks."

"How so?"

"The last lady I worked for gimme a reference written in shorthand. What did she say about me, I wonder?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Cutting Stovepipe.

Use a can opener to cut stovepipe if you have no large pair of shears. The can opener answers the purpose admirably.—Popular Science Monthly.

Inevitable.

"I saw stars in that railroad collision."

"Naturally, when the cars were telescoped."—Baltimore American.

LOCAL MEN FORM $25,000 COMPANY

Charles L. Ryder, Jr., and George Graves Incorporate for Electric Contracting.

Charles L. Ryder, Jr., and George Graves, both of whom have been established in the electrical contracting business in this city as individuals for several years, have incorporated a new company to conduct the same line of work. City Judge William G. DeMeza, acting as attorney, filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State at Trenton yesterday, under the title of the Ryder and Graves Electrical Company. The capital stock is placed at $25,000, divided into shares of $100 each. Charles L. Ryder, Jr., has fifteen shares, George Graves fourteen shares and Frank Jennings one share. The company will do general electrical contracting and deal in electrical supplies throughout Plainfield and vicinity. The office and sales room are to be located at 116 North avenue, which has been Mr. Ryder's place of business for the past year.

Both the main incorporators of the new company are well known local young business men who have met with great success in their chosen field. Mr. Ryder was associated for a number of years with Allen B. Laing and later as a partner with Edwin A. Craig. For the past year Mr. Ryder has been in business for himself during which time he handled some of the largest electrical wiring contracts in the city, among them being the installation of the intricate system in the Crescent Court Apartment building on East Seventh street. Mr. Graves has been associated with the Laing Electric Company, of which he was a member. He was treasurer for three years and for the past five yeras has been manager. With two such men of experience in the electrical line it is believed that the new company will become one of the most important in this section.

MRS. ELIZABETH M'KEON A VICTIM OF PARALYSIS

Mrs. Elizabeth McKeon, widow of John McKeon, died in Muhlenberg Hospital at 1:30 this afternoon following an illness of eight months with paralysis. She was first stricken last Decoration Day while visiting at the summer home of one of her sons at Keansburg. She partially recovered from this and while visiting the same son at his home in Jersey City, ten days ago, suffered another stroke. She was brought to Muhlenberg by auto ambulance last Friday but she was practically beyond medical aid.

Mrs. McKeon came to Plainfield from Jersey City seventeen years ago and resided for a long time on West Front street. Recently she has been making her home on East Second street, although spending some time out of the city visiting relatives. She was sixty years old and is survived by two daughters and three sons. These are, Mrs. Thomas Lynch, of East Second street; Mrs. Catherine Knox, of Glen Ridge; James McKeon, of this city; John McKeon, of East Orange and Andrew McKeon, of Jersey City. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

ART DEPARTMENT HOLDS AN INTERESTING MEETING

Two interesting papers took up the larger portion of the session of the Monday Afternoon Club, which met in the parish house of the Congregational church, yesterday afternoon. The art department conducted the meeting. Mrs. J. D. Miller read a paper on "Russian Domes and Handicrafts," while Mrs. M. E. Perkins' paper dealt with "Russian Churches and Church Music." Next Monday afternoon the annual informal meeting of the club will be held in the parish house.

BILL TO PERMIT BOND ISSUE FOR CITY HALL

That the city of Plainfield may issue bonds for an amount necessary to pay for the new City Hall, Assemblyman William N. Runyon last night introduced in the State Legislature a bill giving authority to municipalities to float a bond issue of $50,000 in excess of the amount authorized by the present law. The bill also provides for more than one building. It was referred to the Assembly committee on municipal corporations for consideration. No trouble is expected in securing the passage of the bill, as it will apply to Plainfield only.

TO HOLD A EUCHRE.

Ninety per cent. of all men arraigned in the Minneapolis municipal court are there because of liquor, and 99 per cent. of all vagrants and homeless men are homeless from the same cause, according to Municipal Judge Charles L. Smith, who said recently that the years he had spent on the bench had taught him that most of the sorrow in Minneapolis is traceable to liquor.

"When one considers that there were 14,164 cases of all kinds in our court in 1915 and that 99 per cent. of them are merely the results of the liquor habit, one gets some idea of the damage that is worked," said Judge Smith. "There are in addition many cases that do not get to court. It would be better if many of them did, for every effort is expended here to counteract this influence. A man's arrest for drunkenness, or for some offense that he has committed while in his cups, if often his first real start in life."

It is in the chambers of the judges rather than in the open court that the most misery comes to light, according to the judges, for there the sorrow of those who depend on the drinking man are learned. The wife, parents, brother or sister go there to ask leniency and tell that the man is a good man, but that liquor makes him violate the law.

"If there were no liquor there would be no non-support cases," declared Judge Smith. "I cannot recall a case where liquor does not have its relation to the charge. Sometimes it may may not be the man who drinks, but his companions who drink and who have persuaded him to get into evil ways."

The Union Pacific Railroad system, throughout its entire length, has discontinued the sale of liquor, and henceforth no alcoholic beverages will be sold on the diners of the company even in wet territory. The system comprises the Union Pacific, the O. W. R. & N. and the Oregon Short Line. The States traversed by these lines are Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming and Nebraska.

Once again is being sounded the warning that the first step in the elimination of vice resorts is the abolition of the liquor traffic. The Baltimore Vice Commission, in its recent report of startling conditions in that city, closely links the liquor traffic with the social evil.

Endorsement of the value of a prohibition law as an aid to general business prosperity was recently signed by men representing the leading industries of Steubenville, O., among others, two paper companies, a glass company, two foundries, two clay companies, a tin plate company and a pottery concern.

In the opinion of detectives and others who are in a position to observe crimes and criminals State-wide prohibition will result in a diminution of crime in Colorado. At least fifty per cent of crime, they claim, can be traced directly to liquor.

"I have watched the effect of prohibition in other States and I am convinced that our police force will have less crimes to deal with than in the past," said Harry Burley, head of the Burley Detective Service, and a detective of many years' experience.

"Nearly every crime can be traced to drink. I believe prohibition will result in a great saving to the taxpayers in general. With fewer crimes, less money will run the courts, and with fewer persons tried and convicted, less money will be required for the upkeep of our penitentiaries and other penal institutions."

Automobiles carrying more than half a gallon of intoxicants must bear a label on some part of the car where it is plainly visible, according to a ruling by Prosecuting Attorney J. D. Parlott, of Marshall county. One alleged violator of the law has been held to the grand ujry under bond of $1,000 for carrying liquor in an automobile.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

There was a big team; a mighty load; and a long hill and I watched because I had seen much brutality in the treatment of animals, and I wondered what the driver of this team would do.

He did not use the whip, he talked to his horses in a friendly way; he said, "Come on, old fellows, and now altogether," and when he reached a very steep spot he jumped to the road and walked; once he put on the brake and gave the panting horses a much needed rest, and at the top of the hill he patted the noses of his faithful friends—allowed them to breathe a bit—and then the big load moved on as easy as you please.

That's the story of a man who is on his job.

I believe that down in the heart of every man is kindness and a sense of justice. I believe that most of the brutality, the ill-treatment of animals comes from ignorance or habit. I believe that even the man who needlessly uses the whip, when he stops to think, will correct his own errors and do his best to cause others to be kind.

I don't need to tell you that it hurts a horse to be whipped just as badly as it does a man or a child, and isn't the horse entitled to good treatment and does he not appeal to our sense of justice? He can't talk, and he works faithfully to his dying day for his board only. He can't protest; he can't even tell you he is sick, it is for you and every driver to know how kind you can be because of your own sense of justice.

Once a manager of a great laundry concern told me that it was useless to purchase good horses because the drivers would make plugs of them anyway; and I believe that a proper appeal and some good advice and a little judicious weeding of drivers would have proved that the manager was wrong. Most men want to drive good horses. The drivers of good horses are generally good men and better paid than the drivers of plugs, and right here let me tell you that the man who can show that he is humane and kind, that he can keep his team in good shape; that he doesn't have to use a whip to get the best out of the animals. In other words, he knows his business, can get a job with good pay when the other kind are idle.

I know a human brute who sold his team's food for a drink and let his team go hungry—that's a terrible indictment;—but it was another driver with a kind heart who saw the proceeding and took the law in his own hands and gave the drunken driver a terrible beating, and never let up until a promise had been given to reform.

I know of a man who worked his horses twenty hours of the twenty-four, but it was a driver of horses who reported the case and followed it into court and saw the heartless man properly punished.

There are thousands of kind folks in the world. Be sparing with the whip; do not overload; give the horses a rest at the top of the hill and if it is a long hill, a rest when part of it has been covered. A friendly pat is appreciated even by a horse.

See that there is food and water in abundance; be ever more careful about the water in hot weather. Do not neglect the shoeing, it is vital on a slippery pavement. Never use the whip simply because you have it; it is a very poor driver who makes a blow the starting signal.

Give the horse an occasional full day's rest, it will add to his value.

Please do not feel that this talk is an interference with your business, it is not. You are as much interested in humane treatment as I can be for it means more to you, for if you are a driver it increases your efficiency; and if you are an owner it will increase the value of your animals.

THE MORAL: "JUST BE KIND, IT PAYS."

Some men are born lucky; others have luck thrust upon them; and still others are regular wearers of Rothberg clothes!

But it's more than "luck" on our part to be able to give more solid goodness for, let us say, than you can hope to get at most stores in Men's Garments. It's a great deal more than luck. It's a combination of the WILL-TO-DO and the HOW-TO-DO, to those two elements, that, when united usually do their work better than it's ever been done before.

STYLES OF TODAY IMPORTED FROM THE SOUTH SEA ISLANDS

Baroness Irmgard von Rottenthal in garb of South Sea Islander and in her latest gown from Paris.

The 1916 styles are not new, after all, nor did they come direct from Paris, as many society leaders have been led to believe. Instead, they came from a place as far from Paris as it is possible to be—the Society Islands in the South Seas. So declares Baroness Irmgard von Rottenthal, the famous dancer who is now in this country.

At a meeting of the North Plainfield Athletic Club last night, it was announced that arrangements for the testimonial dinner to be given in honor of the ex-mayors of the borough have practically been completed and the absolute success of the affair is already assured. It was stated that two hundred and twenty tickets have already been sold and this number will undoubtedly reach three hundred before the date set, next Monday night. It will be held at Debele's auditorium on Chatham street and H. C. Krebs, superintendent of Somerset county's schools, will be the toastmaster.

Among the former mayors who have accepted invitations to be present are Charles Place, Dr. J. H. Cooley, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., Newton R. Smalley, and Robert M. Clark, Jr. William L. Saunders is among the one time borough chief executives who will be unable to attend. Invitations have also been accepted by Mayor "Bill" Smalley, the present presiding officer; Senator W. W. Smalley, of Bound Brook; former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of North Branch, and Assemblyman Ogden Hammond, of Bernardsville. These men will all make speeches and there will be a number of others of prominence from Plainfield and vicinity.

All city or borough residents who anticipate attending the banquet are asked to make application for tickets to the committee as soon as possible in order to facilitate arrangements. The dinner is to be served at 7:30 sharp and in addition to the flow of oratory an appropriate musical program will be provided by an orchestra, interspersed by selections from the Elks' quartet.

MISS SCARBOROUGH WILL DEMONSTRATE DRESSMAKING

Miss Isabel Scarborough, the dressmaking instructor for the Public Recreation Committee of the city, will give a practical demonstration of dressmaking, cutting and designing in the Washington School, Thursday night at 8 o'clock. She will take one piece of longcloth and show to her audience how many articles of apparel can be cut from the piece in an economic manner. She will also answer any questions submitted to her and give her hearers practical hints that will assist them in their own sewing. Miss Scarborough has a class in the Washington School and is having unusual success, her pupils making one piece frocks, shirt waists and other articles of dress.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Crowds of boys are thronging the Y. M. C. A. every day, and keen as the interest is in the gymnasium classes and swimming pool, the social, educational and religious activities are entered into with the same enthusiasm.

The Christian Education Classes, with over a hundred boys attending every week, are growing fast in popularity and interest. Today the College League boys study "What Jesus Taught About Himself." Tomorrow the subject for the Indian League will be "The Captive Who Wouldn't Be Scared." "Gambling and Betting" will be talked over by Mr. McClyment's High School group Friday evening while Mr. Gavett is leading a similar group in the discussion of "The Historic Steps Leading to Our Present Organization of Business and Industry." At the same time, the Employed Boys, under the leadership of Secretary Lynn, will conducted "The W. W. and Sabotage."

After the Christian education class tomorrow, the Indian League will enjoy a social, game, tournament, and feast, in the boys' social room.

The older boys' meeting for next Sunday will be in charge of the College League and a special speaker will be present.

The dozen employed boys, who are attending the Monday night class in penmanship, are making fine progress.

ANNUAL TURKEY SUPPER.

Arrangements are nearing completion for the turkey supper to be conducted under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church on Thursday and Friday evenings. The supper, which will be given in the Sunday-school rooms, will be served from 5 to 9 o'clock each night. Mrs. Edward VanWinkle is the chairman in charge of the details.

CHANGE DATE FOR RECEPTION.

The reception and entertainment planned by the Holy Name Society, of St. Joseph's church, for January 31, has been postponed until Wednesday evening, February 2, because the former date conflicts with the banquet to be tendered the former Mayors of the borough.

A Galley o' Fun!

AN UNHAPPY LOVER.

Tom—Was Jack much effected by Miss Marbleheart's refusal?

Dick—Very much. And what made him feel particularly mortified was to find that his heart was not broken.

NOT AMUSED.

Uncle Jabez—Oh, no! everybody ain't laughin' at Reuben fer buyin the green goods. He wishes everybody was.

Uncle Hiram—How's that?

Uncle Jabez—Well, his wife ain't.

A SECOND-HAND CAR.

(What friends and acquaintances said when Jonesy bought one.)

The Boys at the Club—Say, Jonesy did someone wish it on you, or are you running it on a bet?

His Partner—It might come in handy as a delivery-wagon, except that it would scare our horses to death.

His Wife—Anyhow, it runs, and that's more than the Smyths can say about theirs, I guess!

His Son—Gee, it's a great car!

Perkins, His Neighbor—Say, Jones, can't you make some arrangement to keep that pile of junk at a garage? The infernal noise the dratted thing makes has got my wife's nerves worn to a frazzle.

His Grocer—Well, your gasoline bill is rather high, but that's a fine car you've got. Mr. Jonesy, even if it does take a lot of gasoline to run it.

The Man Who Sold It to Him—What's that? I'm sure the cylinder wasn't cracked when I sold it to you Jonesy. O no, my new car isn't o that make at all. You see, that old car makes almost too much noise for me. I'm glad you like it; I though you would. Ha, ha!

Jonesy Himself—: ??* !!! &$$ *&!!

A THEORY.

"So Cholly has taken up horseback riding?"

"Yes. I suppose he wanted to see how he looked in riding clothes."

PERFECT.

"I wish I were nearer perfection," I said,
As I sat on the sofa with her;
The lamp threw a halo of gold o'er her head,
Her breath was like orris and myrrh.

"That's easy," she said, with a smile in her eye,
A trick she had gathered from Venus;
And then, with a laugh and fluttering sigh,
She cast out the pillow between us.

MUNICIPAL ENTERPRISE.

"Well, if that don't beat anything I ever saw," exclaimed the citizen of Frogeye with considerable agitation. "What won't that board of trade over in Boomburgh do to get a crowd down to their measley little town, anyhow?"

"What they been up to now," inquired another citizen.

"Why, I jes' found out that they had posters printed invitin' everybody to come to Boomburgh and take in the total eclipse of the sun!"

AT THE SUMMER RESORT.

May—Dull, isn't it?

Belle—Awfully! We haven't a thing to do except to explain to one another why we are not in Paris.

"Blanche—I made a regular fool of Harry last night.

PETITION TO CONGRESS FOR TRAINING CAMPS

Plainfielder Joins in Nation-wide Movement for Preparedness at Sea.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Petitions to Congress for Volunteer Naval Reserve Training camps bearing the signature of one citizen of Plainfield, N. J., have just been received by the Navy League of the United States. Others are being circulated in cities and towns of New England and the North Atlantic States, and are coming in daily.

The petitions represent the Navy League's plan to demonstrate to Congress and the Federal Government just how strong the sentiment for preparedness at sea has become. It is expected that several hundred thousand names will be obtained. The campaign for signatures will be conducted in every State in the Union particularly the seaboard states.

Many of the signers have enrolled themselves as recruits for the Volunteer Naval Reserve Training stations. The Navy Department is cooperating with the Navy League in the preparation of detailed plans for the establishment of the camps in conjunction with which the Naval Reserve Committee of the Navy League expects to see a special boat built at Narragansett some time this spring.

Recruits at the camps will be given plans now being worked out will be trained in chosen courses of the period to bring lines essential to the operation of a fleet at sea. They will be given instruction on sailing and motor boat work. Efforts are being made by the league to urge the Navy Department assign a battleship or cruiser from the Atlantic Reserve Squadron to the training camps.

All those who wish to enroll as recruits may do so through the local committee of the Navy League, or by sending their names direct to the Naval Reserve Department of the League at headquarters, Washington, D. C. Recruits will be advised when to report when the time comes, and in the meantime will be kept fully in touch with the situation.

The signer of the petition in Plainfield, N. J., is J. C. Otteson.

MRS. ERNEST HEINRICH.

Mrs. Catharine Heinrich, wife of Ernest Heinrich, of Hunter avenue, Fanwood, died in Muhlenberg Hospital, last night. She had been ill for several weeks previous to her removal to the institution last Thursday. She was to have been operated on, but owing to her condition this was not done. Mrs. Heinrich was forty-three years old, and had resided in Fanwood only for the past six months. Beside her husband, she is survived by three children, two daughters and a son.

A. E. Force & Co. has just installed an optical department in the West Front street store, which is under the personal supervision of Dr. Murray Jarknowitz, an eyesight specialist, formerly official examiner for the Board of Education. The department is located in the balcony at the store and is thoroughly equipped.

F. H. ANDREWS TO LEAD.

F. H. Andrews will be the leader at the Gospel noon-day meeting in the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock. This will mark the close of the first year of this service which has been conducted by business men and others. Next week Wednesday the first anniversary of the meeting will be observed.

J. V. E. VANDERHOEF RESIGNS.

J. V. E. Vanderhoef, former tax collector of the borough, has resigned as a member of the North Plainfield Board of Health, of which body he was president. His retirement from official life is said to be due to a pressure of business duties as manager for the Woodhull & Martin Company.

While The Passenger Was Arguing With The Ticket Agent About The Time of Leaving, The Train Left.

Fortunes have been lost by delaying the moment of action. Procrastination has robbed all of us of many things we might have had and enjoyed if we had but acted.

There are a lot of folks in this town who have heard of our remarkable ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA and expect to own a copy. But they think that any time will do — that we will always have a copy for them.

But will we? Already the pile is getting low. We have telegraphed to the publishers for an additional supply only to be advised that the number printed for 1916 have all been disposed of.

Another case of "standing room only", as the theatres put it. SOMEONE IS GOING TO BE DISHED OUT OF THE COPY THEY EXPECTED TO GET. And that someone is going to be he who waits just a little too long.

On the same principle of a starting train or boat, the one who delays until the bell strikes generally get left.

"Early Bird" is always getting the juicy things because he is ahead of the other fellow.

— And, this is but another instance where Early Bird wins out by getting the most accurate — most authentic — ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA of the year.

For scope of subjects — for reliable information upon every topic, subject or matters of information there has never before been offered a book the equal of this one.

Every one who has a copy is amazed at the wide range it covers. They marvel that such a wealth of knowledge could ever be gathered together and yet so condensed as to contain the full gist of the subject — not the slightest sacrifice made nor words used that would in any way cloud the information.

Already is the ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA settling arguments. Already it is imparting information to its owners upon questions—features—places—cities—events—historical spots they have heard of but never known the real "inside facts" about before.

You, too, have still time to obtain this wonderful

WOULD PROVIDE ONE REST DAY IN SEVEN

Assemblyman Felten Introduces a Bill Making Compulsory Such Concession.

[illegible] Assemblyman Felten [illegible] Bill [illegible] Sunday [illegible] Hudson County Central Labor Union has introduced in the State Legislature a bill making compulsory the observance of one day of rest in seven for factory and other employees. The bill also provides that no factory in New York shall be open on Sunday except for the purpose of preserving public health and welfare. The bill also provides that employers in operation on Sunday shall provide a rest day for each employee on some other day of the week.

It is estimated that over [illegible] persons would benefit by such a law in this State. Railroads, trolley lines, hotels and restaurants, as well as banks and ice cream factories with fewer than seven employes, are not included in the proposed law which applies only to factories and mercantile establishments and exempts from its scope many processes.

"Seven-day labor," said Mr. Felten, "is bad for the worker and unidiot for the State. Other States and countries have legislated against it and it is time for New Jersey to wipe out this blot on our local industries."

Similar bills are to be introduced this year in Rhode Island and in Maryland, and a bill covering employes in the District of Columbia has already been introduced in Congress.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Announcement was made today of the engagement of Miss Isabelle Schneiper, of Dunellen, to James C. Dorn, of Peachwood Heights. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Mrs. Allan Babcock, of New York city, is visiting at the home of Charles Potter Titsworth, of Madison avenue.

Vice-Chancellor Howell Sanctions Deal Today—Creditors to Fight for Settlement.

At the time of the sale Mr. Chase said the second of the mortgages price.

Mr. Chase also assumes the $11,000 mortgage held by the Morgan Trust Company. Louis Hood, representing the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, [illegible] the court [illegible] brought out the fact [illegible] that the chattel mortgage was not recorded in [illegible] years ago.

There is also a $500,000 trust mortgage to secure bonds of that amount, and Mr. Hood filed a bill in Chancery today to set aside the validity of the trust mortgage held by the Fidelity Title and Trust Company. It was also learned that there is $1,000,000 worth of claims held by the J. H. Hasey & Smith Co., of Newark, in addition to general claims amounting to $140,000.

The claims of the J. H. Hasey & Smith Co. represent money which James Smith borrowed from that concern, in which he is a stockholder, to run the two newspapers, and there is now a fight on between that company and a host of general creditors.

No intimation was given today as to the plans of the new owner of the two newspapers. There is a rumor that the Morning Eagle may be either sold or discontinued and all the efforts put into the Evening Star, which has been a paying proposition.

Plainfield, N. J., January 25, 1916.

NO MORE SALOONS.

There will be no additional saloons or places where liquor is sold in retail quantities in Plainfield during the current year, according to a resolution passed by members of the Common Council at the meeting of last night. The Council could not consistently refuse to grant licenses to those now doing business, no matter what the individual opinion of members on the prohibition question, because all of the dealers now selling in this community have shown a proper respect for the morals of the entire section and have obeyed not only the letter but the spirit of the law. It is a difficult matter to conduct an orderly saloon. Whether that be a prohibition argument or not, it is true, and the men engaged in the whiskey business in Plainfield deserve credit for the few violations of the law which occur in their establishments. Not all the credit is due them. A part must be given city officials who rule these places with an iron hand, especially Chief Kiely and members of the police force who enforce the law irrespective of all forms of temptations. But there are enough saloons in Plainfield. Even the most ardent advocate of the liquor cause cannot argue that one who needs or even wants a drink must suffer. His thirst, however frequent or permanent, can be satisfied. Those that are here are under strict regulation and supervision and to permit the opening of more places would be to endanger not only the morals but the peace of the community. The Council has acted wisely.

BOBBIE BURNS' BIRTHDAY.

Sweet heather bells and Robert Burns,
The moorland flower and peasant.
How, at their mention, memory turns
Her pages, old and pleasant.
—John Greenleaf Whittier.

The years come and go, but celebrations of Robert Burns' birth go on forever. All over the world, wherever Scots gather, January 25 is a gala occasion in the year's calendar, for it was on that date, in a wee thatched cottage near the town of Ayr, that Burns first saw the light. It was then that, to quote Robert G. Ingersoll, "love's sweetest bard was born."

In America, good Scottish-Americans (with apologies for the hyphen, but there are no better or more loyal citizens of the Republic) and their descendants and friends take no back seat when it comes to a question of fittingly recognizing the event. The celebrations will cover the entire week in some cities, so that the enthusiasts may attend several gatherings in honor of the bard.

These Burns celebrations are surely great occasions. Braw lads and lassies galore are there to enjoy the merriment and the dance; the more sedate turn out for the musical feast and to meet the old acquaintances and make new ones. Kilts and tartans are distinctly in evidence, no matter if the weather be a bit chilly. Everybody enjoys the grand old songs and ballads, and the wheeze of the bag-pipes.

There is probably no poet or writer in the world whose birthday anniversary is made so much of as that of Robert Burns. He was one of the common people, and wrote for them. Though born in humble circumstances, and though poverty dogged him most of his life, there was no poverty in his mental and physical make-up, and he gave the Scots a precious legacy.

It is seldom that a national weekly, even one with the courage of Puck, and its ostentatious contempt for public opniion which is but a clever way of advertising, has the audacity to pick a Republican nominee so far before the convention, but the handwriting is clearly seen even by the anti-Roosevelt howlers. According to an editorial in Puck the Republican ticket will not be Republican, but Republican-Progressive, and the nominees will be Roosevelt and Whitman. As the Progressives were Republicans in the original and fell out only when they could no longer hold back to the pace of the party this means the complete surrender of the old guard, if true. As Puck points out, where are the Republicans who will stand against those who are clamoring for the Colonel. Roosevelt and Whitman! Letter writers, perhaps, but doers first.

There should be some logic even in a political argument, although that is the last place one would look for it. In an address in Fort Lee Saturday evening the Hon. E. C. Stokes, former governor and Republican candidate for the nomination for United States Senator from New Jersey, denounced President Wilson and all his policies in the following words:

It's time there was a change, for President Wilson's recent slogan, "America First," is a hollow mockery. We are a peaceful nation and don't want war, but as civilization is still barbaric and treaties were scraps of paper it behooves us to prepare ourselves against aggressors.

He must find something better than preparedness to differ with Wilson on if he wants to get away from the thousands of calamity howlers who spring up out of the Republican ranks every four years.

Europe, too, is having a short season of pretty weather, for reports from there for the past forty-eight hours have, for the most part, been given over to raids of air fighting machines. These men who use the winds of the heavens to blow their poisonous gases and their deadly man-made aerial bomb carriers will soon invent some way to spread murder through the lullaby of a mother to her babe.

Congressman Cyclone Davis, of Texas, had never worn a tie until he came to the Capitol. If Washington has such an evil influence on him what would happen if he ever visited Broadway?

Comstock's successor announces that he will make New York a city to be respected by the transient. The city that the transient respects he seldom visits.

Negro who found $700 on Somerset street will probably spend it all on railroad fare trying to get away from the owner.

After the Ford peace party it must be restful for Europe to entertain Col. House.

"Old Stuff"

He wore a bored, world-weary look
As though life were a thrice-read book.
At everything he heard or saw
He hid a yawn, with lifted paw,
And said: "Old stuff!"

The movie-film that charmed the rest
He saw without a trace of zest.
He'd read it all in "Photoplay";
So he just glanced, then looked away,
And sighed: "Old stuff!"

Yet he kept breathing; ate and slept;
Laughed when compelled to—sometimes wept;
All, all old stuff, as you'll admit;
Then died—oldest of all of it.
There's no new stuff!

February

This month that comes next is a queer card. It is understood that it came back at the calendar man with an awful bawl-out, when it counted its days and found itself from two to three days short. It threatened to expose the whole calendar as a frame-up if it wasn't compensated in some way.

The calendar man was in a deuce of a fix. He didn't dare to take any of the days back that he had handed the others, so he made it up to February in holidays and notable events.

He gave her ground-hog day, Lincoln's Birthday, St. Valentine's Day, Washington's Birthday and, once in four years, an extra day that would call attention to her and keep her in the spot-light forevermore.

Strange!

The fat lady had forced herself out past a throng of on-coming passengers, through the entrance-passage of the pay-as-you-enter car.

The conductor's objurgations were loud and long, as he glared after her waddling form.

"She got in wrong by getting out wrong," remarked the wise observer.

Pullman Cars and Woman's Suffrage

Among the first things emancipated woman should tackle is the Pullman rolling sleepery.

They are built by men, for men.

They have a much larger dressing-room for men than for women, and two or three hens can have worse ocular fights in one of those rooms, when they both want to shift from kimona to disguise at one time, than in any other place.

Then, supposing a woman doesn't want to retire at early candle light!

The porter will make up her berth unless forcibly restrained, and then where is she to sit?

Hubby goes to the men's smoking room and tells stories more or less Rapelaisian, or listens to worse ones, but wifey must crawl into that berth, or sit on the edge of it and have her toes trampled off.

The Pullman sleeper is, without doubt, the worst enemy woman has, (and should and by heck will) be reformed as soon as a female member of the Inter-State Commerce Commission has been appointed.

That Troublesome Gall-Sac

INFLAMMATIONS of the gall-sac, like inflammations of that other useless organ the appendix, vary from the mild low grade conditions which scarcely drive the patient to the doctor, to the most fulminating attacks of acute cholecystitis terminating in abscess or general peritonitis.

The typhoid bacillus, entering through the bile duct from the bowel, is one of the commonest causes of gall-sac inflammation and gallstones, the trouble perhaps coming several years after the typhoid fever.

The colon bacillus, present in a supposedly tame or civilized form in the normal bowel, is another common cause of cholecystitis (inflammation of the gall-sac) and eventually perhaps of gallstones.

Insufficient exercise, overeating, corsets, constipation and the cathartic habit must be mentioned as contributing causes.

When gall-sac inflammation has been producing "indigestion" or "dyspepsia" or pain or distress high in the abdomen for a considerable time, and when the condition has been recognized and treated dietetically and medicinally without avail, then it is time to consider the advisability of operative treatment.

This is the more important in view of the fact that cancer is liable to develop in such a case if the trouble is not cleared up.

Adhesions binding the gall-sac to neighboring structures occasionally cause chronic pain or distress in the upper abdomen for years following some inflammatory attack. Such a condition could be relieved only by surgery.

The gall-sac is a blind reservoir with a capacity of about an ounce of bile. It stores the bile secreted by the liver in excess of immediate digestive demands. Its removal in no way alters digestion or health, so far as can be determined.

It lies just underneath the abdominal wall and the edge of the liver, at the level of the ninth and tenth rib cartilages, about three inches west of the pit. In an exploratory operation it is the easiest thing imaginable to find, even easier than the appendix. Its rich greenish-yellow color is striking.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Accidental Relief Of Hay Fever

You suggested tincture of iodine as a household antiseptic. Do you advise painting the wound with pure iodine? Your suggestion to use boric acid solution as a gargle has done me more good for a bronchial cough following hay fever than anything I ever tried—and I'm a mighty poor hand at writing testimonials! I applied it in the form of a spray.

Answer—No Charge, since we can't see how it would help, gargle or spray. Use the official U. S. P. Tincture of Iodine, diluted with an equal amount of pure grain alcohol.

DOGS

THE DOG is an appendage which was given man in place of a tail. Wherever man is found there also the dog is found following faithfully behind. Man is as necessary to a dog as a dog is to fleas. On man the dog lives and in man he places his hope and confidence, his love and his foolish faith. Follow any dog in any country until his meal time and you will find a man. You may not be sure of a meal yourself when you find the man, but the dog is.

The Creator in His wisdom has seen fit to make several hundred kinds of dogs. Some of these kinds are useful. Man has invented a use for many other varieties. Science, which conquers and understands almost all things earthly, has as yet been unable to discover any reason for the existence of the rest.

There are vast differences in detail between various kinds of dogs, but in essentials they are the same. The dog consists of a bark and a tail connected by a body of varying size, shape and color. A dog's tail is a sort of an auxiliary tongue and assists him greatly in conversation, just as a Frenchman's arms add to his eloquence.

Dogs are air-cooled and remain comfortable in summer by opening their faces, hanging their tongues over the dashboard and panting industriously. They vary strangely in numbers. Just before the assessor makes his rounds there are very few dogs in existence, but during the full moon the whole world is convulsed with dogs. They can be bought for prices varying from 25 cents to $10,000, depending upon the foolishness of the purchaser.

The uses of dogs are widely varied. In the Arctic regions the dog takes the place of an automobile. In Belgium he is a dray horse. In England he is a hunter, in Switzerland a life-saver and in Germany a member of the standing army. In Scotland he is used by the shepherd as a substitute for brains. In the Southern States he is a detective and in China he is a dessert. In New York and Paris, however, the dog attains his greatest usefulness. In these cities he is one of the mediums by which the money of the unnaturally rich is separated from them and is restored to the channels of trade. It is possible to spend $5,000 a month on a dog in either city and yet to discover at almost any time that the poor little thing hasn't a rag to wear.

1916—Civilization's Hope

NEVER IN THE HISTORY of the race has mankind entered upon a new year with such a strange, tragic commingling of both hope and fear as that which agitates the soul of humanity this first day of January.

The awful cataclysm that has made the departing year the most appalling in all the recorded past forces the new twelvemonth to begin its career with half the world at war and with the possibility that the other half may become involved in the colossal conflict. There is a lurking fear in the hearts of men that the struggle to preserve what is left of civilization may entail even greater and more costly sacrifices than have yet been demanded for its preservation. There is also in their hearts the hope that the very enormity of the crime that the race has already committed against its higher self may bring a world peace within the range of possibility before the new year has grown old.

The events of the last year have forced upon thinking men the conviction that what we roughly call civilization is still in its infancy. It is a germ of slow growth and a few thousand years have given it but little strength, much less making it a sturdy plant that can withstand the stress of sudden storms.

The decrees of a few mistaken men may overthrow for a time the civilization of a whole continent and jeopardize the civilization of the world at large. By this is meant that by no sophisticated jugglery of words can it be made to appear that civilization and warfare can co-exist. The phrase "civilized warfare" has been shown to the world of late as a contradiction of terms that would be ludicrous if it were not reminiscent of horrors that bring the blush of shame to the cheeks of every lover of the human race.

War must be eliminated as a recurrent evil among modern nations, or all the lofty dreams that the race has cherished for ages will come to naught. Mankind must make its choice presently between the road that leads to chaos and the road that makes toward the millennium.

But let not the American pacifist deceive himself. There is an eternal conflict between War and Civilization, but the conservation of the latter depends largely upon the preservation of this country's influence in the council of the nations.

If we take no heed of the fate that has befallen Belgium, Serbia, Armenia and China, if we remain weak, defenseless, a temptation to the predatory strong, the hope that tempers the fear in the hearts of men to-day will be weakened, and perhaps even changed to despair.—New York Sun.

Clever Animal Criminals

Boschat, a youth of eighteen, went into a grocer's shop in a suburb of Paris, and asked for some sugar. The shopkeeper, turning to get the article, was horribly startled by the sight of a large black crow sitting on a shelf, with its head on one side and its beady eyes fixed on him.

He made a rush to catch the bird, but it flapped away to the top of some cases, cawing loudly. Eluding a further effort to seize it, the crow flew out of the door, Boschat after it.

It was not until bird and owner both had gone that the poor grocer found that his till had been rifled.

Paris is a favorite centre for the thief who uses animals as accomplices. About a year ago a foreign-looking man, rather flashily dressed, entered a jeweler's shop in the Rue de la Paix, and asked to be shown some rings. A tray was placed before him, but he asked for another.

The shop attendant turned to get it. The man did not move; but, as it happened, there was a mirror in the opposite wall behind the counter, put there for the special purpose of detecting thieves. In this the attendant saw a tiny brown head poked out of the customer's pocket; then a long, thin, spidery arm flashed out, seized two rings and vanished.

The attendant touched an electric bell, which summoned help, and man and monkey were both arrested. The man turned out to be a Mexican. He had been travelling with a menagerie, had stolen the monkey, and taught the little animal to pick up any articles which its owner had previously touched with his fingers. His lodgings were full of stolen lace and jewelry.

A jeweler in Budapest was asked by a customer to procure two fine diamonds, and obtained them from Amsterdam at a price of £1,000 ($5,000) to the pair. The customer was examining them in a private room, when the jeweler was called away.

When he returned, a few moments later, the customer was sitting in his chair, but the stones had disappeared. A dectective was sent for, but customer and room both were searched in vain.

The jeweler then noticed a small dog under the table and it suddenly occurred to him that the creature must have swallowed the stones. In spite of the indignant remonstrances of the customer, the dog was taken to a veterinary and poisoned, and when the body was cut open, sure enough, the brilliants were in its stomach.

Suffering Cats!

A lawsuit in New York over a $30,000 bequest to a London "Cats' House" has brought out testimony that two elderly spinsters of London, one on a bicycle, and the other on a tricycle, each with a basket, searched parks and alleys of the English capital and collected 479,000 stray cats in fifteen years. So many cats were captured that it was necessary to hire a house where they were either fed to sleekness and farmed out, or put to death with chloroform!—Boston Globe.

The Higher Cow Culture

In Wisconsin it has been found that cows provided with tasteful and beautiful surroundings are far more productive than the ordinary cow of the cowyard and stanchels.

When first our cow, once strong and hale
And buoyant with the joy of living,
Began, along last spring, to fail,
It filled us all with black misgiving.
For cows, when grass grows rank and green,
Should give their minds to getting fatter;
And when they're wan and sad of mien
There's something serious the matter.

The vets suggested change of food
And restfulness and calm and quiet,
But still she seemed to droop and brood
Despite the rest and altered diet.
At last one day, bowed down in gloom
And with her heart like lead within her,
She wandered in the dining-room,
Where we were sitting down to dinner.
She looked about her with delight
And sighed with deep appreciation.
(Our furniture is Hepplewhite,
Nice, tasteful stuff—though imitation.)
She viewed the paintings on the wall
Serene, attentive and quiescent,
And one who knew the cow at all
Could see that she was convalescent.

And now she has her own boudoir
Of tile and marble, brightly furnished;
And all her gentle sisters are Supplied with cells as nicely furnished.
They all are sleek and happy-eyed,
Their gratitude they cannot utter;
But since their souls are satisfied
We're simply swamped with cream and butter.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How the Squeegee Visited a Little Boy Named Dick.

"There's no telling who I am," it said.

"ONCE upon a time," daddy began when Jack wanted a story, "there was a little boy by the name of Dick, who went to the zoo one day. He became interested in all the different animals, and some of the dreadful looking creatures frightened him a little bit. He was still thinking about some of them when his mamma tucked him snugly in bed and kissed him good night just before he tumbled off to sleep. But his mamma forgot to pull down the shade of the window, so that a great white sheet of moonbeams lay across his room like a beautiful path into dreamland."

"He wasn't afraid, was he?" asked Evelyn bravely.

"Not a bit. He was only much interested with thoughts of his wonderful day at the zoo. And while he was looking at the moonbeam a tiny little speck appeared upon it, growing larger and larger, as if some object were coming. After a bit Dick saw that it was some sort of a live creature, its spidery little legs twinkling in the air like the quick, graceful strides of a skater coming to him. And it came so near that Dick sat right up in bed and thought, 'Oh, it will bump itself right into the window pane!'

"But it didn't. It sailed right through the glass and lit on the bed in front of him. Then Dick saw that it was a funny little elf come to visit him. The little chap wasn't more than six inches high and had the drollest face, all wizened up like a baked apple. His mouth was screwed up in the quaintest smile, and he waved his queer little fur cap and bowed, with 'Hello, boy!'

"'Good evening, sir,' Dick replied politely. 'Who are you?'

"'There's no telling who I am,' said the funny little thing. 'But for the present you may call me Squeegee. That's my proper name, in fact. I have other names not so proper. But I don't happen to have one of my cards with me and can't remember more than thirty or forty of my names. Squeegee will do for you.' And his little grin robbed his words of any rudeness.

"'Dear me!' cried Dick, much interested. 'I haven't got but two names.'

"'Never mind,' said the Squeegee comfortingly. 'You're young yet. People will call you all sorts of names some day, you'll find.'

"'But Squeegee is so funny!' said Dick. 'Do tell me where you got it.'

"Little Squeegee sat down on the edge of the bed in the friendliest fashion. 'Well, I was the youngest of a family of ninety-five, and my mother had used up every other name. So I had to take it or go without. Now really, 'tisn't so bad, do you think?' asked Squeegee anxiously. But just as Dick was going to like it the elf turned the funniest little somersault and danced a jig on one of the patterns of Dick's bedquilt. So that Dick laughed heartily and held out his hand," daddy finished.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

A Pleasant Honeymoon, but What Has the Future in Store?

With a face alight with joy, Ortrude Townsend opened the door of the handsome new house that her husband had fitted up for his bride. It had been a good month, this month of her honeymoon. She had thoroughly enjoyed her stay in the expensive hotels. The experience was new; the deferential treatment of the servants satisfied her inborn desire to rule every one about her. There was no use denying that her costly clothes enhanced her proud beauty and she thrilled with pride when she felt the admiring glances that followed her rather spectacular entrance into the dining room. The month had been happy for Jacob Townsend also. He knew that he was giving his bride pleasure; he even dreamed that she was beginning to care for him; her manner was certainly gracious. Then every man enjoys seeing his wife create a sensation.

The housekeeper who had served the household for years met her at the door and asked if it would be convenient to serve the dinner in half an hour.

"Oh, yes," said Ortrude airily. "We will not dress for dinner tonight."

"That's good." Mrs. Tupper made a wry face. "We always dress for breakfast in this house."

Mr. Townsend, who was bringing in the suitcases, heard the reply and laughed.

"I wonder at you, Mr. Townsend. I do not intend to permit any such familiarity in my servants." Ortrude swept disdainfully into the parlor.

Her husband carried the suitcases on up the stairs and she heard his hearty greeting of Dudley and Marian. When he came down again he entered the parlor and softly closed the door behind him.

"I want to warn you, dear," he began, constainedly, "that you cannot treat Mrs. Tupper as you did the hotel servants, and keep her." Ortrude tossed her head. "She is very competent help. In fact, I know of no one else in town who has such help——"

"Don't say 'help,' Mr. Townsend; it sounds so countryfied," interrupted his wife.

Jacob's face flushed. He was silent for a minute, then continued:

"You would find it very disagreeable to do your own work, or to break in new help." He said the word distinctly. "You see we are not in the city and had better be content to remain countryfied if we do not want to live in a class by ourselves."

Again Ortrude tossed her head and said nothing.

"Besides," he continued in a caressing tone, "don't you think we are well enough acquainted by this time so that you can call me by my given name?"

"I do not like the name of Jacob." Ortrude was looking at her perfectly manicured hands. "It sounds so—Jewish."

Her husband rose and walked to the window, and stood looking out into the summer night.

"What is your middle name?" asked Ortrude when the silence began to be oppressive.

"Carhill."

"And you lived; how robust you must be," laughed his wife.

"I must get ready for dinner," she said, rising. Jacob said nothing.

When she came downstairs the children were in the parlor and came forward to shake hands.

"Dinner is all on the table," announced Mrs. Tupper from the hall.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

Before you have followed the plan of reading the ads for very long you become an EDUCATED judge of values. This education must be kept up to the hour.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

Minneapolis—Quite the plackiest woman in Minnesota is Dr. Maria Sanford, professor emeritus of the University of Minnesota. She recently returned from a speaking tour, undertaken in her seventy-ninth year, which she completed with the aid of a wheel-chair. She fell on the ice on New Year's Day, in Connecticut, and was unable to walk. But she refused to cancel her speaking engagements, and appeared in all save three out-of-the way places, where she had promised to speak. Dr. Sanford has been teaching for over a half century, retiring some six years ago from the chair of rhetoric and elocution at the University of Minnesota. She has traveled extensively since her retirement, her great desire to educate and aid others overcoming all the infirmities of age.

Washington—Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the President, who is recovering from an operation in Philadelphia, has given to the Bulgarian Training School for Nurses the thousand dollars which she earned by singing into phonographs. Her voice has been heard by many Americans in this way, and her royalties she is accepting for the good she can do with the money. The money was turned over to the American Red Cross, which in turn applied it to the Bulgarian Training School at Sofia, started two years ago at the request of the Queen of Bulgaria.

New York—It is said that Mary Pickford, who is so popular among followers of the silent drama, is becoming one of the wealthiest actresses in America. Rumor has it that she cleared $200,000 above her expenses last year, and during 1916 will share in the profits of the concern that makes her films. No girl in America is more discussed, and few of our American actresses have ever risen to the popularity of this "girl of the screen."

Detroit—Transforming the work of the salesgirl from a transient "job" to an educated profession, a work in which the big stores and schools of many cities are co-operating, is the movement that has brought to Detroit Mrs. Lucinda Wyman Prince, of Boston. Mrs. Prince is founder and director of the Boston School of Salesmanship, and has been made head of a new educational department of the National Retail Dry Goods Association. Her present trip takes her to Ann Arbor, Grand Rapids, Duluth, Minneapolis, Des Moines, Kansas City, Toledo and Cleveland. In each of these citiess she is co-operating with the commercial organizations in the work of building up this educational department, so that the salesgirls will be led to better things and the stores may be supplied with more able, consciencious and educated young women. The Boards of Education of the various cities Mrs. Prince will visit, will be told of the plans worked out in the schools of Boston, whereby nine high schools are preparing girls for salesmanship.

New York—America is again entertaining Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the famous leader of the London Militants. She will speak in many American cities, this time for philanthropy. Mrs. Pankhurst has been one of the British Government's most ardent supporters in the matter of enlistment since the war began. The force of her personality made the suffrage question an important issue throughout Britain, and it required nerve and iron will to go through what she did for "the cause." Now that the enlistment problem is solved in England, she comes here to help to raise funds for Servia and its stricken people.

Atlanta—One of Georgia's fairest daughters, Miss Georgia Atkinson, daughter of the late Governor William Y. Atkinson, is soon to become a "movie" star. For years she has been a student of the drama. She was in Paris when the war broke out, and was forced to return home to continue her studies. She is singularly fitted for the screen, on account of her blond beauty, symmetry of features and charm of personality.

You Touch a Magic Button When You Become a "Want Advertiser."

Our day is the day of "touching buttons."

A President presses a button in Washington, and a titanic explosion thousands of miles away, weds the two great seas.

We are fond, nowadays, of accomplishing big effects with simple processes.

And so the "button-pressing" magic applies to the "little things" of life, as well as to the big episodes.

When you become a "want advertiser" you press a MAGIC BUTTON—and the influence is felt in the homes and business places of the city.

Your quest becomes of interest to the people who are able to help you accomplish it.

If you seek work, and "press the button" of Plainfield Daily Press want advertising publicity, your quest becomes one of personal interest to the people who need you. The same law operates in the working out of every "want ad task."

For classified advertising makes the whole city your market; makes the right people your audience; delivers your message to all people to whom it could have any interest or importance.

Tonight—Plainfield at Rahway.

Newark practically clinched the Eagles' League championship last night, when the present title holders won two games on their own alleys from Elizabeth. The leaders have only one match left to roll, and they are several games out in front. Elizabeth has a slim chance to tie the pace-setters. The Betsytowners can accomplish the feat by winning all their remaining six games with Somerville, while Newark loses all of its remaining three games with the same team.

In last night's series both teams put up their highest tally of the season in the first game, which Newark won, 981 to 922. Elizabeth fell to 769 in the second game, Newark winning. With the champions needing only the last game to put the championship beyond all doubt, they returned a paltry 780, the Union County Birds winning with a total of 831.

The Rambler bowling team, of this city, was outclassed by the Somerville Somersets, on Roller's alleys, at that place, last night.

MISS GOOD EXHIBITS HER FORMER ABILITY

P. H. S. Captain Plays Best for First Time, and Downs Roselle.

With Irma Good playing in her old time form for the first time this season, the Plainfield High School girls' basketball team took an easy game here yesterday from the Roselle High School girls by an 18 to 9 verdict. All the locals' points were made by the Red and Blue captain, with the exception of one foul that Miss Mary Simmons, who appeared on the floor for the first time this season, made.

The first half was fairly even and ended with a tie at 6 to 6. Miss Good chalked up three pretty baskets, and one basket by Miss Apgar, accompanied by four fouls, gave the Roselle maidens an even chance to cop the game. In the last period Miss Good caged five baskets and a foul in close succession, but the local guards played such a close game that Miss Apgar, the star Roselle forward, could only make one point, and that from the foul line, while Miss Meyers managed to make one goal from the field.

Bits of teamwork cropped out at intervals in the locals' play, and the guarding was so good that only two baskets were made by their opponents in the entire game.

CO. M FIVE AT P. H. S. TONIGHT

Crack Somerville Combination Will Play Recreations—Other Attractions.

Company M basketball players will come here tonight to play the Recreation Five on the Plainfield High School court. The Somerville team is probably the best that has showed here this winter, and while the Recreation bunch will have to travel at a fast clip to earn brackets of the citizen soldiers, the calibre of the visiting aggregation will doubtless attract a sizeable throng to the Ninth street gym.

It is also expected to have a girls' game tonight, and the double bill will be followed by a short dance.

When the Recreations clashed with Company M in the Somerville armory a short time ago, the Plainfielders were smeared, but they undoubtedly will give a better account of themselves on their home court.

The Ricketss clan will have Dallas and Smith back in the line-up. The teams will probably take the floor as follows:

Co. M.	Recreation Five.
Kershaw	Ricketts
Wittenbert	Dallas

Van Pelt	Marston

PLAINFIELD EAGLES SHOOT AT M'CARTNEY'S TONIGHT

Plainfield Eagles will tonight serve the hardest sentence on their schedule. They will have to bowl on McCartney's historically hard alleys over in Rahway. The 866 Aerie boys wrenched off three wins when they met Rahway here in December, and if they should garner three tonight on Pat's strips, they will be the wonders of the bowling world.

LEAD IN FIRST HALF, 18-0; LOSE IN SECOND HALF, 38-20

A team of Y. M. C. A. boys was defeated by the Athenian Recreation five last night, in the Plainfield High School by the score of 39-20.

The Athenians' second team started the game, but was unable to hold the Y. M. C. A. boys, who scored at will, the half ending 18-0.

Coach Rosenson sent in his first string men at the beginning of the second period, which proved the undoing of Brandt's aggregation. The Athenians dropped them in from all angles, and when the whistle sounded to end the game, they had run up a total of 39 points, while the Y. M. C. A. boys were able to account for only two fouls.

P. H. S. SCRUBS WIN OVER N. P. H. S. BOYS

Game Close in First Half; Losers Basketless in the Second Period.

In an uninteresting contest, the Plainfield High School second team defeated the second team of North Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon, in Saengerbund Hall, by the score of 26 to 16. Both factions played a loose article of the indoor pastime, the city boys slightly outplaying their rivals.

In the first period both teams displayed better form, and the contest assumed an interesting aspect. Two points separated the two teams at the conclusion of the first session, and the rivalry was keen.

In the final period both contingents grew careless and played indifferently, resorting to long shots. The borough lites were able to add only two fouls to their total of the first half, while P. H. S. aggregated eight more points. Numerous fouls were called by Referee Linke, especially on the North Plainfield combination.

McDowell led the scoring attack of the Red and Blue team with four baskets and five fouls, while La Porte greatly aided his team.

TWO BASKETBALL GAMES AT P. H. S. TOMORROW EVENING

Basketball games between colored teams will be played in the Plainfield High School gym tomorrow night. The girls from College Town lost here last year by two points. There will be dancing in the school auditorium after the games.

The Eagles opened their City Bowling League schedule last night by winning the rubber game of a series on the Columbus Club chutes. The Birds are now tied with the Imperials for first place, the Knights and Tabs being on even terms at the other end of the standing.

None of the games last night was close. The homesters led all the way in the opener, finishing 112 pins to the good, with a total of 902. The Eagles, after spending the first game in finding the alleys, knocked the bottles in all directions in the last two games, and won easily with marks of 928 and 907.

Harry Radin, who always hits well on the Columbus Club drives, turned in marks of 227 and 202. His mark of 227, made in the second game, is the highest score of the league so far. George Taylor, the Knights' anchor, threatened the new record when he stopped at 226 in the third game.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

One of the added attractions that will be presented at Proctor's Theatre tomorrow evening is the famous weekly bazaar. The management has taken special care this week and promises a bazaar that will outdo any of its predecessors. They have acquired a whole wagon-load of gifts and will also introduce a comedy surprise. The Triangle plays shown today and tomorrow are masterpieces of their particular kind, the dramatic production being the second of D. W. Griffith's historical dramas entitled, "The Penitents." This is an intensely absorbing and also an educational picture dealing with that fanatical sect known as "The Penitents" of New Mexico during the early part of the seventeenth century. The leading roles in this production are enlivened by Orrin Johnson, the distinguished Broadway favorite, who makes his debut on these reels in this feature, and Seena Owen, the petite and accomplished bit of femininity. The Keystone comedy is entitled "The Hunt," and introduces Ford Sterling as genial delineator of German hoedy roles, in a new part, that of negro footman. Mr. Sterling is to be complimented upon his versatility. The vaudeville entertainment is headed by The Five Immigrants, who are sent a charming operetta, which is greatly enhanced by the beautiful scenic and lighting effects. Harry Meehan is a witty chap and keeps the spectators in a jolly mood by his rendition of new and original witticisms. Ollie Hollis, a dainty comedienne, seems to be at home in both the vocal and elocutionary fields and presents a splendid offering. "A Submarine Pirate," the greatest comedy ever produced, will be presented as a special attraction at Proctor's on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. It is a four reel Keystone Triangle play. Syd Chaplin, a member of the famous Chaplin family, is seen in the leading role and a United States submarine and gunboat, as well as a large ocean going steamship, all play a prominent part. The school children will be greatly interested in this feature also, for besides the many other good points, it shows a submarine in actual operation, rising, submerging, the works of the periscope and even the firing of torpedoes.

NEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.—Adv.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable druggist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

PROTEST AGAINST PREPAREDNESS

Society of Friends Sends Petition to Members of Congress.

At a recent meeting of the local branch of the Religious Society of Friends the following argument against preparedness was ordered signed an sent to representatives of this district in Congress:

In view of the present agitation and propaganda for a large increase in the military and naval strength of our country, the Society of Friends, through its representative body, respectfully presents to you the following memorial.

From its inception this society has believed that all war is unrighteous, and that military service is contrary to the teaching and the life of Christ; that it is the duty of nations, as it is of individuals, to practice Christianity by basing their actions on justice, good will and love, which alone can heal the social and economic diseases of mankind. In maintaining this faith many Friends in the past have suffered imprisonment, loss of property, sickness and death, and, we believe, many today would not shrink from similar sacrifice if it were required. It is not, therefore, a lack of courage, or an easy security that prompts our appeal, but rather a patriotism that includes the welfare of all the nations of mankind, and an abiding faith in the ultimate victory of human brotherhood. We are willing to sacrifice more than war would call for in the interests of peace.

Basing our plea on this broad Christian ground, we would briefly state some other considerations against committing our country to a policy of military expansion.

1. Advocates of "preparedness" urge national defense as the only justification for their program. Aggressive warfare by the United States is inconceivable, unless the temper of

TRUSTEES ELECTED BY CAMP ENDEAVOR

Conference of Young People is Marked by Many Interesting Features.

About two hundred Endeavorers gathered in the First Presbyterian church last evening to enjoy a supper and elect three trustees for the coming year, also to hear the reports of of the various committee for the past year. During the supper hour Miss Adele Freeman entertained with a vocal solo entitled "Paradise." Lambert Smith, of Elizabeth, also rendered a number of vocal selections.

Fred Lounsberry was elected chairman of the meeting. The minutes of the last meeting, by Miss Lucy Coriell, was followed by the reading of the various reports. The house committee reported that 6,039 meals were served to the children, and with the visitors, counted a total of 7,360 meals were served. The treasurer's report showed a deficit of about $700.

Miss Jennie Stoddard, matron of the camp, gave an interesting talk about the work being carried on at the camp. She was assisted by several young girls, who read letters received from the children, thanking the matron for her kindness to them during their stay at the camp, also asking if they could come again next summer. Suggestions for next year were called for. Members of the societies responded, telling their experiences they had raising money for the camp.

Dr. H. Potter, of Elizabeth, is to be thanked for his service to the camp. Also due credit is to be given Jesse Lounsberry, who erected the swings, and the First Prtsbyterian Y. P. S. C. E. for the supper they prepared and served. During the evening songs were sung to the tune of "Tipperary" and "The Battle Hymn of theRepublic."

The following trustees were elected: From Rahway, Cranford or vicinity, Frederick L. Mintell; from the county at large, J. Duer Randolph, Miss Edna Schmidt and G. L. Minguse. They were elected for a term of three years.

At a meeting in the near future officers for the coming year will be elected.

SECRETARY LYNN TO SPEAK.

SEE AUTO FIRE ENGINE TESTED

Chief Doane and Councilman Graves Are Much Impressed.

Chef T. O. Doane and Councilman Charles C. Graves, a member of the fire committe, spent yesterday in West Point, N. Y., where they witnessed a demonstration and test of a new automobile fire engine. The test was held under the care of the United States Government. It was witnessed by fire chiefs and city officials from all parts of this section. Chief Hennery, motor vehicle expert of the New York fire department, was one of the interested spectators.

The engine used was a late model Waterous apparatus, motor driven and motor pump. Its guaranteed capacity is 750 gallons a minute, but it did better than this during the entire test, and at times pumped better than 1,000 gallons a minute. Every possible test arranged by experts of the United State Government was met in a satisfactory manner, and Chief Doane and Councilman Graves were much impressed with the demonstration of fire-fighting machinery.

A pleasant feature of the trip for the local officials was the renewing of an old acquaintance. Richard Overland, a Plainfield man, who operated a garage at the corner of Fifth and Watchung here, after serving one enlistment in the United States army, was in charge of the exhibition for the government. He is again in the service, and is in charge of the motor aparatus for the government at this station. As soon as he recognized Chief Doane and Councilman Graves, he took personal charge of them, and made their visit an enjoyable as well as a profitable one. They were permitted to ride with him when the big motor engine was taken on a ten-mile hill climbing test. This trip settled forever the question as to the advisability of using chains on motor fire apparatus as far as the two local officials were concerned. On the trip the big engine was stalled in a snowdrift, without chains, but when the chains were put on it ploughed through snow banks and mud as though on a paved roadway.

While no official action has been taken as to the purchase of new fire apparatus for the city, it is understood that officials are now considering moving the big truck at headquarters to the Netherwood station, where it will be equipped with a motor-driven tractor, and the purchase of a new combination chemical and truck for the downtown section. This apparatus would be able to answer calls in al sections of the city.

NEEDY FAMILIES WILL BE HELPED

Final Report of Community Christmas Committee Shows Balance of $674.08.

Plainfield's Community Santa Claus spent $755.73 bringing actual Christmas cheer to 948 youngsters and their families last month, according to the report of Treasurer DeWitt Hubbell, submitted to a meeting of the committee held at the Y. M. C. A. last night. Of this sum the largest part went for toys and clothing for the children,, but there were liberal purchases of coal and groceries for several of the families aided. The total receipts for the year, $1,418.81, leaving a cash balance of $674.08 on hand after all the Christmas bills were paid.

The balance will be used as was that of 1914, for the relief of special cases, which may be brought to the attention of a committee named last night, who will investigate all extraordinary claims for helps, and try to relieve the want. Teis committee consists of Chairman Richard A. Claybrook, Treasurer DeWitt Hubbell, Charles A. Rice, Frederick E. Smith, George H Batchelor and Walter H. P. Veysey.

During the evening a vote of thanks was given to Chairman Claybrook and heads and members of the various committees, as well as the Plainfield Daily Press and Plainfield Courier-News. It was also voted that hearty thanks be expressed to the contributors of money who so generously made the good work possible, and to Thomas R. Van Boskerck for flour and Mrs. L. M. Booth and Mrs. Horace G. Phillips for candy.

In making the report for the distribution committee, Committee Walter H. P. Veysey stated that "the happiness shown by the recipients of the Christmas gifts was equalled by the pleasure to those who actually delivered the packages and of those who assisted in the necessary preparation. The spirit so abundantly shown by everyone in connection with the work, and the generous response made in money by the community, more than justifies the continuance of the "Community Santa Claus" in the coming years. Mr. Veysey had the services of thirty-eight automobiles, and made distribution to 948 children in 269 families; sent flour to fortytwo families and a half-ton of coal to forty-seven families.

Mrs. W. H. Murray, as chairman of the committee in charge of the Christmas festival at Bonnie Burn Sanatorium, gave a brief but interesting report, telling of the cheer provided the patients at that place, which included the singing of carols by Miss Mary G. Runkle, and an address by Rev. Henry Mesier. S. T. Carter, Jr., played the role of Santa Claus, distributing 140 presents, fruit and candy. Toys were also given to children in response to many letters addressed to Santa Claus.

STOLE WIRE OFF WIRELESS STATION

Young Man Arrested on a Strange Charge Claims He Can Prove Alibi.

Some men achieve fame by steady effort and others have it thrust upon them by a fickle fate, but Louis Clementy took a chance on neither method. He went out and got famous in a single night.

Louis isn't credited with anything wonderful and he claims he is not guilty, but he is probably the first man in the world to be arrested for stealing the wire off a wireless station. Instead of offering the logical defense that a wireless station doesn't use wire, he insists that he can establish an alibi and when his case was heard in police court this morning, Judge De Meza gave the defendant until Saturday to secure proof of his innocence. John Hoffman, of West Front street, is the complainant. He had a wireless station at his residence and has missed several hundred feet of copper wire there recently. His son this morning identified Clementy as a man seen around the station a few days ago about the time some wire disappeared.

Capt. Flynn and Lieut. Higgins arrested the young man. Other members of the police force are watching the case with interest. They say that if Flynn and Higgins convict a man for stealing the wire off a wireless station all the crooks in Plainfield will get scared and run away.

ALL-DAY MEETING.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold an all-day sewing meeting tomorrow. Luncheon will be served in the church parlors at noon.

HARRY G. RUNKLE FILES AN APPEAL

Seeks to Get Entire Control of Estate of His Brother, Wm. Runkle.

Newark, Jan. 26.—Harry G. Runkle, of Plainfield, who was left about three-quarters of a million dollars through the will of his brother, William Runkle, of Orange, sometime ago, today filed an appeal in the Court of Errors, through his counsel, Griggs & Harding, from the final decree of November 3, 1915, which affirmed the decree of 1914 in the Essex County Orphans' Court, contesting the admission of the will to probate.

While under the provisions of the will Mr. Runkle would receive about three-quarters of a million, if he succeeds in having the wil set aside he would then be practically the sole heir to the $2,000,000 estate.

In a previous contest the courts decided that the name of William E. R. Smith, which appeared in the will as an executor over the name of Randolph Rodman, through which a line of ink was drawn, was substituted for that of Mr. Rodman after the will was drawn.

Mr. Smith took exception to this ruling and he has also filed an appeal from the court's ruling in this matter, making a double contest over the instrument. Mr. Runkle seeks to get control of the entire estate.

DEATH COMES TO DR. LIVERMORE

Well Known Divine Passes Away at Home of Daughter in Florida.

Rev. L. E. Livermore, aged 81, a former editor of the Sabbath Recorder and pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at New Market three times, died last Saturday at his winter home at Kissimmee, Florida. The telegram which was received to this effect from Mr. Livermore's wife did not state the cause of death. The news comes as a great shock to Mr. Livermore's many friends here. Only a few days ago, Rev. T. L. Gardner received a letter from Mr. Livermore in which he stated that he was feeling better than usual.

The deceased, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Manning Livermore, was born in Independence township, Alleghany county, N. Y., in 1835. He was a graduate of Alfred University and the Theological Seminary of Chicago University. Before entering the ministry he was principal of the De Ruyster Lnstitute in De Ruyster, N. Y., and the Walworth Academy at Walworth, Wisconsin.

His first pastorate was the Seventh-Day Baptist church at Mystic Bridge, Conn. Other churches of which he was pastor in order are. The Seventh-Day Baptist churches at Ostelic, N. Y., Wellsville, N. Y., Walworth, Wis., and New Market. His greatest work as a pastor was probably done at Walworth in the latter 70's and early 80's.

In the 90's he was president of the trustees of Alfred University, and he was also field secretary for that university for a number of years. He was editor of the Sabbath Recorder for seven years, preceding the late Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis. At one time he was secretary of the Seventh-Day Baptist Missionary Society.

The deceased was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic. He entered the 85th Regiment, N. Y. Vols., as a private upon the outbreak of the Civil War, and its close found him a lieutenant.

Mr. Livermore was one of seven college students who agreed 38 years ago to write each other a circular letter once every six months. The death of Mr. Livermore leaves Rev. L. T. Gardner as the last one of this group.

There survives besides his widow, Mrs. Ellen C. Williams Livermore, a daughter Mrs. William H. Satterlee, of California, and an adopted daughter, with whom the Livermores had made their winter home in Florida for the past ten years. Mr. and Mrs. Livermore's home residence has been at Lebanon, Conn., since Mr. Livermore resigned his last pastorate at New Market about 1903.

The Seventh-Day Baptist church will hold a memorial service on February 5.

LUSITANIA CASE FINALLY SETTLED

Count Bernstorff Says That An Agreement Has Been Reached.

n Washington, Jan. 26.—That the Lusitania question is approaching a final settlement was stated by the German ambassador after a conference with Secretary of State Lansing today. "The matter is all settled and is only a question of a single phrase. I think we will reach a final agreement in a few days," said Ambassador Von Bernstorff as he left Secretary Lansing's office. He appeared to be in a happy and optimistic frame of mind. He declared that he expected to communicate with his government today.

The reply of Great Britain to the recent American protest and mail seizures was received at the State Department today. With the American note, it will be made public Friday morning. It is understood that the British government meets the protest of Secretary Lansing in most respects, but reserves the right to interfere and inspect neutral mail under certain circumstances, particularly when it is believed it carries information to belligerent nations.

Drop Proposed Blockade.

The British government has virtually decided to "stand pat" on its present trade regulations and will make no announcement of a blockade of the entire German coast in Parliament this afternoon, the majority of well informed parliamentary writers agreed today. Only a few newspapers clung to the belief that the cabinet would announce a radical change of policy.

The net thrown about Germany by the existing regulations may be tightened in some respects. But it was the general belief of the London newspapers that the cabinet has decided against any revolutionary change in policy.

PARENT-TEACHER ASS'N HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING

The monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association, held in the Whittier School, yesterday afternoon, was marked by a record attendance of mothers. Considerable time was taken in discussing "order" in reference to children. W. C. O'Neil, one of the teachers, read an interesting article on the subject.

The matter of playgrounds for the schools was laid on the table for probable action during the spring. The committee on clothing is active in its work, having provided necessary shoes for needy children since the last meeting. At Christmas this committee made up six or seven bundles. These bundles were distributed by the teachers to needy families. They were greatly appreciated by the recipients, whose names are kept secret.

The question of a rest room for the teachers in each of the schools was discussed at length, but no definite action was taken upon the matter at yesterday's meeting.

Mrs. George T. Schenck was appointed the chairman of a committee to arrange something interesting for the next meeting of the organization.

EXPLAINS CAUSE FOR ADVANCE IN PRICES

To Contractor Charles Nonemaker the advance in building material is in itself a criterion of the expected boom, although he admits that the advance in the material is due to the scarity of labor for its manufacture. Mr. Nonemaker says the boom will be countrywide.

In speaking of the advance in the material, Mrs. Nonemaker said that brick which sold for $5.50 a thousand last year now brought $8.00 a thousand and could only be purchased from the large manufacturers for delivery after July. Lumber, Mr. Nonemaker said had advanced $8 a thousand feet since last May; sheathing $7.50 a thousand feet since last September; cement 40c a barrel since last July, and steel, the big advance in which is well known, can only be purchased on four months delivery.

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD.

Despite the all-around advance in the price of building material there is an opinion among local contractors that there will be a building boom in this vicinity with the advent of spring. Many a Plainfield Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove comforting words to hundreds of Plainfield readers.

Mrs. William E. Gardner, 322 East Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says. "I suffered a great deal from rheumatic pains across my back. My kidneys were weak and irregular in action, and I was in a miserable condition for months. Nothing I tried seemed to give me any relief until I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's Drug Store. They seemed to take hold at once, removing the rheumatic pains and regulating the action of my kidneys. They improved my condition so much that I soon felt like a different person."

WANT $1,200 FOR CONVENTION FUND

Committee Begins Campaign to Take Care of Letter Carriers.

A campaign to raise $1,200 for the entertainment of the annual convention of the New Jersey State Letter Carriers, which will be held in Plainfield on May 30, will be launched tomorrow, when letters are to be mailed to local people asking contributions to the fund.

Committees named from local commercial and civic associations to arrange details of the convention are united in the movement to raise the funds necessary and the publicitiy committee and general committee will co-operate in the efforts of the finance committee. It is believed that the $1,200 can be raised without personal solicitation, as every merchant in the city realizes that each dollar he gives will bring in many more in direct profits from the letter carriers. It is asked that any who desire to give send checks to Treasurer W. M. Floersch, whether they receive letters or not. Letters are to be mailed to a list prepared by members of the commitee and many who should give and are willing to give may be omitted from the list.

Members of the committees that are in charge of the local end of the convention follow:

General committee—A. E. Hoagland, chairman; Garret Keating, secretary; A. E. Force, D. W. Littell, T. C. Vail, J. J. Gaffney, P. H. Burns, A. F. LaRock, L. R. Fort, S. Rothberg, C. B. Repp, H. P. JUMPS IN ICY WATER BUT OFFICER GETS HIM

Somerville, Jan. 26.—William Jackson, a negro, was arrested at Cranberry, yesterday, by Constable D. W. Grove. Jackson is charged with stealing five saws, squares and other tools from the shop of William Breese at Monmouth Junction.

Constable Grove had an exciting chase after Jackson. He made a dash for the canal, jumped to the deck of a canal boat and then finding the officer close upon him, took a chance and jumped to the ice covered canal. The ice gave way and for a while the negro was fighting to get a hold on the fastly breaking ice. He was finally pulled ashore and brought to the Somerset county jail. He will be taken to Middlesex county.

Warden James Major gave the negro warm and dry clothes. Breese found the tools in Jackson's home near Kingston. He is married and has seven children.

THREE DAYS of DISPLAY

TO INTRODUCE THE

Mid-Winter Sale of Furniture

THURSDAY - FRIDAY - SATURDAY
JANUARY 27-28-29

ONE of the most notable developments in the greatly enlarged Lord & Taylor business, since the opening of the new building on Fifth Avenue, has been the volume of our transactions in Furniture.

The enormous success of our August Sale has encouraged greatly increased plans for February.

Only Furniture of the highest character in style and construction has been gathered; and while the prices that we shall be able to mark on the Furniture during the month of February will be most gratifying to home-furnishers, the chief distinction of the presentation will accrue by reason of the beauty and artistic refinement of the Furniture that will be offered at such liberal price concessions.

You may inspect this beautiful Furniture during the next three days, making your comparison of prices, quality and construction. Orders may be placed now, for delivery after February 1st, when

This Great Furniture Occasion Will Be in Full Swing

SAVE SENATORS ON LOCAL OPTION BILL

Clever Scheme is Seen in Introduction of Bill in House.

With the introduction of a local option bill in the Assembly, Monday night, there is seen a scheme that extends to the contest for Governor next fall, the plan being to avoid the necessity of having the Senate take a vote on the anti-liquor measure that has been introduced there by Senator Gaunt and is yet awaiting action. There are two candidates for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination in the Senate—Austen Colgate, of Essex, and Kalter E. Edge, of Atlantic. If they vote for the bill they will have the opposition of the liquor and allied interests; if they vote against the measure, they will have the opposition of the anti-liquor element.

Confronted with the prospect of deciding between the devil and the deep sea, it was suggested, some ingenious individual conceived the idea of having the Senate bill duplicated in the Assembly. The bill is practically sure of defeat in the House, and it was indicated that the plan was to have the committee on municipal corporations, to which the bill was referred, report it speedily so that it could be voted upon in the House before the Senate measure came up for action in that chamber.

With the bill defeated in the Assembly, it was pointed out, there would be more or less plausible ground for letting the Senate duplicate die in committee or on the desk of the President without ever being brought to a vote. The defeat in the House, it was figured, would be sufficient inducement for Senator Gaunt, sponsor for the bill, to accede to requests that he should not call up his bill.

Whether Senator Gaunt will agree to participate in the scheme is a question that today was somewhat vexed. It was pointed out, as possible, that if he refused to agree to let his bill remain unacted upon some of his particular pet measures might not receive so favorable treatment as they might if he was properly genial.

One bill in which Senator Gaunt is much interested is a bill to create a new State agricultural board. Another is the plan for the consolidation of the offices of the State road commissioner and of the motor vehicle department, the latter scheme calling for the appointing of a new head of the proposed department by a body of officials so constituted that Governor Fielder probably will be the only Democrat on it.

The belief that there is a scheme behind the introduction of the local option bill in the House was founded in part on the fact that the representatives of the Anti-Saloon League at Trenton knew nothing of the plan to have the bill put in. This statement was made Monday night by G. Rowland Munroe, counsel for the league. The introducer of the bill is Assemblyman Lake, the lone representative in the chamber from Cape May county. It is House 85. When the Anti-Saloon League people realize that there is a scheme behind the introduction of the Lake bill, it is probable they will demand immediate action by the Senate and have the bill brought up there for a vote so as to put the Senators, including the Gubernatorial aspirants, on record.

RUNYON'S DEFIANCE TO BOSS DALRYMPLE

Refuses to Take Orders Issued by the Essex County Politician.

If Alfred N. Dalrymple or any other political leader or citizen of the State of New Jersey had any doubt about the independence of Assemblyman William N. Runyon, of Union county, their doubts were rudely shattered yesterday when one of the Dalrymple agents made an attempt to "line up" the Plainfield representative on a Dalrymple measure.

The incident occurred in the Assembly corridor, according to the Trenton correspondent of the Newark News, when Assemblyman Johnson, of Essex, who is working for the impeachment of George G. Tennant, Prosecutor Robert S. Hudspeth and Assistant Prosecutor James W. McCarthy, of Hudson county, carried the news to Judge Runyon that "Boss" Dalrymple was trying to force the impeachment. If Mr. Johnston told "Boss" Dalrymple what Judge Runyon really said the Essex county leader got a real surprise.

The Essex man was in the Assembly corridor when Mr. Runyon happened along, and was hailed, whereupon Mr. Johnson began to sound him as his attitude.

"Say, you had better see 'Dal' before you decide what you're going to do," suddenly remarked Mr. Johnson.

"Do what?" inquired Mr. Runyon in surprise. "See 'Dal'? What for? Why in heck should I see 'Dal' about doing my duty? I know my duty myself, and I'm going to do it, no matter what any one thinks about it."

Strong efforts are being made by William P. Verdon, the Hudson county head of one of the Republican factions, to line up members of the Assembly in the attempt to have the judiciary committee of the Assembly recommend the impeachment of the court officials. The influences at work are all political, and, besides Alfred N. Dalrymple, Verdon now has State Republican Chairman Newton A. K. Bugbee working with him.

The subject of investigating the conditions which may justify an impeachment resolution was brought up at a meeting of the committee yesterday morning. There was no doubt that the inclination of the committee members after yesterday's meeting was to throw out the entire proposition of interfering with the courts.

MASS MEETING FOR JEWISH RELIEF FUND

Plainfield People Will Give in Worthy Cause Tomorrow Night.

Final arrangements for the big mass meeting to be held in the Columbus Club tomorrow night, under the auspices of the Jewish War Sufferers' Association, have been made and one of the strongest lists of speakers ever heard in Plainfield is announced by the committee in charge of the program.

The purpose of the mass meeting is to raise, by public subscription, money that will be used in buying food for starving Jews whose homes have been destroyed by the armies of Germany and Russia, and in buying shrouds that the dead whose bodies are now lying on top of the earth may be given a decent burial. So great is the need for this work that President Wilson has set aside January 27 as a special day for giving to the subject by official proclamation. Governor Filder, of the State of New Jersey, followed the proclamation of the President by issuing one on the same subject.

William Newcorn will act as chairman of the meeting tomorrow night. Senator James E. Martine, who presented a resolution in the United States Senate, setting aside a day for relief of the Jews in Europe, will be one of the speakers. Senator Martine has assured members of the committee that he will be able to come here tomorrow. It is expected that $3,000 will be raised in this city.

After the result of yesterday's game in the Inter-Class Basketball League at the Plainfield High School, when the Freshmen trimmed the Juniors by a score of 17 to 16, the third year men may possibly get down to business and work. The Freshmen led at the end of the first half and increased it until a few minutes before the call of time, but the Juniors tried a rally too late and lacked one point at the finish.

Considerable fooling on the part of the Juniors gave Snyder a chance to ring up seven free shots. Noonan was high score man for the Juniors, but half the time wasn't trying, and could have returned a victory if he had made the effort.

PROTEST PREPAREDNESS

the people is changed by the existence of greater armaments.

It is our conviction that:

(a) We are already defended geographically by two oceans, by an unfortified northern boundary of three thousand miles that has proved a sure guarantee of peace for a century, and by a southern frontier where self-restraint and magnanimous patience have maintained peace in the face of extreme provocation.

(b) The citizens of the United States are a composite people of many racial strains. We are connected so intimately by ties of blood and sympathy with all the nations of the old world that public opinion would make a war with any of the great powers practically impossible. These international bonds are a pledge of continued friendship and good will.

(c) The terrible war now in progress is exhausting the strength of the combatants. The inconceivable wreckage and waste of life, treasure, industry, commerce and intellectual and moral force are reducing all the great European powers to a condition from which they cannot soon recover. This is a fact and not a supposition. Japan, the only other power mentioned as a possible antagonist, has shown a consistent desire to maintain friendly relations with our country, and is already heavily burdened by taxes and an overwhelming war debt.

2. A policy of military expansion on a grand scale will commit the United States to militarism.

True democracy and militarism are contradictory. The one must destroy the other.

It is almost impossible to arrest a militaristic policy when once it is launched. Fear is added to fear, false ideals flourish, international friendship changes to suspicion, special interests warp the public mind.

The true greatness of the United States in international affairs has not rested upon naval and military force, but upon candor and good will, a high sense of national honor and fundamental justice.

3. The great war is abundant proof that great armaments are not a protection against attack. In the hands of a militaristic administration they may be a fertile cause of war. They are a constant menace on the one hand and an invitation to aggression on the other. They fill the popular imagination, so that if differences arise between nations the people cry out for war, and thus force becomes the basis of settlement rather than justice and equity.

The genius of the United States has been for arbitration and the judicial settlement of international disputes.

These are a few of many reasons against committing the United States to a military policy at this time of popular unrest.

We believe it is a grave moment in the history of our country, and we appeal to you who bear the heavy burden of responsibility, to meet the crisis in the spirit of Christian patriotism. Your action in this Congress may bind the shackles of the Old World militarism upon our continent, or free it for true world leadership in the cause of enduring liberty based on justice, brotherhood and peace.

The destinies of the other American republics are intimately connected with those of the United States. They are anxiously awaiting your action. A military policy adopted by the United States will create suspicion among them, and they will begin to arm against us. Thus fear will beget fear, and suspicion, suspicion.

Instead, therefore, of acting at once and hastily on the question of "preparedness" against dangers probably imaginary, and certainly remote in time, we strongly urge upon this Administration, and upon the Congress now assembled, the calling at once by the United States of a great conference of all the American republics for solemn council that may guarantee perpetual peace and community of interest in this hemisphere.

William Penn, the Founder of Pennsylvania, conceived a "Plan for the Peace of Europe." If it had been fairly tried, great armies and navies would have been impossible. A few of us are citizens of the Commonwealth where Penn tried his "Holy Experiment," and all are believers in his religious faith, urge upon you at this time as an act of the truest and nablest patriotism, consideration of a Plan for the Peace of America. A league of American Republics united for co-operation, mutual progress and reciprocity in trade and commerce, and in the things of the mind and the spirit would forever safeguard the peace of this Western Hemisphere, and challenge Europe to imitate the American example. Men of faith and vision agree that this will be a reality in the future. Will there ever be a better opportunity than today?

BLOCH BABY CARRIAGES

Pullman Reed Sleepers, 1916 Models

Mother's, fathers, doctors and nurses have given unstinted praise to the "Bloch." The medical profession in particular, mindful of the care necessary for the proper conservation of baby's welfare, has selected and endorsed the "Bloch" as the one carriage which meets all baby's requirements. In the materials used, such as the reed and wood for the bodies, tubing for the pushers and spring steel for the springs and gears, are the best obtainable; the upholstering is clean and sanitary throughout and the general finish of the carriage adds that final touch of beauty which makes it so easy to distinguish the "Bloch" from all others, yet with all the prices are no more than charged for other makes.

ABLE ADDRESSES ON PLANS OF WORK

Plainfield Sunday School Ass'n Meets at St. Stephen's Church, This City.

"Plans and Methods of Work in a Rural School," was the subject of an interesting address made by Rev. J. H. S. Fair, of St. John's Episcopal church, Bernardsville, at the meeting of the Plainfield Sunday School Association in St. Stephen's church yesterday afternoon. This session was followed by supper which was served at 6 o'clock in the parish hall by the Sunday school committee of St. Margaret's Guild. More than sixty members of the association were present.

In the evening Miss Josephine Vernon, of St. Andrew's church, New York city, gave an address illustrated with the actual work of Sunday school members on "Present Manual Methods." This was one of the most helpful and suggestive meetings of the association and was marked by the largest attendance in the history of the organization.

WOMEN WANT TO EXPRESS PREFERENCE FOR PRESIDENT

Trenton, Jan. 26.—Pointing out that the large vote given the suffrage cause at the special election last fall justifies consideration of her request, Mrs. Robert S. Huse, of Elizabeth, chairman of the legislative committee of the New Jersey Woman's Suffrage Association, has written Majority Leader Kates, of the House of Assembly, asking him to introduce a bill permitting the women of the State to indicate their preference for President of the United States at the primary election next May. Kates submitted it to the Republic House Conference yesterday and he was requested to frame a reply to the request. The majority leader has not announced the nature of the reply.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Realizing that a quality vaudeville bill must be offered for the latter part of this week coming so soon after the clever Behman show of yesterday and today, Manager Shannon has arranged for one of the best five act entertainments of the season. The regular vaudeville shows will be resumed Thursday and will run through the week. The bill's feature is the "Junior Vaudeville Follies," carrying fifteen people, most of them clever young girls. In addition to a startling array of costumes, new comedy and catchy songs, imitations of Burt Williams, Belle Baker, Sam Chip and Mary Marble and Conroy and Lemaire will be given. Other acts on the bill for the last half of the week are George Harvard and Company, Cunningham and Coven, Frank Vange and Company, and David Thursby. In the picture line there will be the ever interesting Hearst-Vitagraph news with stirring scenes of current events and some short comedies and dramas on the screen.

The attraction at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday, matinee and night, January 31, will be Max Spiegel's latest musical comedy, "The Tourists." The organization is for this season, produced under the personal direction and supervision of Max Spiegel. He has made it a pride the past five years toward a higher place in burlesque circles and has set such a high standard that other burlesque shows are finding it difficult to follow. The chorus is young, shapely and handsome and selected, because of their ability in singing and dance. The laughing numbers they execute are unequaled, while often stop the entertainment and the second and third encore has been given. Among the many clever people we give special mention are Lew Stevens, Ben Pierce Millie Babcock, Charles Raymond, Frances and Rose and Blanche Benton. Novelties in the costuming are many; scenery and electrical effects in amazing profusion are also important features.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Tonight the management of Proctor's will present the usual weekly bazaar, which will be greatly enlarged and enhanced by the addition of several valuable gifts and also a special comedy surprise. An important announcement is made to the effect that starting tomorrow and continuing the rest of the week Proctor's will present that colossal Keystone comedy success, "A Submarine Pirate," the same production that created such a furore in New York city. This feature is of great educational value as well. Syd Chaplin, one of the foremost screen comedians of today, assumes the leading role, and his comic capers are of the hilarious variety. A United States gunboat and a large ocean going steamer play important parts. The action takes place both on land and on sea. Before this scene was filmed, the actors taking part were insured in the sum of $100,000 against accident. The above are only a few of the features that make "A Submarine Pirate" positively one of the greatest comedy productions. All patrons who can do so, are kindly requested to attend the matinee performance, in order the alleviate as much as possible the crowds who will wish to see this stupendous spectacle. A powerful dramatic and emotional drama will be presented tomorrow, Friday and Saturday in conjunction with the above, entitled, "On the Edge of the Abyss," in which the following prominent stars play the leading roles: Mary Boland, Frank Mills and Willard Mack. The vaudeville entertainment provided for the latter half of the week includes The Newboys' Sextet, consisting of six harmonists, who possess splendid voices. A splendid headline act that cannot help but please is Dave Kindler, who is one of those jolly fellows with a line of breezy comedy that will keep the spectators in a lively mood. Others who contribute their share to this excellent bill are Larrage and George, dispensers of a refined line of patter and song, and La Prince and Sanchez, extremely clever acrobates, who perform the most thrilling and difficult stunts. An added attraction on Friday will be the presentation of the fourth episode of "The Red Circle," and on Saturday afternoon, the usual toy matinee for the children will be a feature.

REGULATING THE JITNEY.

There is grave danger in any law that purports to regulate the use of motor vehicles in public service. The automobile conveyance, or as it is commonly termed the "jitney bus," is new, but it is serving a purpose and it is competing with street railway companies that are experienced in throttling competition. The motor service law now pending in the House of Assembly appears to be drastic. The charge of "jitney" owners that it was inspired by Public Service heads is not worthy of consideration, but those entrusted with legislative authority should think twice before they kill or cripple an industry that has grown to such proportions. Every owner of a jitney bus should pay a license, of course, and he should be bonded for an amount sufficient to insure payment of reasonable damages for all liabilities, but they should not be forced to pay a larger percentage of their profits over to the State than the street cars, railroads or other common carriers. Few owners of jitneys are making more than a fair living. They are willing to pay a fair license, but they do not believe that five per cent. of the gross receipts is fair, and they are entitled to a hearing just the same as Public Service heads who would profit by the end of all jitney service.

POLITICAL COWARDICE.

In the upper house of the New Jersey Legislature there are two men who are seeking to dodge the issue of local option. Both are candidates for office before the people during the current year and they fear that to advocate the passage of the bill or to oppose it would cost them votes. This measure was originally introduced in the Senate, but friends of Austen Colgate, of Essex, and Walter E. Edge, of Atlantic, both of whom want to be Governor, had the bill reintroduced in the Assembly. Politicians declare that defeat for it is certain in the lower house. Action will be delayed in the Senate and before it comes up for a vote there it will have been killed in the house. This is a brand of politics that is not popular in New Jersey and if the real purpose of the new bill becomes generally known Messrs. Colgate and Edge will find that they have not gained by their apparently clever manipulation of laws effecting the people. Naturally it is expected that each man will deny his part in the deal, but if they want the people to believe them sincere it will be necessary to make a public declaration of their position on local option.

REMEDY FOR THE PORK BARREL

We shall go on wasting money in pork barrel appropriations until we adopt some system of responsible government. It is inconceivable that the executive department, if given authority to develop our waterways on commercial grounds, would undertake—for example—the absurd waterway expenditures. Only the greed of districts which are thinking, not of the national interests, but of purely local and temporary profit, can prostitute popular government in this fashion.—The World's Work for January.

New York police turned from battling with crooks to edit the Russian ballet. Certain parts of "L'Apres-Midi 'un Faune" and "Schererazade" were ordered cut out by the police censor. This sudden inclination of the police force toward art is probably due to the fact that one cop is being heralded as the "Uniformed Caruso."

MRS. EMMA M. LAURY GIVES LEAP YEAR PARTY

A delightful leap year dance was given Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Emma M. Laury, Woodbrook Farm. About one hundred and fifty young people enjoyed the varied program of surprises, while Naylor's orchestra furnished music during the evening. The home was attractively decorated for the event, the prevailing color scheme being red and green.

The evening was passed in singing, playing games, "500" and dancing. Virginia reel, square dances and waltzes were among the favorites. Refreshments were served at a late hour. Guests were present from this city, Dunellen, Somerville, Paterson, Newark, New York, Brooklyn, Oak Tree, South Plainfield and Metuchen.

FAILED TO STOP WHEN TRAFFIC COP SIGNALLED

Fred Wagner, aged 32 years, was arrested at the corner of Front street and Park avenue by Patrolman Muir just after the theatres turned out, yesterday afternoon, on a charge of reckless driving and violating the traffic ordinance. The patrolman said that Wagner refused to stop on signal and rushed past the corner, endangering the lives of women and children who were crowded at the corner. Wagner insisted that he did not see the officer's signal and was released on a suspended sentence.

REAL ESTATE IMPROVEMENTS.

Colored people who are interested in real estate throughout New Jersey report that during the past year there has been gains made in East Orange, Westfield, Cranford, Plainfield and Jersey City. In the nearby towns it is reported that over $10,000 has been raised on bonds and mortgage, while in Jersey City over $7,000 has been expended to help that section.

I'll admit her "front" was fearful,

Finnigin Filosofy

If ivery man was as lib'ral in passin' along his joys as he is in sharin' his sorrows, there would be far more singin' an' far less bellowin' in th' wurrld.

We think just as much, if not more, of a man after a hired muckraker at so much per word has handed him his entrails through the medium of a magazine.

Some people are born great, some achieve ditto and others, as we seem to have heard somewhere, have greatness thrust upon them. But the vast majority of us never get a smell of it by either of the three much-advertised routes.

When New York politicians get it in for a fellow, the victim might almost as well go over a list of the nastiest possible crimes, pick out those he loathes the least, and plead guilty.

All is not magneto that's bosh.

Much of the talk about the "irresponsible press" comes from those embittered because of the fact that facts about themselves were irrepressible and insuppressible.

A good deal of the old-fashioned tender issued by retail stores belonged under the head of "con"-script.

Oooo!

"That young fellow was just crazy to marry my daughter."
"So everybody said when they read of the wedding."

Carnegie And Me

There's been a lot of talk about Gerald Stanley Lee's somewhat recent article about him and Carnegie. We have kept still about as long as we can, on this subject.

We have often imaginarily compared the canny Andy with ourself, not always to Andy's detriment, not always to our own—about fifty-fifty would catch it, we suspect.

Andy is shorter than we are, physically, though much longer financially.

Andy has it all over us in the matter of whiskerines—also, if his portraits do not exaggerate, nearly all over himself.

Andy has a lot of Scotch in him, but not half as much as some fellows we have met who belong to popular clubs in this country and who had a totally different ancestry.

Andy WANTS to die poor, while we HAVE to.

There may be other differences between Andy and ourself, but the last previous paragraph and the feelings it aroused just took all the tuck out of us and we wish to change the subject.

Paraphrasing Frank Stanton

This world that we're a livin' in is mighty hard to beat.
We know some chaps who tried it, and they've prison-grub to eat.

One Method.

"Well, still another advertiser has dropped out."
"All right. That'll give us more room to print prosperity statistics."

Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Keeping The Patient Comfortable

A NURSE'S CHIEF DUTY is to keep the patient comfortable. This requires attention to many little details which are overlooked too often in the sickroom.

Night lights are usually shaded from the patient's eyes, but it is a frequent experience to find the patient's bed so placed that the patient faces a window. A patient may enjoy looking out through a window, yet the bed may be so arranged that this is possible, though the direct light does not fall upon the patient's eyes.

No nurse with the interest of her patient at heart will whisper in or near the sickroom about anything whatever.

Cleanliness prevents odors. Evaporating evil-smelling "disinfectants" in the sickroom, from dishes or wet cloths, of course cannot kill any germs or in any way help the patient, even though it does give the "antiseptic" nurse something to busy her mischievous hands with. Cleanliness, good ventilation and the immediate disposal of discharges or dressings will take care of unpleasant odors. If not, then it is the doctor's place to advise what will.

Every patient confined to bed should have a daily bath. This is indispensable for personal comfort.

A daily back-rub is equally refreshing for the bed-ridden patient. The patient lies prone while the nurse rubs the small of the back with the palm of the hand wet with alcohol. Slow, circular, firm strokes, under considerable pressure, outward from the spine over the loins and hips, for about ten minutes. It is mighty hard work for the nurse, if done well. It is very refreshing for the patient.

A sure test of a good nurse is the cleanliness of the patient's mouth. Coating may be removed from the tongue by gentle scraping with the handle of a scissors. A soft cloth tied about a stick and wet with Alkaline Antiseptic Solution may be used for cleansing the mucus and secretions from the inside of the cheeks and about the gums. The nurse may brush the patient's teeth with the same solution. Equal parts of lemon juice, glycerin and water will make a good mouthwash for cleaning up a mouth which is very foul. It is well to have the patient rinse the mouth well with the alkaline solution before and after feeding, especially if the patient is taking a milk diet.

Figures or distinct designs should be avoided in the paper of the bedroom or sickroom. Neutral tints, instead of dead white or too much color. Flowers are healthful in the sickroom if changed frequently.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Strychnine Not A Heart Tonic

Is strychnine in 1/30-grain tablets a good heart tonic, to be taken three times daily?

Answer—No. It is a nerve stimulant, exciting the spinal cord and the voluntary muscular functions.

Perspiration In The Armpits

Would it be injurious to the health in any way to apply a preparation to the armpits to stop perspiration there?

Answer—No, provided the preparation itself is not poisonous or irritating. Few of the things sold for the purpose will stop sweating.

THE QUICK LUNCH COUNTER

IN THE UNITED STATES time is very valuable, because we have only had 135 years of it, while European nations have succeeded in using up more than 1,000 years apiece without getting anywhere in particular. In our 135 years, we have had to eradicate Indians, buffaloes and rattlesnakes from 3,000,000 square miles of territory; build houses equipped with steam heat and pianos for upwards of 100,000,000 people; construct 200,000 miles of railroads; build 200,000 churches and 10,000 libraries; turn 50,000 square miles of forest into cornfield and potato patches and bring 10,000 base-ball teams to their present state of perfection. Because he has been busy at all these tasks, the American citizen has not had much time to waste on lunch. This accounts for the quick lunch counter, an invention by which a man is able to engulf four varieties of food and a toothpick in less time than it takes to flag a waiter in a European restaurant.

The quick lunch counter is as big a time-saver as the telephone, the automobile, the packing house and the lynching bee. With its aid, a man can lower enough food into his digestive system in two minutes to keep it busy until evening and perhaps all night. It has come into a panting and breathless nation as a long sought-for boon and only the loiterer and the dilettante now sit down in a chair and put napkins on their vests before eating two-in-the-water-easy on a raft, with a draw one, and a stack of wheats on the side.

The lunch counter is manned by a crew of deft jugglers who can deal sandwiches right and left handed and cut a plate of pork and beans from under the deck without spilling so much as a bean. Judiciously concealed by a partition, a sad-eyed cook prepares five orders at once on a gasoline stove. In a good platen restaurant, a chef will take half an hour to prepare an order, and then get half of it wrong, but no one makes mistakes in a lightning lunchery. Time is money at noon, if not at night, and the cook who murdered 1½ minutes of $10 an hour time wouldn't last long enough in a fast foodery to walk out by himself.

Able to eat a pie in thirty seconds with the aid of a knife alone

The lunch counter man makes his patron sit on high stools, so they will go away quicker and give some one else a chance. He can prepare a full meal in two minutes and three minutes later another man will be ordering from the same stool, while the waiter is hurling the ironstone dishes used in the last meal at the washer twenty feet away. Marvelous feats are performed by lunch counter patrons, some of whom are able to eat half a pie in thirty seconds with the aid of a knife alone. Men who eat rich dinners, lasting from 8 to 11 o'clock P. M., and women who live on chocolate cake look upon the lunch counter with horror. However, it is a great blessing to the business man. It gives him indigestion, spots in the eyes and pain stickers and compels him to retire from business and take up civilization at the age of forty-five.

Views Of The Press

"Adequate Preparedness"

WE HAVE NO DOUBT that the majority of Americans are in favor of adequate preparedness, but what is "adequate" preparedness? Is it sufficient armament for defensive purposes, or is it an offensive power great enough to cope with any nation upon sea or land? The gamut of opinion ranges from the negative view of the pacifist to the recommendation of the General Board of the Navy for a navy as great as any on earth. The report of the General Board, reluctantly published by Secretary Daniels the other day, favors a program of construction that would put in service a fleet as large as that of Great Britain by 1925. "A navy strong enough only to defend our coasts from actual invasion will not suffice," says the board. "Defense from invasion is not the only function of the navy. It must protect our sea-borne commerce and drive that of the enemy from the sea." This is a decided change from the attitude maintained by the General Board, but that body endeavors to justify its new opinion by the events of the present war. The construction of such a fleet would, it is estimated, entail an expenditure of $300,000,000 a year, without taking into account the increased cost of maintenance.

While the country has a high respect for the General Board it is not likely to give serious consideration to its recommendations in this instance. Nothing but the belief that a war with Great Britian is certain would induce the nation to consent to such an expenditure or such a policy. And if we were to act upon that assumption, or that conviction, preparedness would entail a great deal more than a navy of equal power. It would mean the building up of a trained army, also; one strong enough to withstand any force that could be sent across our borders from Canada. For many years to come Great Britain will have within its North American dominion a great body of men who have been made seasoned soldiers by the present war, not to mention the millions of veterans in the home islands and its other dependencies. Our long border line to the north is unprotected. How much of an army would we require to defend it? What, under this assumption, is "adequate preparedness" on land?

The country wants a navy that will command the respect of the world, that will be an efficient fighting force, complete and thoroughly organized in every detail, but its definition of adequateness will not be an overwhelming force.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

People's Legal Friend

Employers' Liability

When, some years ago, British employers became liable at law for injuries suffered by employees in the course of their work, cartoonists got busy depicting the hired girl gleefully tumbling downstairs with the tea-tray or the coal-box, secure in the prospect of a long rest and no loss of wages.

Householders, of course, cover their risk by insuring each employee against accidents.

English courts, as a rule, place a liberal construction on the word "accident," and accordingly on the books of the insurance companies may be found many odd claims.

Here are a few:

A cow whisking her tail caused injury to a milkmaid's eye.

A man servant sprained his leg through stamping on a rat.

A coachman coming out of a stable was struck in the face by his master's boot, intended for a caterwauling cat.

A cook was breaking coal and a piece went down her throat.

A curate was scalded through stumbling while carrying a tea urn at a parochial gathering.

A servant was pricked by a rusty needle while sewing a button on her employer's clothes.

It is somehow difficult to imagine that success could attend claims like these:

A servant received a shock through seeing a large Teddy bear when the room was only dimly lighted.

Another servant, fetching coal out of a cellar, collapsed from fright caused by the silent appearance of a washerwoman, and broke her arm.

Undoing

Formation is always better than reformation. The mended article is never as valuable as the original article. The field neglected and given over to weeds is never so fertile again. In like manner, the cells of a man's Brain, given over to foolish and unprofitable Thought are never so plastic for useful Thought tracks again.

Everything is Easier and Better if always done Right—in the first place.

The process of Undoing works havoc, not only upon the Character of the one who Works or Thinks wrongly in the first place, but in many instances upon countless multitudes, while the Time spent in Undoing represents an irreparable loss. Every time you start a new duty or piece of work, bring to the front of your Mind this eternal truth—

Everything is Easier and Better if always done Right—in the first place.

If we all could but view our acts in the light of Eternal,—not forgetting that a single effort is never lost from Influence, we would set on guard our most trustworthy Sentinel to warn us against doing things Wrongly in the first place—which always means Undoing for us or somebody afterwards. Why not write this down as one of your daily Mottoes—

Everything is Easier and Better if always done Right—in the first place.

Current Poetry

Sweet Cider

When the Lord made man for labor and furnished the excuse,
He provided little apples and filled them up with juice.
When Eve got tired of loafing, as a normal woman would,
Her intuition told her that an apple's very good.
So she took the laughing apples and she put them in a press;
And every drop that fell contained a smile and a caress.
"Ho, Adam!" Eve called gayly, "Quit your loafing and wake up!"
And she handed him the cider in a big tin cup!

Then old Adam saw the folly of his former idle life;
And he thanked the kindly fortune that had given him a wife
With a sense of fitness pleasing to the Lord who made them both
And had wanted them to labor! And to labor nothing loth
They started in contented, and both very much alive,
Since they knew the Lord intended that a man should work and strive.
And every time their muscles ached their hearts were lifted up
By the thought of apple cider in a big tin cup.

I'd hate to think a kindly, loving Lord would e'er condemn
Dear Eve and mate to idleness—
'twas not the thing for them!
He knew that strong endeavor sweetened lives, just like the frost
Will give to fruit a flavor rich that otherwise is lost.
And when I think of what they did,
and of their great reward,
I thank dear Eve and Adam!—and I humbly thank the Lord!
I know that 'tis by labor that the soul is lifted up—
And life's sweets are like the cider in the big tin cup!

He Drilled Until His Poor Beak Ached.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How Mr. Woodpecker Saved His Friend, Molly Cottontail.

"ONCE upon a time," daddy began the bedtime story, "there was a red-headed woodpecker that lived in Uncle Ben's woods and was very fond of a young girl rabbit, Miss Molly Cottontail. They had the greatest fun going about the lovely groves together. They knew every bypath and hollow chestnut and bug home in the woods. But one day while they were out strolling what do you think they came across?"

The children guessed everything but the right one. So daddy told them—"One of Bobbie's traps! The boys had taken the greatest care making it out of a small dry goods box, with a door on hinges at one end, so that anything that went inside and nibbled an apple tied to a string would spring the trap door. Then they set it right in the pleasantest rabbit runway under some wintbound alder bushes. Well, as Mr. Woodpecker and Miss Molly were out on a walk one beautiful sunny morning Molly suddenly cried: 'I smell apples! Let's find 'em!' So they scampered all around till they found the little wooden house so attractively set in their path. 'Oh, what a charming little home to begin housekeeping in!' hinted Miss Molly, walking right inside. Bang! went the trapdoor the instant her sharp teeth settled into Bobbie's apple. She was just as much a prisoner as if she had been in a high tower."

"What did her beau do?" asked Evelyn.

"Poor Mr. Woodpecker got terribly excited. He flapped his beautiful new black wings, begged his sweetheart to come out, knowing all the time that she couldn't, and dashed round and round the fatal little house. Then he set his wits to work, wits as sharp as his long black bill that Mother Nature gave him to drill bugs out of tree bark all the long, frozen, hungry winter. He squatted right down in the snow before the trap door and drilled and drilled till his poor beak ached and bled. But the wood was soft pine and his love for Miss Molly great. So he kept at it till a small round hole big enough for Miss Molly to crawl through came in the trap door, and finally the piece he drilled dropped right into the snow beside him. 'Oh, Molly, dear, jump out!' he shouted. And out Molly dashed, bringing Bobbie's apple with her. So, arm in arm, off they scampered through Uncle Ben's pleasant woods, happy as any two sweethearts," daddy finished.

"Oh, daddy, what a nice story!" cried Evelyn.

"Did Bobbie set his trap again?" Jack wanted to know.

"I believe he did," said daddy, "but you may be sure he never caught Miss Molly and Mr. Woodpecker again!"

And the children gave daddy two hugs and three kisses.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

The Townsend Home Is a Hornets' Nest, if Appearances Mean Anything.

"I am so glad you have come over," said Nell Morton, as Olive Ellson came wheeling her baby up the walk. "I want to talk over Mrs. Townsend's reception. Even Mrs. Jaynes will have to get up pretty early in the morning to spend money as fast as our new neighbor." Nell made room for her friend in the porch swing at her side.

"The only thing I have been able to think about is the dark rebellious face of Marian. I always thought the girl was pretty, but she fairly frightened me last night." Olive locked the wheels of the baby buggy and opened her sewing bag.

"It is too bad the child takes the marriage that way, but it is hard, no doubt, to find her place as her father's pet and companion usurped. She has a warm friend and sympathizer in Dudley, I am sure. Did you see how he followed her every movement and what pains he took to entertain her?" asked Nell.

"Dudley is a nice boy, and has always been devoted to his sister. I fear the attention she has received from all the family has been a poor preparation for this total eclipse," sighed Olive. "I imagine the child can be very trying."

"I believe you. I was sitting in the bay window last evening when Marian and Lucile Jaynes came up on the porch and sat down in the armchairs."

"Lucile is the youngest girl, isn't she?" interrupted Olive.

"Yes, the girls are about of an age.

"'What do you think of your new mother?' began Lucile.

"'Mother!' snorted Marian. 'If you refer to my father's new diversion, I must say that I think she is the finest living model I ever saw. She can display dry goods to better advantage than any one I ever saw. I wonder my father with his fine head for business doesn't see what an acquisition to the advertising department she would be. I think she could easily be persuaded to do the work, as it is right in her line,' she continued, not noticing Lucile's titter. 'Why not? She would have a larger audience to peacock before, and that would gratify her.'

"'My, but you can think of the sharpest things to say,' laughed Lucile. 'I'll bet your tongue won't add to her enjoyment of her finery.'

"'I certainly shall not wrap it in cotton wool to keep it from pricking my lady.'

"'Come on; let's go and ask Tupper for some more ice cream. Tupper will not stand any of her nonsense, I can tell you. She says she would leave at once if it were not for the rest of us.'

"The girls sauntered around the house with their arms around each other."

"What an atmosphere for a home," mused Olive. "I do not wonder Mr. Townsend wants to send her away to school."

"How can any woman deliberately walk into such a hornets' nest as that?" exclaimed Nell feelingly.

"Oh, no woman thinks her affairs will ever come to such a pass. Other people's may, but not hers. She will be able to manage all right. She is willing to take the risk."

"'Better is a dinner of herbs where love is than a stalled ox and contention therewith,'" quoted Nell.

The February Sale of Furniture at WANAMAKER'S Is Linked with the Story of the World's Greatest City

The biggest, busiest, healthiest, wealthiest and happiest aggregation of people in the whole world is now living and working together in the City of New York.

New York has become the metropolis of the world—first in population, in wealth, in business, in commerce, in finance, in education, in music, in charity, in achievement, in power.

Believing that this sovereignty is not generally known to the people of our city, the John Wanamaker Store has collected—accurately, it believes—a mass of statistics, which it will present day by day in connection with the story of its February Sale of Furniture. It presumes to link the story of a great city with that of a great business because the city, its work and its homes are indissolubly merged in the lives of its people.

These statistics are monumental. They are almost bewildering. They shall be presented as simply and as plainly as possible.

On January 1, 1914—before the war, which has affected the growth of both cities — New York had already passed London in population.

Administrative London, including the 28 boroughs under one city government, then had 4,517,172 residents; New York, with only five boroughs, 5,518,752.

Metropolitan London, with 693 square miles, had 7,448,681; New York, with 683 square miles, 7,454,296.

Today New York, according to the latest estimate, has a population of 5,800,000 actually within her city limits; and approximately 8,000,000 in her metropolitan zone, counting the people who live in the suburbs but who work in New York.

New York is increasing in population at the rate of 18,000 a month, adding every three months a new city as large as that which Washington knew when he was President of the United States and the national capitol was on Wall Street.

Averaging every 3 minutes there is a birth in New York. Every 7 minutes there is a death. Every 10 minutes there is a marriage.

One in every 19 persons in the United States lives in New York. One in every 13 lives or works here.

More people live in New York than in all the cities of Liverpool, Manchester, Birmingham, Leeds, Sheffield, Bristol, Bradford, Nottingham, Portsmouth, Oldham, Croydon, Brighton, Norwich, Birkenhead and Plymouth, the 16 largest English cities next to London.

More people live in New York than in the combined cities of Berlin, Hamburg, Munich, Dresden and Stuttgart.

More people live in New York than in all of the 12 States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Delaware, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, North Dakota, Utah and Wyoming.

There are approximately a million individual families in New York, and 400,000 buildings of all kinds.

Manhattan has 25,000 one-family houses, 2,700 two-family houses, and 40,000 multiple type houses.

Brooklyn — the great home borough—has 63,000 one-family houses, 51,000 two-family houses and 46,000 multiple type houses.

Bronx—the fastest growing of all the boroughs, having increased 225 per cent in population since 1900, due largely to the extension of the rapid transit system—has 14,000 one-family houses, 2,000 two-family houses and 10,000 multiple type houses.

Queens—largest of all the boroughs in area—has 38,000 one-family houses, 14,000 two-family houses and 5,100 multiple type houses.

Richmond has 15,000 one-family houses, 1,500 two-family houses and 500 multiple type houses.

In a business way, the figures are also impressive.

With one-twentieth of the population of the United States New York produces one-tenth of her manufactured products.

With 26,000 manufacturing plants, employing three-quarters of a million of people, paying half a billion dollars in wages, the city turns out over two billion dollars of goods annually.

In addition, one billion dollars more of goods go out through the port of New York and one billion dollars more come into the port every year—in normal times.

New York has a two billion dollar wholesale trade in dry goods alone; a one and a half billion dollar retail dry goods trade, the largest unit of which passes through Wanamaker's.

In addition, New York is the selling center of the whole United States.

Here, then, we have the maximum combination that makes for happy prosperity—people, homes, work, business.

It is our business—the business of the John Wanamaker Store—to serve this great mass of people to the best of our ability.

It is our business to assemble from over the world the things these people need in their homes.

To do this we have an extensive organization and a 16-story building specially erected on Broadway at Ninth, for the purpose of displaying and selling exclusively (except on the Main floor) furnishings for the home.

And here, on the fifth, sixth and seventh floors, is assembled the furniture which composes the February Sale, opening tomorrow with a day of Courtesy for advance selections.

This February Sale of Furniture is now a national institution. It is attended by people from practically every State in the Union.

But it is a sale primarily for New Yorkers; and it is a sale worthy of the great city in which it is held.

It is the original sale of its kind. And it is the largest sale of its kind in all the world.

It offers close to a million dollars of standard Wanamaker furniture at discounts of 10 to 50 per cent., the average reduction being 30 per cent.

The main points of the sale are told elsewhere on this page.

The special purchases are there tabulated.

This story is mainly for the purpose of linking up the great event with your love for your homes and to assure you that we can be of service to you in furnishing those homes at great economy in cost.

The time to buy profitably is when prices are down. Prices are down in this February Sale as they will not be again for many months to come.

Furniture is going to cost more. That is a certainty. Manufacturers have already raised their prices because the costs of materials and labor have risen.

All new furniture that we buy after this Sale will cost more. The prices cannot be kept down.

But during the sale—during all of February—we shall offer all of our regular furniture stocks and all of our special purchases already made, at reductions from our standard prices, of 10 to 50 per cent.

This is the whole story.

This is our invitation to come and see what we have to offer. Looking costs nothing. The store is always open to visitors.

We believe you have never seen such a collection of good furniture as you will see here. We know you cannot buy equal grades of furniture, generally speaking, so low in price.

Do not think we have nothing but fine furniture. We do have the finest that is made, but we have also inexpensive grades.

We aim to serve all of the million homes in New York.

We have the kinds of furniture wanted in those homes.

We shall be glad to show it to you at any time you may choose to call.

Our experience, our designers, our staff of interior decorators are at your command for any suggestion you may desire.

And the wonderful House Palatial, that beautiful 22-room house visited every year by a million people from all parts of the world, is rich with suggestions for any home.

You are living within reach of the greatest city in the world.

You have almost at your door—easily accessible by train and subway—one of the greatest stores of the world.

That store is holding a sale of furniture that can render a great service to your home.

Will you take advantage of the opportunity or will you let it pass by?

Everything that enters into the construction of furniture is costing more these days—wood, glass, labor; also things that go into its packing; lumber, excelsior, twine, nails, etc. Advances are already made to the retail trade, but we have protected our customer against them for this sale. From all appearance those advances will continue throughout the year at least.

In this Store, so well known to New Yorkers, there will open Thursday, with the first of four Days of Courtesy, the February Sale of Furniture, one of the two great opportunities of the year for refurnishing the home.

JOHN WANAMAKER, NEW YORK

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The Young Woman's Christian Association, of Plainfield, is looking forward to a period of extraordinary interest and activity during the next few weeks. The second term of the educational and physical departments will open on January 31, and registrations should be made at once. Classes are offered in gymnasium work, swimming, dressmaking, millinery, handcraft, cooking, current events, English for foreigners, Bible and mission study. Classes in other subjects will be formed upon sufficient request. Morning classes in dressmaking were very popular and satisfactory last winter, and it is hoped that there will be a demand for them this term. The annual exhibition of the work of the educational department will take place on Thursday, February 3, afternoon and evening. The model wardrobe, which was sent to the Panama-Pacific Exposition will be shown again, and there will be on sale basketry and other art work, as well as home-made cakes and biscuit.

The month of February will be largely occupied with the celebration of the Nation-Wide Members' Jubilee, which marks the completion of fifty years of Young Women's Christian Association work in this country.

A special program of events for the month is announced elsewhere in this paper, and attention is here called to the Sunday vesper services at 4 o'clock, which will be particularly significant throughout the month, and will be announced in fuller detail each week.

Each Thursday afternoon, from February 3 to March 2, the association will keep "open house," and all who are interested in the work or would like to inquire about it are cordially invited to call. Tea will be served and opportunity given to inspect the building and visit the classes.

Rev. Dr. W. W. Prett, of this city is sojourning at Atlantic City for a short time for the benefit of his health.

RECREATIONS GET WIN OVER CO. M

Stellar Work in First Half Gives Locals Lead Visitors Can't Overcome.

SOLDIERS END STRONG

Display Burst of Speed at Finish, but Are Licked, 42 to 30—P. E. G. S. Second Team Defeated Girls From Scotch Plains Parish House.

Although rallying in the second period and spurring on with a brilliant flash of speed, Company M, of Somerville, was unable to surmount the lead obtained by the Recreation Five in the Plainfield High School gymnasium last night, when the home team was awarded the decision by a score of 42 to 30.

Accustomed to playing on the big armory court, the Somerville lads were handicapped by the size of the P. H. S. floor and had difficulty during the first period in demonstrating their dribbling ability. Marston scored the highest number of points during their period, numbering six goals, while Ricketts and Dallas each tallied three apiece. The score at the end of the first period was 26 to 11 in favor of the home team.

In the second half, Metzler changed positions with Wittnebert at center, and held Marston scoreless. The visitors gained speed during this session and showed some phenomenal team work. A feature of the game was a spectacular long distance shot by Metzler, who threw high ball from guard position and caged a pretty goal. Company M lead in the scoring in this period, tallying 19 points to the locals' 16. Metzler and Kershaw did most of the scoring for the visitors, while Ricketts was the high man for the home team. Poole played a pretty passing game and fed his teammates continually.

KNIGHTS ROLL CITY LEAGUE SERIES IN BORO TONIGHT

The second round of the City Bowling League will be started tonight, when the Knights of Columbus pinners cross the borough line to shoot the Imperials, on Gates' Somerset street alleys. The Eagles and Tabs will bowl tomorrow night at the T. A. B. Club alleys.

W. B. L. SERIES PUT OFF.

The Westfield League match scheduled for last night between the Clinks and the Westfield Club was postponed.

MANY TICKETS SOLD FOR NOVEL CONTESTS

More Than Five Hundred Disposed of for Saengerbund Hall Entertainment.

Under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association, of North Plainfield two novel basketball games will be held Saturday evening in Saengerbund Hall. The varsity boys' team of N. P. H. S. will play, for the first time in the history of the school, a team composed of teachers, while an added feature will be a contest between the alumni boys and the alumnae girls.

All the pupils in the borough school have co-operated with the ladies of the association to make this affair a complete success from every standpoint. Over five hundred tickets have been distributed, and if they are all sold, the treasury of the Boys' Athletic Association should not be wanting in funds for the rest of the athletic season.

What will constitute a large majority of the fun promised to the populace will be the officiating of Mayor "Bill" Smalley, the popular governing head of the borough. This personage has agreed to officiate in both contests, and as he has long been a tenacious patron of N. P. H. S. sports, he will have some original interpretations of the rules.

The entire boys' team is anxious to be on the same footing with the members of the faculty for once during their school days. Most all of the members of the squad are seniors, and will never have the opportunity again.

The faculty will be represented by five huskies in Supervising Principal D. Fred Aungst, High School Principal Albert Earley, Music Instructor Frederick Smith, Manual Training Instructor Claude C. Jeffries and County Superintendent Henry C. Krebs. This quintet has been concocting many tricks to play on their youthful rivals.

When the girls' and boys' teams meet there will be laughter galore. Mrs. W. O. Taylor, the ingenious conductor of the evening's program, has reconstructed the rules to the disadvantage of the boys, who will be severely handicapped by hobble skirts, while they will be unable to shoot with both hands. The feminine representatives have an invincible quintet, composed of stars still playing on independent teams. The line-ups will appear in tomorrow's paper.

A five-piece orchestra has been hired to give the many lovers of dancing ample opportunity to also enjoy the aftermath of the evening. Tickets are now on sale in Weiss' drug store, in the borough, while they can also be procured from pupils of the school.

Physical Director Robert Meermans is coaching the grapplers. The seniors will meet on Tuesday nights, from 8:30 to 9:30; the College League boys, Saturday mornings, from 10 to 11 o'clock; the Indian League boys, from 9 to 10 a. m., Saturdays, and the Employed Boys' class, from 8 to 9:30 Wednesday nights.

All association members who are interested in the sport have been asked to give their names to Physicila Director Meermans.

Tad Jones, former Yale quarterback football team, has been decided upon as head coach for the Yale eleven, it is understood at New Haven, although official confirmation is lacking, pending formal action by the committee having the matter in charge. This committee, it is understood, will meet within a few days.

It is understood that M. F. Sweeney, an instructor in physical culture at Hill School, and a former well-known athlete at St. Francis Xavier's College, is to be called a consulting coach.

VISITORS GET ANGRY AT P. H. S. METHODS

Close Defensive Tactics Win Game, But They Are Exasperating to Roselle.

A rough game with the boys' basketball team of Roselle High School yesterday afternoon, resulted in a 28 to 9 victory for the Plainfield High School quintet on the P. H. S. court. The Red and Blue aggregation put up a fast game, and the excellent guarding of Wheelan and Peacock at times so exasperated the visitors that slugging was resorted to.

Dunham early started the scoring, when he broke away from his guard and caged a pretty basket. He made good on only two occasions from the foul line, but his two other goals along with those by McDowell and Linke gave the locals a big lead in the first half.

Several of the regulars were replaced by the second string men in the last period and with the Plainfield line-up on a more even footing the Roselle lads showed some pretty good team work, but they were sadly lacking in their shooting. One goal, however, made near the end of the game by Davies, was sensational, going through the basket without even touching the rim, following a shot from the middle of the floor.

Linke ran wild during the greatest part of the game and was nearly always waiting under the Plainfield basket to receive a stray pass, and consequently accounted for five baskets. McDowell and Dunham also put up good games at forward, while the work of Wheelan and Peacock at guard is worthy of special mention. Benedict made half of the visitors baskets, besides caging the ball from the foul line.

Hoodoos may come and hoodoos may go, but the Rahway jinx goes on forever. The Plainfield Eagles proved to be no exception to the general rule of meeting tough sledding on the McCartney alleys, and the pinners who were good enough to hang up a triple victory over the champion Newarks last week, dropped three tilts at Jungletown last night. The first game was lost by five pins and the second by eight, and all of the totals were low. The defeat sent the locals all the way down the ladder to last place.

The local team sadly missed George Miller. Caulfield, who subbed for Kats, rolled 96, 107 and 124. Pat McCartney had high score nfor the evening with 198, Harry Radin being close behind with 197.

HOPE TO HOLD BIG A. K. C. BENCH SHOW HERE IN FALL

Even while the Plainfield Kennel Club members are working for the open bench show to be held here the first Saturday in March, they are laying plans which they hope will culminate in staging a big American Kennel Club show in the summer or fall. The first intimation of the venture is contained in a letter sent out yesterday to members of the club.

The letter takes the nature of a booster, to gain a full measure of co-operation among the members in making 1916 the banner year in the history of the club. The fact that the organization is in the best financial condition is noted, as well as the increase in membership, which on January 1 was 60; on January 11, 75, and on January 17, 85. Thus the club membership has gained more than 40 per cent. since the first of the year.

INSPECTION TRIP INSTRUCTS MANY

Annual Outing to Lawrence Cement Company Plant Enjoyed by Plainfielders.

ACKERMAN RE-ELECTED

Fifty Local People Included In Party That Visited Works at Siegfried, Penna., Yesterday—E. F. Shepherd Made Assistant Treasurer.

As guests of the Lawrence Portland Cement Company, over two hundred men spent yesterday at Siegfried, Penna., inspecting the company's plant. Included in the crowd were fifty or more Plainfielders, the party being taken to Siegfried on a special train of six parlor cars. During the day their comfort was well looked after by the officers of the company, assisted by a number of the executives at the works, and from the New York office, many of whom were Plainfielders.

In the afternoon the stockholders held their annual meeting, and the following were chosen directors: Ernest R. Ackerman, Marion S. Ackerman, Townsend Rushmore, Frank H. Smith and Frank L. Clark, of this city; Henry D. Brewster, James E. Clark, J. S. Van Middlesworth and Charles A. Porter, the latter being the only new member. He is superintendent of the plant at Siegfried. Later the directors organized by re-electing Ernest R. Ackerman as presdine, Marion S. Ackerman as vice president, Frank H. Smith as second vice president, Charles A. Porter as third vice president, J. S. Van Middlesworth, secretary; Harry R. Munger as treasurer and Edgar S. Shepherd, both the latter from this city, as assistant treasurer. Mr. Shepherd, who has been a faithful employe of the company for twenty years, is the first assistant treasurer the company has had. He was the recipient of many congratulations yesterday upon his election.

The travelers left this city at 9:36 and when they arrived at Siegfried they were first invited to inspect the big crusher which breaks up the cement rock as it is delivered to it ten tons at a time. The quarry, 140 feet deep, was observed from the rim, and then the party were taken in automobiles to the Park House, at Siegfried, where a hearty dinner was served shortly after noon. A local moving picture theatre was the next stop, where "A Concrete Romance," an amusing and instructive two reel featue, was shown, in which the various uses to which concrete can be put were set forth. The work of constructing a permanent concrete roadway in Pennsylvania was also shown in another reel, after which the party

POLICEMAN STOPS RUNAWAY HORSE

Patrolman Wicht Probably Saved Many People From Being Injured.

But for the bravery of Patrolman Charles Wicht a dangerous runaway would have traversed Park avenue for a long distance this morning, probably causing injury and loss of property. A spirited horse hitched to a wagon of Pantanzi Brothers became frightened near the corner of Park avenue and Front streets shortly after 11 a. m. and started to run toward the railway on Park avenue. Patrolman Wicht was standing on Park avenue near the corner and he ran toward the horse and grabbed for the bridle. He missed because the bridle was missing and came near being thrown under the feet of the animal. He managed to turn the course of the horse, forcing him to run upon the sidewalk and into the side of a building. Hose and driver both escaped without injury.

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN IN FORTHCOMING RECITAL

Much interest is being shown in the forthcoming appearance of Mme. Clementine De Vere, opera and concert singer, who is to sing with Randall H. Trumpe, at the Plainfield High School, Friday night. Mme. De Vere is a favorite in musical circles, and she will be ably supported by Mr. Trumpe, who is well-known to many Plainfielders.

Miss Beatrice Horsburgh, the English violinist, has charmed her audiences by the simplicity and mastery of her style. Signor Romaldo Sapio, former conductor of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, will also assist.

COURT GRANTS TEMPORARY STAY

Perth Amboy Trust Co. is Allowed by Vice-Chancellor to Hold Trusteeship.

ELECT NEW DIRECTORS

Preliminary Victory Won by George A. Viehman and Isaac Alpern in Their Suit in Court of Chancery—Final Hearing April 5 and 6.

George A. Viehmann, of New Brunswick, and Isaac Alpern, of Perth Amboy, of the new interests in charge of the Perth Amboy Trust Company, won a preliminary victory yesterday in their suit in the Court of Chancery to restrain outgoing directors and stockholders from diverting assets of that bank to the Mechanics' Trust Company, of Bayonne. Following argument from 10 o'clock in the morning until after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Vice Chancellor Backes, sitting at the State House, allowed a temporary injunction against the defendants to run until the final hearing, set for April 5 and 6 in Newark. Sidney Riddlestorffer left the Perth Amboy Trust Company yesterday to become assistant trust officer of the Mechanics' Trust Company, of Bayonne. The Perth Amboy Trust Company stockholders met yesterday afternoon to choose directors.

In the action brought in the Court of Chancery the plaintiffs charged that the defendants, including Sidney Riddlestorffer and DeWitt Van Buskirk, had voted a gratuity of $12,500 to Riddlestorffer, who claimed to be the head of the Perth Amboy Trust Company and to have given fourteen years' service to it, and also had resigned the trusteeship of the $500,000 William A. Conner estate of Plainfield. It was claimed that these steps were taken at the time ex-Mayor Viehmann had arranged to purchase the controlling interest in the bank, and that they constituted a fraud upon the other stockholders, including the complainants. It was shown that application had been made to the Orphans' Court of Union county for the transfer of the trusteeship to the Bayonne Trust Company.

Vice Chancellor Backes rules that the directors of the Perth Amboy Trust Company acted beyond their scope. He says that the directors are the agent of the corporation the same as an agent acts for a coal company, and that they had no more right to divert these assets in this manner than the coal agent would to distribute coal without getting a return for his firm.

The Vice Chancellor says the question is whether the holders of the 400 shares of the bank stock not involved in the transfer to Viehmann were injured by the action of the directors, and he holds that they were injured.

Former Judge Alfred F. Skinner, of Pitney, Hardin & Skinner, of Newark, argued the case for the plaintiffs. Former State Attroney General Robert H. McCarter appeared for the defendants. He denied all the charges of fraud made by the complainants.

NO WHISKEY, HE DRANK ALCOHOL

Man on "Black List" Got Drunk Just the Same.

Cut off from the eligible list in all saloons in Plainfield and North Plainfield, Frank Schblein still managed to get drunk. He was arraigned before Judge William De Meza this morning on a charge of drunkenness and the court was curious as to where he got his whisky. Schblein admitted that he could not find anyone who would sell him whisky and he had been drinking pure alcohol. He bought it from a local drug store, under pretense that he wanted to use it around the house, he said, and Judge De Meza ordered that all drug stores in the city and borough be notified not to sell him any more alcohol in any form.

PARENT-TEACHER CONFERENCE HELD

Interesting Session of Union County Representatives at Plainfield High School.

INFORMAL DISCUSSION

New Jersey Congress of Mothers May Hold Annual Meeting Here In November—Ways and Means for Greater Efficiency Considered.

Ways and means of increasing the efficiency of parent-teacher associations were discussed at considerable length at a conference of Union county representatives of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations, held at the Plainfield High School yesterday afternoon. The conference was held here upon invitation of the Plainfield Council of Child Welfare organizations.

The twenty-five organizations represented at the conference comprised the presidents and secretaries, and all came with suggestions to offer or questions to ask whereby more efficient work can be accomplished. There was no set program, the gathering being strictly informal. Mrs. William M. Sandford presided and directed the discussion of the afternoon, which lasted for more thain two hours.

The principal object of yesterday's conference, which is held annually, is to mold the policy and unify the work of the allied organizations, and considerable progress was made. Reports as to what is being done in this association or that one proved most helpful to all the women present, and the exchange of ideas was of unusual interest.

Through Dr. H. D. Corbusier, who is interested in the work, the women were asked to lend their aid in making the forthcoming observance of "Baby Week" a success. This is to be held in March, and the movement is nation-wide. The women promised to do all that they could to further the interest of the work.

The Public Recreation Commission of this city was also represented at the conference, and the assistance of the parent-teacher associations was sought to advance its work in this

URGENT CALL FOR RELIEF IN PARIS

Local Branch of Mercy Committee Request Donations to Help the Suffering.

A very urgent appeal has been received by the Plainfield Branch of the Mercy Committee from the American Relief Clearing House of Paris, reading as follows: "We are officially informed of the expected repatriation of over 20,000 children, women and old men (civilian prisoners returned from Germany). Of this number 5,000 are insane, 5,000 tuberculosis. Conditions are appalling. Can you help? Our stock of clothing is entirely exhausted, and this is most needed. Also there are in and about Paris and in the Seine Inferieure about 7,000 children, from infancy to fourteen years old, who have no other care than the societies that have hastily been organized for their protection can give them, and they are without adequate means to care for them; and there are about the same number in the city of Rheims. Many of these are orphans and others have lost their identity. Clothing and food are desperately needed.

"It seems an awful detail to have to record, but it is true, there were never so many bleeding men as there are today, and the United States is the store house of cotton. All sorts of devices have to be resorted to here for substitutes, but nothing, you know, is as good as cotton in dressing wounds."

As the appeal indicates they call upon the the generous American public for help. Checks or cash may be sent to Mrs. J. K. Myers, 139 East Seventh street, chairman of the Plainfield Branch of the Mercy Committee, and clothing, new or old (if clean and in good repair) to the residence of Mrs. William C. Kinney, 828 Arlington avenue, and all will be quickly forwarded, free of charge, to the American Relief Clearing House, Paris. Surely these appeals call for deepest sympathy and help.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Mrs. John Weier, of Avon avenue, Newark, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Katherine Weier, to Joel N. Pennington, of Monroe avenue, this city. HOPE TO RAISE $3,000 TONIGHT

Mass Meeting to Contribute to Relief of Starving Jews in Europe.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Horrible Pictures of the Want and Famine Will Be Drawn to Show the Need of Charity From American People Who Are Able to Give.

SAMUEL ROTHBERG VOICES AN APPEAL.

For the first time in the history of the Jews of the United States a general appeal has been made in the aid of suffering Jews—suffering not from natural but unnatural causes. A million of human beings are in dire distress and want, and all precedents have been broken in the Senate of the United States by having passed a resolution calling upon the President to issue a proclamation to aid these sufferers. The President has fixed today, and in addition to this ringing proclamation I add my humble voice in asking my fellow-citizens of Plainfield, in whose midst I have lived for twenty-eight years, and whose liberality and good will I appreciate, to contribute cheerfully to this fund, whose object is to humanize and restore in a measure the fallen victims of oppression and war. Am I appealing in vain? SAMUEL ROTHBERG

That they may contribute their mite to the fund being raised in the United States for the buying of bread for the living and shrouds for the dead Jews of war-ravaged Europe, Plainfield people will meet at the Knights of Columbus Hall tonight. The meeting is to be held under the auspices of the Plainfield branch, American Jewish Relief Committee.

William Newborn will preside and the list of speakers includes the Hon. James E. Martine, United States Senator, the Hon. Leighton Calkins, Mayor of Plainfield, the Hon. William L. Smalley, Mayor of North Plainfield, the Rev. C. M. Anderson, the Rev. David de Sola Pool, and the Rev. J. Y. Broek.

While the money secured is to be used for the relief of Jewish sufferers in the war zone people of all races and religions will have a part in raising the fund, for the charity is of such magnitude that it is a work of the world, not of a single set of people or a country.

Wonderful pictures of the famine and fear, the suffering of women and babes, old men and crippled young men, will be drawn by the speakers tonight to illustrate the need of giving in America. They will tell of thousands of little ones, who know nothing of hate, victims of passions they do not comprehend, starving and freezing in the war-stricken sections of Russia, Poland, Galicia and Palestine, where the iron feet of Mars have trampled down all that is in life but the living, and has all but destroyed that. They will tell of mothers who feed their starving babes with the flesh and blood of their own badies, who literally give their last drop of warm blood that an infant son or daughter may exist for a few more hours in the hope that relief will come, and they will ask that Plainfield people, who are surrounded by wealth and happiness, give a little that will not be missed that this hunger and want and death may be stayed.

It is expected by members of the committee of fifty that is in charge of the relief fund here that $3,000 will be given. A number of individual contributions have already been received by Treasurer Schwed and local societies and organizations are pledging to send in checks within a short time.

I. O. B. A. GIVES $25 TO JEWISH WAR RELIEF FUND

At a meeting of Plainfield Lodge, I. O. B. A., held last night, it was voted to give $25 from the treasury of the lodge to the fund for the relief of Jewish war sufferers. This donation will be made in addition to the individual pledges of each member.

KNIGHTS OF ZION TO DONATE $5 TO FUND

Plainfield Lodge, Knights of Zion, which is made up of the younger Jewish men of this city, voted a donation of $5 to the Jewish war relief fund yesterday, through a special meting of officers. Most of the members are making individual donations.

His Betrothal to Miss Mary J. Ingham, of South Norwalk, Conn., Announced.

SEQUEL OF A ROMANCE

Bride-to-Be Is a Graduate Nurse and Cared For Mr. Smith During Serious Illness—Couple to Be Married Early In February.

Considerable surprise was occasioned here today over the announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Jane Ingham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ingham, of South Norwalk, Conn., to William Palmer Smith, of Belvidere avenue, this city. The wedding will take place early in February, after which the couple will make their home at the Biltmore, New York city.

The announcement is the sequel of the romance of a pretty nurse and a wealthy patient. Miss Ingham nursing Mr. Smith several months ago when he was seriously ill at Muhlenberg Hospital. The acquaintanceship at that time ripened into friendship and the subsequent announcement of the engagement.

Miss Ingham is twenty-nine years old and very attractive. At the time she was summoned to this city to care for Mr. Smith, she was engaged nursing in New York city.

Mr. Smith has been a resident of Plainfield for many years, where he has to some extent been identified with the progress of the city. He is a member of the New York Stock Exchange, and of the firm of Breese & Smith, of 96 Broadway, New York. CORDIAL RECEPTION GIVEN TO PLAINFIELD PARTY

A cordial reception was given by those in charge of "The Biederwolf Campaign" in Allentown, Pa., to the members of the Plainfield party on the occasion of their visit to that city Tuesday night to hear Dr. Biederwolf. Seats were provided on the platform, from which an unobstructed view was obtained of both the evangelist in action and the effect of his preaching on the audience of six thousand people that had assembled to hear the evangelist.

The Allentown tabernacle can accommodate about 10,000, and is practically filled every night, while on Sundays thousands are turned away, it is said. The singing of the twelve hundred men and women of the choir is most inspiring. Dr. Biederwolf is said to be a forceful speaker, convincing his audience of his earnestness and sincerity. He is assisted by an organized party of ten, including a male quartet, choirmaster and a leader for work among women.

D. A. R. RECEIVE HISTORIC GIFTS

Continental Chapter Holds Interesting Meeting at Home of Mrs. C. R. Banks.

REPORTS ARE RECEIVED

Mrs. C. W. McCutchen Tells of Valuable Articles Added to Collection—Xmas Cheer Committee Tells of Its Work—Guests Entertained.

Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, chairman of the Washington Rock committee, gave an exceedingly interesting account of the historic pieces of furniture purchased and of the gifts received at the monthly meeting of Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held at the home of Mrs. Charles R. Banks, on Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. McCutchen stated that some interesting articles have also been loaned.

Mrs. Banks gave her report as chairman of the Christmas Cheer Committee, which sent a barrel of groceries, clothing, bedding and Christmas gifts to a family in the "Pines." This family descends from Revolutionary stock, as do many of the unfortunate families living in the cranberry bogs. Encouraging letters have been received from this family and the chapter will continue its interest with the members.

Miss Dietrich, Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Fiske delighted the members with an interesting account of their Panama-Pacific trips, and when the closing hour arrived all expressed the wish that there women will continue their graphic and instructive descriptions at a future meeting.

Mrs. Elliott, of Quincy, Illinois, was a guest and told of the splendid work being accomplished in her chapter. Mrs. Stillwell, of Somerville, a member of Camp Middlebrook Chapter, graciously congratulated the chapter upon the success of its work at Washington Rock. Mrs. Lamar VanSyckel and Mrs. William T. Pelletier were also guests. The hostess served refreshments during a social hour. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, February 15, the place to be announced later.

The national conference was being held in San Francisco while Miss Dietrich was there and at the reception for visiting Daughters she was honored by being asked to preside at the tea table, which invitation she accepted.

MAYOR HEADS CITY HALL COMMITTEE

Building Will Not Be Sold for $1,000 It is Officially Stated.

Mayor Leighton Calkins was persuaded to accept the chairmanship of the City Hall committee at a meeting of that body held last night. Andrew J. Gavett was chosen as secretary. This committee is made up of the Mayor, President Blatz, of the Common Council, and Councilmen Hylan, Bird and Booth. The two officers elected last night will remain in charge of its affairs for the life of the committee.

The committee voted to ask newspapers to correct a statement that appeared recently in one of the local dailies that the Brooks house would be sold for $1,000. No such figure has been fixed or authorized by the committee, or any of its members, it was officially stated. This statement did not appear in the Press.

Mayor Calkins will still receive bids for the old frame building, which must be removed. It is believed that it can be made to bring a good price because of the material. In case it is not sold the city has a plan whereby it can be used.

"BILLY" SUNDAY TOO BUSY TO COME TO PLAINFIELD

An answer has just been received from "Billy" Sunday, in response to an invitation sent him a few days ago by the ministers and laymen of Plainfield, that it will be impossible for him to visit this city owing to the many demands on his time, and in view of the coming Biederwolf campaign, which, in his opinion, will serve the needs of the Plainfield people.

LABOR TO FIGHT CONSCRIPTION

English Trades Conference Opposes It by 1,577,000 Majority.

BILL PASSES LORDS

Working Men Pledged Their Support to Nation in War, But Do Not Believe in Compulsory Military Service.

New York, Jan. 27.—A despatch from Washington to the Evening Post says that relations between the United States and Germany are again strained. Germany, the message says, after protracted negotiations from which the American government had come confidently to hope for an amicable settlement, has failed even to approximate the American demands, and the situation is today at a deadlock.

Briston, England, Jan. 27.—By an overwhelming majority of 1,577,000, the Trades Union Conference in session here today adopted resolutions opposing compulsory military service in Great Britain.

Yesterday they out-voted the extreme Socialist anti-war section and adopted two resolutions expressing the patriotic resolve to carry the war through.

The first, pledging the conference to assist the Government as far as possible to carry the war to a victorious conclusion, was carried by a vote of 1,502,000 to 602,000; the second, entirely approving the action of the Parliamentary Labor Party in cooperating with other parties in the recruiting campaign, received 1,847,000 votes, as against 206,000 cast in the negative.

Almost simultaneously the Military Service bill passed its third reading in the House of Lords.

Germans Take French Trench.

The War Office today announced the capture by German troops of French positions on a front of 600 yards on the Viny-Neuville high road in the Artois district. One French officer, 52 men, a machine gun and three mine throwers were captured by the victorious Germans, who took the position by storm. The official statement said there was nothing new to report in the Balkan war theatre.

URGES GRADUATES TO BE PATRIOTIC

Sen. Frelinghuysen Delivers An Address at Normal Commencement.

Senator J. S. Frelinghuysen, of Somerville, is delivering the principal address at the commencement exercises of the New Jersey State Normal School being held in Newark this afternoon. In the course of his address Senator Frelinghuysen said:

"We are facing in this country today in the education of the children of America the greatest problem in our history. There are twenty million school children in the public schools of America, and there are 550,000 children in the schools of New Jersey. They are the children of today, but they will be the citizens of tomorrow. A large proportion of these are children whose parents were born under other flags with different ideas and customs. To you is given the task of making them good American citizens. You are to be the agency that is to make them patriots and a patriot is one 'who loves his country and zealously supports its authority and interest.'"

STORY OF A WEATHER VANE

Why a Grasshopper Tops the Royal Exchange in London.

If you ever go to London among the places of interest there you will visit the public buildings known as the Royal Exchange. There is a cupola at the top of that building. Rising from that cupola is an iron rod with a huge grasshopper on it for a weather vane. And there is an interesting story connected with that grasshopper. It is this: One day, more than 300 years ago, a mother in England had an infant, a few months old, which she wanted to get rid of. So she wrapped it up in a shawl and laid it down under a bush in a field and left it there to die unless some one should find it and take care of it.

Shortly after a little boy was coming home from school. As he passed by the place he heard a grasshopper chirping in the field. He stopped a moment to listen to it. Then he climbed over the fence to get it. But just as he was about to catch it he caught sight of the baby close by. He let the grasshopper go and, taking the baby in his arms, carried it home to his mother. She took charge of the baby and brought him up. He turned out to be a good, plucky boy. He was always decided in doing what he knew was right and in not doing what was wrong.

When a young man he went to London and entered into business there. He was successful in business and became rich. He was not only rich but great. He was knighted and is well known in English history as Sir Thomas Gresham. The Royal Exchange was built in honor of him. And he had the grasshopper put as a weather vane on the top of it in memory of the wonderful way in which he was an infant his life was saved by the good providence of God.—Richard Newton in Bible Models.

THEY PUZZLED HUXLEY.

Terms In Which He Found It Difficult to Define His Belief.

Huxley once wondered whether he was a deist, an atheist, an agnostic, a pantheist, a materialist or a skeptic, an idealist, a Christian, an infidel or a freethinker. And the more he reflected the deeper his problem. What answer will any one make? Dr. James C. Fernald in his work "Synonyms and Antonyms" defines each according to his own belief, as follows:

"The deist admits the existence of God, but denies that the Christian Scriptures are a revelation from Him. The atheist denies that there is a God, the agnostic denies either that we do know or that we can know whether there is a God. The skeptic doubts divine revelation.

"The infidel is an opprobrious term that might once almost have been said to be synonymous in its range. The crusaders called all Mohammedans infidels and were so called by them in return. The word is commonly applied to any decided opponent of an accepted religion.

"A freethinker is inclined or addicted to free thinking, especially one who rejects authority or inspiration in religion. A materialist cares interest only in the material or bodily necessities and comforts of life. A pantheist accepts the doctrine of pantheism. An idealist idealizes or seeks an ideal or ideal conditions. A Christian is one whose profession and life conform to the teachings and example of Christ.

"Pantheism is the doctrine that God and the universe are identical. It contrasts with atheism by its positive denial and with theism by its pantheistic doubt of the existence of God. It opposes that form of theism which denies the divine immanence and separates God from the world."

Keeping a Lamp Clean

Once in two months I boil up the wicks from the burners in a little soda water. In about ten or fifteen minutes I take them out and clean them with an old toothbrush, rinse and dry. I lay the wicks straight to keep their shape. They will be white and pliable. Then fill the lamps with suds (not too hot) and let stand awhile until all discolorings have vanished. Drain, wipe out and refill with kerosene, adding a teaspoonful of salt to each lamp. Lamps treated this way give a beautiful bright light and there is no fear of an explosion.—Boston Post.

The Young People's Society, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will have charge of the service at the Rescue Mission tonight at 8 o'clock.

PARENT-TEACHER CONFERENCE

One of the most important matters presented was that of the place for holding the next annual session of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers in November. It was suggested that the congress be invited to come to Plainfield, and serious consideration will be given to the matter. If held here it would mean that at least five hundred delegates would have to be provided for by way of entertainment, and the local associations are not sure that they would be able to handle such a large proposition.

Miss Bowman, librarian at the Plainfield Public Library, informed the conference that there is now to be found at the library books devoted to the particular needs of the associations, and they are available for use by any of the members. This announcement was received with considerable interest indicating as it does the tendency toward co-operation.

The women attending yesterday's gathering represented associations in Westfield, Garwood, Elizabeth, E Mora, Kenilworth, Dunellen, North Plainfield and Plainfield. Invitations were sent to the associations in Somerset county, but owing to the disagreeable weather, many representatives were unable to be present.

Mother's, fathers, doctors and nurses have given unstinted praise to the "Bloch." HOW STATE PRESS VIEWS EDGE RACE

Editorial Comment on His Announcement for Governor.

The following are a few of the many comments made by New Jersey editors on the candidacy of Senator Walter E. Edge for Governor:

Walter Edge, of Atlantic City, a man of force and purpose, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor of New Jersey, in a formal statement, which indicates a knowledge of his task and a desire to gain this great honor by an appeal to citizens who prefer service to ornamentation. Mr. Edge has made his own career by energy and labor, and has gained a special knowledge of State affairs in legislation and in communication with the people. He would make a good candidate for his party and a businesslike Governor, who might make his term memorable if he were given a fair chance. He would neither be King Log nor King Stork.—Newark Sunday Call.

For seven years Senator Edge has served in the Legislature and during that time he has been interested in the best progressive legislation that has been enacted. He is a successful business man, having risen from the ranks, and his record is without a blemish. One statement made by the candidate will appeal to many taxpayers—he believes that the Governor should be the responsible business manager of the State rather than the mere political leader of his party or a dancer in attendance at social gatherings.—Trenton Times.

Senator Edge courts attention as the business candidate, the man who looks upon the Governorship as a job requiring managerial ability as well as the graces that adorn social functions, or the bent for political leadership. It is a somewhat novel view of the executive function, yet who can deny that perhaps the greatest need of the State of New Jersey today is for an executive who will take hold of the administration of its affairs as a business proposition, applying to it the modern methods of co-ordination and efficiency which will result not only a great saving to the taxpayers, but the smoother and more economical running of the complicated machinery? * * * It is too early yet to speculate on the outcome of the primary, but it can be said of Senator Edge that he is a "hustler," and will be much in the public eye as the business candidate.—Camden Post-Telegram.

Senator Edge's candidacy is not unexpected. He has been edging toward it, if we may be permitted a phrase which seems peculiarly descriptive, for months. His years in the Senate, including presidency of that body, and a period in the acting Governorship, have given him a commanding position, not only in the section of the State near his home county of Atlantic, but throughout the Commonwealth. He will be a strong contender for the Republican nomination, no matter who else may enter the race.—Passaic Herald.

STATE HEALTH OFFICERS MEET IN TRENTON TONIGHT

Trenton, Jan. 27.—Now that the State Health Department has established a division of child hygiene and nursing to take up the baby-saving work, it is desired to secure all the information possible as to how babies are saved elsewhere. For this reason Dr. Henry L. K. Shaw, director of the division of child hygiene, New Yor State Health Department, has been invited to address the health officers' conference at the State House in Trenton tonight on the subject.

Assemblyman Arthur N. Pierson, of Union county, will open the discussion on Dr. Shaw's paper. From Mr. Pierson it is hoped to get the legislator's view of the baby-saving proposition.

MRS. A. E. BALL IS GIVEN VERDICT FOR $240

Elizabeth, Jan. 27.—After deliberating three hours and a half the Circuit Court jury in the case of Mrs. Mary A. E. Ball, who sued Frederick F. Proctor, et als., for injuries sustained in Proctor's Plainfield Theatre, May 10, 1913, returned a verdict yesterday afternoon in favor of the plaintiff for $240. $100 of this sum being for the plaintiff and $140 for her husband for the loss of her services. Mrs. Ball claimed that her injury, which happened in the balcony was due to the lights going out.

MARY WASN'T WISE.

When Mary Wise, nineteen years old, testifying yesterday in a criminal House, was asked the date of a certain occurrence she replied that she did not know even the year. "What year is this?" asked Assistant Prosecutor O'Connor. "I don't know," replied the girl. "I cannot read or write." The girl was born and reared in Elizabeth, and, except for her ignorance of reading and writing, appeared to be normal.

The management of the Plainfield Theatre makes an important announcement today regarding a change of policy in the playhouse beginning next week. Instead of a combination program of five acts of vaudeville and a feature film, the daily entertainment will comprise seven big vaudeville acts and high-class films of various kinds. Owing to the fact that "The Tourists," musical burlesque, will hold the boards next Monday afternoon and night, the new plan will be inaugurated Tuesday afternoon for the first. In connection with their change of policy, Messrs Counihan and Shanon have arranged with the leading New York agencies to furnish the Plainfield house with the best variety of vaudeville to be obtained. Every bill will contain the names of several headliners, and the accompanying numbers will be of equal merit in order to keep up the reputation which the West Second street playhouse has established. A list of some of the principal performers and specialty number will be announced from time to time. The scale of prices will be maintained as heretofore, performances being given at 2 every afternoon, and evenings at 7 and 9.

The new idea in film service will include the popular Hearst Vitagraph weekly, the animated newspaper which vividly portrays to the spectator the latest doings of the world. This feature alone represents a large expense, but is to be given in connection with the regular vaudeville show, changes occurring twice each week. It has always been the aim of the Plainfield Theatre management to make the house the most popular amsement resort in the city, an effort which has met with hearty response on the part of the local public, and it is believed that the new policy will continue to draw the capacity audiences noted in the past.

Musical comedy is perhaps the most popular form of entertainment but unfortunately certain producing managers for temporary gain have sent on tour musical productions so suggestive that they were offensive to people of refinement and good breeding. It is a pleasure to chronicle the coming of Max Spiegel' big fun show, "The Tourists," at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday, matinee and night, January 31. For this merry musical comedy is conceded to be one of the most successful of the many produced in recent years. It is a clean, wholesome and furiously funny entertainment. It is a corking good farce to begin with, simply overflowing with ludicrous situations and bright, sparkling repartee. The scenery and costumes are all new, and there is an unusually large number of song hits sung by the principals and a chorus who can really sing. The cast is headed by Leo Stevens and Ben Pierce.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

It is said that the bill of photo play features and vaudeville entertainment offered at Proctor's, starting today, is the best ever presented here. The Triangle program is headed by that famous Keystone comedy production, "A Submarine Pirate," one of the greatest comedies ever filmed. Syd Chaplin is the star and is assisted in the fun-making and the dare-devil deeds by an excellent cast. The prominent part played by the United States submarine and gunboat are worthy of particular mention. The dramatic Triangle play presented for the latter half of the week introduces three Broadway favorites namely, Mary Boland, Frank Mills and Willard Mack, in a fine dramatic and emotional photo-play, entitled "The Edge of the Abyss." To be concise, it is one of the greatest features of its kind ever presented on the screen. The vaudeville entertainment consists of the Newsboys' Sextet, whose splendid voices of rich tone and volume are a treat to listen to. Dave Kindler hands out a brand new grade of patter and parody; Larrage and George are refined singers and dancers, whose offering delights even the most fastidious, and LaPrince and Sanchez are skillful aerial artists who exhibit a wonderful array of difficult and daring feats. The fourth episode of "The Red Circle" will be shown as an added feature tomorrow and continues to be the talk of the town. Bring the kiddies on Saturday for the toy matinee will take place and all the children will receive hand some toys.

RECREATION NOTES

A public demonstration of practical dressmaking will be given at Washington School tonight by Miss Scarborough. The number and variety of garments which can be cut and made from one full piece of long cloth, the full cost of each garment, and the great saving of money will be a marvel to all who attend the class. The public is invited. A small fee, ten cents, will be charged, but the lesson is invaluable, and no doubt many will take advantage of this unusual opportunity.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which irritates and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Adv.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Lustre and Abundance.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.—Adv.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS OF AUTOS.

There are too many drunken drivers of automobiles in the State of New Jersey, according to the latest report of the Department of Motor Vehicles and magistrates in all counties and municipalities are urged to be more severe in punishing those who endanger life and limb while driving under the influence of intoxicants.

"A great many accidents, some of them resulting fatally, as the result of intoxicated men driving, have been reported during the year, and unless the department is assisted by the magistrates of this State in bringing home forcibly to the minds of the motoring public the serious consequences of driving a car while intoxicated, then the efforts of the department in ridding the roads of these heinous offenders will be very much nullified."

This summing up is correct. Any owner of an automobile should be privileged to play with his own life and property at will, if he will lock himself in his own yard where he cannot possibly injure others, but a peculiar feature of this form of dangerous amusement is that the driver usually escapes while some innocent person must suffer. The law that permits magistrates to revoke automobile licenses when a driver is found to have been using his car while under the influence of liquor is one of those that should be enforced to the letter.

That America is united for preparedness was evidenced on the floor of the House, Tuesday, when Congressman James R. Mann, of Illinois, minority leader, delivered a ringing plea for unqualified, non-partisan support of the administration policy. Many Congressmen of the Republican party had openly advocated the Wilson plan before, but Representative Mann was the first leader of weight to align himself with Wilson. He has always been known as a "small army and navy" man in past sessions and is one of the most conservative men in the entire Congress. When such men as Congressman Mann urge preparedness as the only means of preserving the nation it is time to forget the silly prattle of Bryan and Ford and begin to prepare.

All Plainfield should feel a responsibility for the raising of the fund here to be used in buying food and clothing for Jewish sufferers in Europe and every man, women and child who can possibly do so should attend the mass meeting to be held at the Knights of Columbus Club tonight. No better cause ever solicited. Across the ocean there are thousands of women and children who have committed no crime except that they were Jews and lived in Europe, who are without food and who are dying in hundreds every day for lack of care, while we have every luxury. A few cents from every American would give them life and hope for the struggle that is theirs and no one would miss it.

MUTUAL.

A prize-fight promoter suggests that if Uncle Sam wants to really prepare for defense he should train a vast army of boxers. If the government could not turn out a better brand than representatives of the art now before the public we would be as defenseless as the Island of Corfu.

A Newark coal dealer committed suicide the other day and they are looking for a motive. We know nothing of this particular case, but if it is established that he was without a conscience he must have been overworked.

Bryan is planning to go to Europe for Henry Ford. If Mr. Ford backs down on expenses at the last moment we can suggest an individual who might put up the necessary funds, through—charity.

Col. House may not have been sent to Europe to establish peace but he is certainly setting rulers there a good example.

The Kaiser will be fifty-seven today. And he has a different variety of trouble for every year he has lived.

INSPECTION TRIP INSTRUCTIVE

walked or were taken in automobiles to the company's office.

Each guest was provided with a cap and duster, and in small groups they were placed in the care of guides and sent through the plant, every detail of the great industry, which is largely operated today by automatic machinery, being thoroughly explained. At the present time the plant is shipping about twenty-five to thirty-five carloads of cement daily.

After the stone is thoroughly crushed it is stored in bins where it is dried, while being sampled for analysis. The latter determines the amount of limestone required and the limestone is added at the scales over the preliminary grinding machinery. From these mills the mixed stone is reduced by tubemills to powder of a fineness of about 87% through a sieve having approximately 40,000 meshes to a square inch. This finely gound mixture is then burned with pulverized coal at a temperature of about two thousand eight hundred degrees in rotary kilns, from which it is conveyed to two rotary coolers, after which the cooled clinker is taken by a second conveyor to the clinker storage pin.

The clinker as needed is drawn from storage, transferred to clinker grinding mill by conveyor and at this point gypsum is added and the mixture is reduced by kominuters and finished by tubemills. It is then conveyed to one of the three stockhouses. Upon receipts of orders coment is drawn from the stockhouse bins, conveyed to packing machines and packed in either barrels, cotton sacks or paper bags by ingenious machines, and loaded on cars for shipment.

After this inspection a number took advantage of the opportunity to take an automobile ride about town, the machines being provided by the company. The train left Siegfried at 5 p. m., and on the way supper was served, those from Plainfield reaching this city about 7:30.

Why Not?

Why is it when I go to buy
A new song-record for my Ed.,
(Or Col. or Vic., if you deny
The merit of the thing I've said)
The record that the jane puts on
Sounds better than old wheat to me,
But that the beauty all has gone
When it gets home—how can this be?

The talk-machine I have is quite
The best that money can obtain:
My needle-points are new and bright.
But yet that newly-purchased strain
Is not so sweet when it is played
Upon my fine machine at home
As when it's put on by the maid
Who wears a rhinestone-crusted comb.

Each day I proudly carry thence
A piece that's quite the best, at last!
It simply has to sound immense
Within my living-room so vast.
But it sounds commoner than dirt
When reproduced for wife and kid—
What can it be that chemic Gert
Unto that record went and did?

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The High Cost Of Specialism

If we could publish some of the letters written by readers who have paid the price of consulting specialists of their own selection we fear the specialists would never forgive us. We suspect the ever marketable joke about the doctor's bill is kept alive by this popular habit of consulting specialists.

There are all kinds of specialists, most of them competent practitioners in their own limited fields. There are also self-styled "specialists" who specialize in whatever the patron happens to complain of. And then there are family doctors. Oh, yes, there are still family doctors practising, and some of them with considerable success.

Every day some one writes in to ask if we will kindly recommend a specialist on the ear, the stomach, the foot, the elbow, or whatever portion of the anatomy seems to be at fault. We reply courteously, after a week or two, to the effect that it is contrary to the best interests of the community, et cetera, and we suggest that the logical person to recommend a specialist, if a specialist is needed, is the family doctor.

Now we have said some pretty mean things about the family doctor, and he has not hesitated to talk back. But we wish to go on record with the following:

Four out of five patients who carry their troubles direct to a specialist, in order not to waste time on the family doctor, would be better off physically and financially if they had chosen to see a family doctor first.

A specialist is a physician whose knowledge and experience is limited, not all-inclusive. Of course he has had a general medical training, and should have a few years of general practice before entering upon special practice, but as a general rule the competent specialist is unable to treat skilfully anything outside of his immediate field.

The specialist is a blessing to suffering mankind, but suffering mankind should rely upon the family doctor to point the way to these blessings.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Universal Misinterpretation

Maybe you could help me, writes J. K. I have pains in the small of my back, caused by kidney trouble, I suppose.

Answer—Your kidneys are not in the small of your back, and "kidney trouble" practically never causes pains in the back—you've been reading somebody's almanac.

Streptococcic Sore Throat

Please explain what is meant by "streptococcus sore throat"? Is it difficult to tell it from scarlet fever? Is it contagious, and if so, why are the houses not placarded?

Answer—Acute, and severe, sore throat caused by the streptococcus (a virulent germ). It is sometimes difficult to diagnose from scarlet fever sore throat. It is as contagious as diphtheria. Health officers are diffident. Anyway, placarding is no bar to contagious disease.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.

Vest Pocket Essays

BY GEORGE FITCH

SNOW

Snow is water which is suffering from exposure. It is produced in the sky during the thick underwear months and falls to earth with amazing fluency and grace in a quiet and gentle manner which as yet has not been successfully imitated by our falling aviators.

Snow when it first arrives is pure and beautiful like the campaign pledges of the politician. But like those same promises, it changes complexion rapidly and melts away, leaving a lot of dirt and hard feeling behind. There is nothing more splendid and inspiring than the arrival of a foot of snow and nothing more sloppy and oozy and dejecting than its departure. Snow can outwear its welcome more quickly than any other guest, except perhaps the toothache.

Snow is very mild and inoffensive and is a great beautifier. It falls over the dirty street, the unkempt back yard, the paintless shed and the sleeping drunkard in the alley and covers over all these imperfections with spotless white mounds. But for all this, it is a great curse. It also sprawls over our sidewalks and compels us to wade through it on our way to town. A shoeful of beautiful snow will produce chilblains, pneumonia and bronchitis for the wearer without extra charge. We, of the United States, waste a lot of time prosecuting gamblers and confidence men, which might better be spent in making it unhealthy for the horny-hided loafers who sit before their fires and let women and children wade through the snow on their walks outside. Such men should be carefully collected and segregated in the desert of Sahara, where there is neither snow nor sidewalks for it to fall upon.

Among the crimes committed by the beautiful snow is the snowdrift. Snow is a great traveler and loves to gather in ten-foot deep conventions in railroad cuts, thus making the morning mail seventeen hours late. When snow is moist, it can also be moulded into a small, hard ball and discharged with frightful velocity by a small boy. Because of this fact, the gas lamp and the plug hat have gone almost entirely out of style.

Many beautiful poems have been written about the snow by those who enjoy seeing it fall, and have plenty of husky relatives to remove it when it gets undesirable. But some of our most complicated and corrosive conversation has also been invented by citizens wading home at night through two feet of snow, after the street-car system has been extinguished; or who have just been assaulted with a ten-bushel avalanche from some neighbor's slanting roof.

Views Of The Press

Rudyard Kipling

The fiftieth birthday of Rudyard Kipling fell on December 30. The reading public is glad that Kipling at fifty is in good health and comfortable circumstances, yet regretful that the flame of his creative genius has died down to a mere spark. One may always hope that the flame will burn brightly again, but the author's devotion to English politics is not encouraging. More true than flippant is the prediction that future critics will say that "Kipling was born a poet and died an Englishman."

In his stories and poems of India is concentrated the real genius of Kipling. He saw India with a comprehending eye—"It came into him life and went out from him truth." He saw the faults and virtues of the British administration; he understood the servile but always aloof Hindus. He had the double gift of clear insight and adequate expression. In one short passage, for example, he packs a world of meaning: The Hindu, Grish Chunder, says, "I am afraid to be kicked, but I am not afraid to die, because I know what I know. You are not afraid to be kicked, but you are afraid to die. If you were not, by God! you English would be all over the shop in an hour, upsetting the balances of power and making commotions."

Kipling is above all a lover of strong men. His great aversion is a namby-pamby person, one who is not wise enough to be good and not courageous enough to be bad. If Kipling has a "message" it is to work and play with all the vigor of your heart and mind. In his stories the greatest compliment paid a man is when his superiors mercilessly load him down with work. To struggle and conquer by power of will and force of character—that seems to be Kipling's conception of the highest office of man.

Kipling is not an all-seeing, celestial poet, like Shakespeare, Milton, Wordsworth, George Herbert or Emerson. But he is always wholesome, always urging one to stand firmly on his feet and welcome action in any form. Apparently Kipling is willing to have a man work and love, suffer and sin, if he will only look you in the eye, fearing nothing and asking nothing. "The race is run by one and one, and never by two and two."—Rochester Democrat.

People's Legal Friend

One For Connecticut

The following is an extract from the will of Lewis Morris, of Morrisania, who was the father of the celebrated orator and statesman, Gouverneur Morris of New York, who died in 1816. It is a curious instance of the manner in which men sometimes seek to perpetuate their animosities beyond the tomb, and to transform the probate records into a book of doom.

His will recites:

"My desire is that nothing be mentioned about me, not so much as a single line in a News Paper, to tell the World I am dead: it is my Desire that my son, Gouverneur Morris, may have the best education that is to be had in England or America, but my express will and directions are, that he never be sent for the purpose to the colony of Connecticut, Lest he should imbibe in his Youth that Low Craft and Cunning so Incident to the People of that Country, which is so interwoven in their constitutions that all their Art cannot Disguise it from the World, Tho' many of them under the Sanctified Garb of Religion have endeavor'd to Impose themselves on the World for Honest Men."

It does not appear in what way the colonists of Connecticut had incurred the wrath of the testator. In any event, the will was written so long ago that any acrimony which accompanied it has doubtless long since been lost by limitation.—Ancient, Curious and Famous Wills, by V. M. Harris.

Sober Second Thought

The Impulses of our Nature do not Lead us, they Arouse us. And no man is fit to contend gloriously for a Fact or for a Cause until he is thoroughly Aroused. But to act upon FIRST Impulses is an unwise and most disastrous policy.

Halter your Impulses with Sober Second Thought.

You will never lose anything by carefully Thinking things over before you act. In fact, it is our Sober Second Thoughts that give us courage to carry through successfully what comes to us as necessary to be done. Cool heads are always wiser than hot heads.

Halter your Impulses with Sober Second Thought.

Most of the regrets of the world arise from important things done on Impulse, which if but introduced at once to Sober Second Thought, would not have been done at all. Many a man has resigned a good position on Impulse only to be left for months and years working up to where he left off. Sober Second Thought is a companion worth cultivating.

Ma And Her Auto

Before we take an auto-ride pa says to ma, "My dear,
Now just remember I don't need assistance from the rear;
If you will just keep still back there and hold in check your fright,
I'll take you where you want to go and get you back all right.
Remember that my hearing's good and also I'm not blind,
And I can drive this car without suggestions from behind."

Ma promises that she'll keep still,
then off we gayly start;
But soon she notices ahead a peddler and his cart.
"You'd better toot your horn," says she, "to let him know we're near.
He might turn out," and pa replies:
"Just shriek at him, my dear."
And then he adds: "Some day some guy will make a lot of dough
By putting horns on tonneau seats for women folks to blow."

A little further on ma says: "He signaled for a turn."
And pa says: "Did he?" in a tone that's hot enough to burn.
"Oh, there's a boy on roller skates," ma cries. "Now do go slow;
I'm sure he doesn't see our car." An'
pa says: "I dunno,
I think I don't need glasses yet, but really it may be
That I am blind an' cannot see what's right in front of me."

If pa should speed the car a bit, some rigs to hurry past, Ma says: "Now do be careful! You are driving much too fast."
An' all the time she's pointing out the dangers of the street,
An' keeps him posted on the roads where street cars he will meet.
Last night when we got safely home,
pa sighed an' said: "My dear,
I'm sure we've all enjoyed the drive
you gave us from the rear."

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Bibbley Wah Loved the Little Frenchies' "Beesh."

Uncle Ben's Gardener Nursed Biche.

"BIBBLEY WAH night!" shouted Evelyn almost before daddy sat down.

"One of the interesting members of the little Frenchies' family," daddy obligingly began, "was a funny old hound by the name of Biche, only the eleven Frenchies pronounced it 'Beesh.' He was so old that his teeth had mostly dropped out, and what he got to eat the children had to cut up and put in his mouth. Sometimes they forgot this. Often they forgot to bathe him. So, what with lack of water and fitful food, his coat was never smooth. He always looked as if moths had been eating him. But he had a lovely disposition and never snapped at the French baby, Emile, when five or six kiddies tried to ride on his poor bent back. And he had the kindest eyes in the world, great, soft, brown eyes that believed in everybody.

"Once when Biche got his leg broken in a fight with some quite fierce stray dogs that were chasing Uncle Ben's sheep the little Frenchies' father, who was Uncle Ben's gardener, spent so much more time nursing Biche than he did taking care of the greenhouse that Uncle Ben said the poor old hound must be shot. But all eleven of the Frenchies and Bobbie and Jim and Bibbley Wah simply fell on Uncle Ben, weeping and begging him to spare their old pet. So kind hearted Uncle Ben himself turned in and nursed Biche.

"Then one winter day something tragic and terrible happened on the farm. Poor old Biche, who probably was nearly mad with hunger, forgot all about honor and loyalty. He became just like a savage dog of the wilderness, raced across the brook meadow and killed and ate one of Uncle Ben's choicest lambs. This settled the fate of the poor old moth-eaten Biche. He had to be shot, because nobody felt sure that he might not attack one of the children.

"Then the children had the greatest hunt trying to locate their old friend. All fourteen banded together to search the farm just the way Hank Fritz did when Bibbley Wah got lost. The little Frenchies, who really never had fed Biche enough, suddenly thought of all kinds of appetizing foods for him, and every time they went out to hunt for him took along enough in their pockets to have made him happy and gentle the whole past month of his sad end. Finally it seemed best to Uncle Ben to let the children know. So he begged Anne to tell them. Anne made a great event of it and postponed it a week. Then one night when she was putting Bibbley Wah to bed she came out with it, hoping Bibbley Wah would pass it along to the other children. But Bibbley Wah only looked at Anne with wide open eyes and said: 'I know he can't be dead or I would have got an invitation to his funeral. Because Beesh and my dog, Carlo, always played together.'"

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

To Please His Wife Jacob Townsend Must Neglect His Daughter.

"Daddy, when the drummer comes to town let me see his samples of suits; will you, please? I want something that I will not be ashamed of in the east. I suppose the girls at Smith are good dressers." Marian Townsend smiled into her father's face.

"Why, you had a very fine suit this spring and your broadcloth suit trimmed with fur is as good as new. I had not expected to get you another this fall. Your expenses will be high this year. You had better be contented with your suits and have a new coat." Mr. Townsend's tone was persuasive.

A frown gathered on Marian's face.

"I have been to a great deal of expense building and refurnishing," continued her father. "I intend to furnish you everything you need, but be as easy as you can on the pocketbook."

No answering smile appeared on the girl's face. She was thinking of the dozens of elaborate costumes hanging in the young wife's closet. That her father had bought them she knew, for a poor school teacher could never compass such a trousseau. So this interloper was to have everything she wanted while the daughter of the house went to college in a last year's suit and practiced economy. To do her justice the elegant furnishings and lavish scale of living instituted by the bride did not exactly suggest poverty. Besides, this was the first time she could remember that a request for clothes had been refused; just when it made the most difference, when she was most anxious to have everything right.

"Can't we work it that way?" asked the father kindly

"I do not see why the wife should have clothes fit for a princess and the daughter be forced to go among strangers in a last year's suit." All the pent-up hatred of the new wife charged the atmosphere as Marian exploded this bomb in the sunny room.

"Marian, you may go to your room," said Mr. Townsend, turning pale with surprise.

The family sat in utter silence as the sound of the girl's stormy passage through the house died away. When the awkward silence could be borne no longer, Dudley excused himself and followed his sister upstairs.

"You have a charming daughter." Ortrude turned toward her husband a scornful smile, curling her lips. Mr. Townsend leaned his head on his hand in silence. His wife rang for the dessert.

Dudley tapped at Marian's door and called: "Let me in, little sister."

The key turned in the lock and when he entered Marian threw herself into his arms, sobbing wildly.

"I hate her! I hate her! I can never live under the same roof with her."

Dudley held the petted, spoiled girl in his arms till she was quiet, then led her to the window, placed her in a chair and seated himself by her side.

"Now, Marian, I want to tell you something," he began quietly. "You can see that this sort of thing will never do. It will make the place a hell we none of us can stand."

"She is making a demon of me," burst forth the girl, her chest heaving again. "You know I was all right till she came. She acts like poison to me."

"She is here to stay. We cannot help that fact. You must learn to control yourself."

"Oh, don't you scold me, too. I can't stand it," sobbed the girl, covering her face with her hands.

"I am not scolding you, dear, and do not ask for anything more than you can help. You wouldn't if you saw the bills that daddy has to meet." Dudley drew his sister to his knee and kissed her wet cheeks.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Cut glass should be washed and rinsed in water that is not very hot, and of same temperature.

To clean frying pan or dripping pan or any other difficult cooking utensil, use crushed pieces of newspaper. After rinsing with hot water take several pieces of paper in turn, crush in the hand and rub thoroughly; you will find the kettle or pan will wash very easily.

When one's hands are very dirty, and time is precious, try using a little granulated sugar with the soap.

Always put baking soda in the cake by sifting it with the flour. When you mix it with hot water or in the sour milk it gives off the gas that should be in the cake to raise it. This is not lost when you sift with flour.

To remove stains from ivory handles of knives and to keep them from turning yellow, rub with pieces of lemon, then wash in soap and water, dry thoroughly.

Use the dry dustless duster on your windows occasionally; it will remove the film of light gray dust and polish the glass. When the duster begins to wear out, rub your stove with it; it will save the labor of frequent blacking.

FAVORITE RECIPES FOR MAKING SOUPS

Corn Soup—Put one can of corn through the meat grinder, then through a coarse sieve; add two quarts of milk, one tablespoon corn starch, wet with a little cold water or milk, salt and pepper to taste, butter size of egg. Boil until it is creamy.

Spinach Soup—Pick over carefully, wash and boil enough spinach to measure a pint, when cooked; chop into a soft paste, put into a stew pan with four tablespoons butter, salt and pepper to taste. Cook for five minutes; add two quarts of stock, or milk. Let this boil up, then rub through a strainer and serve with squares of toast.

Tomato Soup With Whipped Cream—Strain one can of tomatoes through a sieve, scald thoroughly. Heat three large cups milk, add two tablespoons butter and two tablespoons flour; mix well, season with salt and pepper; put one-half teaspoon soda into the tomatoes before mixing with the milk. Serve in soup plates with a spoonful of whipped cream.

Veal Soup—Cover a knuckle of veal with cold water and simmer two hours. When it starts to boil skim a few times, then your broth will be nice and clear; remove the veal when tender, add a half cup well washed rice and some parsley; season to taste; cook until rice is tender.

Calm Soup—Twenty-five large calms, one cup boiled milk, one blade of mace, pepper to taste; scrub calms clean, put into deep kettle; add one cup cold water, cover. When the calms have opened, skim out and drain off the liquor; to four cups broth add two cups hot water, mace and pepper; chop the clams fine; add to the hot liquor; then add hot milk.

THE TABLE

Fruit Salad—One orange, one apple, one slice pineapple, six walnuts, six marshmallows. Cut all into small pieces and moisten with fruit juices and mayonnaise.

When done add teaspoon of butter.

Graham Scones or Biscuit—Three cups graham flour, two cups white flour, one level teaspoon salt, one level teaspoon fresh baking soda, one tablespoon butter or shortening, one pint or more of good, thick, sour milk or buttermilk. First heat oven. Into flour sifter put white flour, salt and baking soda that has been well mashed with a dry knife. Mix shortening and flour together. Add graham flour, mix well by rubbing between hands, then add sour milk enough to make good soft dough. Roll out quickly, cut in squares, bake in quick oven. Scotch scones are made same way, using all white flour. To make these successfully, work quick, knead little, have quick oven. Take out of pan when baked and cover with napkin till eaten.

Stuffed Baked Apples—Remove cover from medium-sized apples, fill cavities with filling made of bread crumbs, chopped walnuts and cinnamon. Bake as any ordinary apple. They are fine.

My Dog.

Whenever I start to go to school
Rags tags behind me, and 'tis cruel
The way I have to shake my head
And tell him, "Now go home to bed!"

As I look back he's sitting there
With such a sad and doleful air,
His ears are down—his tail is, too—
How can I leave a friend so true

When I return from school, why, he Is happy as a dog can be!
He's standing up—his eyes, so bright,
Just twinkle as I come in sight.

It's hard for Rags, 'cause, don't you see,
He don't love no one else but me.
He only wags his tail to some—
He wags his whole self when I come.

The Great Need of Love.

We don't all seem to understand that love is just as essential to the proper development of the spiritual body as milk is to the development of the physical body. But it is, and a lack of this soul food is the chief cause of the imperfect development of the spiritual body and the consequent smallness, if not absence of soul. Have you ever known a good and great man who grew up without the heart love of a mother, or some one who had given freely of heart love to feed and nourish his young spirit?—Erasmus Wilson, in Pittsburgh Gazette-Times."

A Word of Warning.

It has often seemed to me in watching parents and children that the child is discouraged in his attempts to carry out any plan or play to completion by the mere fact that he knows that the parent may descend arbitrarily at any moment and arrest his efforts with the command to "Come in now, it is time for lunch;" or "Stop reading now, it is time to go to bed." I have tried to avoid this by allowing, whenever possible, some leeway in the matter of time. For instance, the child is given the feeling of bringing his play to completion in his own way if I say, "In five minutes it will be lunch time, you can have one more ride," or whatever the play may be. Or with the older ones I say, "It is almost bedtime. When you come to the next good stopping place you must put your book away."

This method not only avoids the effect of suddenly arresting a purpose or a consecutive impulse, but it gives the child the feeling that his own wishes in regard to his occupation are of some importance, and it removes the suggestion of arbitrary control.

1916 is Baby Year.

The fact about American babies, the needs of American babies and America's responsibility to her babies will this year be known as never before, because the first week in March will be baby week throughout the country.

More than 400 communities, representing every State in the Union, are already laying their plans for baby week, according to the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, in order that during those seven days the needs of the babies may be so presented that all the parents in those communities will learn a little better how to care for their babies and all the citizens will realize that they have a special obligation to safeguard the conditions surrounding babies. It is confidently believed by those who are interested in this nation-wide baby week that the remainder of the year will be marked by a strengthening of all community activities for saving babies' lives and giving them a better chance to grow to a healthy maturity.

The baby week idea originated in Chicago not quite two years ago. Then New York had a baby week, and Pittsburgh and other cities. Such practical benefit has in each case resulted that the General Federation of Women's Club has undertaken to promote this nation-wide observance. State health officials and national organizations interested in public health and child welfare have taken up the plan, and in various ways are giving it not only their sanction, but their active co-operation. The extension division of the State universities have promised special assistance in interesting and helping baby week in rural communities.

Baby week will give more parents a chance to learn the accepted principles of infant care, and will awaken every American to his responsibility for the deaths of the 300,000 babies who, according to the census estimates, die every year before they are twelve months old.

Circular to Parents—Reasons Why.

"Parents"—Have you a child in the Leicester schools? If so, you should be members of the Leicester Parent-Teacher Association, because the co-operation between the home and the school is helpful to your child.

"Teachers'"—Are you interested in your schools and your pupils? If so, you should be members of the Leicester Parent-Teacher Association, because the co-operation of the parents with teachers is vital to you.

"All Others"—Are you interested in the public welfare of this community If so, you should be members of the Leicester Parent-Teacher Association, because the Leicester Parent-Teacher Association, in its co-operative work, is striving for the development of good citizens.

"Join Now"—Annual dues of this association is twenty-five cents, payable to the treasurer, Mr. Jordan.

This circular, called "Reasons Why," compiled by the Parent-Teacher Association, has created great enthusiasm in the town of Leicester, Mass. It has increased the member ship, it has kept the association before the public, and the advantage of early member ship was that each one, being a member by December 1, was given a membership card which entitles him to admission to all public functions of the association.

MUSICAL SERVICE.

DATES FOR ELKS' TILTS WITH PARKS

February 10 and 28 Set for Annual Matches at Meeting Held Last Night.

REOS' GAMES ARE VOID

Elks' Club Bowling Committee Orders First Match of House Tournament Schedule Rolled Over—Makes Difference In Standing.

At a meeting of the bowling committee of Plainfield Lodge of Elks, last night, dates were announced for the annual home-and-home series between the teams representing the Park Club and the Elks' Club. The first match will take place at the Park Club, Thursday evening, February 10, and the second at the Elks' Club, Monday night, February 28.

The bowling committee also threw out the first match played in the house tournament. The Cadillacs won three games from the Reos on January 11, but the winners used S. P. T. Wilbur in place of F. R. Emmons, who was not present. Although the former was on the waiting list, the bowling committee last night decided that the Cadillacs should have used Emmons' average, and had no right to use Wilbur until given permission. The games will be replayed on a date to be fixed later.

The decision will make an important change in the standing. The Cadillacs have been leading with six victories and no defeats. The Reos have bowled only three games, so they will be able to start again with a clean sheet. The Cadillacs and Fords are now tied for first place. The Fords roll tomorrow night against the Stutz team.

The Park Club pinners defeated the Elks last year. The rules adopted for this year's series provides that if there is a tie in the games won, total pins for the six games will decide the winner.

The annual matches between the two clubs are always made the occasion for a reception to the members of the visiting club, and the bowling is generally followed by a social and dance.

NEWARK KNIGHTS WILL GO IN K. C. CHAMPIONSHIPS

Bowlers from the Newark and Star of Bethlehem councils of the Knights of Columbus League will compete in the Knights' of Columbus Eastern bowling championship, to be held in March, on Thum's White Elephant Alleys, New York. The pinners will compete in the five-man, two-man and individual events.

Last year the Newark Council pinners captured the prize in the quintet division by rolling a total well over 2,70 for three games. In addition to each member of the team receiving a medal, the silver trophy, emblematic of the championship, was awarded to them. There will be no change in the line-up of the team, according to Captain Jack Speary. The other members will be Andrew Speary, Eugene Farrell, Edwin Barkhorn and Joseph Sullivan. The sixth man will be Harry Van Volkenburgh. In the doubles the Speary brothers will form one team, Farrell and Barkhorn another and Sullivan and Van Volkenburgh the third.

In the affair last season, held in Brooklyn, Captain Speary was the medal for the all-around average prize, tapping the wood for a 205.3 mark in nine games. His consistent pinning figured prominently in winnig the championship.

The following bowlers are expected to represent the Star of Bethlehem Council: Louis Cribbin, Timothy Kinny, John Farrell, Thomas Rowe, James O'Connor and Charles Dwyer. Just how they will pair off in the doubles is not known.

CARTER HAS A 70.

Phil Carter made a 70 over No. 2 course at Pinehurst, yesterday.

Fresh from their victory over North Plainfield High School last Saturday, the first and second quintets of New Brunswick will appear on the Plainfield High School court tomorrow afternoon, to play the Red and Blue first and second teams in the contest originally scheduled for Saturday. The locals are improving at every start and the defensive work of the guards is excellent, while the forwards are doing better.

The first teams will line-up as follows:

P. H. S.	N. B. H. S.
McDowell, Coudray	Breitkopf
Dunham	Fulton forwards
Linke	Linke

Wheelan	Herman

CANADIAN FIVE ON TABS' COURT TOMORROW EVENING

Bill Taylor will bring his speedy Canadians over to the T. A. B. S. Hall tomorrow night, to battle with the Abstainer basketeers. He will have the same strong line-up that represented Y. M. C. A. in the earlier part of the season. The Tabs will likewise present their strongest line-up, and with Kelly in the line-up, they should put up a very creditable showing. The T. A. B. S. seconds will line-up against the Queen City crew.

FIDDLE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

Atlanta, Jan. 27.—Fiddles of all makes and sizes, emitting every kind of a noise from a wheeze to a sonata began a four-day grind at the Auditorium today. The Old Time Fiddlers of Georgia are in session, and the annual championship is to be awarded. From every county has come at least one of the old timers, and there is keen competition, so keen, in fact, that the judges expect to have a hard time of it before Saturday night.

DATE FOR K. C. MATCH.

The Knights of Columbus League match, Newark at Paterson, postponed from January 14, will be rolled February 11.

ELKS POSTPONE.

MIXED COUPLES BOWL HEAD PIN

Novel Tourney at Columbus Club Won by Miss Donnelly and Strappe.

FOUR PRIZES AWARDED

Winners Get Candy and Cigars—Booby Prizes of Eye-glasses and Book On "How to Bowl" Won By Miss Powers and Mr. Kilbride.

Three dozen masculine and feminine exponents of bowling took part in a head-pin tournament for mixed couples, at the Columbus Club, last night. The men used regular head-pin rules, while their partners were given credit for all the pins they knocked down, whether they hit bottle No. 1 or not. Miss Mary Donnelly and James Strappe won high team score prize, with a total of 179. First prize was a box of candy for the lady, and a box of cigars for the gentleman.

Booby prizes for low score went to Miss Catherine Powers, whose score was 20, and John Kilbrid,e who rolled 22. Miss Powers was presented with a book of instructions, "How to Bowl," and Mrs. Kilbride was handed a pair of eye-glasses.

The women drew for partners. Not the least of the features were the feats of John Kilbride and Dan McAfee, who passed the head-pin six straight shots.

The affair was so successful that another may be held.

BASEBALL NOTES

Forty thousand dollars was the price Colonel Ruppert, of the New York Yanks, paid for Lee Magee, Nick Cullop and Joe Gideon, according to Ban Johnson. Johnson said Ruppert parted with $25,000 for Magee and $7,500 apiece for Gideon and Cullop. Cullop at one time played with the Cleveland Americans, and last season played with the Kawfeds.

Reb Russell, the White Sox holdout, came into the fold yesterday with his signature to a fat contract.

Joe Gideon, whose release was purchased by the Yanks from Harry F. Sinclair, is satisfied with his new berth.

Johnny Evers has been offered in trade by the Braves to the Cubs for Heinie Zimmerman, according to a report from the Hub.

With proper care a good baseball player should be in the game at thirty-five or forty years of age. According to Fielder Jones, the average life of a ball player in active service is much too short.

The teams in the big leagues are now being shaped up for the season, and it would puzzle a fortune-teller to decide just what the teams will be like when the season opens.

LOCAL PHYSICAL DIRECTOR LECTURES ON HEALTH FACTS

George A. Keene, a well-known physical director, of New York city and Plainfield, and former editor of the department of physical culture of Health Magazine, gave a very interesting and instructive lecture in the parlors of Truell Court, last night. In part Mr. Keene said:

"The carriage of the body and spine must be perfect, with every nerve, muscle and vital organ held in its normal position in order to give them a chance to perform their important duties. Every one of the six hundred millions of air cells must be supplied with an abundance of fresh air both day and night, if you desire twenty-four karat pure, red blood.

"Physical efficiency cannot be attained without deep breathing, stretching, relaxing and stimulating the nerve centres and blood circulation."

A class of fifteen ladies was organized, to meet in the parlors of Truell Court, Monday and Friday nights.

NEWSY SPORT SQUIBS FROM PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL

Owing to the midyear examinations being held from today until Tuesday, the College League basketball games will start on Friday and Monday afternoons at 1:30 instead of 2:15.

The game that was scheduled for the school court for yesterday afternoon between the Freshmen teams of Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools was postponed until the latter part of next week owing to midyear examinations.

"Toddy" Brower, captain of the swimming team, is making a desperate effort to have all of the members of the team eligible so as to be able to give Montclair a tough scrap on Saturday. The East Orange meet last Saturday was lost on that account, and Brower and Fields, two sure point winners, are "cramming" in an endeavor to achieve reinstatement.

Edward Crone, last year's football manager, is to act in that capacity for another year. Four games are certain, they being Rahway, Battin, South Side and New Brunswick, they being the schools in the league Plainfield has entered. Those games will be played right in with the rest of the schedule, which will include about ten games.

That College Basketball League that Physical Director Ralph Patch has started has already brought to light several players who are showing unusual ability, and as nearly all of them are freshmen, they should be valuable material for the 'varsity by the time they are seniors. Mr. Patch has his eye on them, and gives the promising ones valuable coaching.

CLOSE BASKETBALL GAMES IN Y. M. INDIAN LEAGUE

In the Y. M. C. A. Indian League basketball games played yesterday, the Iroquois defeated the Wawayandas, 4 to 1, and the Omahas trounced the Sioux, 4 to 3.

Fuller, Randolph, E. Whitford, Carson and Elliott each made one goal, while Boyle and Elliott each contributed one foul.

Rocky Fuller, Shepherd, Randolph and Goerz played on the Iroquois. Willett, Van Pelt, Johnson, Bender, Keidlering and Boyle on the Wawayandas; Kimball, Randolph, E. Whitford, Carson and Berkowitz on the Omahas, and Wilson, Hadley, Vail, Richards, Angleman and Elliott on the Sioux.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS' ANNUAL GYM EXHIBITION TOMORROW NIGHT

The boys' classes of, of the Young Men's Christian Association will give their annual gymnastic exhibition in the association gymnasium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The following classes will take part: Indian League College League and Employed Boys' Class.

The exhibition will consist of drills, gymnastic appartus work, pyramids, wrestling, fencing and games.

There will be no charge, and all friends of the boys are invited to attend.

WEINERT STOPS SAVAGE.

Charley Weinert gave Jim Savage a severe beating in New York last night, the Orange heavyweight's seconds throwing in the sponge in the seventh round.

POSTPONE SERIES.

The Elks' Junior League match, New Brunswick at Jersey City, on the books for last night, was postponed at the request of the College Town Antlers, who will roll the Plainfield colts at home tonight.

ATHENIANS SCORE NOTABLE VICTORY

Local Boys Out After the State Colored Basketball Championship.

ZEPHYRS NOSED OUT

Plainfield Girls Set Pace Until Fag End of Game, When Pair of Baskets Give Victory to New Brunswick Players.

In a very fast and exciting game, in the Plainfield High School gymnasium, last night, the Athenians took the much-touted Imperials, of Orange, into camp, and forced upon them the short end of a 29 to 22 score, thereby gaining a look-in for the colored basketball championship of New Jersey.

From the first whistle the Athenians maintained the pace that kills. Butler dropped in the first field goal, followed by two pretty ones from Vaughan. The imps seemed bewildered, and after working the ball up the floor by lightning passing, big Jack Hedgeman would snatch it and hurl it down to Vaughan or Greene, who were always there.

Daniels, despite a turned ankle, continued to outjump Simpson at the pivot position, and the crowd went wild when Vaughan or Greene tossed in a pretty one from a signal, the result of careful coaching by Benny Rosenson.

This was the second of a series of three games beween these two rival teams. The Imperials got away with the first one early in the season, and the third and deciding game will probably be staged here later in the season.

The Manhattan girls' team defeated the Zephyrs in the preliminary game by the score of 9 to 5.

Miss Cruze's two field goals kept the home girls in the lead until the last few minutes of the game, when New Brunswick came to life, and the dropping in of two field goals in succession by Miss Claggett, together with the consistent foul shooting of Miss Ivy, put her team on top.

MANY FEATURES TO GREAT MILLROSE ATHLETIC MEET

The biggest crowd that has ever seen an amateur athletic meet in New York packed Madison Square Garden last night, under the fire department officials refused to admit any more spectators. The occasion was the annual games of the Millrose A. A., an organization composed of the employes of the John Wanamaker stores and was full of features. Howard Drew equalled the world's indoor record for the 70-yard sprint. Joe Loomis was third. Five of the fastest men in America entered the 600-yard scratch race, Caldwell beating out Meredith by two yards. John W. Overton, of Yale, ran a great race in the mile and a half.

CAPABLANCA WINS.

Jose R. Capablanca, the Cuban chess champion, took a commanding lead in the Rice Memorial chess masters' tournament in New York, yesterday, by winning an adjourned game from David Janowski, of Paris. The former Westfielder has seven points to his credit, with none scored against him.

By handing Yale a 12-7 trimming in the P. H. S. College Basketball League, yesterday afternoon, the Cornell team bounced the Blue outfit out of second place and took berth there themselves. Harvard defeated Columbia, the team which has yet to win a game, and went over Princeton's head, that team remaining idle.

Cornell played a good game in defeating Yale 12 to 7, and showed improvement throughout the contest, both in shooting and team work. Johnson continued to be the main stay of the Red and White, while Bloomfield put in some good work. Newell was the only man that could do any scoring for the losers.

Dr. S. W. Stratton.

Dr. S. W. Stratton, chief of the U. Latin-America has not been using American standards, and the result is that U. S. trade has suffered.

CONTINUED INTEREST MARKS BORO REVIVAL

In the series of special services which are being conducted at the Grace M. E. church, the pastor, Rev. Charles S. Gillespie, gave a strong address, last evening, before one of the largest gatherings yet attendant at any of the revivals. The sermon was preceded by a song service led by Robert Boyd and assisted by his choir of forty voices.

During the service the pastor took occasion to thank members of the congregation for bithday cards sent to him during the day in remembrance of his natal day, the anniversary of which occurred yesterday. When he concluded his talk, Mr. Boyd paid his respects to the faithful members of the choir and presented those who had been the most regular attendants during the revival campaign with a carnation. The choir also presented Mr. Gillespie with a handsome bouquet of red roses and the Bible class of the church gave him an umbrella in remembrance of the occasion.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

THIS CITY SAVES LIVES OF 2,500

People Respond Nobly to Appeal for Aid of Jews of Eastern Europe.

WILL RAISE $3,000

Mass Meeting Attended by Crowd That Filled Columbus Club Auditorium—Fund Represents 1,500 Individual Contributions.

Responding to Chairman Newcorn's appeal that "every dollar means a life," more than $2,500 to be used in relieving the suffering of Jews in Poland, Galicia, Palestine and other parts of war-stricken Europe was given by the people of Plainfield at the mass meeting of last night, and it is expected that the $3,000 set as a goal by the local committee will easily be reached before tomorrow night.

Donations to the relief fund were in amounts ranging from $100 to twenty-five cents, and more than 1,500 people participated in the giving, attesting the sympathy that has been aroused locally for the great victims of the war who are starving and suffering tortures worse than death.

There were not many dry eyes in the audience that gathered at the Columbus Club last night after the Rev. David de Sola Pool, head of the Portuguese Synagogue in New York, told of conditions existing in Eastern Europe. Many who had given to the fund before he spoke doubled their contribution after they had heard his recital of the suffering and oppression borne by the Jews, and others who had felt that they could not afford to give, put into the fund money that they had intended to use for themselves. Business men turned in checks for $100, $50, $25, $10 or $5, according to their ability to give; young men and women gave from $5 to $1; children gladly offered the contents of their savings banks, one little girl of five years giving $10 that she had received as a birthday gift, and was saving for her summer vacation. Many men in the audience who had given once pledged themselves to donate the price of a cigar a day for weeks and gave again, and several turned their pockets inside out and gave every cent in their possession.

One man, who lived far out in the suburbs, had originally given $5. After hearing the appeal of Dr. Pool and that of Judge Newcorn, he walked to the platform and contributed fifty-five cents, every cent in his pocket, after which he trudged more than two miles to his home.

Treasurer Schwed and other members of the committee had not counted the contributions this morning, but all were well pleased with the

MANY ENJOY LECTURE ON HOLLAND, AT HIGH SCHOOL

An audience numbering more than four hundred persons enjoyed an interesting lecture on Holland as it is at the present time, in the Plainfield High School auditorium last evening. The speaker was Robert G. Weyh, Jr., and the lecture was one of the series given under the auspices of the Board of Education.

Those attending were given an unusual opportunity to see this little nation of peaceful people as it is when most of its neighboring countries are engaged in a devastating war.

There are three more lectures of the series. The next will be Thursday evening, February 17, when B. L. Baumgardt will talk on "Our National Parks."

The Leap Year idea was carried out during the evening, the young women present asking the men for dances. Van Eps orchestra provided the music for the affair. Refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jarvis were in charge of the affair.

Newark, Jan. 26.—The Newark Star and Newark Eagle again changed hands today when William Wallace Chapin, who secured them at a receiver's sale two weeks ago, disposed of both publications to Nathaniel C. Wright, Harry S. Thalheimer and H. G. Halsted. The new owners will operate the papers, taking charge Monday of next week.

Mr. Wright, and Mr. Thalheimer are owners and publishers of the Toledo, O., Blade, and will continue to manage that publication. Mr. Halsted is vice president of the Paul Block Co., Inc., of New York, which deals in advertising.

It is announced that the two papers will be independent in politics and policies under the new management. Both Mr. Wright and Mr. Thalheimer are in Newark today, accompanied by a number of attorneys. They will remain for some time, and will incorporate the company that is to operate the papers.

While no announcement of a sale price has been made, it is understood that Mr. Chapin sold at a profit over the price he paid the estate of James E. Smith. This was $235,000.

FAVORS NORMAL DEFENSIVE PLAN

Miss Janet Richards Says She is Not a "Believer in Peace at Any Price."

WAR IS OUT OF DATE

Speaker Declares That There Are Other Ways of Settling International Disputes—Gives Vitws and tional Disputes—Gives Views and Personal views and interviews with persons of international prominence, concerning the progress of the European war, local affairs and national legislation, occupied the attention of a large audience of women in the Hartridge School Auditorium, yesterday afternoon, when Miss Janet E. Richards, of Washington, D. C., delivered the sixth of her "Current Event" lectures in this city. Opening her talk, Miss Richards gave a brief resume of the progress of the various powers up to the present day, principally dwelling on the recent proposed blockade and conscription bill of the British and the great resources of the Germans. Coming in contact with people of wide knowledge of warfare, foreign ambassadors and attaches, Miss Richards has ample opportunity to hear the two sides of every question. She cited an instance of reading two papers on the probable outcome of the conflict, one saying that Germany has no shortage of food and that she will be able at any time to dictate her own peace plans, while another article says that the greatest sea power will win the war. But all these statements are mere deductions and the fighting goes on as before.

The blockade of the North Sea and the examination of every vessel that enters therein is strongly opposed by Norway, Sweden and Denmark, who, having no imports from Germany resort to America for their commodities. The Germans in the meantime are making strenuous efforts to gain possession of the Suez Canal, whereby they would have an open port for importation, and it is a safe prediction, said Miss Richards, that if she once gains control there, American merchants will be only too glad to send goods to her across the Atlantic Ocean, the Indian Ocean, up through the canal, up the Mediterranean Sea and on up through Turkey. Much anxious interest is centered in these two efforts of the strongest powers.

Probably the most interest was centered in the interview Miss Richard had with a noted Senator who spoke of the defense of this country and her equipment should she be attacked by an enemy. The latter theory, however, he dismissed with utter absurdity. He quoted that there

BOROUGH PARENT-TEACHERS HOLD INTERESTING MEETING

There was an exceptionally good attendance at the monthly meeting of the Borough Parent-Teacher Association held for the first time in the New Harrison Avenue School, yesterday afternoon, over one hundred being present. The members were so well pleased with the school that it was voted to meet there every other month, alternating with the Somerset Schol.

The fair held by the association last December was such a success that it was voted to make it an annual event. The treasurer reported that there was $653 in the recreation hall fund, an increase of $200 since the last meeting, which was held in November. Of this increase $175 was contributed by the fair.

Following the business of the afternoon, refreshments were served, Mrs. E. D. Hutchinson being chairman of the committee in charge of this part of the program. Following the meeting the members availed themselves of the opportunity of going through the school.

FUNERAL OF MRS. McKEON.

Numerous floral tributes were contributed by relatives, friends and neighbors. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the pallbearers being, John Flynn, Thomas Lynch and Elisha McKeon, of this city; John Culver, of Glen Ridge; Daniel Grey, of Dunellen, and George O'Neil, of New York.

FELT RICH AFTER IMBIBING LIQUOR

Borough Intruders Thought They Owned House and End up in Court.

Anthony Ammon, Jr., and Paul Overbaugh, two North Plainfield young men, whose homes are on upper Somerset street, were arraigned before Judge Daniel H. Beekman, in the Somerset county court, at Somerville, this afternoon, charged with larceny. Both defendants pleaded guilty to entering the summer home of Richard Fell, a New York business man, located at Watchung, on December 10 last, and appropriating five sweaters, several suits of clothes and other articles, valued in all at $80. Entrance was gained through the use of a key in the possession of Overbaugh, who at one time worked for the owner of the house.

According to the statement of Prosecutor Azariah Beekman, Overbaugh and Ammon were returning from a trapping expedition in the mountains on the day in question, and as they were passing the Fell house, decided to go in for the purpose of getting warm. They found no stoves or furnace going, but in prying into closest and corners located a quart of liquor. This they imbibed, and because of the effect it produced the intruders gained the idea they owned the place. The removal of the clothing and other articles was the result of this hallucination.

Mr. Fell took the stand, telling of the loss of the articles mentioned, but pleaded with the court to be lenient. Judge Beekman took his plea into consideration, and let the defendants off with a fine of $25 each, and placed them on probation for two years. He took occasion, however, to warn both young men that any kind of a repetition of the same offense would result in their being sent to a reformatory.

ENTERTAINMENT AND SMOKER IS ENJOYED

West End Civic Ass'n Provide Pleasant Evening for Members and Friends.

Under the auspices of the West End Civic Association the annual "smoker" was held in Coward's Hall last night, the affair being largely attended by members and friends. The entertainment committee provided plenty of good Havanas and corn-cob pipes, which were enjoyed, while Malcolm Shackelford, impersonator, banjoist and pianist, entertained with a program of excellent selection. His dialect songs and stories were especially good and brought forth rounds of applause. He also gave a clever impersonation of a Virginian court scene which was very amusing.

After the informal program, all adjourned to another room, where coffee, sandwiches, etc., were served under the direction of the committee, and the rest of the evening was spent in a social way. William J. Boyd was master of ceremonies for the evening, introducing the entertainer and having general supervision of affairs.

The officers of the association are: President, Thomas C. Vail; vice president, Joseph Edgar; secretary-treasurer, William J. Boyd. Last night's affair served to increase the interest of the members as well as their friends in the work that is being done by this civic body.

MRS. HARRY C. V. MIXNER, LAID TO REST IN ST. MARY'S

St. Mary's church was almost filled with relatives and friends this morning when a solemn requiem mass was conducted over the body of Mrs. Harry C. V. Mixner, whose untimely death at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Bray, of Plainfield avenue, Tuesday, brought sorrow to her family and scores of acquaintances. Rev. Father B. M. Bogan was the celebrant, and was assisted by Rev. Father MacDonald as deacon, and Rev. Father Sciolla as sub-deacon. During the service Father Bogan took occasion to pay a deserved tribute to the memory of the young woman, and extended words of sympathy to the bereaved relatives. The floral tributes were so numerous as to require a barouche for transferral to the cemetery. They included beautiful set pieces from her brothers and sisters, and a large pillow from Mrs. Mixner's little son, Albert J., marked "Mother."

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: David Doyle, Cornelius Guinee, William Feiring, Michael Griffen, Edward Edell and Henry G. Klein.

CHARLES DRAKE IS GIVEN A DIVORCE

Wins Decree in Face of Counter Petition Filed by His Wife.

Former Chancellor Magie, acting as advisory master in the Court of Channcery, has rendered his decision in the divorce case of Charles E. Drake, a contracting carpenter, of this city, against his wife, Elizabeth Drake, awarding a decree of absolute divorce to Mr. Drake. The case was tried in the Court House at Elizabeth, last Thursday, and was one of the most hotly contested divorce cases tried in this county for several years. Mr. Drake charged his wife with committing a statutory offense with one, Joseph Bellot, at their home in Plainfield, during the months of August and September, 1915. Mrs. Drake filed a cross-petition, charging her husband with a statutory offense with an unidentified woman on the steamboat Charles W. Morse, in May, 1914, on one of its trips between Albany and New York. During the course of the trial the testimony of nineteen witnesses was heard. Robert Newton Crane was counsel for Mr. Drake, while former Mayor G. W. V. Moy represented Mrs. Drake.

SEWER MEN ARE FINED $200 EACH

Bader, Cunningham and Ryan Pay for Reckless Explosions at Quarry.

Somerville, January 28.—Edward Bader, John Cunningham and John Ryan, contractors on the sewerage disposal plant for Dunellen, were each fined $200 in the Court of Common Pleas here this morning, when they were arraigned for sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of creating and maintaining a public nuisance. The men operated a quarry on Watchung mountain, near Dunellen, recently, and were indicted upon evidence of residents that flying stones caused by explosions at the quarry, were dangerous. The fines were paid.

APPAM MISSING; HAD 480 ABOARD

London Fears Big Passenger Ship Has Been Sunk With All Lost.

LIFEBOAT WAS SEEN

Senate Hears Resolution Calling on U. S. to Interfere in Japan's Attitude Toward China—Lusitania Case Not Yet Settled.

London, Jan. 28.—The Elder Dempster Appam is five days overdue. A despatch to Lloyd's today states that the Hull steamer Tregantlo reports that on January 16 she passed a life boat with the name "Appam, Liverpool," painted on the stern. Five feet of the life boat's bow had been knocked away. One life buoy was found. The Appam displaced 7,781 tons and left Dakar on January 11 for England. The vessel had on board 200 passengers and 200 German prisoners. The crew numbered 80. Considerable mail also was on board.

British Losses 549,467.

It was officially announced by the Government Press Bureau today that the total casualties up to January 9 included 24,122 officers and 525,345 men. The Dardanelles' losses in all were 117,542 men.

Would Interfere With Japan.

Washington, Jan. 28.—A resolution protesting against the renewal of the Japanese demands upon China and requesting the President to inform Japan that this country cannot look with indifference upon its policy on the Orient, was introduced today by Senator H. Sherman, of Illinois. It was referred to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee without debate.

U. S. to Press Lusitania Case.

The United States intends to press for a settlement of the Lusitania case without unreasonable delay and will not countenance prolonged discussion over the viewpoint at issue between it and the German government. It was admitted in official circles today that the President in saying in New York yesterday that "no man knows what the international relations of the United States may be tomorrow," spoke with reference to the Lusitania case.

Accident to S. S. Chasehill.

New York, Jan. 28.—From a report by the steamship Indralema, which arrived this morning from Genoa, it would seem that the British steamship Chasehill, which left New York on January 13, under charter by the French line bound for Havre, had met with disaster in mid-ocean. The Indralema reported that on January 22 she exchanged signals with the steamer Mar Adriatico, bound from New York for Barcelona, at which time the latter vessel signalled that she had on board the crew of the steamer M. B. V. J. These signal letters in the international code are the letters of the Chasehill.

Emperor Joseph Improves.

Rome, Jan. 28.—Reports reached the vatican today that the condition of Emperor Joseph, of Austria, showed a slight improvement.

WILSON NAMES BRANDEIS TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

Washington, Jan. 28.—Louis D. Brandeis, of Boston, was appointed by President Wilson today to fill the vacancy on the United States Supreme Court bench.

Louis D. Brandies is a lawyer of Jewish parentage, who has born in Louisville, Kentucky, in November, 1856. He is a graduate of Harvard and was admitted to the bar in Boston in 1878. He is an authority on rates and tariffs for railroads and is considered the greatest efficiency expert in the entire country. He is the author of several articles on public service franchises, on life insurance, wage earner's life insurance, scientific management, labor problems and on the "trusts." He has long been the leading lawyer practicing before the Interstate Commerce Commission. While not socialistic in any way, Mr. Brandeis has long been considered as a dangerous foe to big interests.

SALVATORE TONZIGLIO IS SENT TO NEW BRUNSWICK

Salvatore Tonsiglio, an Italian, about 35 years of age, who has been attracting considerable attention by his queer actions for the past week or more, was arrested by Marshal Patrick Tarpey about 11 o'clock Wednesday night, as he slept in a box in front of Cashin's grocery store. When arraigned before Recorder Campbell in the borough court, yesterday afternoon, he was sentenced to twenty days in the county jail and ordered to keep away from the borough hereafter.

Tonziglio came to the borough from Passaic about nine months ago and secured a position as sewer laborer. Later he took a job under Street Commissioner Smalley. About a week or two ago he refused to work and Mr. Smalley discharged him.

The man's present condition is said to be due to constant worriment over the fact that his wife deserted him in Passaic about a year ago and went to live with his brother.

Since discharged by Mr. Smalley, he had been spending the nights sleeping in barns or out of doors, and the days in walking up and down Park avenue.

Mrs. LeRoy Jennings, of Bound Brook road, is able to be out and about following an illness of about ten days.

Miss Laura Todd, of Front street, has returned from a visit to New York.

Joseph Ramsey Fisher, of Washington avenue, has recovered from his recent illness, and resumed his duties as fireman for the Central Railroad.

Earl Haver, of Prospect avenue, has resumed his duties in the local freight-house following an attack of grip.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Raymond Hamley, of Washington avenue, visited Mr. Hamley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hamley, of Bartley, recently.

Postmaster Henry S. Garretson and daughter, Miss Lillian, visited Mr. Garretson's mother, Mrs. Gertrude E. Garretson, at Raritan Landing, this week.

Contractor Vogt, of the firm of Kirchner & Vogt, is laid up with an attack of pneumonia at his home in Lincoln.

Mrs. Frances F. Randolph, of Clinton, a former resident of this borough, is quite ill. She had the misfortune to cut a finger about two weeks ago, and the wound has led to complications.

Bartholomew Kelly has been regaining his strength rapidly following his illness with pneumonia, and he expects to resume his regular duties as gateman at the Prospect avenue crossing shortly.

Henry Kirchner, Jr., senior member of the contracting firm of Kirchner & Vogt, has taken a job as bridge carpenter for the Central Railroad.

Routine business was transacted at the monthly meeting of the Defender Fire Company held last evening.

The Ladies' Auxiliary, P. O. of A., holds its semi-monthly meeting in W. G. Holton Hall this evening.

Horace Vail, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vail, who had pneumonia, will return to school Monday.

Alterations have been made this week to the Russell Runyon place on Front street, a rear porch having been built on and other improvements made.

Mrs. George W. Day and Miss Ruth Voorhees spent Tuesday in New York city.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Presbyterian church, will hold a dime social this evening at the home of Mrs. W. S. Fredericks on Dunellen avenue.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

Street Commissioner Smalley has a large force at work in scraping the mud on North avenue in heaps and shoveling it on wagons to be carted away. The censensus of opinion among those who have noted the work is that the cost of making this thoroughfare passable is money well expended as the avenue in its past condition has been a disgrace to the borough.

A. E. Curtis is entertaining his coustin, Frank Williams, of New York city.

Sidney Mackey has resigned his position in the factory of Gabrielle & Schall.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Rupell entertained Mrs. Charles Hayes, of Newark, this week.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY ELECTS.

The following officers of the Ladies' Aid Society connected with the First Baptist church were elected at the "all day" meeting held in the church Wednesday: Mrs. Ziba Osmun, president; Mrs. George Trimmer, first vice president; Mrs. A. G. Nelson, secretary; Miss Alice Pierce, assistant secretary; Mrs. George Bunting, treasurer; Mrs. John M. Dayton, assistant treasurer. The chairmen of the four standing committees who will choose their own associates were elected as follows: Visiting and flowers, Mrs. T. E. Vassar; supper, Mrs. Harry J. Piddington; entertainment and socials, Mrs. Mahlon R. Dayton; work, Mrs. Arthur Tappen.

Plains & Fanwood.

Funeral services of Mrs. Ernest Heinrich, who died at Muhlenberg Hospital, Monday, were held at her late home on Hunter avenue, yesterday afternoon, and were conducted by Mr. Dauble, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church, Plainfield. Mrs. Heinrich had only been a resident here a short time and was little

A sociable for the benefit of the Sunday-school of the Willow Grove chapel was held in the chapel last night, and attracted people from all over that end of the township. No special program was rendered, but everybody pitched in for a good time and later in the evening refreshments were served. The money derived from the tickets to the affair will be used to defray the expenses of the Sunday-school.

Miss Elizabeth Babcock will have charge of a meeting of the Junior League Society that will be held at her home on North aveinue tomorrow afternoon, starting at 2:30. The girls are still sewing for Miss Curry's mission in New York.

Andrew Robinson, of the township, had his pockets lightened of $5 after he had appeared before Recorder Springstead, of Westfield, last Wednesday night, along with a number of other automobilsts charged by Chief of Police Rosencrans with going in the wrong direction on Spring street, that town, which, according to traffic rules, is limited to one way.

Miss Elizabeth Hopkins, of the New York Bible School, was in charge of the weekly meeting of the local Bible Training Class held at the home of the Misses Kyte, of Martine avenue, yesterday afternoon, and discussed the "Acts of the Apostles."

A large crowd attended the dance of the Entre Nous Club held in the club hall on Park avenue, last night, as it was the last chance for anyone to vote for their favorite in the popularity voting contest, that has been conducted by the club for the past month, closed at 10 o'clock. The final result will be made known sometime today by the committee in charge of the counting of the ballots. Unless someone hoarded their ballots and voted them at the last minute, Miss Mae Weller is conceded the winner as she assumed an early lead and has been gradually increasing it. The diamond lavallier is the prize, but besides awarding a first prize, it has been decided to give a second one to the runner up, it being a twenty-six piece silver set.

To Make Copper Oxide.

An excellent way to make copper oxide for use in batteries is as follows: Take a quantity of copper filings or fine copper shavings and heat them in a cast iron container or in a crucible till they are red hot. Stir them with an iron rod, and while still stirring, sprinkle a little water over the filings until they become ocher red. You will then have a good quality of copper oxide.

Copper oxide plates may be made as follows: Mix the granulated or coarse copper oxide with 5 per cent or 10 per cent of magnesium chloride and heat the heavy mass in forms made of iron sheeting, the forms being of the size of the wanted plate. The more chloride of magnesium used the more porous the plates will be. The coarser the copper oxide the better will be the results.—Popular Science Monthly and World's Advance.

The Dog Rose.

The "dog rose" has provoked as much ingenious explanation of its name as the "horse chestnut." One solution is that the "dog" is really "dagga," a dagger, in allusion to the prickles, a drawback from which the Alexandra Day rose is free. Unfortunately for this explanation, the flower bears a similar name in countries where it will not apply. The Germans, for instance, have "Hundsrose," and Pliny tells how a Roman mother was moved in a dream to send some roots of the wild rose to her soldier son in Spain. They arrived just after he had been bitten by a mad dog. He took them and was preserved from hydrophobia, as were others who adopted the same treatment. And from that time the wild rose became the "dog rose."—London Chronicle.

Gates In Norway.

A curious feature to travelers in the highroads of Norway is the great number of gates—upward of 10,000 in the whole country—which have to be opened. These gates, which either mark the boundaries of the farms or separate the home fields from the waste lands, constitute a considerable inconvenience and delay to the traveler, who has to stop his vehicle and get down to open them.

How to Tell Parcel Post Charges.

If you know the zone in which is located the postoffice to which you desire to send a parcel post parcel you may figure out the postage required by a simple method.

If the office is in zone No. 1 or No. 2 add to the figure or figures representing the weight the numeral 4. If the weight is ten pounds the postage will be 14 cents, if it is five pounds the postage will be 9 cents, and if it is one pound the postage will be 5 cents.

If the office is in zone No. 3 multiply the weight by 2 and add 4.

If in zone No. 4 multiply by 4 and add 3.

If in zone No. 5 multiply by 6 and add 2.

If in zone No. 6 multiply by 8 and add 1.

If in zone No. 7 multiply by 10 and add 1.

If in zone No. 8 multiply by 12.

"Dear Old Ladies" and Other Kinds.

There are as many kinds of old ladies as there are girls, men, automobiles, books and remedies for a cold. There are kindly old ladies, ill natured old ladies, sharp old ladies, witty old ladies, stupid old ladies, musty-fusty old ladies, dainty old ladies, wise old ladies, silly old ladies, Whistler's mother old ladies, Betsy Trotwood old ladies, white spatted old ladies, churchy old ladies, sit-by-the-fire old ladies, tangoing old ladies and old ladies who don't wish to be called old ladies at all.

Nowadays most of them are so busy working in public causes that they have not time to protect their own interests as they should. But let us hope that after awhile they will organize a new association, to be called the Society For the Promotion of Distinctive Characterizations For Old Ladies, and that it will have displayed prominently on its banners the slogan "Down With the Word 'Dear!'"—Scribner's.

Celts Discovered Soap.

Soap appears to have been discovered by the Celts, for the name is derived from the Celtic word "sebon." It seems strange that such early wanderers should have been familiar with soap, but if they had the name they must certainly have had the article it stood for. Moreover, it is quite conceivable that nomads using wood fires could accidentally discover soap. All woods have a certain amount of mineral salts, chiefly those of potash, in their fibers. After burning these are left in the form of carbonate, which a heavy shower of rain would dissolve into a liquid lye, wanting only the grease from an overturned caldron of broth to form soap. A dash of natural curiosity on the part of the woman who cleaned up the mess would reveal the cleansing properties of the new substance.—London Mail.

Chateaubriand a Lover of Cats.

Many famous men have loved cats—Cardinal Richelieu and Victor Hugo among others—but probably the animals' most eloquent defender was Chateaubriand, the French writer.

"I love in the cat," he said, "that independent and almost ungrateful temper which prevents it from attaching itself to any one, the indifference with which it passes from the salon to the housetop. The cat lives alone, has no need of society, does not obey except when it likes, pretends to sleep that it may see more clearly and scratches everything it can scratch."

And the great writer on another occasion went so far as to express a hope that by long comradeship with cats he was acquiring some of their characteristics!"—London Times.

Pasteur's Gift to Society.

The normal death rate of civilized countries before the days of Pasteur was about thirty to a thousand of the population. Today it is about fifteen to a thousand in the more progressive nations. Think what a saving of fifteen lives a year for every thousand of population means when applied to half the earth! It means the averting of 12,000,000 untimely deaths annually. It means more than 25,000,000 cases of illness avoided. It means health and happiness in 20,000,000 homes rather than disease and distress.—Bulletin of National Geographic Society.

His Drawback.

"Girl, ain't you making a mistake in marrying a football hero?"

"But, auntie, consider how he is admired on all sides."

"I do, and I should think that would make it very difficult to reduce him to a point of humility desirable in a good husband."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Cinnamon Bark.

It is a seeming paradox that the best flavored cinnamon bark is produced on poor, white, sandy soil. It must, however, have an abundance of moisture, the choicest growing in a temperature of 85 degrees, where the rainfall is about one inch for every degree of temperature.

Postponed Wisdom.

The Grand Teton.

The view of the Teton peaks from Ashton, Ida., is superb and doubtless has been the inducement for many a tourist and sportsman to leave the main line for the Teton range and the Jackson Hole country in pursuit of elk, sheep, trout and unsurpassed mountain scenery. Owen Wister's "Virginian" was glad to get out of these mountains because, as he explained, "they're most too big."

The average American, who has only a vague conception of the natural beauties of the Rocky mountains and imagines that real alpine forms are found only in Switzerland, must be surprised when he first sees the lofty peaks of the Tetons. Even a man who has climbed the Matterhorn would think twice before daring to try Grand Teton. According to local report, this peak has been ascended only twice, in 1872 and 1894. As the snowclad mountains along the Alaskan archipelago, rising to cloud reaching heights, stand with their feet bathed in the ocean, so from a viewpoint near Ashton the Tetons, towering to the sky, rise from the billowy surface of a sea of golden grain.—Geological Survey Bulletin.

Howard and Prison Fever.

Typhus, which under the name of "prison fever" was once rampant in England, held no terrors for John Howard, the prison reformer. While in a cell he would hold to his nose a vial of aromatic vinegar and on going home would wash and change his clothes, though even these precautions he later abandoned. People thought his powers bordered on the magical, pressed him for his secret and refused to believe his explanations that his immunity was due to fearlessness, cleanliness and temperance. He ate no flesh and very little of anything; he drank neither wine nor spirits and went to bed early and rose early. And his asceticism enabled him to let light into the most noisome dungeons and to live to the age of sixty-four.—London Graphic.

Deal In Trousers.

The village innkeeper had been persuaded to lend a customer a pair of black trousers for funeral solemnities. The sad occasion was long gone, weeks had passed away, and still Mr. J. looked in vain for the return of his garments. They became urgently necessary, and he sent a messenger to demand them back again.

Said the messenger to the wrongful detainer of the goods: "Mr. J. must have 'em. He's going to a funeral."

"They won't do for a funeral," was the reply. "I've been workin' at the quarry in 'em."

"What will Mr. J. do, then?" asked the messenger.

"Why, borrow a pair," replied the other, "same as what I did."—London Tit-Bits.

Largest Hydraulic Lift Lock.

The largest hydraulic lift lock in the world is at Petersborough, Canada. It consists of two great steel boxes or pontoons, moving up and down between guiding towers. When a boat moves into one of the two pontoons the lock gates are closed behind it, and water is pumped into the other pontoon until it becomes heavier than that containing the boat, which then, being overweighted, rises bodily into the air until it reaches the level of the upper canal. The boats are lifted a total distance of sixty-five feet, the gates and capstans being operated entirely by hydraulic power. The time of lockage for boats is about twelve minutes, the actual time of the vertical lift being one and one-half minutes.—St. Nicholas.

Be Prepared.

Daniel Webster once told a friend that his great speech in reply to Hayne, which is the high water mark of modern eloquence, but which at the time was supposed to have been delivered without preparation, had been substantially prepared long before. When called upon suddenly to reply to the fiery Carolinian's attacks, which so alarmed the New Englanders at the capital, he was entirely at ease and ready for the fray, for, as he said, he had "only to turn to his notes tucked away in a pigeonhole" and refresh his recollection. "If Hayne," he said, "had tried to make a speech to fit my notes he could not have hit them better. No man is inspired by the occasion. I never was."

The Liberty Boys.

The name of Liberty Boys is the name by which the Sons of Liberty of the American Revolution were familiarly known. They were the men who fought the first battles of the colonists, who opposed the stamp act and participated in the Boston tea party. A flag hoisted upon the flagstaff that stood beside Liberty tree, in Hanover square, Boston, was the signal at which they assembled.

A Giant English Oak.

Winfarthing oak, according to reliable testimony, was 700 years old at the time of the conquest. William surveyed it closely before making his famous remark, "Could I live to be but one-fourth the age of this tree the world would be mine."

Ending the Argument.

"There are always two sides to a question."

"Quite so. And I don't like a fellow who insists on expounding both of 'em."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

UNTACTFUL ADAMS

The Pathetic Unpopularity of Our Second President.

HE WAS VAIN AND GLAD OF IT

Then, Too, He Had an Obstinate Personality That Endowed Him With a Positive Genius For Putting Himself In the Worst Possible Light.

The choleric John Adams had been president for more than two years, but as long as Washington lived the country refused to look upon any one else as its real head.

The way of the transgressor may be hard indeed, but it is a path of roses compared with the thorny road the successor to a popular idol must tread, and when one reads the frankly expressed opinion of Adams' party friends and party enemies one's sympathies go out to the man upon whom Washington's presidential mantle fell.

"His superfluous highness" was the title the opposition had suggested for him in the days when discussion raged as to what the high officials of the government were to be called. He had great learning, great patriotism and an unquenchable spirit, but overlying and enveloping them all was a positive genius for doing and saying untactful things, for appearing at the worst possible advantage.

A member of his cabinet once said of him that whether he was "sportful, playful, witty, kind, cold, drunk, sober, angry, easy, stiff, jealous, careless, cautious, confident, close or open" he was "almost always so in the wrong place and with the wrong person."

The kindly Franklin characterized him as "always honest, sometimes great, but often mad." One less genial remarked that even in his soberest moments Adams was "the greatest marplot in nature." And John Randolph of Roanoke, whose tongue added the poison of ridicule to the bitterness of gall, called him "that political Malvolio."

Adams thought Washington's talents overrated and on becoming president in his turn was ambitious to make a record brilliant enough to overshadow him. It was certainly no easy task, even without the handicap of Adams' obstinate personality.

He knew that he was vain. "Thank God I am so!" he exclaimed. "Vanity is the cordial drop which makes the bitter cup of life go down." But it had its lingering after taste, and justly proud of his record—having, as one of his biographers puts it, "stepped from his little country law office and proved himself a match for the diplomats of Europe"—Adams resented the narrow margin by which he had been elected, calling himself with some bitterness "the president of three votes only."

A vice president can be removed by nothing short of crime or physical incapacity, and Jefferson remained, an ever present and irritating thorn in Adams' side. Adams had found it hard to learn and accept the passive role demanded by the office, and he evidently took some satisfaction in impressing the same uncongenial lessons upon his successor.

Jefferson asserted that he was never consulted upon any question of government after Adams had been two days in power. And he did not make the charge in the humorous mood of a later incumbent, who used to declare that his chief had asked his advice only once and that was about the wording of a Thanksgiving proclamation.

"I believe he always liked me," Adams admitted in a retrospect of his long career, "but he detested Hamilton and my whole administration. Then, he wished to be president of the United States, and I stood in his way. So he did everything that he could to pull me down. But if I should quarrel with him for that I might quarrel with every one I had anything to do with in life. * * * Did you ever hear the lines:

"I love my friend as well as you,
But why should he obstruct my view?
"I forgive my enemies and hope they may find mercy in heaven."—"Our Nation In the Building," by Helen Nicolay, in Century Magazine.

Wesley's Father and Wesley.

One cleric well known to fame who took snuff and loved his pipe was Samuel Wesley, rector of Epworth, Lincolnshire, from 1697 to 1735. He not only smoked his pipe, but sang its praises:

In these raw mornings, when I'm freezing ripe,
What can compare with a tobacco pipe?
Primed, cocked and toucht, 'twould better heat a man
Than the Bath fagots or Scotch warming pan.

Samuel's greater son, John Wesley, did not share the parental love of a pipe. He spoke of the use of tobacco as "an uncleanly and unwholesome self indulgence" and described snuffing as a "silly, nasty, dirty custom."—Westminster Gazette.

What the Well Revealed.

One of the first deep wells drilled in the west was put down near Huxley, Nev., by the Central Pacific railway in 1881, in a search for good water. The boring reached a depth of 2,750 feet, but the water obtained was of very unsatisfactory quality. At 1,700 feet the drill encountered a bed of "petrified clams," and the record states that at 1,900 feet well preserved "redwood timber" was found.—Argonaut.

THIS CITY SAVES MANY LIVES

result of the mass meeting. The fund now has more than $2,500, and other donations are in sight, which will bring it to the $3,000 that was pledged by the committee of fifty.

The auditorium of the Columbus Club was well filled when Chairman Newcorn called the mass meeting to order. Many of those in the audience were women and children, and all of them gave something to the fund before they left the building.

Chairman Newcorn explained that official business had prevented Senator James E. Martine from coming to Plainfield.

Mayor Leighton Calkins was the first speaker introduced. He said that there was little use to discuss the great war now raging in Europe, which has been the cause of all the misery there. He characterized the war as the "wickedest and stupidest in history," and added that while no attempt should be made now to fix the responsibility for it, when the evidence was all in it would be the duty of mankind to determine whether or not any man or any government could have stayed the struggle, and if responsibility could be directly fixed, the guilty man or government should be punished by the civilized world. Mayor Calkins said that the Jews in Russia had been oppressed through all history, and that while the world was holding up Belgium as a lesson of horror, it could not be compared with the case of Poland, which had been devastated time and time again by the armies of Russia and her allies and enemies. Of the 8,000,000 or 9,000,000 Jews in Europe, he said, 1,000,000 were fighting on one side or the other, because the Jew is always loyal to his adopted soil and to the country in which he is born. He saw no ray of hope ahead for the Jews of Europe, no matter what the outcome of the war, except through the strong arm of their friends in America.

Mayor Calkins was confident that the people of Plainfield would show by their actions that they do not believe God approves of strict neutrality when the issue is between righteousness and evil, and would give with a generous hand to the suffering Jews of Eastern Europe.

Chairman Newcorn read letters from Senator James E. Martine, Mayor William L. Smalley, of the borough of North Plainfield, and Congressman John H. Capstick, in which they expressed regret at their inability to attend the meeting, and enclosed checks for the local fund.

The Rev. J. Y. Broek declared that Jews and non-Jews were one in heart and purpose, both here to establish righteousness, justice and liberty, and that both should now be united in a common cause. He said that in this most absurd war the Jews were suffering the greatest hardships, but expressed a hope that it would lead to a better understanding between Jew and Gentile.

The Rev. de Sola Pool, of New York, who represented the Jewish center of that great city in making an address to President Wilson yesterday morning, said that he had tagged the President with a button of the Relief Society. He, too, expressed a belief that the present war, with its suffering and its lessons to humanity, would cause the people of this country to break down the barriers that have divided Jew and Gentile through all history, and bring about a better understanding between the two races.

"We Jews know that we have suffered,' said Dr. Pool, in a low, dramatic voice. "A little suffering is good for us. But the agony of suffering that we are passing—who will say that will be good to bear?"

He called attention to the fact that speakers and writers had told of suffering in Poland, Galicia and other countries, but ha not mentioned the plight of Jews in the Holy Land of Palestine, where they were suffering almost as much as in Poland. Here the Turks took their wheat, their men and even their hospitals, and left the helpless women and children starving, he said.

Dr. Pool admitted that some of the stories coming out of Europe might have been born of prejudice or actuated by hysteria, but he quoted agents of the Rockefeller Foundation, deputies in the Russian Duma and soldiers in the Russian armies and Jews themselves in reporting conditions in Poland, and when he had finished telling of hundreds of thousands of women, children, old men, sick men, thrown out of their homes in the middle of a Russian winter night, with no place to go, almost half his audience was in tears.

"Poland is worse than the worst in Belgium," he said. "We heard the full story of Belgium, but we are not allowed to hear from Poland. England saw that we know of the crime of Belgium, but Russia will not tell of the suffering of Jews in Poland, because she has caused it by her oppression and cruelty, and Germany cannot tell us.

"We are in America, the Land of Peace and Prosperity. America has a great heart. A wave of horror swept the country a few weeks ago because a physician permitted one horribly deformed, weak-minded little baby to die. There are 500,000 babies, healthy of body and mind, dying on their mothers' sunken breasts in Eastern Europe, while the father fights and the mother starves. Give! Give! Give!"

The Rev. C. M. Anderson made a plea for generous giving, telling of the many gifts people of this country were receiving each day from God, and urging them to lend life to the innocent Jews who were suffering in Europe.

Judge Newcorn then took the floor, and after an eloquent appeal for generosity, he accepted contributions. They came in for more than an hour, and more than 1,000 individual donations were received.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR FOR ENDEAVOR CAMP

Encouraging Reports Are Presented at the Annual Meeting Held in This City.

Reports received from the various committees in connection with the annual meeting of Camp Endeavor, Inc., of the Union County C. E. Union at the First Presbyterian church, of Plainfield, on January 25, indicated that last year was one of the most successful in its history not alone in the amount of money raised but also in connection with the large number of mothers and children accommodated. Owing to the large number of applicants last season it was necessary to limit the stay of each group of guests to ten days instead of two weeks as heretofore.

At the start of the year the camp had indebtedness to the amount of $490, but according to the treasurer's report this had been reduced to $154, while the expenditures for the season were $1,373.

Interesting reports were given by the house, entertainment, guests, devotional and commissary committees. The commissary committee reported that 7,035 meals had been served to the 203 guests who were entertained during the two months that the camp was opened.

Miss Jennie Stodard, matron of the camp, gave a most interesting account of the management of the camp and several young women who had assisted her last year told of their experience and of the great joy of helping to brighten the lives of these poor unfortunates.

Suggestions were made for the betterment of the camp for next year and a conference on how to raise funds for Camp Endeavor was conducted. Pledges were also received from the various delegates present.

The by-laws were amended that the president of the County Union would always be a member of the board of trustees of the camp during his tenure of office and at the election of trustees for a term of three years, I. Duer Randolph, of Elizabeth, and C. L. Mintel and G. W. Mingus, of Rahway, were elected.

After the singing of several pieces expressing the joy of the guests of being at Camp Endeavor, which were most ingeniously arranged to the tunes of "It's a Long Way to Tipperary" and the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," adjournment was made after thanking the C. E. Society of the church for their kind entertainment.

Camp Endeavor is a fresh air camp for the poor mothers and children of Union county, which is located in the mountains near Scotch Plains and is opened during July and August of each year and it is supported by the various Christian Endeavor Societies of Union county as well as affiliated societies and friends. This is one of the most creditable works, outside of Bonnie Burns, in the county and should have the hearty support of all as it is non-sectarian and anybody is at liberty to recommend those who are worthy to go to the camp, regardless of race, color or creed.

The outlook for this year is promising and the committee most heartily thanks the many friends that helped to make the camp such a success last year and earnestly hopes that they will again extend their generous aid both in money, clothes, books and magazines as well as good wishes.

Sears; duet, Miss Gunzelman and Miss Irma Good; recitation, Miss S. Showing the United States covered by spies, and with thousands of foreign mechanics working in our factories, ready to take arms against us, the leader of the enemy wins the favor of the daughter of one of our high naval officials. At his request, she steals the plans of an aerial torpedo controlled by wireless, which is America's chief refuge of defense. The inventor, a lieutenant in love with her, is kidnapped and the siege of America begins.
The girl learns of the duplicity of the conspirator, and seizing her father's sword, kills him. A destroyer gives chase to the yacht carrying the important plans and shoots it to pieces. Meanwhile the foreign battery opens fire. The lieutenant electrocutes his guard and summons the Atlantic Fleet by wireless. The militia is also called. The fleet annihilates the enemy's artillery. Sunrise finds the lieutenant and the girl united under the Stars and Stripes. The entire Atlantic Squadron is used in the picture, together with 10,000 soldiers, marines and sailors, including Secretary Daniels, Admiral Fletcher, Admiral Winslow, Vice Admiral Mayo, the war college at Newport and the staff of officers of the Newport Training School.

THE IDEAL HUSBAND.

Some Observations on the Side and a Dogmatic Conclusion.

You are probably a woman. Few men would pause to read an article headed "The Ideal Husband." Man knows his fellow men too well.

Of course it is true that nearly every married woman has at some time in her life claimed to have found the one ideal husband, but not for long. He is not a stable article; he is only a fleeting glimpse.

Shortly after a young married woman declares hers to be the ideal husband he exhibits a tendency to crumble his crackers in his soup or to place a slice of bread in his empty dinner plate and submerge it in gravy. These things "are not done."

While a man is still engaged—held under option, as it were, but not definitely contracted for—he is for a short while considered ideal. However, he just begins to enjoy his perfection when it is discovered by his general manager elect that he rests his knife and fork half on the tablecloth and half on his plate, while they should be draped artistically across his plate midway between meat and potatoes. To save time, probably he also cuts his meat into small pieces before starting to eat it.

He has good reasons for doing as he does, but they do not excuse him. His sort of conduct and perfection simply do not walk hand in hand.

No young couple should be engaged long enough for either one to discover the other's shortcomings. So long as a man and a girl are so mutually mesmerized that the eyes of one never leave the eyes of the other he is perfect, but the moment he allows his glances to stray below his Adam's apple, the moment he loses control, he loses also perfection. She realizes that his knowledge of esthetics was gleaned from an abridged edition; that his tie is not in vogue, that his collar is too loose and too low and therefore too comfortable.

Ah me! I have strayed from my subject—the ideal husband. Let me return to it and proceed.

There is no such thing.—Paul Wing in Century.

ANCIENT BAGDAD.

Bits About the Enchanted City of the "Arabian Nights."

Immortalized by Haroun-al-Raschid, in the story of the "Arabian Nights," Bagdad, which has a population of about 150,000, was built on the ruins of an ancient Babylonian city dating back to 2000 B. C. Records have been found on ancient bricks establishing its early date.

Ever since the days of Haroun-al-Raschid the Jews have been the leading figures in the commercial world of Bagdad. There are 50,000 of them, with about 8,000 Chaldean (or heretical) Christians. The remainder of the population is made up of Persians, Turks, Armenians, Arabs and Kurds.

Sindbad the Sailor was born at Bagdad, and all his marvelous adventures begin by his going down the Tigris to Bussorah (the modern Busra).

The city stands on both sides of the Tigris, the two parts being connected by the famous bridge of boats, 220 yards long. A brick wall, five miles in circumference and forty feet high, surrounds Bagdad.

The city contains upward of 100 mosques, though barely twenty of them are in use. The houses generally are old, dirty and ugly outside, but the vaulted ceilings, rich moldings, inlaid mirrors and massive gildings bring back to the recollection of the traveler "the golden prime of the good Haroun-al-Raschid."

The streets are narrow, crooked, unpaved and dirty, full of ruts and strewed with garbage, which, however, is for the most part removed by dogs, the public scavengers in the east.—Pearson's Weekly.

An Exhilarating Bath.

"Many doctors are now discarding the stronger alcohol in ordering baths," says the Farm and Fireside, "and are prescribing the more agreeable bay rum, which is made in Japan from the distillation of rum and the leaves of the bayberry tree. If you want a pleasant, exhilarating bath use this in dilution suiting to your condition. For bathing the sick it seems to have a longer and more stimulating and tonic effect than whisky or alcohol."

Domestic Joys.

"Whenever Mr. and Mrs. Twobble quarrel Mr. Twobble threatens to see his lawyer."

RECREATION NOTES

The Dramatic Club will hold a rehearsal in the kindergarten room at Washington School, this evening. All those preparing to take part in the vaudeville entertainment on February 10 should endeavor to be present.

The Dunbar dance will be held as usual in the auditorium at Washington School tonight. A good crowd is expected. The splendid floor and good music have been an attraction all winter and all who attend come for the purpose of having a royal good time.

The regular Saturday night municipal dance will be held as usual tomorrow night. Mr. Squires will be at the piano as usual and his regular orchestra will assist him. The auditorium is spacious and beautiful, the floor is one of the best in town and the music cannot be beaten. The small fee of ten cents covers the entire charge for the evening as it is not the aim of the Recreation Committee to make money but merely to pay expenses. The young people have come to realize that the object is to place these splendid buildings at their disposal for the best kind of a good time and are co-operating with the committee in making this activity a success.

SEMI-MONTHLY DRILL.

Freedom Commandery, No. 5, of the Knights of the Golden Eagle, held its regular semi-monthly drill in the Company K armory, last evening.

WILSON NOT TOO PROUD TO FIGHT

Opens Campaign for Preparedness in Two Speeches Before N. Y. Audiences.

Two stirring addresses before New York audiences yesterday opened the campaign of President Wilson for preparedness for the United States. The President spoke before the members of the Railway Business Association at a dinner given at the Waldorf and before members of the Moving Picture Board of Trade at a dinner at the Biltmore.

Declaring that Americans were willing to fight for the liberty of others as well as for their own liberty and that no one could tell what the morrow would bring in this day of international strife he urged a strengthened army and navy so as to preserve not only the peace, but the honor of the nation.

—Needing a partner or backer in a really good business enterprise, why not make advertising the most important part of your program for the immediate future?

FUNERAL OF MRS. TYLER.

The funeral of Mrs. Corcelia Elizabeth Tyler, who passed away at the age of 92 years, was held this afternoon at three o'clock at the home of her cousin, Mrs. E. F. Stebbins, of Grandview avenue. Rev. C. S. Gillespie, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, officiated in the presence of many relatives and friends. Numerous beautiful floral offerings were in evidence. The body was afterwards placed on a train for Binghamton, N. Y., where interment will be made tomorrow.

YOUTHFUL ROBBERS ARRESTED

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The police today announced that they had arrested the five bandits who took part in yesterday's robbery of the Washington Park National Bank and that they had recovered nearly all of the $15,616 which the youthful robbers obtained in their bold raid.

ALABAMA BANK FAILS.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 28.—Following a run, the bank examiner has closed the Jefferson County Bank, of this city, in order to conserve it assets. The bank has paid up capital of $500,000. At one time its deposits exceeded $1,000,000.

GARRISON RENEWS OATH.

Trenton, Jan. 28.—Chief Justice Gunmere today administered the oath of office to Justice Chas G. Garrison of the Supreme Court, reappointed by Governor Fielder.

You Touch a Magic Button When You Become a "Want Advertiser."

Our day is the day of "touching buttons."

A President presses a button in Washington, and a titanic explosion, thousands of miles away, weds the two great seas.

We are fond, nowadays, of accomplishing big effects with simple processes.

And so the "button-pressing" magic applies to the "little things" of life, as well as to the big episodes.

When you become a "want advertiser" you press a MAGIC BUTTON—and the influence is felt in the homes and business places of the city.

Your quest becomes of interest to the people who are able to help you accomplish it.

If you seek work, and "press the button" of Plainfield Daily Press want advertising publicity, your quest becomes one of personal interest to the people who need you. The same law operates in the working out of every "want ad task."

For classified advertising makes the whole city your market; makes the right people your audience; delivers your message to all people to whom it could have any interest or importance.

Young Sisters, "The Tourists," Plainfield Theatre, Mat. and Night, Jan. 31

The store's advertisement is the store's daily message to you—and there is not often a day in which there is not something new and interesting in that message.

"Nation's Peril," Astor Theatre, Jan. 31, Feb. 1.

The housewife is the "official buyer" for the home—in almost all families. She is, consequently, the official "ad reader" for the home.

Did you decide, not long ago, that you could not buy some particular thing because the price was a little too high? See if the store advertisements bring to you today any interesting "news" on this question.

LANNIN EMPHATICALLY DENIES HE WILL SELL

Boston, Jan. 28.—J. J. Lannin, president of the Boston Americans, today emphatically denied that his club was about to be purchased by a syndicate. "You can make the denial as strong as you like," said Lannin, "for my team is not for sale. I am in the field, though, to make some changes, but they are to strengthen my team. I want the Red Sox to be a pennant winner again this season."

PLAINFIELD A. A. GETS GOING IN LAST PERIOD

Tied With St. Joseph's Men in First Half, Game is a Rout Second.

Dip Jones, manager of the Plainfield A. A., was strong in the belief that he has the best basketball team in the city, and now he is more convinced than ever that he has the goods, for his speed boys walloped the St. Joseph's team on the T. A. B. S. court last night, to the tune of 58-27. Hirsch, with 9 baskets, and Day, with 8, were the leading scorers for the home boys, while Moulton and Rosenson divided honors with five aptece. LaPorte was the mainstay of the borough lads and upheld his reputation by caging seven field goals, while Parsch was next best, with three goals and a foul.

Neither side had any advantage in the first half, which ended 15-all. The Jones men got going in the second period and made 43 points to the St. Jones' 12.

BALTUSROL LIKELY TO BE SCENE OF W. M. G. A. EVENT

At its meeting in New York yesterday, the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association went on record as being desirous of having some voice in the selection of the course for the women's national championship. The body voted to acquaint the U. S. G. A. on this subject, and to ask that the date chosen for this year's championship be changed from September to October. The selection of the course for the metropolitan championship was left to the executive committee. Baltusrol will probably get the tourney.

CLIMAX SHOOTERS TO PRACTICE TOMORROW

The last block of the January shooting for the season prize of 500 shells will be run off tomorrow afternoon at the Climax Gun Club. A large field is desired, so that the members may get in practice for a team match which may be shot at Flemington a week from tomorrow.

Tonight—Paterson at Somerville.

"I'll bet two to one we take all three games from Plainfield tonight," said a New Brunswick Elk yesterday, when discussing the Junior League series scheduled for last evening. The College Town Antler had the right dope, his team getting three wins from the local Bills, who have yet to win their first game.

Plainfield showed big improvement with each succeeding game last night, but the Brunswickers increased their totals just as fast. The Queen City representatives were good for only 699 in the first game, the homesters winning with 774. The locals went up to 773 in the second game, and posted 847—their highest count of the season—in the third, but the Raritan River men took the sandwich with 836 and the curtain contest with 909.

Bill Firstbrook was the only Plainfielder in good form. Matt Hogarty, who, by the way, was the man laying the two to one odds, had high score for the night, a tally of 221 in the third game.

MARSTON AGAINST MAKING STATE EVENT OPEN TO ALL

A State golf championship tournament open to everybody is the novelty that Oswald Kirkby, of Englewood, would like to see tried by the New Jersey State Golf Association.

According to Kirkby, who has been a New Jersey title holder, there is no good reason for keeping the affair a closed event. In his opinion, it would lend interest to have prominent players from neighboring sections drop in for a try at the cup.

"The metropolitan open championship doesn't bar any one," said Kirkby. "I did not get up and make a motion at the State association meeting the other day, preferring to see first what the general sentiment was. I suppose, however, the idea will meet with little approval."

Max Marston, the present Jersey champion, was asked what he thought of Kirkby's plan and the Baltusrol golfer did not hesitate to declare it to be absolutely without merit.

"Why, it wouldn't be a State championship at all if you were to let everybody in," Marston added. "I do believe, however, that the officials might let all holding membership in a New Jersey club play for the title."

OLIVE BRANCH HERE.

The Olive Branch pinners, of the Knights of Columbus League, will appear on the Columbus Club alleys here tonight. The Plainfielders will bowl the return match in Newark tomorrow evening.

Bill Ehmling is leading the league with a mark of 182.7 for twenty-four games. Harry Radin is averaging 177.15; Charley Montross, 177.1, and Art Voorhees, 172.11.

Howell's Excellent Guarding Holds Porter, Hope Forward, Basketless.

A bunch of Plainfield High School players, traveling under the name of the All-Stars, journeyed to Scotch Plains last night and defeated the second team of the Parish House at that place in a fast game, by a 32 to 21 count. Porter, the Hope Chapel forward, was the only one on the winning quintet who did not take a hand in the scoring, but Howell, the Plains diminutive guard, put up such a good game he was lucky to get a shot. P. H. S. SWIMMING TEAM AT MONTCLAIR TOMORROW

Plainfield High School's amyphibians will go to Montclair tomorrow morning to oppose the swimming team of Montclair High School. And it promises to be a regular sea fight, as Brower and Fields, two sure point winners for the Red and Blue team, are again eligible. The list of event will include the 160-yard relay, 20, 40 and 100-yard swims, dive for form, plunge for distance, and possibly the 220-yard event.

Nine fellows will make the trip, leaving the North avenue station at 8:36. They are Brower, Dealaman, Brownlee, Fullerton, Johnson, Fitch, Field, Snyder and Condict. Brower, who captains the team, has not yet decided on just what men he will enter in the various events, as several changes will be made so as to make room for himself and Field. The relay team will be composed of Brower, Snyder, Fullerton and Fitch. Brownlee and Brower are sure to enter the dive for form, while Snyder, Brower and Dealaman will probably go in the races. Brower will compete in every event possible, as his work is largely depended upon. Montclair's team will take the water with the relay team, including Walcott, Wilson, Mirrelleis and Brown, Pugh in the dives and Brown in the 100-yard swim and 220, also, if there is any. The entrants in the other events have not yet been assigned.

Montclair swimmers were outpointed by Stuyvesant High School, of New York, last Saturday, in their own pool, by 37 to 16 points, with all the regulars on deck. P. H. S. succumbed to East Orange High School on the same day, 31 to 16, but with Brower and Fields entered, the Red and Blue will be 50 per cent. stronger.

BLOOMFIELD H. S. AT P. H. S.; OTHER SPORT NEWS OF SCHOOL

The girls' basketball team will get in action tomorrow, playing the Bloomfield High School girls on the local school court at 2:30. It is the return game of the season with the Bloomfield girls, the locals being beaten in the first set-to, but with Irma Good back in her old form at forward, as she displayed in the Roselle game, Plainfield is looking for revenge.

A number of Princeton University students have formed a basketball team and lately tried to arrange a game with P. H. S. boys, but as Manager Dunham had only one vacant date on his schedule, and that on a week-day, when the college boys cannot play, a contest could not be arranged.

The present warm spell has diminished the chances of a hockey team being fromed at the school. Many schools have sent in challenges, among them Westfield and Cranford.

Plainfield High School will not be represented on the cinder path this coming season, not so much on account of lack of material as the lack of a coach or someone to take charge of things.

MILLIONAIRES MADE BY WAR

Du Ponts and Schwab Oust Oil and Coal Kings of Finance.

ONE INCOME OF $1,000,000

Once the Boy Employee of Carnegie, Head of Bethlehem Steel Now Has One of the Largest Incomes In the World—One Du Pont Plant Turns Out 500,000 Pounds of Powder a Day.

Albert W. Atwood, a specialist on Wall street and business conditions, has written for the American Magazine an article on "Americans Made Rich and Powerful by the War." He sets forth that "a new dynasty" in finance, that of the munition makers, has succeeded to the dynasties of the period after the civil war, the coal and oil and transportation kings and the group of money monarchs produced by the steel and tobacco industry reorganizations.

Charles M. Schwab and the Du Pont family of Delaware, the writer holds, emerge head and shoulders out of the "hurly burly of war made millionaires." He says, "Schwab on the one hand and the Du Ponts on the other have their hosts of lieutenants, satraps on the grand scale, with incomes ranging up to $1,000,000 a year, the Schwab scale."

Mr. Atwood calls them a double product of the "bonus" system of salaries and a sudden, unexpected dilation into company shares of huge but heretofore privately concentrated wealth. Of the Du Ponts he says:

Two Families of Du Ponts.

"The Du Ponts were to the purple born, as were long generations of their ancestors before them. The Du Ponts are young, and there is a host of them. Two generations are in the business, the older barely middle aged, the younger hardly more than youthful. In old, picturesque, conservative Wilmington they have long controlled the banks, trust companies, utilities, the newspapers and a hotel big for London, to say nothing of adjoining country estates, game preserves and fancy breeding farms.

"Their absolute ability to size up, appreciate and cash in upon the European war the Du Ponts have no peers among big munition makers. They have been ahead in their deliveries at a time when such speed might mean life or death to certain European empires. At least one of their sixty-eight plants is turning out more than half a million pounds a day of high explosives.

"Here, perhaps, is the only counterpart of the Standard Oil and Carnegie steel as mother of uncounted fortunes. For a downright 'gold mine' Du Pont powder has no equal. In 1902 control of the business was acquired by T. Coleman du Pont, who had not previously had any connection with the company, and by Pierre and Alfred I. du Pont. Pierre and his relatives paid Cousin Coleman $200 a share for his 80,000 shares. That was in March, 1915. A few months later the stock sold at $700 a share. Then they formed a new company, gave themselves two new shares of stock for each old one and kept the old stock as well. At this writing the new stock, which itself was a dividend, is selling around $450 a share and has begun to pay regular dividends of 6 per cent a year and one extra of 28½ per cent."

Cash Profit of 500 Per Cent.

A government dissolution order caused the reorganization of the business into three companies which have so prospered that the owner of 100 shares of the old stock, worth $18,500 at the time of the dissolution, has now a cash profit of $90,600, or 500 per cent. The Du Ponts have allowed their employees from vice presidents to day laborers to buy stock and have given it to them in bonuses.

In recounting the return to financial power through the building up of Bethlehem Steel by Charles M. Schwab once to all intents and purposes ruled of the hard turf of Wall street by J. Pierpont Morgan, the elder, Mr. Atwood says, after explaining Schwab's method:

"So today the Bethlehem Steel corporation is probably the greatest individual industrial achievement in the country. Charles M. Schwab has made it so with his ability, energy, hard work and conservatism, and today he stands in the same financial relation to the Bethlehem Steel as Andrew Carnegie stood to the Carnegie Steel company.

"Schwab worked for Carnegie as a boy, and to all intents and purposes he has made out of his once small and poorly considered steel business a second Carnegie Steel. He is the man to dictate terms, just as Carnegie was. He is the lone, dominating figure in this vast, humming enterprise.

"But Schwab has developed about him a group of young men, just as Carnegie did. None of them stands out as did Frick, Schwab and Corey among Carnegie's 'boys,' but they are a vigorous and exceedingly wealthy lot. Thus far they have stuck to the steel business, eschewed New York and live in South Bethlehem on a street happily known as Bonus row. Eugene G. Grace, who ranks next to Schwab, is only thirty-eight years old. He was the son of a poor village storekeeper and began as a laborer. His yearly income amounts to well over $1,000,000—thanks to bonuses."

MAKE YOUR MONEY WORK.

And the Lesson the Small Investor Needs to Learn.

The advice of one of the large banks of the country is that every one should invest his surplus, whether large or small, in dividend securities of the best class, whether railroad, real estate or farm mortgages or public utilities, for "To keep money idle is a costly operation."

Let every reader of this article remember that with as little as $5 or $10 he can make first payment on the purchase of a first class $100 bond. Let every reader who has a few hundred dollars to spare put it in a good $500 or $1,000 bond on the partial payment plan, and let it earn something. Five hundred dollars invested in a 6 per cent bond (with the income deposited in a savings bank at 4 per cent) will double itself in twelve years—that is the $500 will have become $1,000 in that time. This $1,000 at 6 per cent will earn $60 a year or over $1 a week for its possessor. Even at 5 per cent it will double in fifteen years and at 4 per cent in eighteen years.

The lesson the small investor wants to learn is that his money is just as good as that of the larger investor. The former has greater need of being careful because he has less to spare. Learn to be a careful investor. The first thing the careful buyer does if he wants to buy a horse, a cow, a house or a farm, a bond or a share of stock is to make a careful investigation. Schoolboys may swap the jackknives they hold in their closed hands, but grownup men ought to know better. The humblest investor can buy with as great safety as the proudest, for both can deal with the same bankers or brokers in these days when small lots are popular with firms of established character.—Leslie's Weekly.

BIRD ROOSTS.

Safety First as It Is Practiced by the Feathered Tribes.

One of the best ways to prepare for a long journey is to make a short one. So we find that many birds, before they embark on their great air voyage which is to take them from their summer to their winter home, first make daily trips between their sleeping quarters and their feeding grounds.

This is the habit of our robin. Robins raise two and sometimes three families in one season. When the first family leaves the nest early in June it is taken by the father robin to some dense, leafy growth of young trees to pass the night. To this place they return every night. Many other robins, sometimes thousands of them, come to the same woods. Such resorts are known as robin roosts. In flying to and from them the young birds learn how to find their way.

Meanwhile mother robin is patiently sitting on her blue eggs, from which in about two weeks' time another little family will appear. In two weeks more they also will be large enough to leave the nest and can join their brothers and sisters in the roost.

Grackles, or crow blackbirds, have the same habit. But since they have only one family or brood both the parent birds go to the roost with their young.

Sometimes the robins are joined by the grackles and both by the European starlings, which, brought to this country and released in Central park, New York, in 1890, have since become one of the most abundant birds in our middle Atlantic states. Such a roost is visited nightly by many thousands of birds.—Frank M. Chapman in St. Nicholas.

Hungarian Faces.

I have never seen such interesting photographer's show windows as there are in Budapest. Partly this is because the photographers are good, but partly it must lie in the Hungarians themselves—such vivid, interesting, unconventional faces. These people look as if they ought to do the acting and write the music and novels and plays and paint the pictures for all the rest of the world. If they haven't done so it must be because, along with their natural talent, they have this indolence and tendency to flop and not push things through.—Arthur Ruhe in Collier's Weekly.

London's Big Bell.

"Big Ben," the bell in Westminster clock tower, London, is known the world over, but it is incorrectly named. Sir Benjamin Hall, the first commissioner of works, during whose tenure of office the clock was erected, had far less to do with it than Lord Grimthorpe, who designed it and was the moving spirit in its erection. In justice to him it should be known as "Old Grim."—London Mirror.

No Novelty to Her.

Miss Gigglequm (single and romantic)—The shower of soot and ashes from Vesuvius must be an awe inspiring sight. Would you not like to witness it? Mrs. Pottson Pans (married and prosaic)—Oh, I don't know! I've seen my husband take down a stovepipe.—Judge.

A Galley o' Fun!

INTERVIEWED.

"Did I say that?" the statesman cried
And read the words, aghast,
In which he Germany defied
And France and England "sassed."
His hands he wrung, his hair he tore
But vain was his regret—
That lie was squelched, ah! never more:
It's being quoted yet.

"Did I say that?" the heiress flared
And read the words anew
In which her heart of hearts she bared
And held it up to view.
With rage and shame her soul was filled,
Her tears the pillow wet——
That interview would not be killed:
It's being quoted yet.

"Did I say that?" the banker wailed,
And read the words again
In which his colleagues he assailed
As selfish, narrow men.
"I'll have revenge upon that hound,
The whole blamed lying set!"
That interview would not be downed
It's being quoted yet.

AFTER THE MEETING.

"The speaker seemed to think that the sale of liquor can be stopped."

"But that's nonsense. You might as well try to stop the Prohibitionists from thinking it can."

IN OLD KENTUCKY.

"The Bowling Green Bangfords have come into their inheritance, and such insufferable airs as they are putting on!"

"Automobile, I suppose-"

"No; but they sent abroad for a machine gun and are using it in their feuds!"

QUITE UNNECESSARY.

Jack Huggard—Shall I ask your father?

Miss Innit—No; just TELL him—you're so big and strong you don't need to ask!

THE USUAL COURSE.

Passenger—I'm afraid I have no money with me. What do you do when a respectable-looking person can't pay his fare?

Conductor—Why, we let him ride free to the next corner.

AN UNDOUBTED CHAMPION.

Weary Willy—Dat's our golf champion.

New Recruit—Wot's his record.

Weary Willie—He's stole ten clubs, four balls, two caps and six medals in four weeks.

LA CHAUFFEUSE.

A dash down the boulevard,
Close skimming all the corners;
With naught that can her course retard,
Not even scores of mourners.
Behind, a little trail of steam
Floats upward in derision,
To mock at sundry folk who deem
That they've beheld a vision.

Past bicycle and steed passe;
Past babby carriage, sparrow;
Past park police, she speeds her way
Tho' howsoever narrow.
A rattle of a chiding gong—
A peal of saucy laughter—
Beware! Beware! O wond'ring throng!
For havoc follows after.

A case for court is this, methinks.
But, ah! each white-gloved copper
Upon her passage only blinks
And does not try to stop her.
An errant lock upon the breeze
His clumsy eyes entangles;
And, strange to say, he never sees
The many hearts she mangles!

While The Passenger Was Arguing With The Ticket Agent About The Time of Leaving, The Train Left.

Fortunes have been lost by delaying the moment of action. Procrastination has robbed all of us of many things we might have had and enjoyed if we had but acted.

There are a lot of folks in this town who have heard of our remarkable ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA and expect to own a copy. But they think that any time will do — that we will always have a copy for them.

But will we? Already the pile is getting low. We have telegraphed to the publishers for an additional supply only to be advised that the number printed for 1916 have all been disposed of.

Another case of "standing room only", as the theatres put it. SOMEONE IS GOING TO BE DISHED OUT OF THE COPY THEY EXPECTED TO GET. And that someone is going to be he who waits just a little too long.

On the same principle of a starting train or boat, the one who delays until the bell strikes generally get left.

"Early Bird" is always getting the juicy things because he is ahead of the other fellow.

— And, this is but another instance where Early Bird wins out by getting the most accurate — most authentic — ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA of the year.

For scope of subjects — for reliable information upon every topic, subject or matters of information there has never before been offered a book the equal of this one.

Every one who has a copy is amazed at the wide range it covers. They marvel that such a wealth of knowledge could ever be gathered together and yet so condensed as to contain the full gist of the subject — not the slightest sacrifice made nor words used that would in any way cloud the information.

Already is the ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA settling arguments. Already is it imparting information to its owners upon questions—features—places—cities—events—historical spots they have heard of but never known the real "inside facts" about before.

You, too, have still time to obtain this wonderful

Sunday School Classes Give Pleasing Entertainment at Congregational Church.

The entertainment provided by the Sunday-school classes of Mrs. J. M. Whiton and James McClymont, of the Congregational church, in the parish house of that church yesterday afternoon, afforded much amusement to the large audience present and there was commendation and praise for the participants. The entire program will be repeated tonight at 8:15.

The program consisted of the following numbers: Sexete, Miss Helen Weseman, Elvira Patton, Holmes Clawson, Russell Tomlinson, Eugene Martin and Donald Hylan; movie, "Life at Loneliville," cast, Miss Margaret Tubbs, Henry Brandt and Lewis Zeek; impersonations of stage celebrities by Miss Margaret Rice, Miss Marjorie Kirkner, Henry Brandt; movie, "The Gypsy's Revenge," cast Miss Lillian Whitall, Jessie Phelps Elizabeth Martin and Lewis Zeek; Indian songs, Miss Margaret Tubbs, "Feva-Eay," Miss Kathleen Phillips. The last named was a clever interpretation of "Eva Fay." One of the features of the surprises was an attractive and well stocked pharmacy where toilet accessories, ice cream, candy and soft drinks were sold. The latter will still serve the needs of all who come this evening.

The various committees in charge of the entertainment consisted of Program, Miss Kathleen Phillips, Miss Hazel Lockwood, Donald Clydyke, Harold Tomlinson, Donald Hylan; stage properties, Miss Margaret Tubbs; ice cream and cake, Miss Helen Weseman, Eugene Martin and Axe Brandt; candy, Miss Lillian Whitall Jessie Phelps, Henry Brandt and Russell Tomlinson; soft drinks, Mrs James Mauger and Mrs. Anderson Holmes Clawson and Irving Wiltsie, toilet articles, etc., Miss Marion Forbes, Elvira Patton, Fred Disborough and Lewis Zeek.

FAVORS DEFENSIVE PLAN

were 400,000 men in the United States who had seen military service in the last twenty years, either under the government supervision or in the many schools where a military course is supplied. These men have returned to their vocations but they know the rudiments, the hardships and camp life of warfare. He also stated that there were one million modern rifles in the United States arsenals.

As a member of the Women's Peace Party of America, Miss Richards expressed herself as standing for a normal program of preparedness and is not a believer of peace at any price. "I believe that war is out of date to settle questions of internationalism. In war men forget everything in their lust for blood. One of the aims of our party is to build up high ideals for the future to teach the human mind moderation, patience and watchful waiting—can promise if necessary, rather than lose thousands of human lives. What is a piece of land to the ruthless destruction of the flower of youth of a nation? I rejoice that we have a man of enough persistence and will to say that despite all hysterical cries of critics, the policy of his administration will not be changed."

Concluding her talk, Miss Richards gave an account of the exile of a Polish noblewoman from her palace in Petrograd when the Germans entered that city; the hardships she underwent, the cruel treatment of her little servant maid; the sickness of her two children; confiscation of all her clothing and her penniless arrival to this country. Probably the one thing that saved her and secured her recognition from the German officials was the fact that she was an American by birth and a Polish woman by marriage. Her husband is stationed with his regiment in Russian Poland.

LOCAL YOUNG MEN LEAVE ON LONG WESTERN TRIP

J. Archibald Thompson, of Somerset street, and H. Lester Miller, former manager of F. C. Bauer's confectionery store, on East Front street, left last night via the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for a trip through the West, with Denver, Colo., as their ultimate destination. They will visit Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Cincinnati, St. Louis and other points enroute. The trip is being made for the benefit of Mr. Thompson's health, as he only recently recovered from a long illness, and it is believed the change of climate will aid in his recuperation. Mr. Miller who has been a companion, will assist in the care of his friend.

Mr. Thompson was for several years connected with the reportorial department of the Daily Press, but more recently has been a rural mail carrier attached to the local office. It is probable that he and Mr. Miller will locate permanently in Denver, if all things concerned are congenial. The many local friends of both young men extend best wishes for success, a number of them extending personal farewell at the 6:47 train last night.

TAXPAYERS SEEK TO ESCAPE FINE

Special Federal Revenue Payments Must Be Paid by February 1.

Liability to a penalty of 50 per cent. has been the incentive which has caused dealers in tobacco, commission merchants, proprietors of theatres, bowling alleys, poolrooms and others subject to taxation under the special Federal revenue act of 1914 to seek Deputy Revenue Collector J. P. McNamara's headquarters in the postoffice building, Elizabeth, before the first of February.

Mr. McNamara is the collector for all of Union county and part of Somerset, and consequently has had to make a number of jumps. While his headquarters are in Elizabeth, the Waldorf Hotel, Plainfield, was the rendezvous of taxpayers on January 13, and the following day the Summit House, Summit, was the scene. January 17, Rahway was visited; January 20, Bernardsville; January 20, Bound Brook. On January 5, 12, 19, 26, Mr. McNamara was at the Elizabeth office in the postoffice building, and Travers' Hall, that city, was employed as an office on January 11, 18 and 25.

The licenses are issued for six months only and are good until July 1. A steady stream of taxpayers filed the revenue office this morning, and as the end of the month draws nearer the crowd grows larger.

Theatre, museums or concert halls are assessed from $12.50 to $50 for the half year; pool tables and bowling alleys, $2.50 each for the six months; dealers in leaf tobacco, $3 to $12; dealers not otherwise provided for, whose annual receipts exceed $200, are assessed $2.80 for a half year; commission merchants, $10; basketball games, which come under the head of public exhibitions, $5. Mr. McNamara wishes to emphasize that any club or organization that conducts balls or dances without a revenue license will be prosecuted.

THE FORUM

MR. NEWCORN'S APPRECIATION.
Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

Permit me, through the medium of your paper, to extend the thanks of the Plainfield Branch of the American Jewish Relief Committee to the various factors that contributed towards the success of the splendid meeting held at Columbus Hall last night, when the initial gun of the campaign for raising $5,000 for the relief of the Jewish war sufferers abroad was fired.

The publicity and advertising awarded through the courtesy of the Daily Press and the Courier-News was the means of filling the hall with men and women who were swayed by the eloquent and graphic descriptions portrayed by the speakers, and I desire to express my thanks to both papers of our city for what they have done in the past towards awakening in the hearts of our citizens, irrespective of nationality or creed, the necessity of contributing to this worthy cause.

I desire to thank his honor, Mayor Calkins, the Rev. Dr. John Y. Brock, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson and Rev. Dr. David de Solo Pool for their co-operation in making the meeting a success and arousing the sentiment which will result, I am sure, in the successful carrying out of the plans of our committee. I also desire to express to the public, both Christians and Jews, who up to the present time have so liberally responded to the plea for giving bread to the living and shrouds to the dead, irrespective of the amount contributed by them, because, when everything is summed up, the amount is not everything, but the spirit that causes the contribution is what figures.

The spectacle last night when the appeal was made for contributions some in large sums, others in small sums, the widow giving her little mite of one dollar, some of the audience giving all the change they had in their pockets, the young girl sacrificing the dollar that she had hoarded for the purpose of seeing Mischa Elman, the young Zionist boys under the age of twelve years making a collection of five dollars, the shop girls at Nat Levy's shop from their meagre salary making a collection of ten dollars and ten cents; contributions made in behalf of the children here so well protected by their parents to try to save the lives of the children abroad, the contribution in sums of from fifty cents to fifty dollars by our Christian friends before the meeting, in response to letters of appeal, amounting in all to about $750; ministers of the gospel from their salaries doing their share in the cause of humanity, speaks loud of the inherent charitable instinct that underlies human nature. And while I am not able at the present time to state just how much money was collected and pledged at the meeting, as the contributions were coming in too fast to total them up, a conservative estimate would indicate that the total receipts would amount to twenty-five hundred dollars.

The work of the committee has just begun, as no one knows when the war will end, and after the war provisions will have to be made to take care of the survivors, therefore there will be no rest upon the part of the committee until the sum allotted to the city of Plainfield has been raised and forwarded to the general committee for distribution.

I desire to express the thanks of the committee to those who have so liberally responded, and trust that the account of the meeting last night, circulated through the medium of your papers, will be an incentive to cause others to liberally respond to this worthy cause.

Gratefully and sincerely yours,
WILLIAM NEWCORN.

WILL REPLACE FLAGS DESTROYED BY FIRE

State Managers of the S. A. R. to Aid Asbury Park Chapter.

The flags belonging to Monmouth Chapter, New Jersey Society, Sons of the American Revolution, lost in the fire of January 17, which destroyed the Asbury Park Press building, are to be restored. This decision was reached at a meeting of the board of managers of the State society in the headquarters at Newark. It was decided also to hold a patriotic meeting at Asbury Uark on a date to be named in February, when the presentation will take place.

All of Monmouth Chapter's property, except its charter and records were destroyed in the Press building fire. The relics had been stored on an upper floor.

Secretary William A. Squire, in a letter written to David L. Pierson historian-general and member of the board, told of the loss and also of the finding of metal work on poles to which the colors had been attached, and which will be saved as souvenirs. John Lenord Merrill, in whose administration the chapter was organized, offered the resolution which was carried unanimously, providing for restoring the flags.

ASK AID OF WOMEN IN MISSION FIELD

A call to more intensive and extensive effort on the part of every member of the New Jersey Association of the Philadelphia Branch of the Congregational Woman's Boards of Foreign Missions, featured the opening program of the semi-annual conference of that body yesterday in the Y. W. C. A. building, Newark. Miss Emma L. Bridges, of Westfield, president of the branch, opened the meeting by repeating a paraphrase of the parable of the Good Samaritan, in which the burden of responsible for the relief of the suffering womanhood of India was shown to rest largely on New Jersey women.

It is the plan of the State association to equip the operating room of Madura Hospital in India, as a testimonial to Miss Susan Hayes Ward, formerly of Newark, a vice president of the branch and a former president.

A COUSIN OF HINDENBURG.

In a little room back of a lunchroom at Wanda, Redwood county, Minnesota, there sits each day a rugged old man who follows the European war as closely perhaps as any person in America. He wears a grizzled beard, his brow is whitened by his seventy years, and his features bear a striking resemblance to one of the Teutonic heroes of the war. This man is Friedrich Benz, who is, according to the Minneapolis Journal, a cousin of the famous von Hindenburg, the German field marshal, who has accomplished several of the greatest campaigns of the war.

The grizzled Minnesota farmer fought with the Prussians back in '70, and he has medals to show for his gallantry at Metz and at Paris. After doing his duty for his country, he migrated to America. His cousin, von Hindenburg, had chosen an army carreer, while Benz chose that of a tiller of the soil. Both men have fought a hard battle with the world, and the heavy lines under the eyes mark both the fighters. One forced his way doggedly to the highest honors his Kaiser can give, and the other struggled with nature, somewhat reluctant at times, and forced it to bless him, his children and grandchildren with a competence.

"Paul, he knows his business," says Friedrich Benz, with the justifiable pride of a cousin. "He has been a soldier always, and he knew the lakes. How could a Russ hope to beat him?"

When the war broke out a year ago last summer, the Minnesota veteran went to Minneapolis and tried to arrange for his passage back to his old home in Germany. He could not fight, for he was too old, but the fires of patriotism were stirred within him, and he knew there was something he could do back there to help. But fate was against him. Germany needed not old men, but the young.

The resemblance between Friedrich Benz and Marshal Von Hindenburg is striking. The nose of the Minnesota man is broad at the base, rounding on top, and tending to be bulbous. It is identical with that of the German leader. When his eyes fire up with marital ardor and the brows bend to a straight line, the face is nearly a duplicate. The big moustache of von Hindenburg has its counterpart on the face of Friedrich Benz. The Minnesotan, with his hair cut in the square, standing Hindenburg fashion, might fool the guards of the field marshal.

It is through the mother of John Benz, father of the aged Minnesotan, that the relationship lies. She was Elizabeth Ra Molie before her marriage to the grandfather of Friedrich. Although a Prussian woman, she had French blood in her ancestry, as her name shows. It was her sister who married a Hindenburg and became the grandmother of the present field marshal, whose complete official name is Paul von Beneokendorf und von Hindenburg. The two families lived within visiting distance. The next generation saw less of each other. Anyway, Friedrich was two years older than Paul and gave scant attention to one so young and unknowing. Friedrich remembers the day when news came that Paul, who was in the army, was wounded, and the family rejoiced at the news that his injury was not serious and that he would soon recover.

Friedrich Ben's service is a story in itself. His mechanical abilities gave him a place in the artillery in the sweep through France. His battery stopped at Metz to hurl a few rounds at the French troops beleaguered there. Then on to Gravelotte, Sedan and the other great victories he was swept, finally reaching Paris.

"It was bad, yes, most bad at Paris," he tells one. "It was mud everywhere and fighting always. No rest, no quiet. All day we fired shells at them, and all night we fired shells. I wonder how they ever stood it in Paris so long as they did."

Benz came to America soon after the Franco-Prussian War, and settled in Illinois first. Two years later he went to Wisconsin, and found the farming better there. In 1893 he bought a farm in Granite Rock township, in Redwood county, Minnesota, where, until a ftw years ago he lived a vigorous farming life. Then he retired and moved to Wanda, where he lives with his son.

While his cousin scatters death and sorrow among the innocents of Europe he calmly rests after a work of peace in the shade of love and respect. Which is the greater man? This recalls the words of Brann, who, despite his sins and weakness, sometimes dipped his pen in immortal ink: "I would rather be a lowly peasant living in a thatched hut and see the lovelight burn unbought in honest eyes, than the marauding emporer of a mighty nation and know not who fawned upon the master and who esteemed the man."

KIDNAPPING U. S. SOLDIERS.

The limit has been reached in our relations with Mexico. When bandits kidnapped two American soldiers and caused the death of four more who went to their rescue, "drowned," says the official report, they challenged American courage and honor. To meekly submit to this outrage would be to lower Americanism, to stand by and see the Star Spangled banner dragged in the mire of derision by a band of ignorant cutthroats. Instead of punishing the three lieutenants who led a rescue party across the border for violation of orders the Department of War should turn them loose in Mexico with orders to find their comrades—to come back with them even though it meant the searching of Mexico City itself. The soldiers were kidnapped as a direct insult to America and if the bandits guilty of this affront are permitted to go unpunished no citizens of this country will be safe anywhere in Mexico.

England's labor men wish her well but refuse to be forced into her armies. In other words they are willing to hold John Bull's coat while he whips the Kaiser.

It was evidently not a newspaper man who lost that $700 on Somerset street Sunday morning as the owner has not discovered the shortage in his roll as yet.

Man who stole wire off a wireless station ought to go into vaudeville. He is original, at any rate.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Where The Health Department Is Important

A DOZEN WAITERS and kitchen helpers in restaurants were recently found to be suffering with tuberculosis. Three waiters were found to be suffering with pyorrhoea. Four had chronic ear suppuration (discharging ear), and many were victims of an all too prevalent disease, sometimes immorally, sometimes innocently contracted. These cases were found by Drs. Barlow and Bram in Philadelphia, but beyond the shadow of a doubt every other city can boast a similar record.

Curiously enough, handlers and purveyors of food are frequently the most uncleanly persons one sees. The personal habits of many waiters and kitchen helpers are abominable, and outside of the very many typhoid fever epidemics which have been positively traced to "carriers" contaminating food by their uncleanly habits, there are on record authentic instances of such diseases as referred to above, for instance, being spread by waiters.

If the average city health department would devote one-half of the energy and money now expended in the silly rite of fumigating to the business of inspecting persons who handle food, a good deal of illness might be prevented. We have "pure food" laws, but we need also protection against the unclean handlers of food. "Pure food' is no longer pure after a dirty waiter or a filthy cook handles it.

And let it be said at once that mere white enamel, bathroom-style restaurants and lunchrooms are not any cleaner than plain wooden ones. A beautiful marble slab or a bit of plate glass highly polished may be reeking with disease germs, whereas an unpainted wooden table may be absolutely sanitary. The popular notion that a thing is sanitary because it is white or clean looking is wrong. There is no reason whatever for such a belief, except the commercialization of that overworked term, "sanitary."

A great railroad system some time ago inaugurated medical inspection of all employees of its dining service, both on trains and in stations. What is the reason why medical inspection of restaurant employees and other handlers of food is not included in the functions of the city health department? The answer is easy: It is the politicians' wish that business shall not be disturbed. Public health is all very well, but it is of no concern at all when business is inconvenienced.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Removal of Hair

I have watched your column for months in hope of seeing something about removing superfluous hair. Can't you suggest a safe, efficient depilatory remedy?

Answer—Gladly. There is but one in the world—but one that destroys hair—and that is the electric needle. All other depilatories are mere solvents of surface hair—they never destroy the roots, and the hair returns thicker and more noticeable than ever after a few weeks.

Dr. Brady will answer all questions pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; otherwise it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases or make diagnoses. Address all letters to Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.

THE COLLIE

THE COLLIE is a tall, Gothic dog with long, fine hair and a lean, pointed nose which was designed to enable him to drink water out of a crayfish hole in case of necessity.

The collie has bright, beautiful eyes, full of intelligence, sharp, expressive ears and a mouth which extends back into his face about a foot, and is decorated on the edges with quantities of teeth. When the collie opens his face slightly, allows his plentiful tongue to hang negligently over his lower jaw and thumps the floor with his mohair tail, he is as eloquent in his discourse as many a man who can recite the Unabridged Dictionary, page for page.

The collie was invented in Scotland and is one of that country's most valuable assets. Thanks to the collie the Highland shepherds have had time to learn to play the bagpipes. The collie has a natural talent for herding sheep and if he were a human being, would undoubtedly be a political leader in Pennsylvania or Rhode Island. As it is, he does the shepherd's work for him in a capable manner, counting the sheep, reproving them, rounding them up, instructing them, caring for the sick and steering the shepherd home when he has blown himself dizzy on his bagpipes. The Scotch shepherd makes no claim for wisdom himself, but will steadily fight anyone who accuses his dog of being no wiser than he is.

In America the collie is a household decoration. There are two kinds of domestic collies, the trained and the untrained. If the collie pup is well trained five or nine times a day with a durable club, he soon abandons his baby tricks and becomes a friend to man. The untrained collie, however, is a bigger nuisance around the house than a college freshman, and there are striking points of resemblance between the two.

Thanks to the collie, the Highland shepherds have had time to learn to play the bagpipes

The collie is one of our most talented fighters, but his system is much different from that of the bulldog's. Unlike the latter he is not content with one mouthful of his foe, but keeps sampling him in different quarters until he soon exhausts the supply. The bulldog, owing to his tenacious nature, can only fight one foe at a time, but the collie is more Rooseveltian in his nature and can frequently dispose of a whole pack of enemies by giving them one well-directed bite apiece.

Views Of The Press

An Example To Study

AT A TIME WHEN the ways and means of preparedness are being widely discussed it is well to consider the system by which the little Swiss republic, with a population smaller than that of the city of New York, yet keeps itself in such condition that it could call to the colors in case of necessity 200,000 trained men in two days, and in a week more add 300,000 to them.

This almost equals the miracle by which Mr. Bryan proposes in this country to raise 1,000,000 farmers by Ford and telephone, save that the million in this country, were Mr. Bryan's proposition practicable, would be as nothing compared to the 500,000 in Switzerland. There the 500,000 would represent one person in eight of the population, while the 1,000,000 farmers in the United States would be less than one man to 100 people.

But Switzerland has accomplished her condition of preparedness without going to militaristic extremes or becoming submerged in the imposition of military duties on the citizens. She has a gradual system of training, beginning when the boys are young, and continued steadily, never burdensome and always beneficial in the matter of individual health and strength. An expert, commenting on the system, says:

"The nation requires service and devotion, but it gives rugged benefits in return — improved physique, knowledge of the laws of health, invigorated health, discipline and greater self-control, intensified powers of concentration and attention, alertness and quickened mental and physical action.

"These are foundation qualities that make for individual efficiency and success. When they are lacking or deteriorated in the manhood of a country that nation is on the down grade."—Bridgeport Standard.

People's Legal Friend

Revels At Gray's Inn

GRAY'S INN, London's hallowed sanctuary of the law, clings tenaciously to tradition. Within its walls may still be heard the "mootings" at which some knotty point of law is discussed in the presence of an eminent queen's counsel. The students still drink "to the glorious, pious, and immortal memory of good Queen Bess," whose portrait hangs in the place of honor over the bencher's table. On grand nights there is still the offering of wine, with a morsel of bread upon a silver plate—an almost sacramental observance. And now the honorable Society seeks to restore, in modified measure, that reputation for revels which Queen Elizabeth acknowledged when she praised Gray's Inn as "an house she was much indebted to, for it always studied for some sports to present to her."

Three or four years ago there was a masque, such as Burleigh, the great minister, delighted to witness, and recently there was a revival of "The Comedy of Errors," as it was doubtless presented over three hundred years ago. With the Middle Temple, Gray's Inn shares the glory of being the only existing place in which the plays of Shakespeare saw light. In "Gesta Grayorum" occurs the earliest reference to "The Comedy of Errors," which was produced among some tumult, owing to the overcrowding of the hall, for we are told that the night "began and continued to the end in nothing but confusion and errors; whereupon it was ever afterwards called the night of errors."

No finer setting could be imagined than the bare boards of the beautiful hall, beneath the hammer-beam roof, with a background of richly-designed oak screen, to which age had given a burnished lustre. The costumes were faithful reproductions of the dresses of the period. Serving men held torches to light the play, as in 1594, and at the close of the play, the actors, kneeling in a row, delivered that curious supplication known as the "Queen's Prayer," from the play of "Ralph Roister Doister," which Her Majesty's servants were wont to speak at the conclusion of their performance. Supper was eaten to the music of lutes, viols, and virginals from the minstrel's loft. The whole spectacle was a delightful revival of the drama of ancient times.—Old English Customs.

Pepper Talks

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Facets

Facets are the little flat planes on the Diamond and other precious stones that draw and reflect the Light and give Value and Fascination to the stone itself. Experts will tell you that the Diamond in the rough is worth but from five to about fifty dollars a Karat, whereas after being cut—and polished—each Facet brilliantly blazing its light, the Diamond becomes worth from one to five hundred dollars a Karat, or thereabout.

It is the Cutting and Polishing that jumps Diamond values.

A Human Being is often likened to a Diamond in the Rough. And those who stand out above others and draw others their way and who demand and command Respect and Honor are those who have cut and polished the largest number of Facets from their natural human Worth in the Rough. All excellence results from Sweat and Effort—from the warming of healthy Blood and the speeding up of purposeful Heart-throbs.

That man's life is worth most who realizes his Possibilities most.

For the concealed, uncut Facets are the Possibilities. The larger the number of Facets, the greater is the brilliance of the Stone and the larger is its Value. Human society is made up of men and women whose Facets are at various stages of development. Some hardly get away from the Rough. Others get as far as to the cutting of the Facets—but never get down to the polishing business, while there are others whose Facets show out into the world with marvelous sparkle and wonder.

Ask yourself if your Facets look brighter with each added day.

Your Talents, your Abilities, your possible Deeds are your Facets. But if they are not cut, evenly planed—Polished, their Value, as far as the world is concerned, might as well not exist. Do and Be and "Hump Yourself" if you want your Facets to leap in Value and your life to count. Also, bear in mind that the best cut stone is the one that most clearly shows forth the Inner Worth of the stone.

Current Poetry

To-morrow

What holdest thou in dower?
To-day, in its last hour,
Shall soon, a withered flower,
Drop from the stem of time,
And, dead and curled, blow aimless
Upon some current nameless,
Forgotten, faded, fameless,
Whilst thou art in thy prime.

What holdest thou in treasure?
Shall sorrow reign, or pleasure—
Or each in equal measure
Hold for a space full sway?
Shall we have power to change thee,
Or to our wills arrange thee,
Till time itself estrange thee,
And thou be yesterday?

Have all our days, now ended,
To thy upbuilding tended?
Hast thou on us depended
For what thou art to be?
Or from time's far beginning
Hast thou thy way been winning
With changeless meed of sinning,
Of pain and ecstasy?

Thou seemest vast, To-morrow,
And from the past of sorrow
We come at last to borrow
Some solace from thy scope.
For when, from Eden faring,
The lost ones walked despairing,
God saw all woe, and, caring,
Bestowed the boon of hope.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Little Squeegee Gives Dick an Invitation.

"We'll be at the moon in a jiffy."

"WHEN a little boy, Dick, asked an elf his name," daddy told his children, "the little chap sat right down on the edge of Dick's bed and whispered: 'I'll tell you something, but never repeat it'. I gave myself the name of Squeegee. I made the name up. My parents were very poor and could not afford to buy ninety-five names for my brothers, sisters and me, too. So they went to a word factory and bought up a lot of damaged words at half price. They got some splendid bargains, too! One was "anecdoration," with the "t" gone out of it, and another was a badly worn "bee." Out of these my clever mother got Amelia and Niobe for my twin sisters, and the two or three other letters came in handy for my fifty-sixth brother. When they came to me all that was left at the word factory was a shopworn "Squeel," with the "l" missing, and a rather shabby "green." Squeegee was the best I could make of it. You don't happen to want an "r" or an "en," do you?' The elf asked this in the friendliest way.

"'No, thank you,' said Dick, choking with laughter. 'What a funny way to name people!'

"'Dear me,' murmured the Squeegee, taking out a watch almost as big as a pea, 'it's getting very late! If we don't hurry it will be too early.'

"'Too late, you mean, don't you?' whispered Dick.

"'Oh, I nearly always mean what I say! I mean too early! By the way, I almost forgot to tell you,' the Squeegee went on, 'that I came to invite you to pay a visit to the Jeeboo land. Get dressed as fast as you can or a little faster.'

"'Who are the Jeeboos?' asked Dick, hurriedly jumping for his clothes.

"'They are the animals who live in the moon, of course,' sniggered the Squeegee. 'Come on!'

"'It's funny I have never read about them,' said Dick.

"'That's because you didn't read the right book,' said the elf.

"'But I have read our natural history book all through!' cried Dick, lacing his shoes like lightning.

"'But have you ever read unnatural history,' giggled the Squeegee.

"'No,' Dick confessed, buttoning his blouse.

"'Well, that's where you'd find out all about the Jeeboos and such animals as the wazzle, the jangeree and the grink.'

"'Will I see them all if I go to Jeebooland?' asked Dick, putting on his cap and remembering a day at the zoo.

"'Certainly! Now take hold of my hand and we'll be at the moon in a jiffy,' promised the little Squeegee."

Household Hints

GIFT SUGGESTIONS

Very handsome neckties for men can be made easily at home from leftover silk or remnants purchased at sales for a very small price. If purchased ready made they would cost anywhere from 75 cents to $1.50, according to the quality of silk. It takes just one-third yard of twenty-four-inch silk to make a large four-in-hand tie, piecing through center of neckband if cut on a straight fold. Rip the wearer's favorite style tie, cut according to same and sew up, inserting a strip of cotton flannel to keep the shape of tie. The tie used as pattern can be easily stitched together again. Bow ties, of course, take a very small remnant.

Young girls' middy ties and ladies' fancy neckwear can also be easily made if one will take the trouble to examine those in the shops. Silk poplin, in navy blue, makes a surprisingly good-looking tie for a young high school lad.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

To frost a cake evenly to the very edge and prevent icing from running down the sides, double a piece of stiff waxed paper and pin it about the cake closely, letting the band come about half an inch above top of cake. Spread icing on evenly and thickly, then after icing is set remove paper.

New Kind of Pillow Cases—To those who are planning their winter sewing: Plan also to include a few pairs of pillow cases. But don't buy a yard of muslin or pillow tubing. Instead, buy the medium weight bleached outing flannel and make them plain with a two-inch hem. You will not go back to using starched muslin, as they are easier washed and require little or no ironing, no starch, and they are softer, warmer and in every way more desirable. If embroidered ones are desired, the outing ones are still just as nice. You can also get it by the yard embroidered in colors, such as is often used for children's skirts. Make sheets of outing, too, if you wish to use sheets instead of blankets.

THE TABLE

Corn Beef and Kale (new recipe)—Wash and clean kale, then put on to boil; throw off the first two waters. Meantime boil a piece of corn beef fifteen minutes; after skimming off scum add kale to corn beef. Cook about three hours. When it is done do not have on too much water; thicken a little with flour or cornstarch.

Thanksgiving Spice Cake—Two cups light brown sugar, one-half cup butter or vegetable fat, one cup sour milk, 2½ scant cups flour, three-fourths teaspoon soda, one teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one-half teaspoon allspice, two egg yolks. Cream the fat, gradually add sugar and the well-beaten yolks of eggs. Mix all dry ingredients together and add alternately with sour milk. Beat well together and bake in two layers in moderately quick oven. Filling: One cup sugar, one-third cup water, one teaspoon lemon juice, one cup raisins. Boil sugar and water until it spins a thread and pour while beating over the stiffly beaten white of egg. Add the seeded raisins cut in halves. Put this between the cake. Some of the plain cing may be saved for the top and decorated with a spray of raisins.

Date Tart—One cup dates pitted, one cup quartered walnuts, one cup sugar, two eggs, one teaspoon baking powder, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon vanilla, pinch of salt. Beat eggs, add sugar, salt, flour and baking powder and vanilla. Stir, add dates and nuts. Mix well. Bake in shallow pan thirty minutes in slow oven. Serve with whipped cream or vanilla sauce.

RECIPES.

Cream Cheese and Nut Salad—Crack a half pound of English walnuts very carefully, to keep in halves. Make little balls of cream cheese and put half a walnut on each side. Lay on cups made of lettuce leaves and pour a Fresh dressing over them. Serve with wafers.

Chocolate Cake—Cream one cup brown sugar and scant half cup of lard. Then add one well-beaten egg and one cup sour milk. Mix well and add two tablespoons cocoa, one teaspoon each of soda and baking powder in just enough flour to make batter of proper thickness to drop from spoon. The success of the cake depends on the batter. Do not use too much flour.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

The New Mrs. Townsend Is Too Much for Peace Loving Dudley.

"Father, may I clear out the storeroom on the third floor and fit it up for a den where I can entertain my friends?" Dudley Townsend half sat on the counter in the back part of the store, near the elevated little dias that served for the private office where the bookkeeping was done. The store was empty of customers; it was early in the morning.

"I suppose so. What do you want to fit up a den for?" asked the father.

"Well, I hardly feel like asking the boys to the house. It is so blamed gorgeous they do not feel at home, and I never am sure they will not run into some of Mrs. Townsend's callers, or disturb her nap, or something. If I can have the room I will fit it up with some of mother's dear old furniture and it will be my home. Of course I will eat and sleep at the house, and——"

"Certainly, fix it up. I shall be glad to have the furniture used and cared for." Jacob Townsend leaned his head on his hand and Dudley thought his father's face looked drawn and old. He wondered if it was his imagination.

"Poor father, I am afraid his new wife is already becoming a heavy burden," thought the boy.

The father thought: "Even peace-loving Dudley is homeless; has to fit up a room over the store where he can feel free to entertain his friends. My daughter must go away to school and probably remain away till she leaves home for good in one way or another." He sighed wearily behind his hand when he thought the boy had gone beyond hearing.

"I believe Tupper will help me arrange the room. She's mothered us for five years and nothing we ask of her is too much trouble." Dudley stopped whistling long enough to deliver himself of this remark, while on the way upstairs to begin clearing the room.

"Call up the speaking tube when I am needed here," he shouted to his father from the landing.

The day proved to be rainy and business did not require Dudley's presence for several hours. The delivery boy found an hour to help carry the heavy boxes to another storeroom, so by night the room was cleared. Dudley was right about the readiness of Mrs. Tupper to assist her favorite in settling his new quarters. The next afternoon after the dinner work was out of the way Mrs. Tupper appeared in the parlor door gloved and bonneted for the street.

"I shall be back in time to get supper," she announced cheerfully, "but you will have to wait on the door."

"Why, Mrs. Tupper, is this your afternoon out?" asked Mrs. Townsend in surprise. "I have been careless about arranging a day for you."

"Don't you bother about that; I go when I feel like it, provided the work is done. Sometimes I do not go for a month; then again I go a couple of times a week."

"Really, I prefer to have a regular time that you can consider your own——" began Mrs. Townsend in a businesslike tone. But the cheerful rotund face became stern and the flowers on the bonnet quivered as she said:

"You will make no such arrangement with me, Mrs. Townsend. I am not, as you may say, 'in service.' I have a home to go to, and I must have my liberty." She let herself out of the door and raised her parasol as if firing a gun.

When she returned to the house to get supper the third floor room was all cleaned ready for settling.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Sensations have been out-sensationed and motion pictures have nearly gone the limit in their realism if criticisms of the big Lubin war film, "The Nation's Peril," are a criterion. From every corner, after the private showings of the picture, there has come a volume of wonderful praise, not only for the magnitude of the production, the suspendity of the scenes, the evident utter disregard for expense, but for the treatise which has been accorded this timely subject of the hour, preparedness and the hyphenated American.

For the past six months, the Lubin players, a corps of camera men, scenic artists, carpenters, with their assistants, and an army of "supers," the enemy and the defenders, under Director George Tirwilliger, of the Lubin forces, have been at work at Newport, Rhode Island, in the making of this masterpiece. From its smallest tender to its largest battleship and from its most humble cadet to Secretary Josephus Daniels, seemingly every man and ship of the United States Atlantic squadron has done duty toward the making of this picture.

Other features of "The Nation's Peril" are the appearance of Secretary Daniels, Admirals Winslow and Fletcher, Vice Admiral Mayo, Captain Sims, of the torpedo destroyer, Captain Willoughby, of the navy aerial corps, the War College, the Naval Training Station at Newport, thousands of sailors, and marines of the Atlantic squadron, soldiers of Rhode Island and Massachusetts as the hostile army, the wireless station at work, mine explosions in the harbor, etc.

Earl Metcalfe and Ormi Hawley, of the Lubin players, are to be seen in the leading roles, supported by Arthur Matthews, Herbert Fortier, William H. Turner and Eleanor Barry.

Manager Whiting has secured "The Nation's Peril" for presentation to Plainfield audiences at the U. S. Astor Theatre for two days, begining Monday next.

THE FRENCH HOME

There the Servant Is Like a Member of the Family.

IMPORTANCE OF THE NURSE.

She Is the Real and Rational Ruler of the Turbulent Children Who, as a General Rule, Are Spoiled by Their Too Indulgent Parents.

The French people have not, so far, produced a spiritually servile class. The occupation most dangerous to the soul—that of personal service—has not resulted for the people of France in flunkyism on the one hand and superior airs on the other.

There is something in the poise and motion of French working girls, in their fearless eyes and vibrant voices, that suggests a fluid and mobile social structure which deepens the impression of rigidity in the life across the channel and beyond the Rhine. French people of the more favored classes are never heard bemoaning the decay of a "proper" servant class. On the contrary, if you speak to them of the striking contrast between the French proletariat and that of other countries—theirs so natural and gay, the others so humble or so sullen or both—they instantly expand with pride. "Exactly!" they exclaim. "Our brave French people! Just as good as monsieur, as madame, but also no better!"

The status of the French domestic derives in part at least from the weight of responsibility under which she serves. For her mistress is neither a careless housekeeper nor an indifferent mother. It is precisely because the Frenchwoman loves her children so ardently, so romantically, one might say, and because her quick, intelligent grasp of material situations makes her an excellent economist at home that she requires and establishes in the household not a common servant, not a "mother's helper," but a woman of intelligence and character, a woman often young and untried, but with the true ring, who is or soon becomes capable of assuming direct responsibility for the care of the children and the house—a woman who deserves and receives the consideration due to the head of an important department in the management of the family life.

French children are notoriously spoiled. The little monarchs are kept on a pedestal well into the age of moral responsibility. Father, mother, all the older relatives, vie with one another in admiring and indulging them. With this understanding of the term and scope of the child's autocratic reign, one can afford to laugh at turbulent scenes in which he puts to rout every adult in the house except his bonne. At the mere sight of her the little desperado begins to quiet down. He is in the presence of the only person who has, so far, exercised any rational authority over him, the person before whom he feels the beginnings of shame at doing wrong.

The bonne is the most important person in the family group, so far as its material well being is concerned. And morally, spiritually, she is a true member of the family. It is not for nothing that the word "bonne" means "good" as well as "nurse."

It may be that the prevailing good relation between masters and servants in France has a very simple explanation—simple and yet profound. It may be that it springs at bottom from the warm affections of the people. They cannot live without love and sentiment. Better than any other people they know how to keep alive the romance of friendship, of love and even of that inherently bad relation, master and slave.

The French servant who has no family ties—and often the one who has—throws her whole heart and soul into the family life of her master and mistress.

She must love—she must serve—she must be loved. And the French master and mistress understand. Each one idealizes the sentiments of the other. In a word, the romance of the situation grips them all. French literature is crowded with examples of mistress and servant whose intimacy shows no trace of condescension on the one side or of servility on the others.—J. Frances Cooke in New Republic.

Art at Home.

Believe me, if we want art to begin at home, as it must, we must clear our houses of troublesome superfluities that are forever in our way, conventional comforts that are not real comforts and do but make work for servants and doctors. If you want a golden rule that will fit everybody this is it: "Have nothing in your houses that you do not know to be useful or believe to be beautiful."—William Morris.

A Precious Mosaic.

For ages upon ages happiness has been represented as a huge precious stone—impossible to find and which people seek for hopelessly. It is not so. Happiness is a mosaic composed of a thousand little stones, which separately and of themselves have little value, but which united with art form a graceful design.—Mme. de Girardin.

Might Be Worse.

"I'm in debt—heavily in debt," wailed the disconsolate man.

"Is that all that's troubling you?" retorted the cheerful stranger. "From the way you're acting I thought somebody owed you money that you couldn't collect."—Detroit Free Press.

On the great clock of time there is but one word—Now.—Old Saying.

VILLA'S DEFIANCE CAUSES A CRISIS BETWEEN MEXICO AND UNITED STATES

Story of the Killing of Eighteen Americans Described by Sole Survivor of Party of Miners. He Hid In Bushes and Slipped Away.

Tragedy Brings Forth Demand by Several Senators For Immediate Armed Intervention. Would Have Guilty Men Arrested.

HUNDREDS of Americans are leaving Mexico every day following the wholesale execution of men and women in and around Chihuahua by Villa followers. Villa has little love for this country since the administration recognized Carranza as president of Mexico. It is stated that in order to embarrass Carranza and America and probably to bring about intervention on our part he has executed these citizens.

Action by this country was the subject of a spirited debate in congress, and the question was discussed from every angle. Senators, especially those from the states near the Mexican border, urged intervention in strong terms. Most prominent among these were Senator Fall of New Mexico and Senator Borah of Idaho.

Immediately after the murders Secretary of State Lansing sent a note to President Carranza demanding the punishment of the Villa men guilty of butchering the nineteen men killed at Santa Ysabel after being stripped of their clothing.

Only One Man Escaped.

Of the party of nineteen miners only one escaped execution. This was Thomas B. Holmes of El Paso, whose story of the tragedy is most interesting. Mr. Holmes said:

SENATOR BORAH.

"Our train left Chihuahua city Monday morning, Jan. 10, at about 11 o'clock. The train was stopped at or about the Ranch Baeza, a point about five miles west of Santa Ysabel, between 1:30 and 2 o'clock that afternoon. While the train was standing at the station of Santa Ysabel two armed Mexicans rode by and scrutinized the train. The Mexican passengers at Santa Ysabel told me afterward that the riders had inquired if there were any soldiers on the train.

"At the point of the massacre our train was stopped in a cut so that the last car was just inside of the cut. We were stopped by another train, the front trucks of one of the coal cars of which were seen to be off the track. This was the first we knew of a train preceding us. There was nobody to be seen around the train in front.

"When our train was stopped Newman and I were sitting together, and Evans came up and looked out of our window. Evans, Newman, MacHatton and I then got off the train. Watson was either getting off or about to do so, behind us, when I looked back and saw him.

"Just after alighting I heard a volley of rifle shots from a point on the other side of the cut and just above the train. Looking around, I could see a bunch of about twelve or fifteen men standing in a solid line, shoulder to shoulder, shooting directly at us. They were fifty or seventy-five feet away. The coach cut off my view, so I could not see how many bandits there were. The depth of the cut on the side near Santa Ysabel river at that point was about two feet. On the other side it was much greater. To the rear of the train was an embankment declining toward the river.

Hid In Thick Bushes.

"Watson, after getting off, ran toward the river. MacHatton and I followed. MacHatton fell. I do not know whether he was killed then or stripped. Watson kept running, and they were still shooting at him when I turned and ran down grade, where I fell in some brush, probably 100 feet from the rear of the train. I lay there perfectly quiet and looked around and could see the Mexicans shooting in the direction in which Watson was running.

"I saw that they were not shooting at me, and, thinking they believed me already dead, I took a chance and crawled into some thicker bushes. I crawled through the bushes until I reached the bank of the stream. I then made my way to a point probably 100 yards from the train. There I lay under the bank for half an hour and heard shots by ones, twos and threes.

"I did not hear any sort of groans or yells or cries from our Americans. Then I continued farther under the bank, wading the stream part of the time, until I reached a point probably 200 yards from the train. There I remained half or three-quarters of an hour. Later, after going to several ranches and picking my way cautiously for several miles, I met up with an unknown Mexican, who directed me to Chihuahua city. I reached Chihuahua city Tuesday morning about 7:30 o'clock. The foregoing facts are of my personal knowledge."

E. Ben Ootestad, who arrived in El Paso with Mr. Holmes, stated that he had met him in Chihuahua city.

"Holmes was badly scared," he said, "and feared to enter the city at first. He had an old blanket over his shoulders and no hat. He thought the bandits were laying for Watson particularly.

"When the bodies reached the capital it was noted that each had been shot through the forehead. All Americans in Chihuahua were prepared to come to the border when I left because it was uncertain whether the garrison was for or against Carranza."

Villa Hated Watson Most.

General Villa's personal animosity against C. R. Watson, whom he believed to have interfered with his ambition to be recognized by the United States as provisional president of Mexico, is said by some of the mining men in El Paso to have been the driving motive of the Chihuahua tragedy.

Mr. Watson as chairman of the group of operators, most of whom are classified as independents, was aggressive and able. He had much to do with the relations of the group to the Mexican rulers. In the varying fortunes of the leaders he became well known to them.

The story goes that at the time General Hugh L. Scott was holding parleys with Villa in the middle of bridges Villa expected full recognition. It was his custom to boast that certain pledges had been made to him by General Scott. When the United States recognized Carranza, the rage of Villa knew no bounds, and it is currently reported that among the objects of his hatred was Watson. Villa, it is said, got the impression that Watson had undermined him with the American authorities. Resentment against the United States and its citizens flamed high, and the circumstances were aggravated by the recent efforts, in which Mr. Watson was a director, for the opening up of the mines.

In advocating armed intervention in congress, Senator Fall said in part:

"If I were in the White House I would get the greatest, biggest American flag I could find, and I should put it on a great tall pole. I'd take those 5,000 troops of ours at El Paso and I'd put them on trains en route for Chihuahua. There are plenty of such trains, and they're running now. And I'd take those troops and that great, big flag to the exact spot where those Americans were murdered, and there I'd detrain those troops and plant that flag in the very ground consecrated by the blood of those murdered Americans. And there that flag would stay until Americans were able to travel on any train in any part of Mexico with absolute safety."

Says Women Have Suffered.

Senator Borah, speaking of the crime, said:

"Five years ago next March, Mr. President, seven American citizens were murdered just on this side of the border line near Douglas, Ariz., and eleven others were wounded. I have never talked with any one who has had trouble in Mexico who did not say that the Mexican people expected at that time to see the American people, in harmony with their ancient traditions, enter upon a decisive and positive policy for the protection of the American citizens.

"With that incident began that compromising sidestepping, procrastinating, apologizing and un-American policy of leaving the American citizen to struggle for himself against the bandits of an adjoining country.

"We have had five years of it, and the culmination in my judgment is not yet, although we have carried to us the fact that American citizens, each carrying a passport, as I understand, from the state department or from its representative—no doubt it was a great consolation to them as they stood stripped and naked to be shot—were lined up against the wall of a house and shot. That is only a part of the story.

"For five years American women have suffered outrage worse a thousand times than death to them; for five years American citizens have suffered death in the ways that a man's language is inadequate to describe.

"Shall we wait longer to know whether or not a sidestepping, compromising policy is either going to insure protection to our citizens or dignity and honor to the American flag? I do not know what others would do, nor have I the authority to speak for any one except myself, but I would demand of Carranza immediate protection for American citizenship in Mexico, and if he were not able to give that assurance in such a way that no man could doubt that it would be assured, I would intervene in Mexico for the purpose of protecting American rights and American citizens.

"I do not believe anything is to be gained in the long run by this policy of waiting for a nation like Mexico to settle its difficulties when these difficulties involve the rights of our own people."

Two Bandits Caught.

Announcement of the capture of General Jose Rodriguez, General Almeida and several other Villa chieftains by Carranza forces near Madera was received with joy.

Almeida was shot immediately, and summary execution of Rodriguez had been ordered by General Gavira, commanding the garrison at Juarez.

Rodriguez and his followers were taken by Maximo Marquez, a former Villa officer, who surrendered with the Chihuahua army. As Madera is more than a hundred miles north of the point where the Americans were killed, it is believed that they hardly could have been concerned in the massacre.

The details of the killing of two additional Americans, George F. Pearson and Bert Kramer, are as follows:

Pearson, whose wife lives in California, was caught out alone in western Chihuahua and murdered. He started out a few months ago to prospect close to the Hearst ranch. He had little money with him. General Rodriguez is said to have killed Pearson.

Kramer had lived in Mexico for many years. He was taken from his home and shot, supposedly by the same bandits who had made the attack on the American miners.

SLINGSBY LEGITAMCY CASE STILL TROUBLES ENGLISH COURTS

Lieut. Charles R. Slingsby, his wife and son "Teddy."

The Slingsby legitimacy suit has been reopened in an English appeal court, a $500,000 estate in Yorkshire being the prize. The estate is claimed for his son "Teddy," now four years old, by Lieut. Charles R. Slingsby, formerly of the royal navy, who lived for a time in California and married an American woman. The lieutenant's father, the Rev. Charles Slingsby, bequeathed part of his estate to the eldest son of his eldest son, and the question to be settled is whether the lawful heir is the child the lieutenant asserts is his or the son of a younger brother.

MEN'S NEWS

VOL. 1, No. 16 NEWARK, N. J., JAN. 28, 1916 Priceless

—Mr. Samuel Hopkins Adams in his talk to ladies of the Contemporary in this city this week told some startling truths about questionable advertising. Like many another advocate of reform, Mr. Adams shot somewhat over the mark.

—Mr. Adams does not believe in comparative prices in advertising.

—By that, he means that the merchant should not quote, for your information, the original price at which goods sold, when offering them at a reduced price.

—For instance, Mr. Adams would have us tell you that we were selling Suits and Overcoats in our Annual Sale at $9.85, $12.75 and $15.50 without telling you that they were really $12, $15 and $18 Suits and Overcoats by any reasonable standard of value, and regularly sold at those prices.

—We believe our regular prices to be as low as those asked for equal clothing by any house in the country.

—We believe, when we offer this clothing under price, that you should know we are doing it, and that you should know what values we are giving at the advertised price.

—Of course, we do not approve of fictitious valuation, but we believe it a matter of justice to the public that we publish comparative prices, quoting real values and the reduced prices at the same time, to guide you to make intelligent purchases or savings by buying at opportune times.

—We do not know just how far Mr. Adams has delved into merchandising, but it should be plain to him that there are many good reasons for lowering prices on merchandise at various times in the best regulated stores, and the publication of all the facts is perfectly legitimate and reasonable advertising.

—Therefore, when we offer goods at reduced prices, we tell you at the same time what they are actually worth.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

"SEE DAL."

A remark made by Assemblyman Johnson, of Essex, to Assemblyman Runyon, of Union, throws an interesting sidelight on the Essex leader's activities in connection with the present Legislature. The subject was a resolution offered by Mr. Johnson, under orders from Mr. Dalrymple, directing the judiciary committee of the Assembly to investigate and report as to the advisability of impeachmet proceedings against Judge Tennant, Prosecutor Hudspeth and Assistant Prosecutor McCarthy of Hudson county, because they had the temerity to prosecute indictments found by the Hudson County Grand Jury against William F. Verdon, the Republican boss of that county.

Mr. Johnson was urging Mr. Runyon to support the impeachment proposition, and when the latter showed reluctance, the former is reported as saying, "Say, you had better see 'Dal' before you decide what you're going to do." The Union Assemblyman quickly made it clear that, however it might be with his Essex colleagues, he did not wear a Dalrymple collar, and that he was quite capable of making up his own mind on the subject. That is the reason why Runyon was not reelected Republican leader of the Assembly.

The incident is significant as showing a condition that is full of danger to the Republican party in the State, that is a menace to the hopes of the people for honest, constructive legislation, and that has already attracted criticism from the press. The Jersey Journal, commenting upon the fact that the impeachment resolution was upon Dalrymple's orders, says "a fine spectacle this for decent Republicans to contemplate," and declares that "Dalrymple's leadership can only drag the Republican party on the rocks." "Dalrymple," it declares, "is a millstone tied to the neck of the Republican party."

On the same line the Trenton Times declares that "the Johnson resolution, which not one would introduce until Dalrymple gave the word, is likely to prove a boomerang and to do more harm to its friends than to those against whom it was directed." And the Hackettstown Gazette, speaking of the Dalrymple influence, says: "He is supreme by reason of a combination with the smaller county bosses, and there isn't a measure or an appointment to public office that has a chance of favorable consideration without the O. K. of Dalrymple."

Have the Republicans forgotten that only a few years ago they were driven out of power because of the arrogance, the tyranny and the selfishness of a Board of Guardians, that they are now, by their toleration of Mr. Dalrymple's offensive bossism, courting a similar fate?

It used to be "See Jim" in Newark; now it is "See Dal" in Trenton. There is small choice in addled eggs.—Newark Evening News.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Today as an added attraction the management of Proctor's Theatre present the fourth episode of "The Red Circle," that stirring Pathe serial which is without doubt the greatest feature of its kind ever released. Ruth Roland and Frank Mayo assume the leading roles and are assisted by a specially selected cast of talented artists. "The Submarine Pirate," that colossal Keystone comedy, is creating a sensation and is the talk of the town. Syd Chaplin is the star, and a United States submarine, gunboat and a large ocean steamship play prominent parts. These are the last two days that the people of this vicinity will have of witnessing this extraordinary feature. "On the Edge of the Abyss" is a soul stirring dramatic and emotional drama that is also presented and is receiving unbounded praise. Three distinguished dramatic stars appear, Mary Boland, Frank Mills and Willard Mack. The vaudeville entertainment includes The Newsboys' Sextette, six excellent singers whose offerings are presented in a pleasing and refined manner. Dave Kindler, a monologist, with a whole store of refreshingly original witticisms; La Prince and Sanchez, daring performers in the air, and Larrage and George, a duo of versatile entertainers, whose offering of popular songs and dances goes big. Don't forget the big toy bazaar for the children Saturday afternon. A large number of gifts have been provided. An announcement that will create a sensation is to the effect that starting next Wednesday and Thursday, the management of Proctor's will again present the far-famed William Fox productions, which are admitted to be among the best photoplay features released. Among the offerings that will be shown at Proctor's in the near future for two days, Wednesday and Thursday, of each week will be Dorothy Green and Cooper Cliffe in "A Parisian Romance," Ruth Blair and Samuel Ryan in "The Fourth Estate" and Theda Bara in her greatest feature, "The Serpent."

PUT STOMACH IN FINE CONDITION

Says Indigestion Results From An Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or, rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach, much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids, and, instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescing, and, furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

DRINK HOT WATER IF YOU DESIRE A ROSY COMPLEXION

Says we can't help but look better and feel better after an inside bath.

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Men and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphate hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.—Adv.

SILVER JUBILEE AT MT. ST. MARY

Sister Mary John Observes 25th Anniversary of Her Religious Profession.

MASS IS CELEBRATED

Beloved Celebrant is Honored by Clergy and Co-Workers—Banquet Followed With a Play Given by the Students.

Sister Mary John, directress of Mount St. Mary College, is today observing the twenty-fifth anniversary of her religious profession, the event being marked by an interesting program. There are present many visiting clergymen and Sisters, and patrons of the college from various parts of the State.

There was a solemn high mass at 10 o'clock this morning, Father Peter J. Hart, of St. Joseph's church, the borough, being the celebrant; Father John Sweeney, of Bordentown, the deacon, and Father Richard Ryan, of Somerville, the sub-deacon. Father John Baldwin, chaplain of the college, was master of ceremonies. The sermon was delivered by Father Hart, in which he took occasion to speak the highest words of praise of Sister Mary John, commenting on her loyalty, devotion and efficiency.

There was a banquet at noon for the guests, the different clergymen presiding at the various tables. This was followed by a few informal speeches complimentary to Sister Mary John. Mrs. John Stiles, of Brooklyn, president of the Alumnae Association, represents that body at the celebration, and also made a few remarks. An interesting feature of the celebration was the presentation of a large purse of money to Sister Mary John. This was presented by David T. Kenney in a few well chosen words.

Sister Mary John's home was at Lambertville, and she entered the Convent of St. Joseph at Bordentown in 1889, where for sixteen years she was directress. This honored position she continued after Mount St. Mary College was opened on the Watchung mountains in 1908. Under her supervision the college has continued to grow and prosper, her students being accorded high honors in different parts of this and other States.

PLEASING RECITAL AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Mme. DeVere and Randall H. Trumpe Are Heard in Classical Numbers.

Mme. Clementine de Vere, noted for her wonderful operatic interpretations, probably appeared at her best in the concert given in the Plainfield High School Auditorium last night, before an audience of about two hundred music lovers. Her portrayal of the mad scene from "Lucia di Lammermoor" was sung with a richness and purity of tone and beautiful depth of feeling. Mme. de Vere possesses a clear soprano voice of wonderful control and volume. Beside the above number, she delighted her listeners with the recital and aria aria from "Linda di Chamounix," and several encore numbers in English.

Equally as pleasing were the other participants in the varied program. Randall Haskin Trumpe's rendition of "Dreams," "Macushla" and "I Hear You Calling Me," being especially well received, as were the violin and piano solos played by Miss Beatrice Horsburgh and Miss Olga Sapio, respectively. Signor Romualdo Sapio was the accompanist throughout the various vocal numbers.

The program was as follows:

(a) "Ein Schwan," E. Grieg; (b) "Widmung," Schuman; (c) "D'une Prison," R. Hann; (d) "Le Miroir," G. Ferrari, by Randall Haskin Trumpe; violin solo, "Allegro," Fiocco, by Miss Beatrice Horsburgh; Mad Scene from "Lucia di Lammermoor," Donizetti, by Mme. Clementine de Vere; piano solo, (a) "Legend," (b) "Cracovienne Fantastique," Paderewski, by Miss Olga Sapio; (a) "My Dreams," Tosti; (b) "Macushla," D. Macmurrough; (c) "I Hear You Calling Me," Marshall, by Randall Haskin Trumpe; ricitative and aria, "Linda di Chamounix," Donizetti, by Mme. Clementine de violin solo, (a) "Humoresk," Tor Aulin; (b) "Larghetto," Weber-Kreisler, by Miss Beatrice Horsburgh; duet, "Parigi, O cara," from "La Traviata," Verdi, by Mme. de Vere and Mr. Trumpe.

PRINCETON LUNCHEON STARTS $5,000,000 CHURCH PENSION

At a luncheon being held this afternoon at the Princeton Inn, Princeton, in honor of Bishop William Lawrence, of Massachusetts, the work of organizing the diocese of New Jersey in the campaign to raise $5,000,000 for the church pension fund, was formally launched.

Bishop Lawrence, who recently gave up his diocesan work to take active charge of the campaign, outlined the pension plan in detail. He told of the work which is being done all over the United States in behalf of the aged Episcopal clergy, and urged the unanimous support of all the laity in this diocese.

Among those who attended the luncheon were Bishop William Lawrence, of Massachusetts; Bishop Paul Matthews, of New Jersey; Moses Taylor Pyne, Dr. Alfred B. Baker, the Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson; George Allison Armour, Farren A. Dix, George W. Burleigh, Monell Sayre and other.

DECISION DAY WILL BE OBSERVED AT BORO REVIVAL

The revival services conducted in Grace M. E. church during the last three weeks have greatly increased the interest of the people. The meetings, which have been held every evening except Saturdays, show more and more enthusiasm in both numbers and spirit. Next Sunday will be decision day in the school at 2:30. This branch of the church work is in a most flourishing condition. The attendance last Sunday was 273. Superintendent W. J. Conroy has now set the goal at 300.

An important feature of the school is the large number of adult members. The men's class now has between 25 and 30 present every Sunday. The revival services will continue next week. The pastor will preach every night with the exception of Saturday, when the service is omitted.

RELIEF FUND IS HIGHLY HONORED

Queen Mary, of England Acknowledges Work of Local Organization.

SENDS CERTIFCATE

Letter From Secretary Tells of Her Majesty's Appreciation for Hospital Supplies Forwarded by Plainfield Women.

Members of the New Jersey Branch of the Prince of Wales Relief Fund for Soldiers and Sailors, a local organization which has labored with undaunted energy for more than a year procuring and preparing hospital supplies for the wounded in Europe, have been highly gratified at the receipt of an official recognition from Her Majesty, Queen Mary. It came to Plainfield in the form of a certificate, acknowledging the work done by the New Jersey branch, bearing the official seal of English royalty and the monogram of the Queen herself. A simple wording expresses the feeling of her Majesty at the grateful service rendered to the Queen Mary Needlework Guild, the organization which received the supplies from all parts of the world and forwards them to the front.

News of the certificate's arrival was conveyed to the branch at the weekly meeting held in Grace Church Parish House, yesterday, by the president, Mrs. Rufus Delafield. It was accompanied by a personal letter from the Queen's secretary, Annie Lawley, which was read as follows:

Queen Mary's Needlework Guild,
Friary Court,
St. James Palace, S. W.

Dear Madam:

I am commanded by Her Majesty, the Queen, to send you the accompaying certificate as a mark of Her Majesty's appreciation of the valuable services rendered by you and your workers to Queen Mary's Needlework Guild.

I remain,
Yours faithfully,
ANNIE LAWLEY,
Hon. Sec.

The certificate was displayed so that all might read this inscription:

Certificate presented by Her Majesty, Queen Mary, to the New Jersey Branch of the Prince of Wales' Relief Committee
In recognition of the special war work done for Queen Mary's Needlework Guild.
Friary Court,
St. James Palace.

The acknowledgement from Queen Mary was none the less more acceptable to the members of the local Relief Fund than it was deserved. Every week since shortly after the commencement of the war the women have busied themselves securing supplies and preparing them for shipment to England. Up to the present time they have forwarded a total of 106,890 articles, a figure which represents much self denial and patient effort. Beeside the hospital supplies, the branch also raised money to fill comfort bags for the soldiers and sailors, bearing the personal articles that a man requires but which are not provided by the military or navy commissary department. The certificate means much for what has been done in the past and will undoubtedly be a spur to future work. The certificate itself is to be displayed in the window of Estil's book store on Park avenue, beginning Monday, in order to allow Plainfielders who have contributed to the cause and others a chance to see it.

GOES AFTER WITNESSES AND FAILS TO COME BACK

Because of the absence of Louis Clementz the cause against him in police court was continued this morning. Clementz is the youth who was arrested for stealing the wire off a wireless station. He insisted that he could prove an alibi if given time, and Judge De Meza continued his case until this morning. The boy went out of town to get some witnesses and was not able to get back in time for court today. Judge De Meza allowed his case to go over until March 6.

PRESIDENTS OF MISSIONARY SOCIETY CONVENE HERE

The presidents of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, of the Elizabeth District of the Newark Conference, held an all-day meeting at the Monroe Avenue church, yesterday, luncheon being served at noon by the women of the church. Mrs. R. H. Collins, of Westfield, the district president, was in charge of the meeting and she made the address, telling of the progress of the work.

SAFE WORKS ENDANGERED FROM GRASS FIRE BLAZE

An alarm from box 49 at 9:15 last night summoned the fire department to the Safe Work property, at Clinton avenue and South Second street, where a bad blaze was in progress in the dried grass at the rear end of the factory. A considerable amount of material was endangered, and it was necessary to lay in hydrant streams to quell the flames. The firemen fought the blaze for half an hour. There was no damage.

Another grass fire occurred yesterday afternoon on Terrill road, giving residents in the vicinity much concern. The firemen went out on a telephone call and fought the flames with brooms.

At midnight an elaborate repast was served in the newly-finished dining room of the hall. The members of the committee in charge of the arrangements were — Mrs. Jacob Schlick, Mrs. Herman Klinsman, Mrs. Carl Felber and Frederick Frick.

BOY SCOUTS HEAR TALK ON 'SAFETY'

Methods of Preventing Accidents and Saving Lives Shown in "Movies."

INTERPRET THE LAWS

A. J. Brunt, Director of Safety Education of P. S. C., Gives Practical Lecture—Dr. Albert Pittis to address Boys on "First Aid."

That the boy scouts of this city appreciated the interest taken by the Public Service Corporation in the work they are coing here in Plainfield, and their ability to help in saving the lives and limbs of the people of this city, was demonstrated clearly in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church last evening by enthusiastic applause that was frequently given, especially as the different scout laws and their interpretation were flashed upon the screen.

A. J. Van Brunt, director of safety education for the Public Service Corporation, came to this city from Newark with a high-powered moving picture machine. The company ran special wiring from its mains into the chapel for this purpose, giving gratuitously the electricity, services of the lecturer and helper, besides providing all the scouts who were present with the official "New Jersey Safety League" badges. There was an instructive series of lantern slides, followed by an interesting moving picture of the practical value of belonging to the State organization of first aiders to the "uninjured."

Mr. Van Brunt won his juvenile audience at once by telling a highly ludicrous story about the experiences of a modern Rip Van Winkle, explained some of his personal experiences as accident adjuster for a large New York company, and then explained that "accidents" never happen. Things that are called by that name, he said, are due to somebody's forgetfulness, whether it be the man who tests the rail that splits in cold weather, wrecking the train, or the man who burns leaves in his gutter in the fall. The man in the mill forgets to apply a final, but most important test, and the man who builds his fire of leaves in his gutter forgets that a neighborhood child may set her clothes afire by it and become a cripple for life like the child he told about in the Paterson hospital.

The boys gave Mr. Van Brunt three rousing cheers when he was introduced to them and also at the close of his remarks. When the portrait of Abraham Lincoln was thrown upon the screen there was an outburst of applause that well reflected the patriotism of the audience.

A brief conference of scoutmasters was held after the meeting, when it was announced that all scouts of the city are invited to attend a lecture to be given by Dr. Albert Pittis to the scouts of Troop 9, in the First Methodist church, Frederick A. Martin, scoutmaster, on the subject of "First Aid." The date of the lecture will be announced later by Scoutmaster Martin. It was arranged to have quarterly conferences of scoutmasters, at which time the technique of scoutwork will be informally discussed. The time for the first meeting is to be announced later.

The other organizations represented were New Brunswick Castle, No. 71, of New Brunswick, and Golden Crown Castle, No. 52, of Somerville.

At the conclusion of the excellent dinner provided a period of speechmaking was enjoyed, presided over by George C. Church, of this city, who is president of the Past Chiefs Association. HIS FLIGHT OF ORATORY.

The Cause Was Lowly, but the Lawyer's Plea Was Eloquent.

The wit and wisdom of members of the bar are acknowledged in all circles, and the following example, recorded in M. McDonnell Bodkin's book, "Recollections of an Irish Judge," is certainly worthy of being preserved:

"A certain barrister appeared to support an application before the recorder of Dublin for a license for a public house. The applicant was only twenty-five years old, and the recorder remarked that he was very young for so responsible a position. The resourceful advocate rose majestically to the occasion and said:

"'My lord, Alexander the Great at twenty-two years of age had crushed the Illyrians and razed the city of Thebes to the ground, had crossed the Hellespont at the head of his army, had conquered Darius with a force of a million in the defiles of Issus and brought the great Persian empire under his sway. At twenty-three Rene Descartes evolved a new system of philosophy. At twenty-four Pitt was prime minister of the British empire, on whose dominions the sun never sets. At twenty-four Napoleon overthrew the enemies of the republic with a whiff of grapeshot in the streets of Paris, and is it now to be judicially decided that at twenty-five my client, Peter Mulligan, is too young to manage a public house in Capel street?'"

PLEASING A SULTAN.

Why a Piece of Spanish Music Tickled the Oriental Autocrat.

Kaid Belton some years ago told the following story, which illustrated exactly the attitude of the sultan of Morocco at that time toward the French:

One day the sultan asked a lady, the wife of his dentist, to play one of the pianos that were in the room of the palace. She played several pieces, one of them at length catching the sultan's fancy, whereupon the following little dialogue took place:

Sultan—That piece is very nice. What is it called?

Dentist—It is the "March on Cadiz." It was written to commemorate the Spaniards driving the French out of Spain.

Sultan—What! Were the French in Spain?

Dentist—Yes.

Sultan—How many of them?

Dentist—About 200,000.

Sultan (in a surprised tone)—And the Spaniards drove them out?

Dentist—Yes, every one of them.

There was a slight pause while the sultan was thinking hard, and then:

Sultan (quietly)—Play it again.—Dundee Advertiser.

Bernard Shaw's Excuse.

Bernard Shaw was invited to a banquet in honor of the sculptor Rodin. He sent the following letter as his excuse for not attending:

"For me a banquet to Rodin is quite superfluous. I have already taken measures to assume immortality for myself by attaching my name to that of Rodin. Henceforth in every encyclopedia you will read, 'Bernard Shaw; subject of a bust by Rodin; otherwise unknown.'

"If the bust is lost, broken or spoiled, so much the better for me," he continues. "They will speak of the 'lost Bernard Shaw of Rodin,' as today they speak of the lost Athens of Phidias. Nothing can be more beautiful than the statues which no one ever saw. Therefore I have done all that is necessary. I can get along without banquets. You will only be Rodin's hosts. I have the honor to be his model."

Saving Old Couple.

They were a very saving old couple, and as a result they had a beautifully furnished house.

One day the old lady missed her husband.

"Joseph, where are you?" she called out.

"I'm resting in the parlor," came the reply.

"What, on the sofy?" cried the old lady, horrified.

"No; on the floor."

"On that grand carpet?" came in tones of anguish.

"No; I've rolled it up."—Buffalo News.

The Changing Leaves.

Careful observers will note that the graduation of autumn tints in all cases are in order of those of sunrise, from darker to lighter hues, and never the reverse. The brown leaves which long persist on some trees (beech, chestnut and certain oaks, for example), though darker than the yellow or orange from which they often turn, are no exception, since these leaves are dead, and the brown is only assumed after vitality has vanished.—Garden Magazine.

What He Admired.

"What did father say when you asked him for my hand?"

"Oh," replied Augustus, "he—he did his best to be pleasant. He said there was something about me that he really admired."

"Did he say what?"

"Yes; my impudence."

Customs and Habits.

Our customs and habits are like the ruts in roads. The wheels of life settle into them, and we jog along through the mire because it is too much trouble to get out of them.

The spot-light of full publicity, turned on a store, reveals and places in that full light a store's defects—if it have defects. For example: If high prices prevail, or lines of goods are not kept up to date, the reader of the store advertisements knows it. It follows that advertising "pays" the store that renders real service—and would not pay the other kind of a store.

If you are a student of the "ads" you KNOW WHAT IT OUGHT TO COST.

ELECTRIC FLAG ON TOLEDO COURTHOUSE

Electric stars and stripes on courthouse at Toledo, Ohio.

The Toledo courthouse was one of the first public buildings in America on which was erected an electrically lighted flag to carry its lesson of patriotism by night as well as by day. Public officials say the electric flag is most impressive, because it burns its folds into the eye of the passerby with the dark background.

Which of the stores can serve you most usefully today—that is one thing you may learn from reading today's advertisements.

A woman with buying to do never saves any time by omitting to read the advertisements. Nor does she always secure par-value for her dollar.

RUNYON BEGAN FIGHT ON BOSSES

"See Dal" Has Become Howl of Derision in All Parts of the State.

AN INDECENT ALLIANCE

New Jersey Journal Says Dalrymple is to Reap Harvest of Dirty Politics—Other Editors Equally Indignant.

Assemblyman William N. Runyon of Plainfield, has started the fight that promises to lead to the end of Essex domination in things political in New Jersey. When the Union county representative courageously demanded, "Why the heck should I see Dal?" the other day in the Capitol corridor, he sounded a war cry against Dalrymple and other bosses in New Jersey and it has been taken up by editors in every part of the State. "See Dal" will be a cry of derision to greet politicians aligned with the Essex crowd in the future. It is freely predicted by those with their ears to the political soil, and the big Essex county boss will soon be laughed out of all power.

The following editorial from the Jersey Jouhnal shows the indignation that is being freely expressed by editors following the publication of the "See Dal" incident:

"The alliance between the Board of Guardians and those who would use the Republican House of Assembly to batter down the administration of the criminal law in Hudson county has produced the inevitable result. It has split the once imposing majority in the Legislature.

"Boss Dalrymple has sown to the wind. He is about to reap the whirlwind.

"The dramatic break came late yesterday afternoon, when Assemblyman Runyon, whose career in Trenton has won the admiration of friend and foe, served notice to the party machine that there would have to be an end to the attempt to use decent men for indecent purposes. He for one did not intend to be a party to any scheme to break down the administration of justice just to save Hudson politicians from the fate which they fear awaits them in the Hudson courts. Runyon's speech before the judiciary committee marks a new chapter in the history of the 140th Legislature.

"The trouble started when Democratic Minority Leader Geran, at the session of the Assembly, moved to take a recess so that the committee on judiciary, which the Board of Guardians has been trying to capture, might be given an opportunity to dispose of Assemblyman Johnson's resolution introduced last week at the behest of William P. Verdon, directing the committees, to investigate the charge of Verdon and Republican County Chairman Samuel Smith about unfair treatment and improper indictments in the case of Smith and his associates who are involved in the charges of grafting from a disorderly housekeeper in West Hoboken.

"The committee has had this resolution under consideration for a whole week. The entire State has become familiar with the facts. The whole situation has been laid bare and the State has been waiting for the committee to unload that resolution, report it adversely and ring down the curtain on an exhibition of desperate politics.

"It was when Majority Leader Kates objected to Geran's motion for speedy action and tried to have the Verdon charges kept dangling over the heads of the court until next week that Runyon, whose loyalty to the Republican party has never been questioned, broke away.

"Only the arbitrary ruling of Speaker Pilgrim that Geran's motion for a recess and for an immediate meeting of the judiciary committee was out of order saved the public from witnessing the full extent of the break in the Republican ranks, for Republicans in several delegations were ready to follow the new leader and vote to force immediate action by the judiciary committee. Pilgrim's ruling avoided a roll call on Geran's motion and prevented the showdown for which the insurgents were ready.

"It was after the adjournment of the House last evening that the judiciary committee met, discussed the John resolution, heard the dramatic speech of Runyon and by a vote of three to two decided to hold a public hearing next Monday at 10:30 o'clock and invite Verdon, Smith and their friends and Judge Tennant, Prosecutor Hudspeth and his assistants to appear and answer questions touching the charges of Verdon and Smith.

"Runyon voted with Geran against this motion to drag the courts into the mire in Trenton. Assemblyman Godfrey, who is anxious about possible Morris Canal abandonment legislation, voted with Assemblyman Crosby, of Essex, and Chairman Kates, of Camden, for this proposition to have a muck-raking session at Trenton on the eve of Smith's second trial in Hudson county on February 7.

"And so the orderly process at the Hudson county courts is to be tampered with still further and the wheels of legislation at Trenton are to be impeded some more, while politicians infest the State House next week to buttonhole legislators, and the effort to use the Republican Assembly as a battering ram to hinder the criminal process in Jersey City is being continued.

"The Legislature is sailing straight into one of the worst scandals that has disgraced the State in years."

We present an extraordinary photoplay
EARLE METCALFE and ORMI HAWLEY in THE NATION'S PERIL

Is without question the finest photoplay attraction ever exhibited in any theatre.

It is a picture dealing with the unpreparedness of this country. The following is a synopsis of the story:

With the United States covered by spies, and with thousands of foreign mechanics working in our factories, ready to take up arms against us, the leader of the enemy wins the favor of the daughter of one of our high naval officials. At his request, she steals the plans of an aerial torpedo controlled by wireless, which is America's chief refuge of defense. The inventor, a lieutenant in love with her, is kidnapped and the siege of America begins.

The girl learns of the duplicity of the conspirator, and seizing her father's sword, kills him. A destroyer gives a chase to the yacht carrying the important plans, and shoots it to pieces. Meanwhile the foreign battery opens fire. The lieutenant electrocutes his guard and summons the Atlantic fleet by wireless. The militia is also called. The fleet annihilates the enemy's artillery. Sunrise finds the lieutenant and the girl united under the stars and stripes. The entire Atlantic Squadron is used in the picture, together with 10,000 soldiers, marines and sailors, including Secretary Daniels, Admiral Fletcher, Admiral Winslow, Vice-Admiral Mayo, the war college at Newport, and the staff of officers of the Newport Training School.

THIS ATTRACTION WILL BE PRESENTED AT OUR REGULAR PRICE OF ADMISSION.

SPECIAL MUSICAL SERVICE AT CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH

Under the direction of Dr. E. Mettler Davis, organist of the church, the choir, assisted by a double quartet, will render portions of Rossini's "Stabat Mater," tomorrow afternoon, at 4:45 o'clock. This oratorio is perhaps as generally familiar as any, and it is of interest to know that while many composers have tried to give a setting to the beautiful words of this old Latin hymn, said to have been written by Innocent III., who died in 1216, none has succeeded so wonderfully as has Rossini. Among the selections to be given are the well-known tenor solo, "Cujus Animum," and the soprano obligato, with chorus, "Inflammatus." A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY AND STATE LEGISLATIVE BILLS

The Public Library is subscribing to all legislative bills and documents, which, as received, will be placed on the shelves in the reading room readily accessible for consultation.

The New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce is undertaking this year, through its Legislative Index, to give a complete history of all legislative bills brought before the two Houses during the present session. The library has become a member of the State Chamber of Commerce, ostensibly to receive the Index, which will be placed out in the shalves with all bills as received.

This service should prove of considerable value to the community. The library hours are 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., week days; 2 to 6 p. m., Sundays and holidays.

"STOP! LOOK! LISTEN" WILL BE SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

Frederick A. Pope, of Somerville, will deliver his popular lecture, "Stop! Look! Listen!" at Warren chapel, Friday evening, February 4, under the auspices of the Men's Association. Mr. Pope's lecture, which is topical and seasonable, has been enthusiastically received wherever it has been delivered, and Warren chapel cordially invites the men of the community to take advantage of this opportunity and hear Mr. Pope.

A turkey supper will be given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Netherwood Reformed church, Thursday and Friday evenings, at the home of Mr. Horace J. Martin, 202 Leland avenue.

FORCED TO USE CHEAP MATERIALS

Contractors Cannot Afford to Pay the Prevailing High Prices.

HARDWARE IS ACTIVE

Just Now There is a Strong Demand for Second Hand Brick and Other Commodities—Paints Also Advance in Price.

New York, Jan. 29.—Financing of building operations in the metropolitan district since the first of the year has developed a strong trend toward industrial and mercantile speculative construction. The high price of materials has driven builders to the use of cheaper materials. The factory buildings that are going up in the suburbs are using second-hand brick whenever it is possible to get it. The price for this commodity in second-hand dealers' yards today is from $1.50 to $2.75 a thousand higher than normally rules, and well cleaned secondhand brick brings as much as first-class Raritan or Hudson river new brick did a year ago. Second-hand building material of all kinds is at a premium.

Instead of using reinforcing rods for factory concrete work, some builders have been buying scrap steel and say they are using it in bearing walls, where only roofs have to be carried. Brick yard scrap brick has been used for flooring base in some new factory operations because of the high price of crushed traprock and bluestone.

Hardware is active. Sargent & Co. has announced a new card list that will be ready for distribution by the first of the week, showing a 10 per cent. gain in practically all lines made wholly or partly of brass or bronze. Mills are crowded and some have increased their capacity. The normal tonnage in one hardware commodity for the entire country is 300,000 tons. One New England manufacturer has added new capacity to take care of business calling for domestic and export use to the extent of 100,000 tons, or one-third the country's former output. The case is typical of the national mill expansion and the development of foreign trade in certain building material lines.

One large hardware company has recently issued a new card on iron and steel hardware items amounting to a 10 per cent. gain over previous lists.

All paint ingredients are higher. The only color that one large Staten Island manufacturer can turn out to the great ceramic trade of the country is green oxide of chrome. This firm is typical of many others. Linseed oil is holding at the 73 and 76 cent level. All varnish gums are higher and are hard to get. Ready mixed paints are being marked higher, the range depending upon colors to some extent, but the main cause is the added price of white lead. Red lead and litharge Para reds are hard to find in the color market. Most color houses say they are sold far beyond their immediate capacity to supply commodities. Their business is contingent upon arrival of freights from Africa, South America and Australia.

The common brick situation in New York is tight. The only available supply is the Hudson river wholesale market. There were five barge loads unassigned or optioned on Thursday. An attempt to bring in seven more barge loads from Haverstraw was made on Tuesday. The tow arrived there Wednesday night with empties, and was scheduled to start back for New York during the week. It was due today. Upon its arrival before the depletion of the New York supply depended the price movement. It was not expected that the price would move above $8.50 a thousand for opens and $9.50 for covered barges.

Portland cement is steady on price and demand. The inquiry for domestic business is active, and dealers the moving a greater quantity to jobs that have been held up on account of delay in arrival of structural steel. Structural steel orders are being taken, covering delivery into the third and last quarters of 1916, and there is reported to be inquiries for steel for New York and Newark running into the first quarter of 1917. This reflects the tenseness in the building metals' market.

Metropolitan district construction reported since the first of January show a total of 1,025 buildings, valued at $11,393,058, as against 611 new buildings, with an estimated value of $7,256,985 in the first twenty-five days of January, 1914. This territory includes the five boroughs of New York, the five eastern counties of New Jersey and Westchester county.

WEEK'S PERMITS TOTAL $2,218

Aggregate Granted by Inspector Doane so Far This Month is $25,418.

Building applications at the office of Inspector T. O. Doane were again easy during the past week, there being a decided falling off from the figures of the previous seven days. The permits granted up until yesterday noon aggregated only $2,218. These were divided up between an alteration job, a garage and a gasoline tank. The last named is to be installed by Rev. F. J. Hubach at his home on West Sixth street at a cost of eighteen dollars.

Plans for the alteration permit were filed by Mrs. Margaret Way, of Arlington avenue, and called for changes to the one-story brick structure at 407 Watchung avenue, to cost $2,000. The plans called for a 50x35 foot addition to the rear of the building. C. W. Anderson, of Westfield, is the architect, and W. W. Mooney, also of Westfield, is the general contractor.

The garage permit was granted to Frederic J. Winn. The structure will be 12x16 feet and will be erected at the rear of 734 East Sixth street. A hot air heating system will be one of its features. The estimated cost has been placed at $200.

The past week's figures of $2,218 makes a total value of permits granted so far this month of $25,418, a decrease over the amount for the same time for last year.

ROCKFELLER INSTITUTE TO BUILD AT PLAINSBORO

The Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, of New York and New Jersey, will erect buildings worth $287,530 on the property it recently acquired in South Brunswick township, near Plainsboro, according to a building contract filed at the Middlesex county clerk's office by Wicoff & Lanning, Trenton attorneys. The contractor is the Matthews Construction Company, of Princeton, and the architects, Coolidge & Shattuck, of New York.

The following buildings will be erected: Laboratories at a cost of $90,615; power house and tunnels, $102,556; operating building, $24,439; isolation building, $27,543; dog kennels, $19,629; roads, $15,838; walks, $6,910. The contract price is divided as follows: General construction, $204,781; heating, ventilating and refrigeration, $38,429; plumbing, $19,035; electrical work, $25,285.

According to the contract the buildings will be known as "The Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research." The work is to be finished by September 1, 1916.

JUST NOTES

Contractor Raymond Whitford, of Dunellen, has been awarded the contract for building two new garages in Westfield, and will start work at once.

The contract for installing the plumbing system at the new house of Henry Smalley, near the Frank O. Nelson place, Piscataway township, has been awarded to Contractor Frank Broshart, of Dunellen.

Extensive improvements continue to be pushed at the business block of Mrs. Margaret Dealaman, in Dunellen. The improvements in the store soon t be occupied by the Union Pacific Tea Company have reached the stage where the painters are busy, and the carpentry work has also been done on the fronts of the stores of Oscar Victorson, Otis M. Webber and Willie Hing.

NEW GOLF CLUB FOR FANWOOD

Willow Grove Section Will Be Seat of Beautiful Course.

WORK NOW UNDERWAY

Island Green Will Be Feature of Links—Brooks to Make Natural Hazards—New Yorkers Are Interested.

The Willow Grove section of Fanwood township has for some time been becoming more and more popular to New York business men as a place for a country home and farms are being bought and remodeled into country estates, but now something besides the country life and quiet is going to be an attraction for prospective newcomers that will also benefit residents in the neighboring towns. It is an eighteen hole golf course that is now going to be laid out on a portion of the old Lambert farm, now owned by William R. Nelson.

The location is about a mile and a half from the Fanwood station of the C. R. R. of N. J. and about the same distance from Goodman's Crossing on the Lehigh Valley R. R. Embodied in the land the course will cover is practically everything that makes excellent links and with the work of an expert landscape architect, the course will compare with the best in the State when finished.

One of the features will be an island green, a rarity in golf courses. Lambert's pond, a strip of water nearly a mile long and half as wide, will be so taken advantage of that one of the greens will be located in the center of it. Several brooks that run through the property will be used as natural hazards.

A magnificent clubhouse with all modern improvements for the comfort of the members will be located at an ideal spot. Plans for the structure have not yet been completed, but there will be features of the building, it is said, that will eclipse those of any clubhouse in this vicinity. Such an structure is sure to become the social center of that section and that the plan has been well received by everyone is signified by the statement of Mr. Nelson that over 100 applications for membership have already been received.

Plans now being prepared by Albert W. Tillinghast, an expert course architect, of New York, call for a total of 6,400 yards, with the first and tenth tees as well as the ninth and home greens situated near the clubhouse. While a certain amount of preparation of the ground is being carried on during the winter, active work will not begin until spring.

No name has as yet been decided upon for the club, although a number have been suggested. Mr. Nelson is very enthusiastic over the proposition and expects many people from New York and vicinity to become interested. Not long ago he added the adjoining Gallagher estate to the Lambert place and is rapidly making various improvements that will cause is to be the best estate in this vicinity.

Workmen began excavating a few days ago for the addition which H. W. Marshall is to have erected to the present Marshall Laundry building a Watchung avenue and East Fourth street. The new part will be a one story and basement affair, constructed of brick and steel, finished off with a slag roof. In dimensions it will be 35x105 feet. When completed the new addition, which is on the south side of the old structure, will be equipped with a one hundred horse power boiler and will serve as the engine room for the laundry. It will also be equipped with modern laundry machinery to take care of the concern's rapidly increasing business. The second floor of the old building which has heretofore been occupied by an outside tenant, will also be taken over for the laundry's use.

The contractors who will do the work on the addition will be as follows: Masonry, B. F. Tallamy & Brother; carpentering, Alexander Milne; plumbing and heating, George J. Tobin; painting and decorating, Woolston & Buckle; electrician, Allen B. Laing.

LOCAL CONTRACTORS GET HOFHEIMER JOB

Work Now Underway on $50,000 Residence and Garage on Mountain Boulevard.

Nathan Hofheimer, the Warrenville resident, who has planned to build a handsome home on Mountain Boulevard, has awarded the contract for the work to local building men. B. F. Tallamy & Brother have secured the masonry! James Carver, the carpentering; Arthur Neuman, the plumbing and heating, and Allen B. Laing, the electric wiring. Several smaller contracts are to be let within a few days. The Hofheimer work calls for the reconstruction of the present house on the property, which was known as the Hauser place, and numerous additions that will practically mean a new structure. It will be about 65 feet front by eighty feet in depth, three stories in height. Beside this, there is to be an up-to-date two-story and basement garage, flanked on either side by residence apartments for families of the chauffeur and gardener. The approximate cost of both structures will be $50,000, but owing to the nature of the work it may possibly run higher. The contractors began operations the past week, and it is hoped to have everything ready for Mr. Hofheimer's occupancy early in the summer.

JUST NOTES

Dr. R. C. Munger, of Fanwood, has purchased from Mrs. Katherine Coman, her handsome residence on North avenue, Fanwood, directly opposite the Fanwood station. In addition to the house, the property includes a modern garage of costly construction. It is said the consideration was about $10,000.

Walter Smalley, of Duer street, who is the owner of the residence at 31 Linden avenue, has planned to build an addition to the rear of the structure and remodel the interior of the old part. When completed the improvements will make the house one of the most complete in that section of the borough. The contract for the work has been awarded David Conover.

The residence at 136 Duer street, borough of North Plainfield, owned by Peter Doeringer, of Vine street, is to undergo a general overhauling and remodeling. The building has been used as a two-family residence and with the improvements will be better fitted for this class of home. The work is being done by Contractor David Conover.

ADDITIONAL DONATIONS.

Two more donations for the relief of the Polish war sufferers were received this morning, one a check for $10 coming from Frank Somlak, a past president of the John III. Sobieski Society, of this city, and another $10 from members of the latter society, of which the officers are John Henzel, president; S. Stroke, secretary, and Alexander Zega, treasurer. This amount, added to the collections of the "Tag Day" last Saturday, amount to $431.71.

BUSINESS HOUSE TO BE REBUILT

Plans Now Under Way for Complete Reconstruction of the A. E. Force Place.

MAY COST $100,000

High Figure Due to Fact that Department Store's Business Must Not Be Interrupted—Structure Owned by Charles W. McCutcheon.

One of the largest alteration jobs that has been contemplated in Plainfield in many years is now coming to a head, and has for its object the practical rebuilding of the structure at 124 West Front street, now occupied by the A. E. Force Company. While the architectural drawings call for what might be termed a remodeling process, they will in reality result in an entire new building. Charles W. McCutcheon, who is the owner, has had contractors figuring for several weeks, and the estimated cost may reach as high as $100,000. This large figure will probably result from the fact that the restrictions will permit of no hindrance to the Force company's business, every department being conducted while the work is going on.

The present structure, which has been known for years as the Runyon building, has a frontage of fifty feet and a main depth of one hundred feet. The first floor and basement are carried back to a total depth of 200 feet, through a one-story addition which was built to the original store when the old firm of Van Emburgh & White carried on the business. The old building is of frame construction, but the new one is to be of brick and steel. The present one-story addition in the rear will be carried up another story for its full length. Each one of the three floors in the main part of the structure will undergo complete changes, and when the entire work is finished, the building will be one of the finest department store homes in this part of the State. Every recent improvement for facilitating an up-to-date concern will be included in the general equipment. The changes are planned because the Force company has been cramped for room and feels the need of a better structure.

Architect Charles Smith, of the borough, has prepared the plans for the work, and local contractors have been figuring on them within the past two weeks. As soon as all the returns are in, the awards will be made and work started.

The former Runyon building, which forms the original part of the present department store, was erected in the early seventies by the late Oliver Runyon, a brother to the late Alexander Runyon, whose furniture business was located there. At the time it was built the structure was one of the most pretentious of the West Front street business houses. Mr. Runyon afterward sold the property to Frank Green, for many years proprietor of a furniture store in various parts of the city, and he in turn disposed of it to I. H. Boehm. The latter held it for some time, after which it passed into the hands of the late Edward White, from whose estate it was purchased by the present owner, Charles W. McCutcheon. When Van Emburgh & White conducted the department store they found it necessary to have more room than the Runyon building provided, and purchased a portion of the Conkling building, which abutted to the west. This gave the firm a total of three stores on the ground floor. When the contemplated improvements and alterations are made the reconstructed building will include the Conklin portion.

SEWER PLANT HEADS ELECT LOCAL MAN

John R. Downes President of Newly Organized State League.

At a meting at the State House, Trenton, yesterday, the engineers and managers of the various sewage systems and disposal plants of the State organized as "The New Jersey Sewerage Works Association," and elected John R. Downes, chemist and manager of the local plant, president.

The officers elected were as follows: President, John R. Downes, Plainfield; vice presidents, Paul Multor, Chatham, and J. Z. Collings, Collingswood; secretary and treasurer, Frederick T. Parker, Atlantic City.

Chester W. Wigley, of Trenton; Frederick T. Parker, of Atlantic City, and R. Davis, of Princeton, were appointed a committee to arrange for meetings to take place at various plants of interest about the State.

A great deal of interest was shown in the new organization.

It is probable that a meeting will be arranged for Plainfield in the near future, most of the members expressing a desire to see both the old and new plants here.

The organization is the pioneer in its line. It will work in close touch with the State Board of Health, although entirely independent of the latter.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, JANUARY 29, 1916.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editorial for today is written by two active members of the City Union of the King's Daughters.

PLAINFIELD'S DAY NURSERY.

A Day Nursery is an institution in which every citizen should take an active interest and to which every citizen should give his heartiest support. On West Front street stands a large comfortable looking building; a cosy enclosed veranda runs the length of the second story front; across the back is another porch; the grounds in the rear, with sand boxes, swings and a fifty-foot slide, have been laid out with the sole purpose of giving a good time to many small children. How many citizens of Plainfield know this building and what goes on within?

Imagine yourself for the moment a visitor with me to the Day Nursery. We arrive at seven a. m. The morning sun shines brightly on the large gilt sign above the front porch, and we read "The King's Daughters' Day Nursery." We enter and step into the emergency room; presently children appear, tiny ones a few weeks old, brought by mothers or fathers; "runabouts," little mothers and big brothers seven or eight years old, the age limit. Mrs. Bird, the good matron, hovers about spreading her sheltering wings over her flock of eighteen or twenty birdlings. Each child she carefully examines before he is sent upstairs to the playroom or to kindergarten and, if the day be Monday, we may see one of the two kind physicians who offer their services, examining little throats and little ears to see that there are no evil germs lurking about ready to devour small unsuspecting victims. Now the children troop upstairs; a determined nurse scrubs hands and faces, or, if need be, pops the small person into a tub of water. Then follow merry games in the spacious back yard until eleven-thirty when every child is ready for the hot luncheon of broth or meat and vegetables. After this all are put to rest in a quiet room filled with little cribs, each marked with the name of the Circle which gave it. Waking eyes are greeted by the appearance of the kind lady who comes three afternoons in the week to sing and play with the children and teach them games. At four-thirty each child has a dish of hot cereal and the happy day is done; fathers arrive to claim their various children — little Poles, Italians, and any other nationalities, leaving the sum of five cents if they can afford it. If not, the Day Nursery is just as glad to have sheltered and fed his child. As we leave the Nursery talking over its good work, our thoughts revert to one who tries to stand in the background preferring to remain unknown, but who is ever ready to offer the most substantial sort of assistance and without whose help the Day Nursery could not be.

But the maintenance of a Day Nursery is a greater burden than one man can carry; moreover it is a city institution, and as such should receive the support of every citizen. On Wednesday, February 9th, we shall have an opportunity to show our civic spirit. On that evening for the benefit of the Day Nursery, Mischa Elman, the great Russian violinist, is coming to the High School Auditorium with his magic bow to charm the money from our pockets. If your conscience is troubled by your extravagance in indulging in pleasure for yourself, it will be eased by your philanthropic sense; or if you belong in the other class and are "down on" philanthrophy, you will justify your charity to yourself by the thought that at least you are getting out of it some enjoyment.

Dip it in and drag it out, scrape it

Hang it up by gambrel-sticks, whittle out its spleen!

Thus it goes through all the day,

Help is also the jocose name we give to all whom we pay wages to.

A safer term in a good many cases would be "hired hindrances."

If you hire a man to work among the shrubbery, you have to stand over him with a boat-hook and grab him by the seat of the pants every time he lifts his two-ton foot to set it down on a flower-bed or a barberry bush he has just set out.

A bull in a china shop is a prestidigitateur and equilibrist and a master-juggler, compared with the average man who wants to work in your garden.

He will transfer two bushes a day on an average, if you hurry him, and will destroy twice that much during the agonizing process.

A woman who never did anything but laundry in her life will leave the wrong clothes soaking with the right ones, will starch your handkerchief so you can shave with it, and leave your shirt-cuffs so dejected-looking you could weep with them, and probably do.

The new kitchen and first-floor girl will wait till just before you are ready to use the O'Pine oil floor-wiper on the bedrooms upstairs, and will then hurriedly wash it and hang it out to dry in a shady place.

She will pick out the day you have company for lunch, and scrub the kitchen floor at 11:30.

If you go away leaving the garden man to dig a hole twelve inches deep, to fill with various concoctions so as to make a rosebed of it, he will dig half way to China before you get back to him, and be utterly unable to reveal to you his mental operations, if any, while so doing.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Whooping Cough

EVERY child or adult with whooping cough should be compelled to wear on the left arm over the outside coat an orange-colored ribbon labelled WHOOPING COUGH. This would prevent a great deal of unconscious contagion. It would be a fair warning. For whooping cough is contagious from the first slight catarrhal cough until the cough has ceased—many weeks in any case. Yet, for the patient's welfare, it is best to spend as much time as possible in the open air, day and night, and that implies, in most communities, more or less contact with the public.

Every susceptible child exposed to the disease ought to have the benefit of preventive vaccination. And even when the attack has commenced the administration of the whooping cough vaccine by the physician often serves to mitigate the severity of the disease and sometimes brings the child to an early convalescence. The vaccine, or bacterin, is harmless, sterile, unlike cow-pox vaccine; it is administered by hypodermic injection, at intervals of several days, for several doses, and causes no sore arm.

Babies of any age may take whooping cough, but children from three to ten are most susceptible.

There is an incubation period of from seven to ten days between the time of exposure and the first symptoms.

Then the catarrhal stage develops—the child has what seems to be an ordinary "cold," with slight feverishness, running at the nose, frequent barky cough. The incessant character of the cough at this stage is suspicious. The sputum, if any is expectorated, may show the bacillus of the disease on microscopical examination. It should be burned or disinfected just as is done in diphtheria. The catarrhal stage lasts about ten days.

Then the cough becomes spasmodic—it comes in seizures of fifteen or twenty short, forcible coughs with no inspiration between them. The child gets blue in the face, then a deep inspiration is taken, with the whoop. Vomiting often follows the seizure, and in some cases seriously impairs the child's nutrition. There may be four or five, or many more attacks in the day. The attacks come more often at night if the room is poorly ventilated; less often if the child sleeps in the open air or on a porch bed.

Commonly one or both eyes become swollen and the eyeball bloodshot. This always clears up after a time. The strain of coughing brings on hernia or rupture if the child is congenitably liable to hernia. An abdominal support made of muslin, five inches wide, fitted on each side with a two-inch strip of elastic webbing, and laced on over the undershirt, offers good support to the abdomen and renders the seizure more endurable—in some cases it seems to diminish the frequency of seizures. An ulcer often forms under the tongue from friction upon the lower teeth in coughing.

Pneumonia is the dangerous complication. Its prevention consists of long hours in the open air.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sure Way To Harden Arteries

Please tell me if drinking whisky and beer in moderate quantities for thirty years is likely to harden the arteries. I am sixty and would give them up if I thought I was likely to have ill effects later in life.

Answer.—We are positive such habits would harden the arteries. Although we are rabidly anti-alcohol, still, if we were in your place we should cut down gradually on the beer, but stop the whisky instantly.

Running Enlarges The Heart

I am sixteen and do a lot of running. I am told it enlarges the heart. I am a two-miler. After a sprint my heart usually beats very rapidly for a time. Is it bad for me?

Answer.—Probably not. It enlarges the heart somewhat—has to, if you are to be an efficient runner.

Vest Pocket Essays

INSURGENCY

INSURGENCY has existed ever since Joseph's brethren got tired of having him make all the house rules and put him in a hole. This particular incident happened 5,000 years ago and yet some people pretend to be as shocked over insurgency now as if it were a new thing.

An insurgent is a man or person or anything which rises to object. There are various ways of rising to object. Some people rise with a soft, pained voice and a vestpocket full of votes, while others prefer to rise with a cutlass in either hand and a bushel of assorted foe eradicators between their gleaming teeth.

Insurgency is a revolt against the powers that be by the powers that ain't. It is spoken of with horror and concern by those who are being insurged against, but for that matter every man has been an insurgent in his day. The baby who insurges in the middle of the night, and who rises to its extreme height of eighteen inches, sitting, and demands reform in the matter of meal hours, is as likely as not to grow up into a bland party leader with the starting plug to the party machinery in his pants pocket and a firm conviction that only lost and addled souls would think of opposing him. But then it has been observed for many centuries that it is practically impossible to insurge when you've got everything you want.

Insurgency is natural, constitutional and healthful. It promotes the circulation of ideas and eliminates tyrants by making tyranny a dog's life and poor pay. The man who first insurged against $1.50 gas gave the world $1 gas. The man who placed the mule, the patron saint of insurgency, on his banner and went forth against the pernicious habit of charging a man full rates for sleeping two hours in an upper berth and then yelling four hours for a ladder got the rates cut. The man who made a baritone nuisance of himself when the grocer sold him glucose and grass seed for strawberry jam helped the pure food law along; and the man who leaped into revolt and dared his weeping wife to drown herself in tears put down the movement to inflict the hoopskirt upon us again.

There are insurgents in religion, politics, business, art and baseball. To be an insurgent one must first learn to enjoy being kicked and to kick back with great care and accuracy. Insurgents are not pleasant to have around unless one wears earmuffs, but they leave pleasant results behind them and are frantically beloved after they are dead.

Views Of The Press

They Die, But Not of Disease

APPALLING as have been the "casualties" among the troops taking part in the European War, there is a certain consolation to be derived from the fact that the victims have died for the most part of injuries received in battle.

The diseases which all through the ages have ravaged the soldiers of every nation more severely than have the various weapons, missile and trenchant, used by them against one another, are at last conquered by the army surgeon, as he is still called. He has, of course, all and more than all of his old work to do in the way of caring for the wounded as well as he can, but he now undertakes and efficiently performs the even more important task of guarding the men from the acute, infectious fevers that until years far from remote constituted the chief danger of war.

The most dreaded of all these maladies, typhus, did, indeed, gain a firm foothold in Serbia during Austria's first attack on that country, and it then duplicated the slaughters of the old-time plagues, but even this was soon stamped out when a few foreign doctors utilized against it the resources of modern sanitary science. At present the Serbians seem to be as competent to take care of themselves in camp and trench as are any of the peoples engaged in the great conflict. From the other theatres of the war we hear almost nothing about disease among the troops, and certainly we would have done so before this if there had been any of the epidemics hitherto supposed to be inevitable whenever men were gathered in large numbers and lacked the safeguards of ordinary life.

Apart from the perils of the firing line, the soldier engaged in an active campaign now lives in conditions as regards health that are as good as, or better than, those he had at home. Much of his time is passed in the open air, and the hardships he encounters are mostly of the kind that give the impatient sufferer from them an increase of physical vigor. There have been in this war few repetitions, if any, of our own sorry experiences when we undertook the liberation of Cuba or of what befell the British when they were fighting the Boers. Even then there existed the requisite knowledge for protecting soldiers from disease, but appreciation of its value had not reached military circles.—New York Times.

BY E. R. BRANSON

The Claims Of A Partnership

Q. When a man goes into a partnership, isn't he supposed to work in the interests of the partnership? Is he allowed to divide his time? Is he permitted to do something else which competes with the business of the firm?

A. All your questions, and the contingencies mentioned by you, are often taken care of by means of the articles of agreement drawn up between the partners. It is customary for all such matters to be covered by the contract between the partners. In case there is nothing in writing drawn up between them, it may be said, in general, that a partner is under a legal obligation to promote the interests of the partnership in all reasonable and legitimate ways. He may divide his time if such act is not inconsistent with his duties as a partner and if he has not agreed to devote all his time to the business, but he should not engage in a competing business or undertaking unless this has been expressly agreed upon in advance, or unless the other partners consent to his so doing.

Overreached

Q. Suppose a man should give a chattel mortgage and, on the day the debt falls due, should offer to make payment in full, but the mortgagee should refuse to accept it. Will the mortgage still hold good against him?

A. No. The mortgage will be discharged.

When A Lease Expires

Q. Does a lease for a fixed period of time expire by force of its own terms?

A. Where a lease is for a definite length of time, it will expire at the end of such period. It is sometimes expressly provided, further, that the lease is to terminate upon the occurrence of a certain contingency, such as the death of the landlord or of the tenant.

A Moral Obligation

Q. Please tell me whether a moral duty or obligation will be sufficient, so as to make a contract enforceable.

A. A moral duty or obligation alone will not be sufficient, although it may happen that a moral obligation may be closely interwoven with a legal duty.

Mr. Branson will be glad to answer all questions. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through these columns; if not, it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all letters to E. R. Branson, care of this newspaper.

Pepper Talks

Conscience

Be Square.

The man of all men most miserable is the man with a worn, weary, weeping Conscience.

Be Square.

Conscience is the fellow who sits on the throne of your Soul and calls out the Danger Signal when your life-craft sights icebergs. Conscience is the pilot of a man's Hope toward Success. Conscience is the Busy Signal sign that halts a man just as he is about to do what he ought not to but wants to. Conscience is the Stay Hand that stops the crowd from stealing away your Character.

Be Square.

Conscience is Duty—in every-day clothes.

Be Square.

Conscience is what you feel but do not hear. Conscience is the still, strong, silent, unseen Force that is ever with you—that invariably hunches you in the ribs—mute warner that you are on the wrong track, traveling in the wrong direction, playing the wrong game. Regardless of all other heeds, beck or call—hear, listen to—obey your Conscience to the letter.

Be Square.

The Man with the Conscience makes the Business with a Conscience. The Business with the Conscience makes the Nation with the Conscience. Conscience in Power is joy abounding—real achievement athrone.

Be Square.

As a Man or Woman, think it over. Conscience to you is as no other Conscience to any other man or woman. And the height to which Peace and Power may climb in you can only be in proportion to the Peace and Power which obedience to Conscience brings. So, follow your own Conscience all the way.

Be Square.

Current Poetry

The Turkey

Three hundred years ago, or so,
The best that could be had for gold,
To set before a queen herself,
Might make a carving-knife run cold:
A peacock, stripped and roasted!
Then Served in its feathered skin and crest,
And glorious in the amethyst,
Emerald and sapphire of its breast,
With curving throat of azure lights,
And in its gilded beak a flame,
Held high by some fair lady's hands
On a great silver dish it came.
And Cleopatra's purple sail
Was duller than that streaming tail!
When that great gorgeous bird was fit,
I wonder how one lifted it!

Come, let a royal feast begin
When Mary brings the turkey in.
For all their crests, and peacocks, too,
I wouldn't change with them.
Would you?

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Odysseus Told a Story to The Blind Bard.

Told a Tale of the Wooden Horse.

"BEGIN, daddy!" shouted Jack and Evelyn, climbing on his lap.

"When the king of Corfu gave Odysseus a ship and some rowers and declared a holiday, the cleverest men on the island entered the games to run, wrestle and throw disks, a game like ours of quoits. After they had all showed off before the king and queen and beautiful girls had thrown them garlands they turned and challenged Odysseus to show what he could do. At first he modestly refused to compete, but when they made fun of him he seized a quoit much bigger than any the men of Corfu had used and pitched it far beyond their throws. He was a warrior, you see, a much stronger man than any of them."

"What did they say?" grinned Jack.

"Their jaws dropped with surprise, and they treated Odysseus with great respect. Then after the games they all went back to the palace for food, and then the king called his blind bard to tell stories. So this old man told the tale of the wooden horse that the Greeks used ten years ago to get into the city of Troy and capture it. The god Apollo inspired the old blind bard and he sang the terrors and successes of the great war with so much feeling that everybody was delighted, and Odysseus, who was the famous leader of the successful Greeks, you remember, was moved to tears. The king noticed this, and when the song ended he called Odysseus to come and tell him why the song made him so sad. Had he lost a father, a brother, a dear friend, in the war?"

"What did Odysseus say, daddy?" cried the children.

"Odysseus replied by giving his true name—and all the world knew who had been the Greek leader! So all the men of Corfu paid him great honor and invited him to tell them the story of his adventures, all that had happened to him since he left Troy ten years ago. He told his story of giants, cruelty, storms, hunger, discouragements, death of his brave comrades and shipwreck so well that their admiration for the Greek hero rang out in cheers. The king gave him a handsome gift and told all his chiefs to. So that they all contested with one another to see which should give him the most. They loaded his ship with beautiful presents."

"Then what happened?" cried Jack.

"Then, the next day, amid a great merrymaking, cheers and goodbys, while the young princess who had helped Odysseus when the waves cast him ashore stood waving her hand, Odysseus went on board the gift ship and set sail for his home land," daddy finished.

So the children kissed him good night and hop-skipped to bed.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

When a Woman Marries for Money Little Else Counts.

"Ortrude, I have brought this paper up for you to sign." Mr. Townsend had been detained late at the store and his wife had already gone to her room when he returned.

"We had better get all the business straightened out and so save all possibility of trouble in the future."

Ortrude sat in a pink silk kimona in front of a dressing table, brushing her hair. Her husband laid the paper on the table in front of her. She languidly picked it up, glanced at it, and laid it to one side.

"Here is my fountain pen," continued Jacob Townsend, reaching it toward her.

Ortrude steadily brushed her hair, keeping her eyes on her husband in the glass, but she made no move to take the pen. Jacob laid it on the table and turned away.

"I had my will made, you know, before we were married, leaving the remaining two-thirds of the property to the children. As you have your portion in your own name and under your own control, this is only a precaution to save any possibility of trouble." He paused, but Ortrude made no reply. "Would you mind signing it now? You said when you were actually my wife that you would sign it."

"I beg you pardon, Mr. Townsend. I never gave any promise." Ortrude's tone was calm and even.

Her husband turned and stared at her in amazement.

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"I said I would not sign it until I was your wife," corrected Ortrude.

"Well, you are my wife now." There was a hint of asperity in his tone.

"That was not saying I would sign the paper as soon as I was your wife." The cold, even tones were very exasperating.

"You certainly knew that I considered it a promise." Jacob was struggling to conceal his impatience.

"Of course I am not to blame for any conclusions you may have arrived at." Ortrude smiled amiably at her astonished lord.

"Would you mind explaining? I do not get your point. The agreement was clear enough. You were satisfied with the settlement made on you. I ask you to keep your part of the perfectly fair pact. Will you do it?" Jacob stood over his wife looking into her face with a set jaw.

"Really, Mr. Townsend? I have a rooted objection to committing myself. From the slight acquaintance I have with your daughter, I am of the opinion that it might be very convenient to have a leverage on her. She is a very spirited young lady and liable to fly the track. If she were made to understand that her future might be affected by her treatment to her 'lady mother' it might influence her conduct." Ortrude laughed musically as if enjoying the prospect of power she saw in the scheme.

"This is a straight business proposition and has nothing to do with the relations existing between you two. I ask you out of regard to my wishes to sign this tonight. Will you do it?"

"Pardon me, I have given you what to me is a sufficient reason for not being in a hurry about it." Ortrude rose haughtily and moved away.

"You refuse?" Jacob's voice was low and strained. Ortrude bowed her head, looking steadily at him.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO CO ME--

Canapes As Dinner Relish

Since the serving of canape as a dinner relish has become so general one cannot have too many good recipes to turn to if doing very much dinner entertaining. The toasted foundation upon which the canape usually rests may be round, square, diamond or heart shaped, but it must be daintily toasted and not dried down tough and hard. The best bread to use for the purpose is fine grained bread (preferably home made) two days old.

Clam Canapes.

Steam open enough little round clams to allow four or five to each canape. Drain them from their liquor and drop them into a little melted butter to saute, which has in it the juice of half a lemon, dash of cayenne pepper and a teaspoonful of chopped taragon leaves. Spread the toast rounds very thinly with sardine paste, drain the clams and lay them on top, dust with paprika and serve while the clams are warm.

Heart of Palm Canape.

This comes in bottle all ready made to spread on the toast squares; then dust lightly with cayenne pepper and a little grated English cheese.

Liver Canape.

Boil and chop very fine a quarter of a pound of calf's liver; add to it salt, pepper, juice of an onion, a teaspoon of chutney syrup, a teaspoon of chopped chives and enough mayonnaise to make a spreading paste. By way of garnish after spreading on the toast rounds use an ear of the tiny pickled French corn.

India Canape.

Chop fine enough cold boiled ham to make three-quarters of a cup, add to it a quarter cup of grated cheese, a tablespoonful of chutney syrup, a little chopped red pepper and a tablespoonful of whipped cream. Spread on toast rounds and garnish with olive rings.

Savory Canape.

Drain one small can of button mushrooms and saute them in butter; drop in a bud of garlic, juice of half a lemon and a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce. When done drain again and chop them and add to them three-quarters of a cup of minced boiled chicken, mix and add enough mayonnaise to make a spreading paste, spread on toasted diamond shaped slices and garnish with sliced truffles.

Sardine and Grapefruit Canapes.

Free one grapefruit from all skin and seeds, then allow it to marinate in light French dressing 20 minutes. Make a smooth sardine paste well seasoned and spread the toast squares with the mixture. Drain the grapefruit, spread a little on top of the canape and dust with paprika.

Caviar Canape.

Allow one tablespoonful of caviar and a teaspoonful of grated onion to each canape, add pepper, a little mayonnaise. Spread the toast with the mixture and to garnish put a hard boiled egg in the ricer and squeeze a little over each canape.

This suit is made in medium black and white check cloth, stitched belt across front, under arm trimmed with buttons of self material, and one of black taffeta with white corded edge; this coat can be buttoned high at neck if desired. Skirt full circular model, with deep girdle buttoning on either side front. Price $25. Shown also in navy and black gabardine.

Restoring the Color To Faded Articles

Gasolene as a cleansing fluid is a boon to women who must economize in dress, for by using it many pretty garments may be restored to their original freshness. While light colored laces, ribbons and galloons that have been previously used, if not too much worn, may be dyed with oil paint mixed with gasolene and so made presentable to wear again.

To make this dye one must get a tube of oil paint and squeezing a little of it into a vessel, add sufficient gasolene to make the fluid the correct tint. Then it must be stirred until the paint is thoroughly dissolved. When mixed, test the shade by dipping a scrap of the article to be dyed in it.

If not dark enough, more paint must be added. If too dark, then more gasolene is necessary. To dye, dip the article up and down in the bath with a pair of bon bon tongs until the desired tint is obtained. Ribbons and laces are dyed in this way. Neither should be put into the dye bath while wet.

If the lace needs washing before coloring, then it should be dried first, and if ribbons are creased they must be pressed with a damp, not wet, sponge and stretched until dry. The dye will not remove creases, and if the ribbons are washed before dyeing they will lose their crispness, so the dampening should be very light.

Ostrich feathers may be dyed in the same way and it is said that quills and wings will respond to this treatment.

For restoring faded artificial flowers this method is excellent, or for tinting white flowers a delicate color.

RED HANDS.

If your hands are naturally inclined to be red do not bathe them in water which is very hot. Form the habit of sleeping with the hands above the head to drain the blood away from them.

Before retiring slip on a pair of gloves several sizes too large which have been filled with glove paste.

The paste is made of four ounces rose water into which has been stirred a teaspoonful of powdered borax and five drops of tincture of benzoin, with enough finely powdered oatmeal and almond meal added to make a paste. In the morning the paste should be removed with cold cream.

SUBSTITUTE FOR THE CHIN CHIN COLLAR.

On one tailored suit of brown broadcloth, worn at a matinee the other day by a pretty blonde, for the familiar Chin Chin collar was substituted a big cape collar of beaver and the French cuffs were so large that when the wearer folded her hands they formed a muff.

The shoe of army bronze blended effectively with the brown hues.

ASTRINGENT LOTION.

Never use cold cream if the complexion is oily and the pores large. Use rather an astringent lotion after washing and rinsing the face thoroughly.

A lotion which may be used night and morning is made of three ounces of rose water, one-quarter of an ounce of simple tincture of benzoin and five ounces of tannic acid. Put on with a soft cloth and let it remain. In washing the face ordinarily use hot water, rinsing with cold.

GREASE ON POULARD.

Try sponging the spot with pure ether after rubbing powdered French chalk on the wrong side of the silk to extract the grease. Leave this on all night. Next morning brush out the powder and sponge the right side with the ether.

If this fails try a mixture of grain alcohol and ether, in equal parts, with a dash of ammonia. This seldom fails.

Brush Your Hair

The hair should be brushed regularly to keep it from falling out and to keep the scalp in good condition. The hair itself is easily cleansed with a good toilet water, but the scalp itself is too often neglected. A man generally has a pair of brushes, or at least one good one, but women's brushes are apt to be very beautiful, but soft and of little use.

It is all very well to have a fancy brush on the dressing table, but in a drawer out of sight keep a plain one for general utility, with good stiff bristles. A fine hairbrush really should never be put in water, as it loosens the bristles. When traveling the hair gets very dusty and soon soils the brushes, which should be well looked after.

Dip the bristles in alcohol, ammonia or bathing whisky, shake dry and leave in the open air. Water sometimes cleans shell or rubber combs, but it is just as apt to spoil them. It is better to use an old brush to clean the teeth, or to pass a ribbon or piece of twine between them. The best for this purpose, however, is a piece of blotting paper. After this treatment polish the comb with a piece of flannel or chamois skin.

Navy and white plaid chiffon over white, showing a bias effect; folds of satin on tunic, lower part of drop skirt, cuffs and girdle are of blue satin, vest and collar of white Georgette, embroidered in blue and fine white beads; this dress is also made up in light brown and white combination. Price $38.50.

To Care for Flatirons

If rust spots appear on flat irons, rub them with a scouring sand or emery and then with kerosene oil until they seem smooth. Then treat them as you would new irons, that is to say, heat them thoroughly and rub well with wax or unsalted grease such as lard or even sweet oil and set them away for a time so that this grease may be absorbed by the pores of the metal.

They must be kept in a dry place and if they are to be unused for any length of time they should be covered with unsalted grease or paraffin or a thin coating of vaseline, or they may be wrapped in waxed paper.

If the starch adheres to them, it should be immediately removed with a knife. Then the iron may be rubbed over with fine sandpaper.

Flatirons improve with use if they are well cared for. They should be wiped on a paraffin or beeswax when they are taken from the stove and then rubbed on to a clean piece of cloth.

The main thing is to keep them perfectly dry when they are not in use.

HOW TO PICK A DUCK.

Now that the season for the savory duck is right upon us, the housewife who would almost rather throw away a duck especially a wild duck, than prepare it for the oven may greatly lessen the task by the following method: Remove the longest and heaviest feathers as usual, cutting off the head and wings, melt a cake of paraffin in a pail and dip the duck in it. Let the bird remain until the paraffin hardens; then with a dull knife scrape it clean. To your delight and surprise, the duck will be absolutely free from pin feathers and down and in perfect condition for the oven without the almost endless task of preparing it.

SWEEPING CARPETS

Procure an old tin, pierce holes in the bottom, and fill with common salt. If the salt is thus sprinkled over the carpet before sweeping, the dust will be prevented from rising, the colors will be brightened, and it will also drive the moths away.

We Play and Live In Many Ways, But the Center of Our Thought is Always the Home

More than a million people attend New York's theatres on a Saturday like today. Nearly 800,000 can be seated at one time in our more than 1,000 theatres, vaudeville and motion picture houses.

Many themes are played upon to make these people laugh and cry and smile, but most of the themes revolve about one thing: the HOME.

Whether the home is a home in the suburbs, a Fifth avenue mansion, an average comfortable house in Brooklyn, Queens, Richmond or the Bronx, or an apartment or flat in crowded Manhattan, it is a home, a real home to the family who inhabits it.

In spite of what the faddists say the HOME is America's great institution.

In spite of all that is said about woman's neglecting the home, man's drifting away from it, children's outside interests, the core or heart of the American people is the American home.

Now, furniture is a big factor in the home. Furniture has a large bearing on our home life, on our character.

Women are happier, more contented in a cosily, harmoniously, furnished home than in one that jars in its furnishings.

Woman needs a becomingly furnished home as a setting just as a picture needs a harmonious frame and a harmonious wall-background.

Environment, including furniture, influences the impressionable child. A child's character is formed subconsciously by his home, and the home is bound to be more or less influenced by its furniture.

To have comfortable, harmonious, artistic surroundings does not necessitate a vast expenditure of money. It requires only a little care in selecting the right kind.

One might buy a little frill in any store, but when it comes to investing money in furniture one should deal only with a store that is thoroughly reliable and artistic in its merchandise.

In selecting furniture one should look to its beauty, its quality, its utility, its harmony with the proposed room to be furnished and to its price and value.

Furniture with all these qualities — and no other kind—is to be found in the February Sale at Wanamaker's.

Three floors are given over to the furniture and the exhibits may at first seem a bit bewildering, and after your first visit you may go away a little dazed and tired out. But a cup of tea and a little rest soon puts you at your ease again and when you are in your own home you picture some of the things that particularly attracted you and you are eager to make another visit.

The Days of Courtesy which open this Sale are for the very purpose of giving four days of calm consideration and inspection to the Sale so that one may not buy in a hurry but select just the thing that is needed.

Monday is the last of these days and then on Tuesday, February 1, the Sale opens.

We shall be glad to see you on either of these days or any time during the month.

RUNT IS GAME'S STAR

Diminutive Fulton Steams Through Red and Blue Defense—Home Boys Neglect Their Team Work Trying to Halt Brunswick Scoring.

The Plainfield High School gym was no place yesterday afternoon for anyone suffering with heart trouble, because the game between the P. H. S. basketeers and the quintet of New Brunswick High School was so exciting that the spectators just couldn't keep their seats. A game with the locals on the losing end of a 21 to 19 score is pretty hard to lose, and it made the Red and Blue lads gulp after putting up the game that they did. In the first half the visitors assumed a four-point lead, but P. H. S. had the advantage of the second half, and the homesters were going like a house afire at the finish.

The game had no sooner started than the pace became a regular whirlwind, and few and far between were the chances for a shot. Fulton, who is so small that he looked like a grammar school lad alongside the others, was everywhere, and accounted for the first basket of the game, after twisting away from his guard. Although he cornered nine fouls, Dunham missed enough shots early in the game to have won the contest, and it was not until New Brunswick had made several more points that McDowell could help P. H. S.'s scoring column. Dunham added four fouls and rung up one basket during the remainder of the half, but Fulton was so slippery that he broke away on two other occasions, and Herman and Breitkof helped.

Play during the last period was so fast that fouls were called every minute or so, and out of the bunch Herman and Dunham broke even in the number of free shots made at five apiece. McDowell again snared the first counter of the half, on a pretty shot, after he had hauled the ball from the pile on top of it. Dunham was waiting under the basket twice. So intent on guarding the visiting forwards were the local men that many times, when the ball went into the Red and Blue territory, there was no one to receive it. Fulton roused Peacock's ire by his slippery methods, and caused the local man to put up the best exhibition of guarding he has shown this year. Only twice did a Brunswick man make a tally from the floor, and they were by Fulton and Breitkof, when P. H. S. was looking but one point behind.

Fulton was easily the best man on the visiting team, and was the mainstay in its teamwork, as well as being dead sure when he had any kind of a clear shot for the basket. Dunham and McDowell did all of the P. H. S. scoring, although Dunham was not up to his usual form oin throwing from the foul line. Up until the second half, when he was replaced by Coudray, McDowell caged two baskets. Linke had an off-day at center and allowed his opponent to break away twice in the first half, but woke up and stuck like a leech when he got going.

The triple victory lifted Plainfield to the top of the second division in the league race, the Queen City Knights passing the Jersey City bowlers, who lost three games at Paterson last night.

The Plainfielders rolled 880 in each of the first two games, and stopped only five pins short of that figure in the final tilt. Olive was 133 pins in the rear in the opener, 59 behind in the second, and 125 in the third.

The teams will roll on Olive Branch's alleys in Newark tonight.

Edward Simon was elected president of the Queen City Wheelmen, at the annual meeting of the Plainfield Cycling Club, last night. Harry Meyer was chosen vice president, Clarence Patrick, secretary, and George Simon, treasurer. Walter Southard and George Simon were made road captains.

The club decided to buy new jerseys and club pins. The jerseys will be orange, with black collar and cuffs, and a black band running diagonally across the front, with the letters, "Q. C. W." on the breast, and the club insignia on the left sleeve.

Reports that were read show the club to be in a prosperous condition. The initiation fee and dues were raised.

A lengthy schedule of road runs is planned for the coming season, and every member will be compelled to attend 60 per cent. of the trips, under penalty of a fine. It is also planned to hold some road meets here.

After the meeting, which was held at the home of Mr. Simon, the members sat down to supper. Later a social time was enjoyed.

Schedule.

Monday—Yale vs. Princeton.

Even with a padded lineup in their game against the Rutgers outfit yesterday, the Columbia players failed to gain their first victory in the Plainfield High School College Basketball League, yesterday, and lost by a 17 to 14 score.

Remmer and Snyder did all of the scoring for Rutgers and were tied at four baskets each, but Snyder edged in one foul by way of variation. Keating did most of Columbia's scoring and was helped a little by Carver, but the brand of guarding the winners displayed was hard to break through.

Rutgers now leads the league with four games won and none lost, and so far has been the only team to keep its line-up unchanged. In Remmer and Snyder the team has two of the best forwards in the league, even though they are new at the game, and with a good set of guards and handy center the team is well balanced with fellows all of one size and age.

Tuesday night—Clinks vs. Royal Arcanum.

Because only four Loyal Association bowlers appeared for the match, the Westfield League series last night was forfeited to the Immediate Aids. The gift put the Aiders in second place.

A warm session of the league executive committee will be held tonight. There have been rumors for more than a week that the league is to disband, and this vital question will be settled tonight. If it is voted to play out the season, a new schedule will probably be adopted.

The Loyals had four men on hand last night, but several other men were kept away. Worth was bowling with another team, C. Ortleb is laid up with blood poisoning, another man is sick, and a fourth was detained in New York. The Immediate Aids generously offered to use only four men against the Loyals, but this Captain Pierson, of the latter team, refused to do.

The Immediates rolled for their averages. Nelson did the best work. Charley Montross, who has been murdering the pins for big averages, rolled 158 and 128 in the first two games, and then retired in favor of Canfield.

ELKS' LEAGUE PINNERS MAY ENTER THE A. B. C.

Bowlers representing the Newark Lodge of Elks are wanted for the American Bowling Congress tournament to be held in March at Toledo. William Weingarth, captain of the Senior Elks' League team, has received a request from Secretary Al. Langtry, of the Congress, to use his efforts to have the lodge send at least six men to the affair. The matter is to be laid before the bowling committee of the lodge for consideration.

The Congress officials also wish a number of teams from this section in the tourney and believe if the Newark lodge sent a team other bowling clubs would follow suit. The western officials are aware that the 25th anniversary is to be held at Newark in the summer and have advised Weingarth that the Newark Elks could help advertise the event by distributing some literature at the congress. Many of the bowling enthusiasts at the lodge favor the plan of sending the team west in appreciation of the good work it is doing in the league race. At present the team is second and within striking distance of Elizabeth, which is leading.

Several years ago, when the team won the championship in the Senior Elks' League, it was sent to the tourney, which was held in Buffalo. The bowlers gave a good account of themselves then. Should the bowling committee favor the proposed trip Weingarth believes a smoker could be arranged at the lodge and the proceeds used to help defray the expenses. Should sufficient amount be raised, the bowlers on the Junior League team might also be taken along for the affair.

The Senior League team is composed of Weingarth, John F. Spear, Lewis Van Ness, Richard W. Erle and Charles Wagner. The sixth man for the team would be selected by the bowling committee. The Newarks would compete in the five-man, two-man and individual events.

COYNE AND NOLTE, VETS OF ELKS' LOOP, RETIRE

According to a report from New Brunswick, Charley McCormick will succeed Teddy Coyne on the New Brunswick Elks' Senior League team. McCormick deserted the team to roll with the Rahway Ilderans in the Athletic League. Coyne is one of the veterans of the B. P. O. E. circuit, and invariably one of the individual leaders, will give up bowling. It is said that Joe Nolte, the Elizabeth star, will also get out of competition soon, as he plans to sail for Florida on February 8.

Moulton Cages 17 Goals and Love 13—Triangles Whip Plainfield Juniors.

The Canadian Five traveled over to the Tabs' Hall, last night, and walloped the Tabs by the score of 75 to 28. Moulton and Love were the leaders for the Canadians, getting seventeen and thirteen baskets respectively, while Kyle and Kelly divided honors for the losers, with nine each.

The Junior Triangles, of Newark, walloped the Plainfield Juniors by the score of 21 to 5 on the Tabs court, Thursday night. The wheels of the Triangle's machine, which became rusty during the last game, were once more put into action and field goals dropped in the baskets rapidly. The features of the game were long shots by Patterson and Scruton, of the Triangles.

It is the third straight postponement the Hope management has suffered. There will be no game at the Fourth street court this evening, the second team also being idle.

IMPERIALS AVERAGE LEADERS OF THE CITY BOWLING LEAGUE

Season is Third Over, Jim McKenzie Leading Singles, With Mark of 193—Jim Scott Second, Harry Radin Third and John Connolly Fourth—Radin Hold High Score.

The Imperials are showing the way in the City Bowling League averages, which were announced today for the first time. The borough team, the only one in the league which has had the advantage of rolling both of its first two matches at home, is credited with an average of 883.3 for six games, and has four of its members among the first seven in the singles. Jim McKenzie heads the individual procession, with a mark of 193 for four games. The league season is just a third over.

Jim Scott, the Tabs' leader, has the best average of the men who have taken part in all six games rolled by their team. Scotty is going along at a 188.5 clip. Harry Radin, of the Eagles, is next, with 185.4, and John Connolly, of the Imps, is fourth, with 183.3.

The race for high individual score honors is close. Radin's tally of 227, made on the Columbus Club alleys, is the highest game, and is followed closely by George Taylor's 226, made the same night, and McKenzie's 225, made on Gates' alleys against the Tabs.

The highest Columbian is Captain George Howe, who holds down eighth place, with 176.3. Taylor is ninth, and Miles Wilson tenth.

The Imperials' totals of 962 and 970 easily claim high team score honors so far. The Imps have an advantage of one full game over the Eagles and Tabs, and two games over the Knights, at the end of the second round of the schedule. During the remaining four weeks, however, they will roll only one of their four matches at home.

P. H. S. BASEBALL MEN TO BEGIN WORK INDOORS SOON

Plainfield High School's second baksetball team remained idle yesterday as the game with the New Brunswick seconds was postponed by the latter, owing to the fact that four members of the team have been suspended from school.

The diamond artists will get their first start of the season in a short time, as "Box" Apgar, the Red and Blue captain for this year, has announced that he will start the pitchers and catchers working out in the gym as soon as the mid-year examinations are over, and outdoor work will follow as soon as the weather permits. Manager Clawson has nearly completed his schedule of twenty-two games and with some of the names that appear on the list the local youngsters will need all the practice possible. The first game will, as usual, be with Camp Howard early in April.

A large bulletin board has been placed in the school gym, where all of the sport news and schedules of the school will be posted.

The four classes will hold meetings shortly for the purpose of electing baseball captains and managers for the coming season.

PROCTOR'S THEATRE

Those two old favorites, Joe Weber and Lew Fields, will disport in a brand new Triangle Keystone comedy at Proctor's, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and will no doubt be the hit of the bill. They will make their appearance in their latest screen success, "The Worst of Friends," and the patrons are promised a laughing riot. The dramatic Triangle production presented in conjunction with the above will feature Helen Ware, the star of a score of Broadway successes, including "Paid in Full," "The Escape" and "Within the Law," in a Griffith supervised feature entitled, "Cross Currents." Miss Ware is supported by a superior cast, including Courtenay Foote, the famous English actor, and Teddy Sampson the petite enginue of many stage and screen successes. Among the vaudeville offerings to be offered the first of the week will be a sketch entitled, "A Bit of Heaven;" Putnam and Lewis, two extremely funny comedians, and two other big acts which will both score a big hit. "At Bay," a Pathe production adapted from George Fearborough's big Broadway success, will be the photoplay attraction at Proctor's on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Today the toy matinee for the children will be held and all the kiddies attending will receive handsome presents.

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Beautiful girls, exquisite scenic environment, clever comedians, startling electrical surprises, sweet singing, graceful dancing, picturesque groupings, witty dialogue, brilliant lyrics, catchy songs, and tuneful music are said to be the chief ingredients which have been responsible for the universal praise with which Max Spiegel's merry musical comedy, "The Tourists," has been accorded in every large city in which it has been presented. The cast is headed by Lew Stevens and Ben Pierce, assisted in the funmaking by Charles Raymond M'lle. Babette, Frances and Ross and Blanche Benton. It is claimed that the chorus is postively the youngest pretties and cleverest now before the patrons of burlesque amusement. The seat sale is the largest of any of the burlesque companies that have played here so far this season, so be sure and don't miss this, the treat of the year. RECREATION NOTES

The people of the West End are taking advantage more and more of the splendid opportunity to enjoy an evening of dancing in the Washington School Auditorium every Saturday night. The floor is one of the best in town, and the music of Al Squire's orchestra simply make the feet keep time. Mr. Squires is to be at the school tonight as usual, and it is hoped that a large number of people who have neglected to get in touch with the work done in Washington School will come in and see for themselves. The dance is only one of the activities. Among others are glee clubs, which meet on Monday evenings; dramatic clubs, dressmaking circles and a private dancing class. The glee clubs should appeal to everyone. Those who sing a little, and sing because they love to sing, should come to Washington School, Monday evening.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 32 degrees; 11 a. m., 41 degrees; 12:30 p. m., 42 degrees.

RUB RHEUMATISM PAIN FROM SORE, ACHING JOINTS

Rub pain away with small trial bottle of old, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

What's Rheumatism? Pain only. Stop drugging! Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" directly upon the "tender spot" and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless rheumatism and sciatica liniment, which never disappoints and can not burn the skin.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle from your druggist, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic and sciatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. Old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" has cured millions of rheumatism sufferers in the last half century, and is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains and swellings.—Adv.

R. A. CLAYBROOK NOW PRESIDENT

Succeeds W. H. P. Veysey as Head of Federation of Men's Church Clubs.

REPORTS PRESENTED

Organization at Annual Meeting Endorses "Biederwolf Revival Campaign" and Will Urge Co-operation of Allied Clubs.

Through a resolution passed at the annual meeting of the Federation of Men's Church Clubs and Religious Organizations, held at the Y. M. C. A., yesterday afternoon, the representatives voted to recommend to the several clubs comprising the emembership that they lend their co-operation and support to the Biederwolf evangelistic campaign to be held in this city, beginning in April. The proposition seemed to meet with the hearty approval of the members present representing seven of the eleven clubs in the federation.

W. H. P. Veysey, who has been president of the federation during the three years of its existence, retired, and was succeeded by former Councilman Richard A. Claybrok. Mr. Veysey presented his annual report of the federations activities, showing that considerable had been accomplished during the past year. The members regretted that Mr. Veysey felt compelled to retire from office, but they also expressed their pleasure when Mr. Claybrook consented to become the head of the organization.

Mr. Claybrook said, in accepting the office, that he would do his best to keep alive the federation, as Mr. Veysey had done in the past, and he earnestly requested the support of every officer and member in maintaining the high purposes of the organization. The other officers chosen were as follows:

First vice president, Fred E. Smith; second vice president, Leslie R. Fort; third vice president, William C. Hubbard; secretary, George B. Zimmer; treasurer, Charles A. Rice.

Clubs from the following churches were represented at the meeting: Grace Episcopal, Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, Congregational, Trinity Reformed, Netherwood Reformed, Seventh-Day Baptist and Warren chapel. President Claybrook will soon announce the various committees for the coming year. After the transaction of the principal business of the meeting, some time was devoted to disposing of a number of minor matters.

SATISFACTORY SETTLEMENT IN $5,000 DAMAGE SUIT

The suit of Mrs. Catherine Emory, of Roselle, to recover $5,000 damages from Leon Harriman, of Grant avenue, this city, for injuries received when the latter's automobile ran her down in December, 1914, was discontinued today. The case had been called for trial at Elizabeth this week, but Messrs. Swackhamer & Bird, acting for the defendant, secured a satisfactory settlement. The local attorneys have always disclaimed their client's liability, and following a conference with Mrs. Emory's lawyer, Jeremiah Kiernan, of Elizabeth, an amount agreeable to all concerned was decided upon.

Mr. Hariman, who is an employe of the International Motor Company, was running his car through Roselle when the accident occurred. Mrs. Emory was struck as she attempted to cross the road in front of the machine. Her injuries included a broken arm, a broken leg and severe bruises on various parts of the body.

DIED OF PNEUMONIA.

The funeral will be held at her late home at 8 o'clock tonight, and will be in charge of Rev. C. M. Anderson, of this city. Burial will be at Washington, Warren county.

They were brought to Plainfield and were given a hearing before Judge William De Meza, Saturday evening. Both were held under bonds of $300. Giuseppe Giami and Luggia Depoca were each held under bonds of $100 as material witnesses. The cases will go before the next session of the grand jury.

GRADING LOT FOR BIG TABERNACLE

Progress Reported on Work in Preparation for the Biederwolf Revival Campaign.

Consdierable progress is being made grading the lot on Gerard avenue and Front street on which is to be erected the tabernacle where the union evangelistic services under the leadership of Rev. W. E. Biederwolf will be held beginning the middle of April next. The tabernacle which is similar to those in use in the "Billy" Sunday campiagns will cover a space of 33,000 square feet or more and will be large enough to seat 6,000 people. A platform for the choir will increase the capacity by about 750, it being the intention of the music committee to have at least that number of singers.

The construction of the tabernacle will be under the supervision of a building committee already appointed by the executive committee with F. R. Stevens as chairman. This committee in turn will have the services of an expert tabernacle man, one of the Biederwolf party who comes on in advance of the rest of the party to assist the local building committee during the period of construction, which according to Dr. Biederwolf, who stated in speaking of the length of time required for building, that it takes from two days to as many weeks, according to the amount of labor available.

He also stated that in many places the entire building is put up by volunteer ministers, doctors, lawyers, merchants, carpenters, students and men of all vocations and in all walks of life offering their services, this being the ideal method.

While the building is of a temporary nature only, such details as good light, good heat during cold weather months, good ventilation, good accoustics are carefully provided for and unobstructed view of the speaker and choir. Thus the building itself will be made comfortable while it is the only one large enough to begin to accommodate those who attend the meetings.

BIG DELEGATION GOING TO TRENTON

Federated Bible Classes to Be Represented at Local Option Demonstration.

The members of the Federated Bible Classes of Plainfield are planning to send a delegation of at least 300 men to the big local option rally to be held in the "Billy" Sunday Tabernacle, Trenton, on Wednesday morning, at 11 o'clock, and all friends of local option are urged to attend this demonstration.

After short speeches a set of resolutions will be adopted. Then the delegates will march to the Capitol and present the resolutions on the steps of the Capitol to Senator Gaunt, the local option leader. Following prayer and the singing of "America," the delegates will countermarch to the Sunday Tabernacle, where at 2 o'clock, Mr. Sunday will deliver his great "Booze Sermon." Those who wish may remain for the evening service.

Any further information concerning the demonstration and the trip to Trenton may be secured from George H. Batchelor, president; Theodore G. Davis, secretary, or H. Henry Depew, chairman of poster campaign committee of the Federated Bible Classes.

Their ages ranged from 12 to 16. The boys were Joseph Moore, Thomas Jones, George Jackson, George Lowry, Edson Henry and James Anderson. Capt. Flynn found the goods in their possession, after he had worked up evidence of their guilt and arrested them. The total value of articles stolen by the boys was not more than $6.

Moore, Jones, Jackson and Anderson were turned over to the probation officer, but Lowry and Henry were given suspended sentences.

SHERIFF OTTO AT SOMERVILLE.

Somerville, Jan. 31.—Sheriff George C. Otto, of Union county, delivered an address in the Second Reformed church, this borough, last night, before a large audience. His subject was "Prison Reforms," dealing with the changes in the care and keep of the county prisoners according to ideas laid down by the sheriff when he assumed office in Union county. Mr. Otto also visited the Somerset county jail and spoke in a kindly way to the prisoners advising them as to their manner of conduct for future betterment. During his stay in Somerville the sheriff was entertained by Attorney James L. Griggs.

The Men's Association, of Warren chapel, will hold its monthly meeting, Friday night.

UNTIMELY DEATH OF FRANK MALIN

Promising Young Musical Artist Passes Away at His Home in Borough.

William Francis Malin, prominent in musical concert circles throughout the United States and regarded by many professors as one of the most promising violin and 'cello players in the mettropolitan disttrict, died Saturday afternoon, at the home of his mother, Mrs. John Schroppe, of 29 Grandvied acenue. He had been ailing for a long time with diabetes and, although he gave up his professional work early last year, he was able to be about until three weeks ago. He then contracted a cold which developed asthmic grip, causing his death.

The young man's demise was untimely as he was only twenty-eight years old and had a brilliant future. He was born in Philadelphia and at the death of his father, John Kennedy Malin, his mother removed to this city. The lad showed exceptional musical ability when in his early teens and was sent to the Boston Conservatory for violin instruction. There he also learned to perform on the 'cello, completing his instruction in both under the direction of Prof. Hahn, of Philadelphia. He was attracted to the concert field and for many years travelled throughout the United States, all the way from Canada to Tampa, Florida, and from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific. He gave a special performance before Lord and Lady Minto, when the former was governor-general of Canada, receiving flattering congratulations from both personages. Mr. Malin also was frequently included on programs in the leading concert halls of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and other large cities. His last appearance was in Chicago, where he appeared in connecttion with the Classic Dancers, the famous troupe, which is now touring the middle west.

While Mr. Malin was away from Plainfield much of the time, he enjoyed a wide local acquaintance. His death comes as a distinct shock to the many friends he has in both the city and borough. Although a member of an Episcopal church in Philadelphia, he attended service at Warren chapel whenever he was at home. Beside his mother, who was Miss Elizabeth Goodfellow, his only surviving relative is his grandfather, Preston B. Goodfellow, of Summit avenue. His paternal grandfather, William Francis Malin, was attached to the staff of Brigadier-General Meager in the Civil War, and was killed in the battle of Gettysburg.

The funeral will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel. Interment is to be in Hillside cemetery.

SEVERELY ARRAIGNS THE MODERN DANCE

Rev. C. S. Gillespie Compares it to Those of Pagan Days of Ancient Rome.

"The Devil's Dance" was the subject of Rev. Charles S. Gillespie's sermon last evening in Grace M. E. church. The text was taken from Job 21: 11-15. He severely arraigned the dances of the present day, comparing them in a general way with the licentious dance of the pagan days of ancient Rome. He quoted statistics to support his argument that a very large percentage of women start their downward course in the dance hall. He declared that the liberty permitted by a woman in the dance with one of the opposite sex who might possibly be a stranger to her would under no other circumstances be tolerated. The sermon excited considerable comment.

Revival services will continue for two weeks more with meetings every night except Monday and Saturday. Mr. Boyd cannot be with the choir this week, but will return the week following. In his absence Thomas A. Wallis will lead the singing.

The men's Bible class held their usual prayer meeting after the Sunday-school session. These meetings are full of interest and enthusiasm and show a remarkable awakening of the men. The men are reaching out into the highway with good reults. The Big Brother movement is also showing results. The next two weeks the men have planned to gather at church a half hour before the regular service for prayer.

CO. K INSPECTION.

Co. K has received notice that the annual inspection will be March 6, when State and army inspectors will spend the day in this city. The local company was recommended for efficiency last year.

6-TON AEROPLANE GREAT INVENTION

G. Douglas Wardrop, Who is to Speak Here, Describes Monster Machine.

LARGE CRUISING RANGE

Has Three Planes With 133-Foot Spread—To Carry Four-ton Load—No Recoil From Nine-Centimeter Guns Aboard.

G. Douglas Wardrop, editor of Aerial Age, and Aero Club of America and American Society of Aeronautic Engineers, who is to speak before the Men's Club, of the Crescent Avenue church, on Tuesday night, February 8, in addressing the cadets and instructors at West Point Military Academy on Saturday said the United States was inadequately prepared in aerial equipment. Discussing the recent reports concerning the German Fokker machines, Mr. Wardrop said:

"We have heard very much of late concerning the Fokker monoplane—the machine that spirals to a tremendous altitude, then darts directly down upon its opponent, the meatime showering a hail of deadly bullets upon its adversary. Dispatches state that as many as thirteen British machines were wrecked as the result of a single day's onslaught of this latest German terror.

"But we in this country are quietly developing a monster machine that will represent the conquest of even the latest German achievement—it will represent the greatest achievement of man in aerial transportation.

"This aeroplane will be six times larger than any yet tried. It can carry sufficient gasoline to give it a cruising range of more than 600 miles, at a speed of seventy-five miles

DEMEZA LEAVES FOR FLORIDA AND CUBA

Holds Final Session of Police Court Before Leaving for Month.

Although he left for Cuba shortly after 10 a. m., Judge William DeMeza presided over this morning's session of police court. There were but six cases docketed and the defendants were small negro boys arrested for breaking into a store and stealing $6 worth of goods. The cases were disposed of within a short time. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, Margaret, on his southern trip. They will be gone one month, visiting Jacksonville, Orlando, Daytona, Palm Beach, Miami, and Key West, Florida, after which they will go to Havana, Cuba, and then come back by way of Tampa, Fla.

During the absence of Judge DeMeza Mayor Leighton Colkins will preside over police court.

ALLEGED PURLOINER OF DIAMONDS GOES TO JAIL

A young man, giving his name as Whitely, and claiming Scoth Plains as his residence place, was committed to the county jail, Saturday, by Judge Harry Riblett, of Rahway, on a charge of grand larceny. It is alleged that Whitely stole two diamond rings, valued at $250, from the home of Mrs. John A. Brooks, of 151 Westfield avenue, Rahway. The young man was arrested in Westfield, and is said to have admitted that he had taken the jewelry, pawning it in Newark. The money he secured for them was in his pocket, and it was used by the police in getting the articles back. Whitely's commitment was made after he had stated he could not furnish $600 bail.

Scotch Plains residents believe that Whitely is the twenty-two-year-old young man who has been living there for the past two years under different names. He was known sometimes as "Jack Baker," and again as "Jack Pellinger." He is said to have been employed for a time as a taxicab driver by a Scotch Plains liveryman, but at the time of his arrest was soliciting subscriptions for a prohibition magazine.

Whitely is a dapper appearing young man of slender build, always wearing good clothes, and having an air of refinement. When taken to a cell at Elizabeth, his young wife, whom he married two months ago, clung to him and pledged her unfailing affection for him.

There will be a preparatory service in Warren chapel Wednesday night, prior to the celebration of the Lord's Supper at the 11 a. m. serevice, Sunday morning.

BABY IS FIVE TODAY BUT HE IS LOST

Jersey City Mother Asks Help In Finding Her Lost Boy.

Today James Douglas Glass is five years old. He probably does not know that his birthday is here, and the people with whom he is living, if he is alive, will not tell him, but a heart-broken mother in Jersey City is celebrating the day as one of prayer for her lost baby boy. The child disappeared from a farmhouse at Greeley, Penn., May 12, 1915, and has not been heard of since. Mrs. Glass resides at 13 Lienau place, Jersey City, and is asking newspapers in this section of the country to aid her in finding her son.

CO. K FAIR OPENS IN BLAZE OF GLORY

Many Attractions Provided by Local Militia Company for Annual Event.

"A Little Coney Island" is the annual indoor fair of Co. K, which opened Saturday night and will continue all this week. More than 800 pleasure-seekers crowded the several thousand square feet of floor space the opening night. Although dancing to the strains of Squier's orchestra was the most popular feature, the other atttractions did not suffer. The number and variety of the side shows would put many a carnival to shame, and the number of prizes that were won in the different games threatened to bankrupt the company.

One young man named Wood, who had never had a gun in his hand before, made the remarkable score of 44 out of 50, while facing the rifle range. Mrs., Alfred R. Tranchand scored 14 out of a possible 15, an excellent showing for a woman. She hit the bull's eye twice, scoring 5 each time, and was just outside the selected circle on her other shot.

Clifford Milligan was one of the many attendants who was a successful prize winner. He captured two Teddy bears, in addition to several other awards.

Among the other games are cane racks, hoop-la, watch-la, and several others kinds of similar games; parcel post, rifle gallery, and many other attractions, in addition to the booths, which are in charge of women.

The chairmen of the committees in charge are as follows: Floor, Sergeant George L. Apgar; donations, Sergeant Le Roy De Camp; hat checking, Sergeant O. R. Pearson; refreshment, Corporal Robert McGoldrick; rifle gallery, Corporal Stephen Millwater; rifle matches, Lieutenant A. R. Phillips; grocery, Corporal Russell Whitman; ticket, Sergeant A. R. Tranchand.

Members of the G. A. R. have been invited to be present Thursday night.

Beginning with the February meeting the civic section will take up a second part of its program with the general title of county and State problems. At the club meeting today there will be an informal discussion of the memorial for Miss Kenyon. Tea will be served.

U. S. is Ready to End Diplomatic Relations With Germany.

AWAIT DEVELOPMENTS

Col. House Reported to Have Wired Kaiser is Willing to Apologize for Lusitania Case, But it is Officially Denied.

Washington, Jan. 31.—Unless definite word comes from Berlin that Germany is prepared to yield in full to the American demands, negotiations will come to an abrupt halt within a week, it is stated in official circles. However, other reports say that the American government is fully aware of the fact that Germany intends to yield and that recent despatches from Col. House have confirmed the fact Germany is said to desire to establish a modus vivendi for the use of submarines on the high seas and she probably would be satisfied to surrender to all the American demands in the Lusitania case if she could obtain in exchange there the disaramament of merchantmen. There is no confirmation of these reports, however. There were no new developments in the Lusitania case today, though the German ambassador expects a communication from his home government within the next few hours.

Dutch Steamer Beached.

London, Jan. 31.—The Dutch steamer Maasdijk has been beached. Despatches received here today said that two of her crew were killed.

The Thuban Damaged.

A Lloyd's report says the Dutch steamer Thuban has been damaged and towed up the Thames.

Rebellion In China.

A despatch from Peking says that the Province of Kweichow is in full rebellion. The governor was forced to flee on January 16 and communications have been interrupted. It is reported that Luchow and Tzelutsing have been captured by revolutionists. The American gunboat Monocacy is at Chungking on the Yangtze Kiang, about 90 miles to the northeast of Luchow.

Italians Land In Albania.

Berlin, Jan. 31 (Wireless).—Reports from Vienna state that the Italians have landed a new infantry division and several batteries of heavy artillery at Avlona, Albania. This indicates that Italy will not abandon its position in Albania. Other reports state, says the agency, that Italy, lacking sufficient troops, has asked help from England and France.

French Are Beaten Back.

German war statement:

"West—Our trenches in region of Neuville, St. Vaast, were held by us despite repeated attempts by the French to retake them.

"East—Russian attacks against the churchyard cemetery at Wisman on the Ar River, west of Riga, brokn down."

Raid Paris In Reprisal.

The following official announcement on the Zeppelin raids at Paris was given out by the War Office today:

"As a measure of reprisal for the dropping of bombs by French aviators upon the German town of Freiburg our airships during the past two nights attacked the fortified city of Paris. The results were satisfactory."

Keep Bulgars From Greece.

Milan, Jan. 31.—Germany is insisting that the Bulgarian army be shifted from Macedonia to the eastern theatre of war, says the Secolo. In this way, says the paper, the Kaiser hopes to avoid difficulties between Bulgaria and Greece during an offensive campaign against the Allies in Saloniki.

Japan Denies Treaty Story.

Tokio, Jan. 31.—The foreign office issued a statement today denying the report from Berlin that Japan and England had signed a treaty recognizing Japan's superior right in the Far East.

A Galley o' Fun!

AN ALLEGED OPINION.

"He has quite an opinion of his skating, hasn't he?"

"I should say so! He thinks no cold spell would be complete without him!"

THE TEST.

One evening when he had nothing worse to do an Eminently Practical man invited an Eminent Thinker to dine with him at one of those high-class restaurants where the bill of fare is printed in elegant French and the bills paid in profane English. And, because he had the price, he ordered a dinner that embraced indigestion in all its subtlest forms.

When they had lighted their cigars the Eminent Thinker began to talk, as was his habit. Although his vis-a-vis seldom read anything more profound or elegaant than a few yards of ticker-tape or the bulletins of a prize-fight, he was feeling well-fed and listened kindly while the thoughtful friend delivered a profound homily on Shakespere. Being a critic of great erudition and much discernment he undertook to prove that all other interpreters of the great bard were wrong and that he alone had the inside understanding. He demonstrated to a nicety just now Shakespere must have written each play and what his real conception of each character must have been. With his intellectual pump finally began to suck the air and he had to stop for a fresh priming the Eminently Practical man took a fresh grip on his cigar and asked:

"Would it be worth while to write plays like Shakespere wrote?"

"Mehercule!" exclaimed the Eminent Thinker. "To write plays like Shakespere would not only make a man immortal but would also make him rich."

"Then why don't you write some if you know just how it was done?"

"Well, but—but—er—but—" gasped the Eminent Thinker. "I am not Shakespere."

"Quite true," said the Eminently Practical man. "But I am not the man who invented long division, and yet I can work a sum in arithmetic fairly well. Now you listen to me for a while. When I started out in life I was apprenticed to a carpenter, and when I learned how to make the body of a buggy I humped myself and made one instead of going around and telling other folks that I knew how. When I went to school they taught me how to add and subtract and I promptly began to add to my resources and subtract from those of the other fellows. When they taught me multiplication and division I began to multiply my profits and divide those of other fellows. All through life, when I learned exactly how anything was done, I went and did it and got the price of doing it in my jeans. And I flatter myself that I have done fairly well." Here he stopped to puff up and look red about the wattles before proceeding to annihilate his friend. After having looked sufficiently impressive for some time he resumed:

'Now, if I knew how Shakespere wrote his plays I wouldn't go around spouting about it but would give the scheme a try and perhaps go Shakespere a few better."

Of course this was terribly ignorant stuff for the Eminently Practical man to talk and the Eminent Thinker by [illegible] it as well to make no reply. [illegible] the fact, however, that there [illegible] to be a pseudo truth in what [illegible] Eminently Practical man had said and intends to write a magazine article on the point at an early date.

A DELICATE PROBLEM.

"Do you think Cholley's manner is natural or affected?"

"Well, I try to think the best of everybody—so I don't know which to think."

SOME IMPORTED WORDS.

Their Use Here and Their Meanings In Their Native Land.

You are so familiar with those three imported words, chauffeur, tonneau and limousine, that it would never occur to you to ask whether they really apply to the objects which they have been made to describe.

You know that a chauffeur is the man who is hired to drive a motorcar. The mere driving of the car is not the thing which gives the name its significance, for it does not apply to the owner of the car when he drives. In like manner you know that the tonneau is the part of the machine which is behind the driver's seat and accommodates three or five persons. When the possessor of an automobile is sufficiently opulent he has a limousine body for winter use, and probably it is electric heated and has a bunch of fresh flowers in the wall vase every morning. To these three vocables, with their smell of greenbacks and their rattle of silks, we might add another, even more suggestive of the expenditure of money, the word "hangar," which was dragged into the language when the gilded youth wearied of sixty horsepower speed and took to the air.

Would you be shocked to learn that a hangar, in rural France, where aeroplanes are almost unknown, is nothing but a shed for the farm cart? And what of the chauffeur? The high school girl was horrified to find, by consulting her dictionary, that he was either a fireman or a braggart. Almost as disconcerting, was the revelation that a "tonneau" was nothing but a vat or tub. But the cruelest blow of all fell when the limousine was shown up as rough goatskin, worn by peasants near Limoges.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HOLLAND'S SUBMARINE.

The Motive That Is Said to Have Inspired the Inventor.

John P. Holland, the inventor of the modern submarine, was an ardent advocate of freedom for Ireland, says a writer in World's Work. With this end in view, he allied himself with the Fenian movement in America and designed for it a type of vessel with which he hoped to destroy England's fleet. The Fenians financed the scheme, and Holland designed a boat which for several months entertained the people on the waters around New York.

The Fenians had done everything they could to keep the thing a secret, though rumors of the usual "British spies" were numerous. Occasionally an excursion boat or a tug would be amazed to see a peculiar contrivance suddenly stick its head out of the waters. There were stories that it was a sea serpent, or a whale, or a derelict. When the conning tower opened, however, and Holland's good natured Irish face suddenly peered out on the outside world the mystery was explained.

The inventor had no difficulty in operating in all the waters about New York. His boat handled easily, deftly and safely, the only trouble being, as always, with the engine. The newspapers, which devoted columns to his under water voyages, dubbed the vessel the Fenian Ram, a name more picturesque than descriptive, as it was not a ram at all, but a torpedo boat.

An Impartial Student.

We were walking through the apartments of his excellency Mr. Samarth, the prime minister of the gaekwar of Baroda, about two years ago, and noticed an open Bible on a table at the head of the prime minister's bed. I asked why he, a devout Hindu, was interested in the Bible. He replied: "I spend a half hour each day reading this book along with the sacred book of Hinduism. I have found it one of the greatest influences in developing my intellectual as well as my spiritual life. You may be interested to know," he continued, "that the educated men of India know the Bible, as a rule, quite as well as they know any one of their own sacred classics."—Christian Herald.

A Famous Compliment.

Of famous compliments paid to the fair sex the supply is so large and dazzling that it is a matter of no small difficulty to pick out the brightest gems, but if the following was unlooked for it certainly deserves a place among the best: Fontenelle when ninety years old passed before Mme. Helvetius without noticing her.

"Ah," said the lady, "that is your gallantry, then! To pass before me without ever looking at me!"

"If I had looked at you, madam," replied the old beau, "I never could have passed you at all."

Obviously Incompetent.

"Did old Dr. Gruffer seem to understand your complaint?"

"No; the man's an ignoramus. I explained to him I wanted to be advised to take perfect rest and a trip, and he said what I needed was to skip rope and stop thinking up imaginary troubles.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

A Preserver.

"How shall we preserve the forests?" said the worried woodsman.

"Leave it to my wife," replied the town idler. "A woman who can preserve green tomatoes and watermelon rinds oughtn't to be baffled by a few trees."—Washington Star.

Beauty Fills the House.

"Is she pretty?"

"Pretty? Why, that girl is so pretty that plenty of fellows are glad to call on her father and mother."—Pittsburgh Post.

EXCITING BLAZE IN DUNELLEN HOME

Volunteer Firemen Work Bravely to Save Property of J. C. Gardner.

A fire broke out in the kitchen of J. C. Gardner's home, 121 Washington avenue, Dunellen, at 8:30 yesterday morning, and before it was extinguished it had done damage estimated in round figures at $300. This estimate includes the draperies, which were ruined by the smoke, which filled the house, and a new parlor rug, spoiled by the chemical solution used by the firemen in extinguishing the blaze.

The fire started behind the kitchen range, which had been placed plumb against the wall. Mr. Gardner said yesterday afternoon that he considered it a miracle that the place hadn't been set on fire by the stove years ago.

A fresh fire had been built in the stove, which became overheated and set fire to the wainscoting. The fire worked its way through to the lathing, then up through the partition where the stovepipe entered the chimney and broke out. Mrs. Gardner, upon seeing the smoke burst out around the stovepipe, hurried over to the home of Paul Stryker, a neighbor.

At first he tholugh that he would be able to cope with the fire, but after five minutes' work, without making any apparent headway, he decided to return to his home and telelphone for the local fire department.

The borough's minute men responded with alacrity, and they made quick time in hauling their apparatus to the scene of the fire. Under the direction of Chief Charles Wrage a hole was chopped through the parlor wall and another one through the second floor directly over the fire. Through these holes and the stovepipe hole in the kitchen, the fire was fought with chemicals, fourteen of these being used before the fire was entirely extinguished.

About all of the firemen turned out for the fire, twenty-nine answering to their names at roll call upon the return to headquarters at 10 o'clock. All of the firemen acquited themselves creditably. As a result of the fire Peter Benson obtained the honor of being the strong man of the force. Peter was one of the axmen employed in chopping holes to get at the fire, and his blows were so powerful that he broke the handle of his ax.

U. S. SUBMARINE IS STILL MISSING

Grave Fears Are Entertained for Safety of Crew of the K-5.

Charleston, S. C., Jan. 31.—Five hours after it left port to hunt for the lost submarines K-5, the coast guard cutter Yamacraw reported by wireless today that it had found no trace of the missing vessel.

Gravest fears for the missing submarine and her crew of six men were expressed. Officials held out hope that the submarine may have merely lost her way or become disabled, but the most serious consequences were feared.

After an all night vigil at the Navy Department the only word received, by wireless and wire, was the bare statement that the K-5 was missing when the rest of the flotilla of K boats, the K-1, K-2 and K-6, arrived off Charleston. They had sailed Friday from New York for Pensacola for winter manoeuvres, convoyed by the monitor and submarine tender Tallahassee.

MEXICO CITY POLICE.

Always Ready at Night to Answer a Clap of the Hands.

In Mexico City each of the 5,000 police who won for it the reputation of the most thoroughly patrolled city in the world carries a lantern underneath his cape. After a certain hour, when traffic has virtually ceased, the policemen put their lanterns in the middle of the roadways at the intersections of the streets.

Then they go into the nearest doorway, sit down and prepare to spend the rest of the night at their ease. If you want a policeman you simply step out on the sidewalk and clap your hands. Immediately with the suddenness of genii one appears from either side. Handclapping, by the way, is the universal method of attracting attention in Mexico. To insure wakefulness on the part of the police any one who brings a lantern or a policeman's cap to the nearest police station gets $5, which is deducted from the negligent patrolman's monthly pay.

In some cities the system of "keeping tab" on policemen is different. Every hour the sergeant at the station goes to the door and blows his whistle. The man on the nearest beat immediately responds. Number two follows, and so the whistle passes through the entire force and comes back to the station. If one whistle is missing the man who has the preceding beat investigates and reports at headquarters. The speed with which the hour can be blown and the watchfulness of the force determined is astonishing.—Youth's Companion.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

A Factor In Training the Brain In Boys and Girls.

Enthusiasm, self confidence, the spirit of adventure, alertness, promptness, unselfishness, quick judgment, are all to be learned on the field of games and sports, says the Medical Record, and every argument for such training of boys applies with equal force to girls. Mothers as well as fathers must be strong and healthy, and it is said that girls undergoing such training not only assume a more upright and dignified carriage, but begin unconsciously to avoid slang and other vulgarities.

The ancient Greeks knew these things, and in 2,500 years we have not equaled their results. If a boy does not seem to pick up music with ease, or sword play, he may attain remarkable dexterity with tools. At best he may learn to carve, at least he may attain creditable efficiency as a joiner or carpenter. Even juggling and conjuring train certain brain centers of value to the organism and are much better than no manual work at all. Personally, continues the editor, we think very highly of military drill, which trains every fiber of the body, down to the very finger tips and the tiny muscles of the eye, besides inculcating invaluable habits of prompt obedience, team work, respect for efficient authority, etc.

Harrison's Motion.

Delving in the archives of the Miami Union Literary society of Miami university the other day students found in an old minute book two entries regarding students who afterward became men of national fame. The record of the society's meeting of Nov. 1, 1831, says:

"Benjamin Harrison made the following motion: 'Mr. Chairman, I move that every man who spits tobacco juice on the floor of the society hall be fined 6 cent; and that the money thus procured be saved for six months, at the end of which time a spitbox be purchased for this society.'" The minutes of the same society of Jan. 23, 1843, record the fact that Oliver P. Morton was fined 12½ cents for disorderly conduct.—Indianapolis News.

A Staggering Estimate.

The late Mr. G. S. Carr, an accomplished mathematician, attempted to give a reply to the query, "How many different games at chess would it be possible to play?" His conclusions are that the total would be given by the one hundredth power of twenty, which is represented by the figure 12, followed by 120 ciphers. If each move be represented by a grain of sand the aforesaid number of grains, if packed around the sun, would fill up all space in every direction to a distance of over two sextillion miles!—London Telegraph.

Thumbnail Fairy Tale.

"No doubt," we said to the plumber, "you'll have to dig the entire street up before you can fix that leak in the bathtub."

"Shucks, no," replied the plumber; "it won't take a minute. It only needs a new washer, and I wouldn't charge you anything for a little job like that."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Heavy Returns.

"What business brings the heaviest returns?" asked the man who wanted to know.

"The literary business," sighed the struggling author as he opened a two pound rejected book manuscript.—Philadelphia Record.

The Cost of Fame.

"Why do you work for money instead of fame?"

"I want to get the money first. My observation teaches me that fame is a most expensive luxury that the rich only can afford to live up to."—Detroit Free Press.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. JOSEPH BIRD

Attacked With Heart Trouble While Preparing a Meal at Her Home Saturday.

Mrs. Susannah Bird, wife of Joseph Bird, dropped dead early Saturday afternoon as she was preparing dinner in the kitchen of her home at 436 Spooner avenue. She had been subject to heart trouble for several years but seemed to be in the best of health just previous to the fatal attack. She had set the table for the meal and was turning her attention to something on the range when her husband heard her fall to the floor. He summoned neighbors the floor. He summoned neighbors the afflicted woman had died instantly.

Mrs. Bird, who was sixty-eight years old, was a native of England, but came to this city from Hope Valley, R. I., thrity-seven years ago, at the time the Potter Press Works located in Plainfield. Mr. Bird was employed by the company at Rhode Island and has been a foreman in the local shop ever since it was established here in 1879. The family lived for many years on West Second street between Liberty street and Elmwood place. Mrs. Bird enjoyed a wide acquaintance in both the city and borough and her sudden death comes as a decided shock.

Beside her husband, the deceased leaves one son, John Bird, who is employed in the government machine shop at Washington and three daughters. Two of them, Mrs. Edward C. Matthewson and Mrs. Baldwin live on Spooner avenue, the latter at the parental home, while the third daughter resides on Staten Island. The funeral will be held at the late residence, tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Frederic L. Greene officiating. Interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

The liabilities of Sklarew total $11,000. It is said that a majority of the creditors have agreed to accept the offer. A meeting will be called ten days from today to consider the proposition.

EVANGELIST DRAWS CROWD.

Somerville, Jan. 31.—Gypsie Smith, Jr., the noted nomad evangelist, and son of the famous Gypsie Smith, head of a gypsy tribe, began a months' series of evangelistic meetings in the First Reformed church here last night. The edifice was filled to overflowing and the hundreds of persons who gained admittance were highly pleased with Mr. Smith's discourse. Mr. Smith will continue the meetings throughout the next few weeks and it is believed will result in many local persons "hitting the trail."

FRANCO-PRUSSIAN VET. DEAD.

Somerville, Jan. 31.—Jacob Eden, a resident of Somerville for many years, died in the Somerset Hospital last night. He was seventy-five years old and was a veteran of the Franco-Prussian war in 1870, in which he served with great distinction. He came to this country with numerous medals and certificates attesting to his bravery and numerous engagements. His wife died some time ago, and his only relatives are four sons. For the past six years he has been engaged as janitor of St. John's Episcopal church.

Buyers Are Found by Advertising—Because They Are Opportunity-Hunters!

If you have something to sell—real estate, personal property of any sort—there's a buyer for it. You don't know who he is, or where he is. You'd be helpless in trying to locate him—but for the fact that he is trying to locate you!

For buyers are opportunity-seekers. And they have learned that the Plainfield Daily Press classified columns are 'the Happy Hunting Grounds' for opportunities. Thus, when your "ad" starts upon its quest it meets the man for whom it was written—also upon his quest. And that's how "results" follow classified advertising

ELMAN HAS ACHIEVED GREAT DISTINCTION

Russian Violinist, Though Young, Has Had a Remarkable Career.

Mischa Elman, the famous Russian violinist, who will give a recital at the Plainfield High School on Wednesday, February 9, has just passed his twenty-fifth birthday and has achieved great distinction while still a young man. He will be heard here in a recital which will include a number of the airs which have made him famous, both here and abroad, playing for the benefit of the Plainfield

Mischa Elman

Day Nursery, under the auspices of the Cheerful Workers' Circle, of the King's Daughters.

While on the stage of the concert hall, Elman seems often old beyond his years, but in society he is full of animation, enjoying as every normal man does, all that is dignified and healthful. Chess playing, yachting and automibiling interest Elman more or less during his hours of recreation. He is also a staunch pedestrian; out-walking many of the young fellows who could not play even a simple tune on the violin. Fond of good books also, is this young Goliath of the strings.

On his return from the Australian tour in the autumn of 1914, Elman, having decided to take a year's vacation, likewise made up his mind to remain in America and spend some of the dollars he had earned in this country. Here he has set another good example to his European colleagues, and further brought his father, mother and three sisters from England so that they could enjoy an American holiday with him. Of course, Elman speaks English fluently, and he has lived in England for many years, he speaks the language like an Englishman. Elman speaks Russian and German with the same fluency.

The sale of tickets at Miller's drug store has been active, but there are a number of good seats left.

The management of this recital desire that all tickets now being held in reserve at Miller's drug store, Fourth street and Park avenue, be paid for before February 2. On that date all unclaimed tickets will be returned to the box office.

CURIOUS JAPANESE RITE.

The Art of Divination Through the Use of Tortoise Shell.

The curious art of divination through the medium of tortoise shell is very popular throughout the island kingdom, being used upon many occasions to ascertain the timeliness or possibility of various projects. The importance of this practice in the eyes of the Japanese may be inferred from the fact that the fields in which the sacred rice for the coronation ceremony was grown were selected through tortoise shell divination.

The divination is effected by first worshiping a god called Uravanokami. Then a tortoise shell is taken and scraped inside until quite thin and the outside surface polished. In the shell are several hollow squares in each of which there is a certain sign marked in black ink. The whole is then baked under great heat, causing cracks to appear in the surface. These cracks are then studied in accordance with the formulae in the divination book, the result being a sort of code message from the gods.

This is not the earliest form of divination known in Japan. Previously there was a kind called Futomani, in which the shoulder blade of a stag was used in place of a tortoise shell. The tortoise shell method, which probably came from China, was considered an improvement and was probably adopted because it was something new, for at that time the Japanese were seizing upon all things foreign.—Japanese Magazine.

OLD TIME WITCH FINDERS.

Sure Signs by Which Agents of the Evil One Were Detected.

Three hundred years ago the business of finding out witches was well established and accepted in courts of law as highly proper.

In 1649 it is recorded that the magistrates of Newcastle, England, sent to Scotland for an expert witch finder. This gifted person proceeded to show his skill by quickly discovering fifteen witches and securing their conviction. One Matthew Hopkins was a celebrated witch finder of that period.

It was easy to discover witches when you knew how. The suspected person could be forced to weep and then detected by the well known fact that a witch could shed only three tears and those from the left eye, or she could be pricked with pins to discover the spot insensible to pain, which was a sure sign of dealings with the devil.

That women were far more likely to dabble in witchcraft than men was conceded. The reason was satisfactorily explained by a famous German text book on witches published in the fifteenth century. It was simply that women were inherently wicked, whereas men naturally inclined to goodness.—Exchange.

The Czar Bell.

One of the best known bells in the world has, strange to say, never been rung—that known as the Czar Kolokol, or the czar bell. This bell is said to be the largest anywhere. There is an interesting history attached to it. When it had been cast attempt was made to hang it so that it might be rung, but by an unhappy chance it broke from its supports and fell to the ground, wherein it made a great hole, into which it sank and lay for many years. Finally, after more than a hundred years of oblivion, it was raised and placed in a public square in Moscow, where it now stands. This bell weighs more than 440,000 pounds and is more than nineteen feet in height and sixty feet in circumference.

The Unreality of Opera.

There are people who still complain of the unreality of opera who cannot subject themselves to its illusion. And indeed the illusion of opera breaks down if everything in it is not kept at the same distance from reality. In that world of musical expression we must never be suddenly lowered by any incongruous detail into the ordinary world of prose. Realism, the attempt to work upon the emotions by complete illusion of reality, is disastrous in opera. If the scene is a railway station we remember at once that people do not sing when they are catching trains.—London Times.

Little Else.

A London attorney named Else, rather diminutive in his stature and not particularly respectable in his character, once met Jekyll. "Sir," said he, "I hear you have called me a pettifogging scoundrel. Have you done so, sir?"

"Sir," said Jekyll, with a look of contempt, "I never said you were a pettifogger or a scoundrel, but I said you were 'little Else.'"—Westminster Gazette.

Incomplete Comprehension.

"A great many people talk about things they don't understand."

"Of course," replied Miss Cayenne. "If we all thoroughly understood everything it is considered necessary to talk about we should all be immoderately wise—and sometimes rather impolite."—Washington Star.

CHURCHES GAIN MANY MEMBERS

Dr. H. K. Carroll Reports all Denominations Prosperous During 1915.

EDIFICES DECREASED

This is Due to Hard Times for Churches in the Rural Sections—Methodists Show the Greatest Increase in Membership.

According to Dr. Henry K. Carroll of North Plainfield, associate secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America the number of church members in the United States and its territories is 50,250,718, which is a gain over 1914 of 653,640. This number includes Jews publicly affiliated with synagogues.

Dr. Carroll says that the war apparently did not seriously affect the prosperity of the churches of this country, although there was a decrease of 158 in the number of church edifices. The churches gave $1,600,000 more in 1915 to foreign missions than they did in 1914, but in gifts to home missions there was a falling off of $750,000. The greater gifts across the seas were to aid war sufferers and to carry on missionary enterprise heretofore maintained by countries now in the war.

Hard times for churches in the rural sections and which have caused the closing of churches which formerly flourished account, in part, Dr Carroll believes, for the decrease noted. Several of the Presbyterian bodies, which enjoyed an unusual increase in communicants, reported a falling off in the number of churches. The Northern Presbyterian church had a net loss during the year of 12 churches.

The grand total of clergymen is 180,607. This is an increase during the year of 1,700. The total number of churches is 225,334.

The Federal Council, with which thirty of the largest Protestant bodies are federated, represents 17,422,280 which is almost half of the church membership of the country. The group of churches conneced with the council had a net gain of 1,267 clergymen, 157 churches and 320,029 communicants.

Dr. Carroll credits the Roman Catholic church with only 14,079,208 but in explanation says: "The Official Catholic Directory reports only 'population,' which includes with communicants the unconfirmed baptized that is, children who have not been admitted to their first communion. The rule adopted in the census of 1890, and followed in that of 1906 deducts 15 per cent from Catholic population and sets down the remaining eighty-five per cent. as communicants. Representatives of the church object to the process, but as the rule to report only members or communicants is applied to all other denominations, there is obviously no convenient way of making an exception in this case. It should be said that the figures in the official Catholic Directory are, for a large number of dioceses and archdioceses, estimates given in round numbers."

The Protestant denomination with the greatest membership is the Methodist, including sixteen branches having 7,472,103 members. Next comes the Baptists, including fifteen branches, with 6,307,035. The third is the Lutheran, with twenty-one branches and 2,434,184 communicants. Others in order are: Presbyterians, twelve branches, 2,194,039 members: Disciples of Christ, 1,522,821 members; Protestant Episcopal 1,051,696 communicants; Congregationalists, 771,362; Reformed church, 502,602, and Eastern Orthodox, 467,500.

Dr. Carroll puts down only 145,000 for the number of Jews affiliated with synagogues, although there are between two million and three million Jews in this country. He admits that these figures are "misleading," and says: "The denomination furnishes statistics, and nothing later than the figures gathered directly by a circular from congregations by the government in its census of 1906 is obtainable."

ACCOUNTING OF ROSS ESTATE

mentioned rate continued to August 1911, when a payment was made to her of $600 for the quarter ending August, 1911.

That by an order of the court on August 9, 1911, they were directed to pay to the mother $5,000 yearly out of the income for the boy's support in quarterly installments in advance.

That they paid the first installment being for August 1, 1911, on August 14, 1911, and the last installment being for the period from August 1, 1915, to October 1, 1915, and amounting to $972.20, on August 5, 1915.

That by an order of the Supreme Court on September 9, 1915, they were appointed committee of the property of the boy who was adjudged to be an incompetent, and the order appointed the mother and Henry M. Maxson, also of Plainfield, as committee.

That before the boy became of age they (the Trust Company) made the payments as directed by the Supreme Court and the accounting is for such payments only.

That besides the personal property of the boy, including rents, which has come into the hands of the guardian, the boy was the owner of several pieces of real estate, to wit: 7-27 interest in Nos. 43 and 45 Dey street, which, by a court order was sold and conveyed to Ross A. Mackey, for $36,944.25, on February 20, 1906.

Also 7-72 interest in real estate at South Rondout, Esopus, Ulster county, N. Y., and 7-54 interest in two other parcels of real estate there, all of which were sold for the aggregate sum of $1,626.83 on June 29, 1906, pursuant to a court order.

Also 7-54 interest in a block of land, Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh street, and Eleventh and Thirteenth avenues, which property was leased to the Lehigh Valley R. R. Company, by a court order on March 19, 1912, for a lease of eight years beginning on May 1, 1912, at an annual rent of $6,481.18, being 7-54 of $50,000.

Also 7-27 interest in other parcels of land, which have been managed and rents collected by Messrs. Horace S. Ely & Co., on behalf of the guardian, being, 163 William street, 102 East Twenty-ninth street, 104 East Twenty-ninth street, 106 East Twenty-ninth street, 45 West Fifty-second street, 55 West Twenty-seventh street, 57 West One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street, 61 West One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street, 63 West One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street, the rents of these properties, prior to the lease, which were also collected by Horace S. Ely & Co.

That out of the general capital they charge themselves with $56,196.70, and for expenses, credit themselves with $7,229.15, leaving a balance of $49,197.55.

That out of the capital of the fund from sale of 43 and 45 Dey street, they charge themselves with $36,944.45, and for expenses credit themselves with $844.44, leaving a balance of $36,100.01.

That out of the capital fund from sale of real property at South Rondout they charge themselves with $1,526.38, and for expenses credit themselves with $190.59, leaving a balance of $1,335.79.

That from the general income, including the income of the Dey street properties and the South Rondout funds, they charge themselves with $156,242.84, being the income received; $508.12 from profit of investments; $15,671.92 receipts of income upon the investment of the fund resulting from the sale of the Dey street properties, and $448 being the receipts of income resulting from the sale of the South Rondout property, making the total of the four items of the "general incomre" $172,870.88.

Against this, $172,870.88, the Trust Company credits themselves with $102,542.26, commissions, $3,760.23; to the boy for his support, $60,865.53, and $39,916.60 for taxes, expenses, etc., which leaves a balance of $70,328.52.

That from the rents of the lease of the Lehigh Valley R. R. Company, and the income of the investment of said rents, they charge themselves with $22,057.05, and for expenses, etc., credit themselves with $1,351.91, which leaves a balance of $20,705.14, each and every one of the balances which are subject, first, to the deductions of their (the Trust Company's) commissions and the expenses of the accounting.

The balance, according to the accounting, totals $177,667.01.

In the papers the Trust Company states that the boy is now in care of M. Friedman, his tutor companion, at a ranch about 15 miles from Magdelena, N. M., in accordance with an order of the Supreme Court on October 27, 1915, and is not likely to return from the western part of the United States for a period of about six months or more.

That the postoffice address of the boy and his tutor companion is Magdelena, N. M., "the facts regarding the incompetency are briefly that he is suffering from arrested mental development and is unable to engage in any mental pursuits which require a mentality greater than in a twelve-year old boy, said Florence Potter Sheppard is his mother and sole heir at law and next of kin, and has an interest in his welfare."

Records on file today in the sheriff's office show that the boy, who was sent to the Bloomingdale Asylum three years ago, by a jury, was declared incompetent to manage his affairs after debating the question for three hours on July 21, 1915. In June a previous jury disagreed.

The testimony given at both trials show that the boy was very fond of women and would kiss every one whom he would by chance meet anywhere in full view of anyone who cared to look on with surprise; that he was married to a servant girl at the age of 17, but his mother had the marriage annulled.

VICE-CHANCELLOR EMERY DIES IN MORRISTOWN

John Runkle Emery, for twenty years a Vice Chancellor of New Jersey, retiring on December 21 last, died of heart disease last evening at his home in Morristown, in his seventy-fourth year. An affection of the heart developed from bronchial pneumonia, with which he was stricken the day following Labor Day last year.

Mr. Emery was born in Flemington, and was graduated from Princeton in 1861. The following year he enlisted in the Fifteenth New Jersey Volunteers. He was honorably discharged with the rank of second lieutenant in 1863. For a year he studied at the Harvard Law School, and was admitted to the Bar in 1865. As a lawyer he was first associated with Bennet Van Syckel, at Flemington, and later was connected with the office of the late Vice Chancellor Van Cleef. At one time he was a partner of A. G. Ritchey, with an office in Trenton.

Vice Chancellor Emery's chambers were in the Court of Chancery, Newark. He was a member of the Essex Club, of New York; the Morristown Club, the Morris County Golf Club, the Manhattan Club and the Loyal Legion.

He leaves his wife, who was Miss Alla MacKie, and four children.

AEROPLANE A GREAT INVENTION

an hour. By decreasing the load, so as to increase the fuel capacity, this distance can be greatly increased. The power plant consist of seven motors—six of 160 horse-power each, and one of 40 horse-power. With about eight passengers, this machine has a further capacity for carrying 700 gallons of gasoline, 60 gallons of oil, and a useful load of 3,000 pounds. By decreasing the 3,000-pound cargo the number of passengers can be approximately increased to thirty.

"This machine is built with three planes, spreading 133 feet. The length is 68 feet, the rudder area 54 square feet, fixed tail area, horizontal, 126 square feet. The weight of the hull and planes is 8,000 pounds and of the motors, 4,000 pounds. With a crew of eight men, weighing 1,200 pounds, oil and gasoline weighing 2,500 pounds and a load, presumably of ammunition, of 3,000 pounds, there is a total weight which can be carried through the air of 21,000 pounds, or over ten tons.

"This will be the type of bombarding aeroplanes that will be used on German ports in the early spring. Many of the type are now under construction, and their advent into the war zone is awaited with tremendous interest.

"A new gun will be used in this monster plane which gives no recoil. This gun consists of a tube, in which two shots are simultaneously discharged by a single explosion. At the moment of firing, one shot—the deadly steel shell—speeds down toward the enemy; a second shot, which is made of sand, is discharged backward. This two discharges are made at once, with the result that there is no recoil from the gun. At the beginning of the war the shot used from aeroplanes was small—this new gun will throw a shell nine centimeters in diameter. Imagine the effectiveness of this terrific cannon fire from aeroplanes.

THE BRANDEIS APPOINTMENT.

In appointing Louis D. Brandeis to the vacancy on the United States Supreme Court bench President Wilson has given further evidence of independent and fearless thinking in his administration. A storm of protest has come up from every section of the country, although it has not taken definite form and political writers in Washington are now predicting that Mr. Brandeis will be confirmed by the Senate without serious opposition.

Objection to Brandeis is now being made because he is a Jew, but it is worthy of note that he is the first of that race to sit in the highest court of the land. In fact, the President is being congratulated on that particular point. The great objection to Mr. Brandeis is based upon the question of his temperamental fitness for our highest judicial tribunal. It has been pointed out that he has occupied a prominent place in the public eyes for a great many years as a consistent advocate of radical legislation bearing directly on the social problems of the day; he is committed in a degree at least to the principal of government ownership; he is an uncompromising, if not a bitter foe, of trusts and monoplies, he has been one of the most vigorous opponents of increased railroad rates who has taken part in that controversy; he based that opposition on the charge that what the railroads needed was not an increase in rates but efficient management, the elimination of waste and graft and fabulous and unearned salaries; he is a full first cousin to the Socialists, and while classed as a Democrat in politics his leaning has unquestionably been toward the Progressive platform of 1912.

It is admitted that he has a keen legal mind, able to analyze clearly and logically any intricate tangle that may be brought before the court, and that he is courageously honest, but his opponents fear that he will be unable to set aside his firmly founded convictions on certain subjects so as to think impartially. This is probably too severe an accusation. Even in his prosecutions of universally admitted evils, Mr. Brandeis has never been partizan—only firm.

It is a tribute to the personality of the man that his appointment should create such national interest. But few other man could have been named who would not have slipped in practically unnoticed in this day of important international controversies.

MR. WILSON MEANS WHAT HE SAYS.

Mr. Wilson's political career has been a succession of demonstrations that he meant what he said. His policies are announced so quietly and his patience in carrying them out is so great that, while the process is going on, many people lose faith in the ultimate outcome. Back in New Jersey few believed he would keep his word and eliminate "Jim" Smith. He did. As President, many doubted his ability to see the tariff bill through and then to keep Congress convened to get the currency bill passed and then to get the Clayton bill through. Everywhere along the line were doubts. They were ultimately dispelled. When the question of the repeal of the Panama Canal tolls came up there were more doubts. But the repeal went through. The President's prestige ebbed during all these doubting periods and rose in each instance as he succeeded—The World's Work.

A FIDDLER'S CONVENTION.

Atlanta is preparing for another old time fiddler's convention, when the boys come down from out the woods of Georgia and the mountains of East Tennessee and South Carolina and compete for prizes with jigs, hornpipes and old time melodies that are in tune with the heart strings of every man or woman who was born outside the brick walls of a city flat. It will be a feast of wild music, the floors of the big auditorium shaking under the rythmatic pounding of feet that keep time to "Turkey in the Straw," "Money Musk," "Wild Cat on the Hig' Groun,' Possum in De Holler," and then eyes growing dim when the plain country folk begin to play "Old Black Joe," "Sewanee River" and other of the South's sweetest songs. For those who love fiddlin' the convention will be worth a trip to Georgia's otherwise uncivilized metropolis.

SEN. MARTINE AS A MIXER.

The following clever comment on Senator James E. Martine, of Plainfield, is from the pen of Art Young, artist and humorist of the Metropolitan Magazine:

When I want to have a few minutes' fun I watch Senator Martine. As a mixer, Martine hasn't an equal. He does it with his hands. No housewife ever did better work with dough, and no osteopath has a more skilful technique. He exercises his art in the Senate on any part of the human anatomy—above the desk line. I have seen him poke Senator Chamberlain in the region of the breast bone for five minutes—then walk over and vigorously rub Senator Hollis on the back—then stroke Senator Gallinger on his ivory dome. When Martine sees other Senators have taken flight at one of his spells, he goes to his seat and rubs himself.

From the manner in which President Wilson is being received in his tour of the Middle West the American people are awake to the need of adequate defense, even in that central section where they sleep without fear of foreign invasion and Congressmen devote their sole energies to planning attacks on the Pork Barrel. When the chief executive of the nation, and as strong an advocate of peace as Wilson, urges preparedness for war, every citizen should lay aside foolish prejudices and silly dreams and face facts. It is a call to arms for the nation.

No, Anxious Reader, the boom for Brandeis for the United States Supreme Court did not start at the Gary dinner.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS BAZAAR COMMITTEE MEETS

The combined meting of the Knights of Columbus bazaar committee and the wives and friends of the members held in the Columbus clubhouse Saturday night, was a most enthusiastic gathering, the fifty women present entering into the spirit of the project, with a determination to do their utmost in making the affair a complete success from every point of view. The meeting was held principally to organize the women into committees so that they can proceed with work at once under their various chairmen.

W. H. Schaefer presided during the meeting and introduced the chairmen of the committees, who in turn gave a short address to the attendants. Francis J. Blatz is the assistant chairman of the committee. The next meeting of the committee will be held in the clubhouse, Wednesday night, at 8 o'clock. All the women are urged to be present again, when further plans will be announced.

A Recommendation.

Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your letter of inquiry concerning Rowena Roe, who, in applying for a position as stenographer, has given you my name as a reference.

Unhesitatingly I can recommend Miss Roe to anyone who requires the services of a stenographer, but is not particular as to the neatness of correspondence sent out from the office if it is true that the best of us make mistakes, I consider her then to be better than most of us. She can make herself at home in any office where punctuality is not compulsory. She has little knowledge of figures—other than her own.

I have it on her own authority that she is a perfect lady, descended from a gentee. southern family, and is working only pending the adjustment of her grandfather's estate. Probably it was there, amid those refined surroundings, that she learned to chew gum by the yard vigirously and with audible sentences, such as, "Ain't got no right," "See them flowers," "Hadn't ought to of been,' and others equally correct.

As a stenographer I unhesitatingly pronounce her an excellent judge of coiffure and clothes. As a worker she is an untiring conversationalist. As to dependability, I have never known her to leave the office without powdering her nose, or to permit a good-looking male client to visit the office without distracting his attention from business to her. She was in my employ two weeks, the length of time it took me to get up courage enough to bring tears to her eyes by telling her her services were no longer required.

NATIONS AT WAR WILL BE PORTRAYED

Novel Entertainment to Be Given by Class 22 of First Presbyterian S. S.

Plans are under way by the members of Class 22, of the First Presbyterian Sunday-school for an entertainment to be given on March 17 that will be different from the usual form of social affairs. It will be a series of three presentations entitled "Neutrality."

The various nations now at war, as well as those at peace, will be represented by the members of the class, numbering forty-two, each one of which will have an important role to play. According to the present program there will be a Hague Conference, at which the "Ford Peace Makers" will vie with the representatives of the men in the trenches to determine whether "Cheer I." shall be proclaimed King of the World, displacing "General Gloom," who has made recent tfforts to usurp the throne.

President Warren Townley has called a special meeting to be held at the chapel on Friday night, at which he has urged all the members past and present to be present. As this is the class out of which the scout movement in Plainfield developed, it is probable that there will be more than fifty young men in the cast. The committee incharge of the arrangements consists of President Townley, Treasurer Benjamin Kriney, Secretary William Sowden, Samuel Harper, John Patterson and Harold Zeek.

PREPARING FOR MISSION.

The cottage prayer meetings under the auspices of the local Episcopal churches will becontinued this week in preparation for the preaching mission to be held at Grace church, February 13-20. There is already considerable interest aroused in the approaching mission, which is to be conducted by Bishop Woodcock, of Kentucky.

ALL-DAY MEETING

The Woman's Missionary Circle, of the First Baptist church, will hold an all-day sewing meeting tomorrow. An interesting program has been prepared for the afternoon.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

"GENTLEMEN, LET ME SHOW YOU WHAT I HAVE TO OFFER."

- Proctor's Theatre -

SCENE OF THE WEDDING PRESENTS IN "CROSS CURRENTS," A NEW TRIANGLE-FINE ARTS PLAY. TEDDY SAMPSON IS THE CUTE YOUNG BRIDE AND HELEN WARE THE OLDER SISTER, WHO SACRIFICES HER OWN ASPIRATION FOR THE OTHER'S HAPPINESS.

At Proctor's Theatre, Today and Tomorrow.

The program outlined for this week by the management of Proctor's Playhouse is an exceedingly extraordinary one, and includes features and stars whose names have appeared on Broadway scores of times. Today, tomorrow and Wednesday, the world's foremost comedians, Joe Weber and Lew Fields, will make their appearance in their second Triangle feature, "The Worst of Friends." The Triangle dramatic feature will be shown two days only, today and tomorrow. It is entitled, "Cross Currents," and introduces Helen Ware, the distinguished star of over a score of stage successes, as a screen star. "Cross Currents" is a powerful drama of an older sister's love and sacrifice for a younger one. An innovation has been introduced at Proctor's in the farm of doing away with the Wednesday night bazaar, and presenting a big broadway feature in its stead, every Wednesday and Thursday. For this Wednesday and Thursday the attraction will be no other than George Scarborough's most famous Broadway success, "At Bay." Miss Florence Reed, the star of the original production, will be seen on the screen in the leading role. The vaudeville offerings presented for the first of the week are headed by a delightful musical comedy revue, in which femininity predominates, entitled "The Freshman." The excellent singing, dancing and comedy is greatly enhanced by the gorgeous costumes and the beautiful scenic and electrical efforts. Frank Roberts will positively score a hit here. A charming comedy playlet is presented by three talented artists, entitled, "A Bit of Heaven," and Putnam and Lewis will complete the vaudeville program by offering an exceedingly funny comedy skit. The above is the bill offered at Proctor's the first half of the week, and is one of the best entertainments ever witnessed by the theatre-goers of Plainfield.

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

Seven big acts, any one of which is capable of being a headliner, will comprise the vaudeville bill at the Plainfield Theatre tomorrow afternoon and night, inaugurating the new policy for the house in the future. The leading attraction is announced at the Dunninger Company, the world's greatest conjurers, presenting twenty minutes of marvelous trickery and illusions. This company played a solid year at the Eden Musee, Twenty-third street, New York. This act will be closely seconded in importance by Baby Phyllis Gay, a juvenile performer, who captures the hearts of old and young, coming to Plainfield fresh from triumphs in the leading houses of New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

Two complete the initiatory bill of his new plan, Manager Shannon also announces the following five acts to be seen at the theatre tomorrow and Wednesday: Marion and Moore, singers and dancers; William Saxton, America's foremost Hebrew character comedian, and his own company, presenting the comedy drama, "The Lottery Ticket;" the Harringtons, sensational comedy ladder act; Mlle. Tulie Tine's educated dogs, including the famous boxing canines, and Doc Rice, the South's exponent of minstrelsy.

In addition to this attractive bill, the program will include feature photoplays, changed daily. Wednesday night will be given over to Japanese night, and the country store will be held Friday night. The advanced notices for future bills announce the coming of Princess Victoria, the world's smallest entertainer. Watch these columns for the date of her coming.

Ben Pierce, with "The Tourists," at Plainfield Theatre, Tonight.

The attraction at the Plainfield Theatre today will be Max Spiegel's latest musical comedy hit, "The Tourist's." The organization is new this season, produced under the personal direction and supervision of Max Spiegel. He has made rapid strides the past five years toward a higher place in burlesque circles, and has set such a high standard that other burlesque shows are finding it difficult to follow. The chorus is young, shapely and handsome; selected because of their ability to sing and dance. The musical numbers they execute are tuneful, which often stop the entertainment until the second and third encore has been given. Among the many artists who deserve special mention are Leo Stevens, Ben Pierce, Mlle. Babette, Charles Raymond, Frances and Ross and Blanche Benton. Novelties in the costuming are many; scenery and electrical effects in amazing profusion are also important features.

MRS. BARNES TO SPEAK.

It Seemed to Grow All Kinds of Hats.

Daddy's Bedtime Story.— Little Dick and The Squeegee Visit the Moon.

"SHALL we have a fairy tale or little Squeegee?" asked daddy.

"Little Squeegee is a fairy boy," Evelyn grinned.

So daddy began: "When little Squeegee invited a little boy, Dick, to visit Jeebooland, on the moon, Dick cried, 'But I can't fly!'

"'Did you ever try?' asked the Squeegee sharply.

"'No-o,' replied Dick.

"'Well, then how do you know you can't fly? Now do as I tell you. The main thing is to get the right kind of a start. Stand up on the bed—so. Now take my hand and jump up and down on the springs—easy, now harder. That's the way!' So Dick found himself bouncing up and down on the bed, and each time he seemed to go higher in the air and then found it harder to come down. Higher and higher they bounced, side by side. At last it seemed just as if they must hit the ceiling, but when Dick looked up he could see no ceiling. White fleecy clouds were floating above. Suddenly they went shooting up, up at the rate of a mile a minute. 'Now we're off!' chuckled little Squeegee. 'Hold on to my hand tight!'

"With his other hand Dick rubbed his eyes and looked about with huge surprise. And no wonder, for he found himself sitting on the ground under a most curious tree, and opposite him was the Squeegee.

"'Is this Jeebooland?' asked Dick.

"'Pre-cisely!' said little Squeegee.

"Dick looked at the tree carefully and found that in place of leaves and buds and fruit it seemed to grow all kinds of hats. 'I suppose that's a hat tree,' he remarked thoughtfully to the Squeegee.

"'Pre-cisely!' said his friend the second time.

"'We have a hat tree home,' Dick went on, 'but daddy bought it at a store and then put the hats on it.'

"'The beauty of this Jeeboo tree is,' said the Squeegee, with a graceful flourish of his tiny hand, 'that you buy the tree and take the hats off, which is much more sensible than your way. Just now it is growing a fine crop of derbies, silk hats and skating caps. Later it will grow a lot of straw hats for the summer season.'

"'How interesting!' cried Dick.

"But before they got any further in their talk there was heard the distant rumbling of a mighty bass voice," finished daddy.

"Oh, bedtime comes so soon!" Jack mourned.

"Daddy will tell us tomorrow night, Jack," Evelyn comforted him.

Household Hints

KALE RECIPE.

Stuffed Kale—Take a loose head of kale, cut bottom end off, loosen leaves put in cold water. Now prepare a stuffing of a pint of bread crumbs or soaked bread, put in frying pan and put in oven a little to dry out. Add an egg if soaked bread is used, a little onion if liked, salt, pepper, celery or celery salt, two or three gratings of nutmeg, one half pound sausage meat (cold veal or lamb or any meat you have on hand will do, but not ham). Then take heart of kale and the leaves next to it. Put a little of the stuffing on heart—not too much—then press against the heart, and so on until finished. Then tie up with strips of cheesecloth and drop into a pot that the kale will fit in, with some soup stock (salted). Boil slowly one and one-half to two hours. When done melt some butter in a saucepan, put some flour in it (about one tablespoonful), add some of the stock kale was cooked in, and a little chopped parsley, salt and peper.

Cream Kale—Cut kale in small square pieces, let stand in cold water, then put in saucepan, pour boiling water over it, cook ten to fifteen minutes, then drain, run cold water over it—just enough to reach top of kale. Add salt and pepper. Leave on stove thirty minutes. For gravy, take a little butter in a cup, add about a level tablespoon of flour, work with a fork into butter and add to the kale.

To Boil Kale—Wash well and let stand in cold salted water for a time. Have ready a saucepan of boiling water, put a good half teaspoonful of baking soda in the water, take kale out of the salt water, give it another wash in cold water, then put in the boiling water and boil fast without the lid for about one-half hour, or until tender. To be eaten with any kind of meat and gravy.

THE TABLE

Corned Beef Dinner and Bean Soup—Select a well corned piece of beef and cover with cold water; skim when it boils. When it is time to add cabbage and potatoes do not put them in with the beef, but have them in another kettle and with a soup ladle dip enough water from beef kettle to nearly cover them; add more boiling water to both kettles and cook until meat and vegetables have sufficient beef flavor to taste good. Put the kettle of water in which beef was cooked aside in a cool place until next day. The fat will form on top; part of this can be removed if it is thought to be too much. Heat up to boiling point and add beans, which have been prepared by soaking and parboiling with a little baking soda, then boil in just as little water as possible until beans are soft; add a finely sliced onion if flavor is liked and turn water and all into beef stock; add a little pepper, paprika and more salt if needed. About one-third more salt if needed. About one-third cup of dry beans to each quart of stock is about the right amount. This soup, some corned beef hash, a salad, home-made bread and some fruit make a very good meal.

Norwegian Prune Pudding—Wash thoroughly one-half pound fine prunes and soak in two cups cold water for an hour or longer. Keep covered. Now bring slowly to the boiling point and simmer gently until prunes are tender. Take from fire and when cool remove seeds. Put into sauce pan with one cup sugar, an inch piece of stick cinnamon and 1¼ cups boiling water. Bring again to boiling point and simmer five minutes. Have ready one-third cup cornstarch dissolved in a little water; add to prune mixture and cook a few minutes, stirring constantly. When well thickened pour into a mold, first removing the cinnamon. Chill and serve with powdered sugar, whipped or plain cream flavored with lemon or vanilla.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Mrs. Townsend Will Rule Her Own Home, Let Come What Will.

"It is necessary for me to go out this afternoon and tomorrow, also," announced the imperturbable Mrs. Tupper, appearing at the parlor door.

"Really, Mrs. Tupper, three afternoons a week is beyond all reason," began Ortrude, irritably. She knew nothing of the extra work at the store that the faithful housekeeper had undertaken, and she thought the repeated outings of the woman were in the nature of a declaration of independence. Ortrude proposed to rule her home and Mrs. Tupper especially was to know it.

"You will find the work all done and I shall not be late for the dinner work," announced the woman placidly, opening the street door.

Ortrude knew Mrs. Tupper would not come if she called her back, and she had no notion of making herself conspicuous in the neighborhood calling after a servant, but she was deeply offended and determined that the woman must be given to understand who was mistress of the home. When her husband came home for dinner she opened the subject at once.

"Mr. Townsend, I wish you would speak to Mrs. Tupper. She has been away three afternoons this week. She never thinks of asking if it is convenient for her to go; in fact, she seems to think she is the only one to be considered in the matter. It is preposterous. She must understand that I am mistress of this house. A word from you will doubtless correct any wrong notions she may have as to her privileges."

Jacob scratched his head and made a wry face.

"Say, Ortrude, can't you make up a name that you would be willing to call me; a name that would not be 'Jewish,' you know. It is getting on my nerves being called Mr. Townsend continually."

"I'll think about it when you have settled Mrs. Tupper." Ortrude's face showed impatience.

"The fact is," began Jacob slowly, "Mrs. Tupper has been helping us down at the store. I suppose she thought you had been informed. Naturally she would not ask to go there."

"Helping down at the store?" repeated Ortrude, much mystified.

"Yes; Dudley got it into his head that he wanted to fit up a den on the third floor of the store. There was a room that we could get along without. The boy is taking the furniture that you discarded, and Mrs. Tupper is kindly helping to get things in shape."

"Isn't there room in this big house for the boy?" Ortrude looked at her husband in astonishment.

"He seemed to think he would feel freer to invite his boy friends; that he would be surer not to disturb your arrangements." Jacob looked at his wife narrowly as he spoke. "Would she be glad to push the children out?" he wondered. Ortrude said nothing.

"As to Mrs. Tupper," continued Jacob, "I tell you frankly that you will never get along with her by being dictatorial. She has managed this house for five years. She has gone ahead as if it were her own home; is faithful, efficient, and unless you want the job of housekeeping you had better let her alone in non-essentials, as, for instance, what she does with her time when her work is done."

"How like a man that is," exploded Ortrude.

"Very well, manage as you think best, then; I have warned you. Only do not ask me to speak to her," he replied, waving the subject away with his hands.

SABRE UMBRELLA COMING IN VOGUE

To be real smart one must nowadays, according to the fashion mentors, carry an umbrella in a case resembling a sabre dangling from the wrist. This mode is probably due to the military spirit invading Europe. The dress is suitable for the first balmy days of spring and is of taupe colored velvet. The skirt is exceedingly high waisted, and a bolero effect is given the waist by the ruffling passing over and under the shoulders.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

YANKEE TOILERS BUY TITLE FOR EXPATRIATED LANDLORD

The contributions of American workers to British war funds have bought a baronial title for William Waldorf Astor, expatriated American.

Astor is the son of John Jacob Astor, the first. He has a son, Waldorf Astor, and a grandson, William, aged seven, who would rather be called "Bill." The latter's mother was formerly Miss Nellie Langhorne, one of a family of girls whose beauty was made famous by the pencil of Charles Dana Gibson. While son Bill is in line of succession for a baron's coronet, he makes no secret of the fact that he would prefer to be a ball player like Ty Cobb

Astor is immensely wealthy through the ownership of ancestral land in New York city. He left his native land in 1890, vowing never to return, but the growth of population in New York has much more than doubled the value of his holdings, while he was three thousand miles away hobnobbing with nobility.

New York's annual tribute in ground rent to the new made baron is estimated at three million and nearly a million of this goes to the British government in special war tax on income. His loyalty to the country of his adoption in its present crisis won for Astor what years of watchful waiting had failed to bring, and that was a seat in the House of Lords.

American dollars also purchased for him the estate of Cliveden, from the Duke of Westminster, for $6,000,000. Thus he becomes the first American landed aristocrat to wear a title. He had to leave America for the title, but the income that supports it is still sent willingly abroad by the thousands of Americans who toil and hustle on the ancestral Astor lands in New York city.

So far as the contest for the championship is concerned, the Eagles' Bowling League will probably end tomorrow night, when the Newark Aerie pin-knights go to Somerville. The champions need only one win to clinch the title again. The Plainfield team is the only one that has finished the schedule, the Queen City Birds winding up with nine victories and fifteen defeats.

Two important matches are booked in the City League. A noisy series will take place at the Columbus Club Thursday night, when the Tabs and their rooters visit the Knights. The next night the leading Imperials will be put to their first test away from home. They will perform on the Eagles' chutes.

Plainfield Elks will draw one of the toughest assignments of the season when they go to Elizabeth tomorrow night to meet the leaders. The 885 Juniors will go to Somerville Friday night.

The Plainfield Columbians will roll their third K. of C. series in four nights when they go to Newark tonight to bowl Star of Bethelehem.

A special five-back event will take place at the Park Club tomorrow night. The session will be the one postponed from last Thursday night.

PLAINFIELD BOWLERS WIN FROM MANHATTAN FRIENDS

Three Plainfielder bowlers, George Gates, Jim McKenzie and George Rohrs, rolled a match with three New Yorkers on the Yorkville alleys in East 86th street, Manhattan, yesterday. Their opponents were Richard Clemens, and two of Mr Rohrs' brothers, Charles and Herman. Messrs. Clemens and Charles Rohrs formerly lived in Plainfield. Five games were rolled, the New Yorkers losing four out of five. George Rohrs had high score, a mark of 239.

Plainfield's entry in the Knights of Columbus League engaged in a little charity work at Newark, Saturday night. The Olive Branch team, which had rolled ten series and had won all but three games in nine out of the ten, met the Watchung Council Knights. The Olives were going down the percentage column so fast, it was feared they would drop out the bottom of the league, so the Plainfielders presented them with two games—as many as the Newarkers have won since the season started in November—and enabled the lowly cellarites to boost their standing from .067 to the more respectable .121.

The home bunch won the first game by ten pins. Moffett made himself liable to expulsion from the Olive Branch team by polling 222 in the third game.

LEAL'S FIVE SMOTHERED AT MORRISTOWN, 62 TO 7

Leal's School basketballers accepted one of the most overwhelming defeats ever handed the Front street school, when the inexperienced tossersuccumbed at Morristown School, Saturday, 62 to 7. The Plainfielders made 5 points in the first half against five times as many for their opponents, and were outscored, 37 to 2 in the second period.

The scoring of the losers, sparse as it was, was well distributed. Keck and Palmedo led the home talliers.

The visitors were behind the thousand mark all the way, but Sutter got a strike in the ninth and two in the tenth, Gilland did the same, Jackson and Keppler each got three in the tenth, and Graef spared. FARCE GAMES BIG SUCCESS

Girl Grads Beat Boys, and Pupils Lick Teachers on Boro Court.

OTHER ATTRACTIONS

Parade, Mayor Bill Smalley's Officiating, and Old Timers' Exhibition Features—Students' Pa's to Play Ma's.

Interspersed with comedy and flashing glimpses of basketball ability, the two farce basketball games conducted in Saengerbund Hall, Saturday night, by the Parent-Teacher Association of North Plainfield, proved to be a cyclonic success from every standpoint. In the first performance the alumnae grads defeated a boys' team composed of alumni, 24-18, while the 'varsity of N. P. H. S. completely smothered the Faculty by a 40 to 6 margin.

A large crowd filled every available space, taking complete enjoyment in the entertainment afforded by the battling teams, beside a number of original stunts, which were not lacking in frequency.

During the program members of the celebrated "Ancient Five" were called upto to display their prowess as foul shooters. Captain "Pop" Townley, the fearless leader of the dauntless Ancient Fivers, who have such a creditable number of victories behind their record, upheld his team in great shape, dropping the ball through the net. The other members of this combination who were called upon were the Messrs. W. O. Taylor, F. Burner, J. Love, H. Woolston and the referee himself. Mrs. W. O. Taylor, president of the P. T. A., also exhibited her efforts along this line.

Between the two periods the Ancient Five challenged the Parent-Teacher Association to a match, to be played within the next fortnight. Mrs. Taylor prompted accepted announcing the following reliables as the upholders of that association: Mrs. W. L. Smalley, Mrs. W. Townley, Mrs. C. Peck, Mrs. A. Kinney and Mrs. Burner.

When the Faculty marched on the floor, headed by Captain Albert Earley, they were heralded with cheers. The N. P. H. S. principal immediately gained recognition by dropping the ball in the basket from the middle of the floor, after which he proceeded to roll on the floor. Before the commencement of the games a parade, in which the entire four teams were in line, took place.

The contest between the Faculty and schoolboys was a rought and tumble bout in the first half. The ball was scarcely in play before the teachers and their pupils began to pile on each other in football fashion, while if anyone was fortunate enough to get hold of the ball, he was tackled immediately. In the second period a semblance of a basketball game was noticeable, the school team piling up point after point.

A special code of rules was used in the boys' and girls' game, the players being called severally, especially the ruling, "Two arms around opponent." The maiden representatives were victorious, their opponents wasting opportunities by attempting spectacular shots.

Five 10-bird events, one at 15 birds, two at 25, and one 50-bird event comprised the program at the Climax Gun Club, Saturday. The 50-bird shoot was the last of the January shooting for the season prize of a case of shells, and was won by J. Ord, with 46.

J. Terry also shot in the 50-bird event, breaking 20 and 23, but as he had qualified before, his score did not count. Terry, Ord and Randolph each won one 10-bird sweepstake event with a perfect score.

Tonight—Rahway at New Brunswick.

Both Elizabeth and Newark won two games on opponents' alleys Saturday night, the league leaders defeating the New Brunswick, and the runners-up copping at Paterson. Consequently, the relative positions of the first and second teams are practically unchanged, the Antlers from Elizabeth still being well in the lead.

Both home teams had to roll a thousand score in the last game to avoid the whitewash brush. Paterson finished with 1051.

Jack Speary averaged 202.2 for Newark. Anderson averaged 212.2, rolling 223 and 235. Armitage also rolled 238.

P. H. S. SIX GETS AWAITED REVENGE

Returns to Bloomfield Lassies Defeat Suffered in December.

ADDED STARTER AIDS

Miss Palmer, Breaking Into Game in Second Half, Scores 5 Points for Home Cause—Home Guards Master Situation.

Revenge is a long time coming sometimes, but the girls' basketball team of the Plainfield High School waited from early December to get even for the trimming they received at the hands of the Bloomfield High School girls in the first game of the season. They had their chance Saturday afternoon and took good advantage of it by defeating the visiting maidens in a good game, 11 to 5.

Miss Irma Good started the scoring by dropping in a foul shot and Miss Mary Simmons had added one and Miss Good two more before Miss Teall caged the first basket for the visitors. Miss Noble contributed one point to the Bloomfield score and Miss Good made Plainfield's first basket as the first half ended.

Things got rather lively as soon as the last half started. Miss Elsa Palmer came into the game in place of Miss Mary Simmons and before the period was half over time had to be called to give Miss Vogelius, the Bloomfield forward, a chance to get her breath. Miss Palmer did all of the local's scoring for the last half, with two baskets and one foul to her credit. Jennie Bremble and Prescilla Pennock did such good work that only once did the visitors tally, Miss Teall being the responsible party.

Irma Good and Elsa Palmer broke even in scoring, each chalking five points, while Mary Simmons rung up the other point. Miss Teall did most of the work for Bloomfield and was helped a little by Miss Noble.

The score:

URGES EVERYONE TO QUICKLY GET ON WATER WAGON

Drink glass of hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week. Before breakfast each day drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.—Adv.

NEW SERIES 17

The new Studebaker models sum up all the resources of the great Studebaker manufacturing organization—experience, efficient capability, unlimited factory equipment—and this means the last word in automobile designing, materials and workmanship.

Refinements have been incorporated in the new models and they now stand supreme as typical exemplars of the highest achievement of one of the world's great manufacturers of motor cars.

Owing to enormously increased volume and the unrivaled manufacturing facilities that Studebaker possesses, the prices are remarkably low for cars of such quality. But it must always be remembered that Studebaker price is never a measure of Studebaker quality—that it has always been Studebaker policy to produce the highest grade possible without regard to price—that such low prices are possible only by reason of Studebaker leadership and superiority in equipment.
